COSTELLO WALKS OUT ON INQUIRY

Allies Strengthen Line Across Korea

Yanks Seize Key Road Hub Of Hongchon

Enemy Continues Retreat Northward

TOKYO, Friday, March 16 (AP)—American forces easily captured Hongchon Thursday. Most of the Chinese had pulled out of that Red stronghold on the Central Korean front.

Seizure of the town, 20 miles south of parallel 38, forged a firmer link in the chain of Allied arms stretching from liberated Seoul across the peninsula.

All along that 100-mile front, the Chinese and Korean Reds still were withdrawing northward.

Doughboys rode tanks into Hongchon. They met only small arms fire. Red mortar shells clumped into the town afterwards.

Reds Believed Massing

Until recently, Hongchon was a major Chinese assembly area, but the Reds pulled north in a series of rearguard actions.

The Reds are believed massing at Chunchon, 16 air miles northwest of Hongchon and 45 air miles northeast of Seoul.

For weeks the Reds have poured supplies into that town from the northwest and northeast.

American and South Korean troops reentered Seoul in force Thursday. The rubbled old capital, once a city of 1,500,000, was populated only by old folks and children—an estimated 200,000.

The frightened citizens were happy to see their liberators after more than two months of Red occupation.

"The women threw themselves at our feet and sobbed hysterically," reported AP Correspondent Jim Becker. "Tears coursed down the cheeks of bearded old men."

Patrols Search City

Patrols searched the city for Communists. Civilians reported that some Reds discarded uniforms and were hiding out in disguise.

The Korean republic flag fluttered from the shattered capitol, marking the fourth time Seoul had changed hands since the North Korean invasion June 25.

The republic's government announced that more than a million who fled Seoul two months ago would be allowed to return when the city can be restored to normal operations.

There was no street-by-street battle for the city this time. After weeks of terrific artillery bombardment, Allied forces entered without firing a shot. They had to remove some land mines.

Rhee Will Ask U. N. To Bomb Red China

TOKYO, March 16 (Friday) (INS) — Korean President Syngman Rhee today informed Gen. Douglas MacArthur that Korea is formally requesting United Nations authorization for the supreme Allied commander's forces to bomb Red China.

The Korean President wrote:

"We are making a formal request that the U. N. may authorize you to end this Chinese war by bombing the source of Chinese reinforcement in men and materiel from their sanctuary in Manchuria in order to restore peace without unnecessary sacrifice of lives and bloodshed."

Rumors Of Peace Talks Increase

[By The Associated Press]

Rumors of a peace negotiations with the Chinese Communists touched off a flurry of "war stock" selling and "peacetime" stock and commodity buying in Wall Street and other stock and commodity markets of the country yesterday.

A private brokerage house wire carried a report late Wednesday that peace negotiations would be started as the United Nations forces moved towards the 38th parallel in Korea. The wire gave no source for the report.

State Department Press Officer Michael McDermott said in Washington Wednesday night that there was "no basis whatever" for any such report and that there was no sign the enemy had given up its aim of driving the U. N. forces out of Korea.

High U. N. officials at Lake Success and in New York said they had heard of the peace rumors but knew of nothing to substantiate them.

Martin Is Named Federal Reserve Board Chairman

WASHINGTON, March 15 (AP)—Thomas B. McCabe, Republican industralist, stepped out of the hotspot post of Federal Reserve Board chairman today and William McChesney Martin (above), 44-year-old Treasury official, was named by President Truman to succeeed him.

McCabe's exit was much less of a surprise than the designation of his successor, an assistant secretary of the Treasury who was president of the New York Stock Exchange at the age of 31.

The announcement of the switch was made this afternoon by White House Press Ssecretary Joseph H. Short at Key West, Fla., where President Truman is vacationing.

Cotton-Rayon Strike Averted By Agreement

Terms Include Wage Hike Of 7½ Per Cent

BOSTON, March 15 (AP)—A strike of cotton-rayon workers, set for midnight, was averted today when management and union leaders reached tentative agreement on new contract terms.

The agreement directly affects some 30,000 workers in New England and was expected to set a pattern for another 170,000 in southern states and other sections.

Emil Rieve, head of the big CIO textile workers union, said later that efforts will be made to have the agreement cover all cotton-rayon workers.

Pacts To Be Extended

He also announced that existing contracts—especially in the South—will be extended to March 31 "to avoid interruptions in production." Most of the southern contracts previously had been extended until today in order to have all industry agreements expire on the same date.

Rieve said the extensions will be granted "provided such extension is requested by local unions."

The agreement is subject to ratification by the workers.

Terms of the settlement, a spokesman said, "generally includes a 7½ per cent wage increase," offered yesterday by management. The union had demanded 12 per cent.

Cost-of-Living Allowance

Other provisions:

A cost-of-living allowance to be changed every three-months—based on the 1.14 per cent government consumers' cost of living index;

Weekly payments for sickness and accident insurance boosted from $17.50 to $22.50;

Severance pay for workers at age 65 or more with 15 years service and who have worked at least 1,000 hours per year. They will receive one week's pay per service year up to 20 years;

Daily hospitalization fees hiked from $7 to $8, plus a boost from $35 to $80 in special hospital and surgical fees. Operating fees were increased from $150 to $200.

18½-Year Draft Bill Approved By House Unit

Refuses To Limit Armed Force Size

WASHINGTON, March 15 (AP) — The House Armed Services Committee by overwhelming 32-3 vote today approved a bill for drafting boys at 18½ years and setting up universal military training later.

Members wrote in an amendment giving draftees a choice of serving in racially segregated or non-segregated units.

This provision, by Rep. Winstead (D-Miss), would permit a draftee, when he registers, to write in whether he has a preference. It states this choice would be respected as far as military necessity would permit.

The vote on this amendment was 21 to 12. It is not in the draft bill which passed the Senate last Friday. There are many differences in the bills which will have to be settled in conference committee if the House passes the bill its committee approved today.

Refuses To Set Ceiling

Chairman Vinson (D-Ga) said he will ask the House Rules Committee to set the bill for House consideration April 3.

The committee refused to limit the size of the nation's military force.

Administration supporters, by an 18 to 15 vote, knocked out of the new draft bill a ceiling figure of 4,000,000 men.

Such a limitation was written into the recently-passed Senate bill by a narrow margin over opposition from military leaders.

The Defense Department is building rapidly toward a force of 3,462,205 by this summer. Secretary of Defense Marshall has referred to this as not a ceiling figure, but a minimum.

The House bill calls for lowering the minimum draft age from 19 to 18½ (the Senate made it a flat 18) and extending the service of draftees from 21 months to 26 (the Senate voted for 24).

12 Months Duty For Reserves

Committee members reported that they also took these steps at today's closed-door session:

1. Approved action which Vinson said would call mandatory release of most inactive reserves and volunteer reserves after 12 months active duty since the Korean outbreak.

2. Refused to extend the period of service of members of the National Guard and organized reserves beyond 21 months.

3. Retained by a tie vote, 16-16, power of Congress to end or suspend all inductions into the armed forces, or universal training, by a simple concurrent resolution (approval of both houses).

4. Approved a termination date of July 1, 1954, covering the draft.

Food Prices Take Slight Drop Last Part Of February

WASHINGTON, March 15 (AP)—Retail food prices declined slightly during the last two weeks of February, the Bureau of Labor Statistics reported today.

However the food prices were approximately 1.5 per cent higher on Feb. 26 than on Jan. 29, according to a special survey in eight cities. A rise of 1.8 per cent during the first two weeks of the month was partly offset by the small decline during the last two weeks.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics took occasion to announce it had added 10 foods to the list of prices which it measures because they have become important in family spending. They were layer cake, jelly roll, frankfurters, ice cream, frozen strawberries, frozen peas, canned baby foods, frozen orange juice, cola drink, and grape jelly.

Father Asks Truman To Let Him Replace Son In Korea

BALTIMORE, March 15 (AP)—The 44-year-old father of a soldier fighting in Korea has asked President Truman to "let me take my son's place."

Langdon P. McAninch, Sr., a truck mechanic, said tonight he wrote the President in behalf of his 21-year-old son, a private first class, who was wounded in the leg and returned to duty in the front lines 23 days later.

He said he mailed the letter to the White House Monday.

"In the interest of all the wounded boys in Korea, there must be hundreds in the same condition as my son, I'm sending you some excerpts from my son's letters.

"If we are so short of men that the wounded don't have time to heal their wounds, send me over. Let me take my son's place. I'm twice as old, so I'll do twice as good a job."

Costello Takes Walk; Virginia Testifies

Racketeer Frank Costello and Virginia Hill Hauser, one-time girl friend of slain Mobster Benjamin "Bugsy" Siegel, shared the spotlight at yesterday's Senate crime investigation hearing in New York. Costello, defying a demand by probers that he continue to answer questions, walks out soon after taking the stand. His attorney, George Wolf, who pleaded that Costello had "reached the limit of his physical endurance," lifts his brief case and prepares to follow. Virginia, right, told the probers that she didn't know "who could have had it in" for Siegel, mowed down in her Beverly Hills, Calif., home in June, 1947.

Chief Executive Sharply Defends Administration

Will Be Remembered If World War Averted

KEY WEST, Fla., March 15 (AP) — President Truman sharply defended the honor of his administration today, declared his house is always clean and that his presidency will be remembered: "If we get through this era without a third world war."

Conscious of mounting editorial and cartoon criticism of White House and other federal officials involved in the Senate Reconstruction Finance Corporation inquiry, Mr. Truman told a news conference:

My people are honorable—all of them are.

To a suggestion by Sen. Knowland (R-Calif) in a recent Senate debate that he return from his Florida vacation and clean house, the President said solemnly:

My house is always clean. What are you talking about.

What Mr. Truman had to say about the troubles upsetting his administration, overshawoded other news conference developments.

He said he was working for the country's welfare and he thought all other government employes are trying to do the same thing. He said he thought character assassination is a terrible thing.

Told that newspaper and editorial criticism reflected on the moral and ethical standards of some White House employes, he said:

It isn't true. Point blank—categorically, it's just not true.

He likened his troubles to those of Washington, Lincoln, Jefferson and other presidents of the past and then, in response to a reporter's request for an evacuation of his own administration, he said, giving permission for direct quotation:

"I hope it will be remembered for its sincere effort for world peace, and if we accomplish that, if we get through this era without a third world war, I think that probably is what it will be remembered for."

He spoke from a chair on the lawn of the "Little White House" where he said he is enjoying his ninth stay, feeling well as usual, and weighing 176 pounds.

Stolen Data Was Sent Immediately To Soviet

NEW YORK, March 15 (AP) — Confessed Spy Harry Gold testified today that valuable atom bomb secrets stolen by a spy ring in the United States in 1945 were "sent immediately to the Soviet Union."

He said this information was given him by Anatoli Yakovlev, who was a Russian vice consul in New York at the time.

Gold said he himself turned over to Yakovlev secrets which he obtained in furtive meetings in the United States with Dr. Klaus Fuchs and former Army Sgt. David Greenglass.

Gold, Philadelphia biochemist serving a 30-year sentence on a plea of guilty to spying for Russia, was a witness in the federal court trial of three persons accused as Russian spies.

New Restrictions On Credit To Combat Inflation Urged By Secretary Of Commerce

WASHINGTON, March 15 (AP)—Secretary of Commerce Sawyer today spoke out for new restrictions on credit, including tighter rules on consumer buying, to battle inflation.

Sawyer, who spent the day with several score of the country's top business executives who make up his business advisory council, told reporters:

"It is hard to overestimate the peril that faces us if we cannot keep this inflationary spiral under control."

Sawyer's references to new credit restrictions came in reply to questions. He made no specific proposal.

Elsewhere in the government's efforts to keep prices and wages in hand during the vast military buildup, there were these developments:

1. Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston gave up, at least for the time being, efforts to bring labor and management together on forming a new Wage Stabilization Board and said the next move is up to them.

2. President Truman, at Key West, announced an executive order calling for a 17-member national advisory board on mobilization policy to serve under Mobilization Director Wilson, but to advise the President. It would include farm, labor and business men.

It was regarded here as a pacifying gesture toward labor leaders, who have pulled out of the whole mobilization program on the ground that big business is in command—and toward farm critics who complain that agriculture has no voice in the program.

3. The Office of Price Stabilization set specific price ceilings on cattle hides. Officials said they do not expect the order to change the price of shoes. The price of hides was set at the level of last November, revising the Jan. 25 price freeze on this commodity.

Sawyer said credit restrictions already imposed by the government have had no marked effect as yet.

Stabilizer Johnston called in reporters after labor leaders who had been scheduled to confer with him this afternoon reported they could not get to the meeting. He said he had no further plans to meet with either management or labor representatives although he still was available to assist in getting some agreement if the parties want his help.

Iran Parliament Moves To Take Over Oil Fields

TEHRAN, Iran, March 15 (AP) — By unanimous vote, Iran's parliament decided tentatively today to nationalize a British oil industry which would be a prize of any war between the West and Soviet Russia. Britain's 50-year control of the Iranian oil fields was repudiated.

Spectators in the gallery of parliament cheered the prospect that the government will take over the powerful Anglo-Iranian Oil Company, which pipes millions of tons of fuel yearly to the armies, navies and air forces of the United States, Britain and other Western Powers.

Cold war implications were evident. Soviet Russia has accused past Iranian governments of being subservient to the "Western warmongers".

McGee Granted Execution Stay; "Pressure" Hit

WASHINGTON, March 15 (AP) — Supreme Court Justice Black today granted a temporary stay of execution to Willie McGee, negro convicted of rape, but angrily denounced "pressure" tactics used in the defendant's behalf.

McGee, a three-time loser on previous appeals to the Supreme Court, was convicted of raping a white woman in Mississippi six years ago. He was scheduled to die next Tuesday.

In granting the stay, Justice Black rebuked those who attempt to influence the decisions of judges by sending them telegrams.

"The courts of the United States are not the kinds of instruments of justice that can be influenced by such pressures," Black said.

Black pointed to a five-inch stack of telegrams on his desk.

Gov. Fielding Wright of Mississippi has said that hundreds of protests against McGee's execution originated from Communist sources.

Justice Black specified that the stay of execution should remain in effect until the full Supreme Court rules on a new appeal to be filed by attorneys for the negro.

He said the appeal must be filed on or before next Tuesday. The high court could then decide at its next formal session, on March 26, whether it will grant McGee a hearing.

Cook Granted Parole

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 15 (AP)—Robert S. Cook, 26-year-old former seaman convicted of a long string of robberies in Baltimore in 1946, has been granted parole.

The State House announced today Gov. McKeldin approved Cook's release from Maryland Penitentiary.

GOP's Anti-RFC Drive Political, Fulbright Says

Republicans Contend Full Truth Not Told

WASHINGTON, March 15 (AP)—Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark) told the Senate during stormy debate today that Republicans are "playing politics" with an eye on the 1952 elections in pressing for further investigation of the RFC scandals.

But Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio), Thye (R-Minn) and others insisted that the full truth has not yet been told about the Reconstruction Finance Corporation's multi-billion dollar loan policies.

Angrey charges and countercharges flew across the aisles as senators freely exchanged such terms as "skulduggery . . . untruth . . . cover up . . . whitewash."

Would Call Boyle, Dawson

Bricker demanded that Chairman William M. Boyle, Jr., of the Democratic National Committee and White House Aide Donald Dawson be called to testify before the RFC inquiry is closed.

They likewise contended that "the rug should be pulled all the way back" to find out what has been going on in the RFC.

Bricker said the names of Boyle and Dawson have run all the way through testimony about alleged influence peddling in connection with RFC loans, and he shouted:

"The report will never be complete until Bill Boyle and Don Dawson come before the committee and testify."

"Little Dirt" Uncovered

Fulbright, whose Senate Banking subcommittee has been conducting the RFC inquiry, told the Senate the Republicans want to prolong the investigation "until just before the elections in 1952 because it has uncovered a little dirt."

"They want a continual revelation of a little dirt that might have some bearing on the next election," Fulbright said.

The Arkansas Senator went on to say:

"If Congress wants us to broaden our inquiry, I'm willing to do it."

But he said it should include an investigation of ethical standard among government officials and in congress itself.

Briton Named "Ringleader" In Surplus Property Deals

WASHINGTON, March 15 (AP)—Congressmen looking into reports of fabulous deals in American surplus military goods—some of it reportedly sold back to the U. S. Army—identified "the ringleader" today as a Briton named George Dawson.

His name figured repeatedly in testimony about intricate but profitable dealings in trucks, axle assemblies, electronic and radio equipment and other materials in demand since the Korean outbreak.

The testimony was given a House Expenditures subcommittee inquiring into surplus sales of U. S. Army equipment in Germany. Chairman Bonner (D-NC) summed up testimony to date as showing "the ringleader in this" is Dawson.

Rep. Curtis (R-Mo) commented:

"Our preliminary information is that George Dawson has made over $100,000,000 in this business."

Dawson's alleged part in the resale of U. S. surplus, originally assigned to the Bonn government of Germany, was gone into as the committee quizzed top army and occupation authorities on the deals.

The witnesses were Secretary of the Army Pace; Geoffry W. Lewis, deputy director of the Bureau of German Affairs in the State Department, and W. J. Monticone, assistant fiscal officer in the office of the high commissioner for Germany in Frankfort.

Defiant Crime Probe Witness Risks Arrest

Racketeer Refuses To Answer Queries

NEW YORK, March 15 (AP) — Racketeer Frank Costello risked arrest today by defiantly stamping out of the Senate crime committee hearing.

"I am going to walk out," he croaked in his hoarse voice after refusing to answer any more committee questions.

Then he stood up and strode from the hearing in the federal court building in downtown Foley Square.

"I am going directly home to bed," said the 60-year-old Costello, star witness as the Senate committee moved through the fourth day of its sensational open hearings in New York.

Committee Chairman Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn) said Costello can escape arrest if he comes back by next Tuesday — the last day of the hearings. However, contempt proceedings will be started at once, he added.

Kefauver had warned Costello before he left he'd be arrested if he took the walk and cited for contempt as well.

But Costello said he'd had enough and his attorney said he'd "reached the limit of his physical endurance."

The attorney, George Wolf, had asked the committee to postpone further testimony from Costello. This the committee refused to do.

Wolf offered the committee a doctor's certificate that Costello should stay home and have "complete voice rest for several days."

The racketeer — whom the Senate committee calls one of the nation's biggest crime syndicate leaders — has suffered from laryngitis ever since he first took the stand Tuesday.

He testified again yesterday and was to have continued this afternoon.

A perjury threat has been hanging over Costello since yesterday when he testified he never had his telephones checked for wiretaps. Another witness testified just the opposite — saying Costello hired him and paid him to check the phones.

Earlier, Kefauver had said this and all the rest of the record were being given to the U. S. District Attorney to check for possible perjury prosecution.

Costello took his walk just after the former Virginia Hill, one-time girl friend of the late Mobster Benjamin (Bugsy) Siegel, poutingly told the committee he never took money from "gangsters or racketeers."

Siegel was shot to death in her California home in 1947.

"Have you any knowledge of who could have had it in for him?" the 36-year-old Alabama-born witness was asked.

"If I knew anything about it I'd be the first to tell," she replied.

Both Houses Will Debate GI Issue

WASHINGTON, March 15 (AP)—Senators who want to limit President Truman's power to send American troops abroad claimed a preliminary victory today when administration leaders agreed to let the issue be debated by both houses of Congress.

Democratic Floor Leader McFarland of Arizona told reporters a concurrent resolution on the question, requiring action by both the Senate and House, would be taken up as soon as the Senate had acted on its own resolution.

"But that doesn't mean we have to vote for it," McFarland added.

Nevertheless, Sen. Knowland (R-Cal.) said proponents of the presidential limitation had "gotten over a big hump."

Acting jointly, the Senate Foreign Affairs and Armed Services Committees have reported two identical resolutions. They approve Mr. Truman's plan to send four more divisions of ground troops to Europe, but reserve the right of Congress to authorize all future troop assignments abroad.

One requires Senate action alone, and if passed would merely express the sense of the Senate. The other, requiring Senate and House action, would carry more weight.

Four Girls Die In Crash

BOSTON, March 15 (INS)—Four teen-age girls were killed tonight when the car in which they were riding went out of control on Veterans of Foreign Wars Parkway, West Roxbury, leaped off the road, struck a tree and skidded 30 yards and overturned.

Costello Takes Walk; Virginia Testifies

Racketeer Frank Costello and Virginia Hill Hauser, one-time girl friend of slain Mobster Benjamin "Bugsy" Siegel, shared the spotlight at yesterday's Senate crime investigation hearing in New York. Costello, defying a demand by probers that he continue to answer questions, walks out soon after taking the stand. His attorney, George Wolf, who pleaded that Costello had "reached the limit of his physical endurance," lifts his brief case and prepares to follow. Virginia, right, told the probers that she didn't know "who could have had it in" for Siegel, mowed down in her Beverly Hills, Calif., home in June, 1947.

Chief Executive Sharply Defends Administration

Will Be Remembered If World War Averted

KEY WEST, Fla., March 15 (AP) — President Truman sharply defended the honor of his administration today, declared his house is always clean and that his presidency will be remembered: "If we get through this era without a third world war."

Conscious of mounting editorial and cartoon criticism of White House and other federal officials involved in the Senate Reconstruction Finance Corporation inquiry, Mr. Truman told a news conference:

My people are honorable—all of them are.

To a suggestion by Sen. Knowland (R-Calif) in a recent Senate debate that he return from his Florida vacation and clean house, the President said solemnly:

My house is always clean. What are you talking about.

What Mr. Truman had to say about the troubles upsetting his administration, overshawoded other news conference developments.

He said he was working for the country's welfare and he thought all other government employes are trying to do the same thing. He said he thought character assassination is a terrible thing.

Told that newspaper and editorial criticism reflected on the moral and ethical standards of some White House employes, he said:

It isn't true. Point blank—categorically, it's just not true.

He likened his troubles to those of Washington, Lincoln, Jefferson and other presidents of the past and then, in response to a reporter's request for an evacluation of his own administration, he said, giving permission for direct quotation:

"I hope it will be remembered for its sincere effort for world peace, and if we accomplish that, if we get through this era without a third world war, I think that probably is what it will be remembered for."

He spoke from a chair on the lawn of the "Little White House" where he said he is enjoying his ninth stay, feeling well as usual, and weighing 176 pounds.

Stolen Data Was Sent Immediately To Soviet

NEW YORK, March 15 (AP) — Confessed Spy Harry Gold testified today that valuable atom bomb secrets stolen by a spy ring in the United States in 1945 were "sent immediately to the Soviet Union."

He said this information was given him by Anatoli Yakovlev, who was a Russian vice consul in New York at the time.

Gold said he himself turned over to Yakovlev secrets which he obtained in furtive meetings in the United States with Dr. Klaus Fuchs and former Army Sgt. David Greenglass.

Gold, Philadelphia biochemist serving a 30-year sentence on a plea of guilty to spying for Russia, was a witness in the federal court trial of three persons accused as Russian spies.

New Restrictions On Credit To Combat Inflation Urged By Secretary Of Commerce

WASHINGTON, March 15 (AP)—Secretary of Commerce Sawyer today spoke out for new restrictions on credit, including tighter rules on consumer buying, to battle inflation.

Sawyer, who spent the day with several score of the country's top business executives who make up his business advisory council, told reporters:

"It is hard to overestimate the peril that faces us if we cannot keep this inflationary spiral under control."

Sawyer's references to new credit restrictions came in reply to questions. He made no specific proposal.

Elsewhere in the government's efforts to keep prices and wages in hand during the vast military buildup, there were these developments:

1. Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston gave up, at least for the time being, efforts to bring labor and management together on forming a new Wage Stabilization Board and said the next move is up to them.

2. President Truman, at Key West, announced an executive order calling for a 17-member national advisory board on mobilization policy to serve under Mobilization Director Wilson, but to advise the President. It would include farm, labor and business men.

It was regarded here as a pacifying gesture toward labor leaders, who have pulled out of the whole mobilization program on the ground that big business is in command—and toward farm critics who complain that agriculture has no voice in the program.

3. The Office of Price Stabilization set specific price ceilings on cattle hides. Officials said they do not expect the order to change the price of shoes. The price of hides was set at the level of last November, revising the Jan. 25 price freeze on this commodity.

Sawyer said credit restrictions already imposed by the government have had no marked effect as yet.

Stabilizer Johnston called in reporters after labor leaders who had been scheduled to confer with him this afternoon reported they could not get to the meeting. He said he had no further plans to meet with either management or labor representatives although he still was available to assist in getting some agreement if the parties want his help.

Iran Parliament Moves To Take Over Oil Fields

TEHRAN, Iran, March 15 (AP) — By unanimous vote, Iran's parliament decided tentatively today to nationalize a British oil industry which would be a prize of any war between the West and Soviet Russia. Britain's 50-year control of the Iranian oil fields was repudiated.

Spectators in the gallery of parliament cheered the prospect that the government will take over the powerful Anglo-Iranian Oil Company, which pipes millions of tons of fuel yearly to the armies, navies and air forces of the United States, Britain and other Western Powers.

Cold war implications were evident. Soviet Russia has accused past Iranian governments of being subservient to the "Western warmongers".

McGee Granted Execution Stay; "Pressure" Hit

WASHINGTON, March 15 (AP) — Supreme Court Justice Black today granted a temporary stay of execution to Willie McGee, negro convicted of rape, but angrily denounced "pressure" tactics used in the defendant's behalf.

McGee, a three-time loser on previous appeals to the Supreme Court, was convicted of raping a white woman in Mississippi six years ago. He was scheduled to die next Tuesday.

In granting the stay, Justice Black rebuked those who attempt to influence the decisions of judges by sending them telegrams.

"The courts of the United States are not the kinds of instruments of justice that can be influenced by such pressures," Black said.

Black pointed to a five-inch stack of telegrams on his desk.

Gov. Fielding Wright of Mississippi has said that hundreds of protests against McGee's execution originated from Communist sources.

Justice Black specified that the stay of execution should remain in effect until the full Supreme Court rules on a new appeal to be filed by attorneys for the negro.

He said the appeal must be filed on or before next Tuesday. The high court could then decide at its next formal session, on March 26, whether it will grant McGee a hearing.

Cook Granted Parole

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 15 (AP)—Robert S. Cook, 26-year-old former seaman convicted of a long string of robberies in Baltimore in 1946, has been granted parole.

The State House announced today Gov. McKeldin approved Cook's release from Maryland Penitentiary.

GOP's Anti-RFC Drive Political, Fulbright Says

Republicans Contend Full Truth Not Told

WASHINGTON, March 15 (AP)—Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark) told the Senate during stormy debate today that Republicans are "playing politics" with an eye on the 1952 elections in pressing for further investigation of the RFC scandals.

But Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio), Thye (R-Minn) and others insisted that the full truth has not yet been told about the Reconstruction Finance Corporation's multi-billion dollar loan policies.

Angrey charges and countercharges flew across the aisles as senators freely exchanged such terms as "skulduggery . . . untruth . . . cover up . . . whitewash."

Would Call Boyle, Dawson

Bricker demanded that Chairman William M. Boyle, Jr., of the Democratic National Committee and White House Aide Donald Dawson be called to testify before the RFC inquiry is closed.

They likewise contended that "the rug should be pulled all the way back" to find out what has been going on in the RFC.

Bricker said the names of Boyle and Dawson have run all the way through testimony about alleged influence peddling in connection with RFC loans, and he shouted:

"The report will never be complete until Bill Boyle and Don Dawson come before the committee and testify."

"Little Dirt" Uncovered

Fulbright, whose Senate Banking subcommittee has been conducting the RFC inquiry, told the Senate the Republicans want to prolong the investigation "until just before the elections in 1952 because it has uncovered a little dirt."

"They want a continual revelation of a little dirt that might have some bearing on the next election," Fulbright said.

The Arkansas Senator went on to say:

"If Congress wants us to broaden our inquiry, I'm willing to do it."

But he said it should include an investigation of ethical standard among government officials and in congress itself.

Briton Named "Ringleader" In Surplus Property Deals

WASHINGTON, March 15 (AP)—Congressmen looking into reports of fabulous deals in American surplus military goods—some of it reportedly sold back to the U. S. Army—identified "the ringleader" today as a Briton named George Dawson.

His name figured repeatedly in testimony about intricate but profitable dealings in trucks, axle assemblies, electronic and radio equipment and other materials in demand since the Korean outbreak.

The testimony was given a House Expenditures subcommittee inquiring into surplus sales of U. S. Army equipment in Germany. Chairman Bonner (D-NC) summed up testimony to date as showing "the ringleader in this" is Dawson.

Rep. Curtis (R-Mo) commented: "Our preliminary information is that George Dawson has made over $100,000,000 in this business."

Dawson's alleged part in the resale of U. S. surplus, originally assigned to the Bonn government of Germany, was gone into as the committee quizzed top army and occupation authorities on the deals.

The witnesses were Secretary of the Army Pace; Geoffry W. Lewis, deputy director of the Bureau of German Affairs in the State Department, and W. J. Monticone, assistant fiscal officer in the office of the high commissioner for Germany in Frankfort.

Defiant Crime Probe Witness Risks Arrest

Racketeer Refuses To Answer Queries

NEW YORK, March 15 (AP) — Racketeer Frank Costello risked arrest today by defiantly stamping out of the Senate crime committee hearing.

"I am going to walk out," he croaked in his hoarse voice after refusing to answer any more committee questions.

Then he stood up and strode from the hearing in the federal court building in downtown Foley Square.

"I am going directly home to bed," said the 60-year-old Costello, star witness as the Senate committee moved through the fourth day of its sensational open hearings in New York.

Committee Chairman Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn) said Costello can escape arrest if he comes back by next Tuesday — the last day of the hearings. However, contempt proceedings will be started at once, he added.

Kefauver had warned Costello before he left he'd be arrested if he took the walk and cited for contempt as well.

But Costello said he'd had enough and his attorney said he'd "reached the limit of his physical endurance."

The attorney, George Wolf, had asked the committee to postpone further testimony from Costello. This the committee refused to do.

Wolf offered the committee a doctor's certificate that Costello should stay home and have "complete voice rest for several days."

The racketeer — whom the Senate committee calls one of the nation's biggest crime syndicate leaders — has suffered from laryngitis ever since he first took the stand Tuesday.

He testified again yesterday and was to have continued this afternoon.

A perjury threat has been hanging over Costello since yesterday when he testified he never had his telephones checked for wiretaps. Another witness testified just the opposite — saying Costello hired him and paid him to check the phones.

Earlier, Kefauver had said this and all the rest of the record were being given to the U. S. District Attorney to check for possible perjury prosecution.

Costello took his walk just after the former Virginia Hill, one-time girl friend of the late Mobster Benjamin (Bugsy) Siegel, poutingly told the committee he never took money from "gangsters or racketeers."

Siegel was shot to death in her California home in 1947.

"Have you any knowledge of who could have had it in for him?" the 36-year-old Alabama-born witness was asked.

"If I knew anything about it I'd be the first to tell," she replied.

Both Houses Will Debate GI Issue

WASHINGTON, March 15 (AP)—Senators who want to limit President Truman's power to send American troops abroad claimed a preliminary victory today when administration leaders agreed to let the issue be debated by both houses of Congress.

Democratic Floor Leader McFarland of Arizona told reporters a concurrent resolution on the question, requiring action by both the Senate and House, would be taken up as soon as the Senate had acted on its own resolution.

"But that doesn't mean we have to vote for it," McFarland added.

Nevertheless, Sen. Knowland (R-Cal.) said proponents of the presidential limitation had "gotten over a big hump."

Acting jointly, the Senate Foreign Affairs and Armed Services Committees have reported two identical resolutions. They approve Mr. Truman's plan to send four more divisions of ground troops to Europe, but reserve the right of Congress to authorize all future troop assignments abroad.

One requires Senate action alone, and if passed would merely express the sense of the Senate. The other, requiring Senate and House action, would carry more weight.

Four Girls Die In Crash

BOSTON, March 15 (INS)—Four teen-age girls were killed tonight when the car in which they were riding went out of control on Veterans of Foreign Wars Parkway, West Roxbury, leaped off the road, struck a tree and skidded 30 yards and overturned.

Rainmakers' Enthusiasm Brings "Show Me" From Weather Bureau

WASHINGTON —(AP)—Rain-making pioneers, their heads in the clouds, put out a qualified forecast that mankind will have "a considerable control" of the weather in years to come.

The Weather Bureau's response: You'll have to show us.

At least one man's temperature rose, and various flurries of laughter were generated, as three Senate subcommittees held a joint hearing on legislation that would put rain-making and similar weather experiments under federal control.

Dr. Bernard Vonnegut of the General Electric Company said the chances are "far greater than 99 out of 100 that cloud-seeding can be of enormous value to our country."

Vonnegut developed G. E.'s system of making rain by introducing a chemical mist of silver iodide into thunderclouds.

He told senators the "wise use" of this cloud-seeding may well cut storm and flood damage and make flying safer, besides providing rain for drought-stricken areas.

Dr. Vincent J. Schaefer of G. E., first man to "milk" the clouds with dry ice, agreed with his colleague. Both said the federal government should carry on a broad program of weather control research. They likewise agreed the government should control all such private experiments.

For the Weather Bureau, Assistant Director W. F. McDonald shook his head and observed sorrowly that a lot of people are engaged in wishful thinking.

"The bureau feels," he said, "that it is still too early to try to define what can or cannot be done in this field and that a great deal more work is necessary before sound conclusions can be formed."

McDonald, a bulky, gray-haired man, said it's possible that rainfall may be started locally "in some degree" by artificial means. Beyond that he wouldn't go.

"Look," said Sen. Anderson (D-NM), "if clouds are sprayed with these chemicals and then it rains, and they're sprayed again and it rains, and every time they're sprayed it rains, doesn't it begin to look as if there's something to this spraying business?"

McDonald's jaw shot out.

"That," he declared, "is like saying that if a lot of women hang out their washings on Monday, and it rains on Wednesday, the rain was caused by hanging out the washing."

McDonald went on to say that the Weather Bureau has made an extensive study of rain-making experiments and has taken part in some of them.

If Congress wants more of this work done, he said, the Weather Bureau would be happy to do it, and could do it better than anybody else, if Congress would provide the money.

"Wouldn't that," Anderson inquired, "be like turning over the atomic bomb project to a firm that said the bomb couldn't be made?"

"We've never said rain could not be artifically induced," McDonald retorted, banging his palms on the table.

"You mean to say you haven't consistently and steadily fought rain-making?" Anderson demanded.

"Senator," said the Weather Bureau man, reddening and banging the table harder, "you keep putting words in my mouth."

Palm Sunday Procession To Open Holy Week Rites In Arab-Held Jerusalem

JERUSALEM — (AP) — A colorful Palm Sunday procession will mark the opening of Holy Week observances in this sacred city of Christendom, divided now between Jew and Moslem with most of the major Christian shrines in Moslem hands.

Thousands are expected to participate in the traditional pageant which commemorates Christ's entry into the city on an ass. Other thousands, juding from past years, will line the road from nearby Mount Olivet through St. Stephen's Gate.

Other ceremonies will follow throughout the week, highlighted by the Way of the Cross on Good Friday afternoon and the joyous Easter morning services in the Basilica of the Holy Sepulchre.

For the first time since the rule of the Ottoman Turks, prior to World War I, the major Christian holy places are in Moslem hands and guarded by a Moslem "protector of the holy places."

White-bearded King Abdullah of Jordan, who claims descent from the family of the Moslem prophet, Mohammed, formally annexed that part of Palestine which includes most Christian shrines shortly after Easter last year. Abdullah's Palestine covers about 1,600 square miles and includes such Biblical spots as the walled city of Jerusalem, Bethlehem and Jericho.

Two months ago, King Abdullah named a former member of his cabinet—Ragheb Nashashibi Pasha, "protector of the holy places."

This put all Christian holy places either under Moslem or Jewish control. The Jews have only a few Christian shrines on their side of the line. They have formally proclaimed the section they hold the capital of Israel.

The situation today offers little likelihood of carrying out the United Nations plan to internationalize the holy places in and around Jerusalem.

A week before Easter last year, the U. N. trusteeship Council passed an internationalization statute, but set no date when it would go into effect.

Premier David Ben Gurion of Israel said recently that only a war could change the status of divided Jerusalem—a city split into halves by barbed wire and guard posts.

King Abdullah has maintained that Jerusalem would be made an international area only over his dead body.

The people of Jerusalem are worried chiefly over the bad times, especially those in this Arab section that have been dependent for years on the money brought in by tourist traffic.

The wreckage and rubble of the 1948 Arab-Jewish fighting is still piled up in many parts of the city. Tank obstacles slow traffic on the streets outside the turreted walls of the old city. In the old city itself the twisted, cobbled streets are too narrow and winding for cars.

"Barricade" literally means "made from barrels."

Vacationing By Car This Summer? It'll Cost More Than It Did In '50

By HARRY WARNER, JR.
Central Press Correspondent

WASHINGTON—If you are planning to drive a car when taking next summer's vacation, it's going to cost more than it did last summer.

The American Automobile Association has come up with figures showing that both fixed annual expenses and per-mile driving costs are going up. The increase amounts to six per cent since the summer of 1949.

For example, if you should be planning a coast-to-coast motor trip next summer, operating the car will cost something like $200.

To pin it down to exact figures, suppose it's to be a round trip between New York and Los Angeles. If there's no major change in prices between now and summer, it will cost 3.3 cents per mile, the distance between the cities is 2,875 miles, and the total operating cost would be $189.75.

That figure varies, depending on the car, the driving conditions, and the area traveled, the AAA points out. The 3.3 cents per mile would be the cost where gas sold for 26½ cents per gallon and the auto averaged 14½ miles to the gallon of gas.

This car would consume 1.99 cents worth of gas and oil to the mile, maintenance would average seven-tenths of a cent per mile, and tire wear would average out to .61 of a cent per mile.

Any vacationists who insist on knowing exactly how much a planned trip will cost could also figure the proportion of fixed annual costs consumed during the vaca''o-

The AAA estimates that insurance against fire, theft, property damage, and liability, together with license fees and depreciation, average out to about $1.45 a day.

That would add another $27.55 to the car expenses during actual driving time for the round trip, if the tourists took their time and didn't average over 300 miles daily.

Persons who want to figure out probable expenses for the coming summer's holidays can do it themselves without calculus, if they know how far they are going and how long they will be gone. The AAA's budget system goes like this:

Allow 3.5 cents per mile for operating the car, to be on the safe side. This will mean that it will cost about $10 a day to operate the gas buggy, or $35 for every 1,000 miles. Set aside another $3 per day for food for each person who will go along.

Expect to pay for overnight accommodations on the basis of a national average of about $7 per night for two persons in one room. The AAA warns that the actual expense for two persons may be as low as $4 or as high as $9, depending on location and quality.

Another 75 cents per day for each person should be allotted for admission to scenic attractions, shrines, hotdogs, and similar traveling activities.

The AAA thinks that two persons should be able to vacation on $25 a day on the road this summer.

Incidentally, the AAA points out that the two types of expenses involved for the car owner—fixed annual costs and the actual operating expenditures—show the disadvantage of the customary system of car allowances to employes.

Surveys show that most companies pay a flat milage allowance when their employes use their own cars on company business. Six cents per mile is the rate paid by 45 per cent of all companies surveyed.

The AAA prefers a system developed by a Chicago accounting firm. A fair allowance under this method would be $1.50 for each day that the car is used on company business, plus an additional 3½ cents for each mile that the car is driven on company business.

If more than 18,000 miles per year are involved, another $10.60 per thousand miles for everything over 18,000 miles is recommended to cover special depreciation costs.

No Dove Of Peace

Trying to reach agreement with Russia, even on the simplest matters, is the most trying and frustrating experience Western diplomats let themselves in for. The meeting of the Big Four deputies in Paris is the same old story.

The meeting was arranged for one purpose—to agree on the topics to be discussed at a forthcoming conference of foreign ministers and the U. S. Secretary of State, and on the order in which they are to be taken up. Russia's Gromyko promptly launched into a long stereotyped denunciation of the United States, Britain and France which could not conceivably contribute to this purpose.

Gromyko accused the three powers, and particularly the United States, of violating the Potsdam agreement of 1945, which divided Germany and Berlin into four zones of occupation. In that agreement all four powers agreed, for their respective zones and for Germany as a whole, to the democratization of schools and courts, to free elections on representative principles, to freedom of speech and assembly.

The Western powers have violated none of the foregoing provisions. Russia has flagrantly violated all of them, and many others.

Gromyko charged the Western powers with endangering world peace and preparing a new world war at a time when Communists armed by Russia are killing Americans in Korea in order to perpetuate similar Russian violations in that area. Meanwhile Russia is waging a new "peace offensive" throughout the world which consists mainly of inflammatory speeches designed to arouse warlike fury against the United States.

In the face of such behavior, representatives of the three Western powers have at times yielded to the temptation to talk back to Gromyko. In the main, however, they have tried to stick to the subject and get Gromyko to do likewise. But there has been no indication that a dove of peace may be nesting on the cornices of the Pink Palace where the deptuies are meeting.

The Crow Had Sense

There may be some excuse for the fellow who shot at a crow and hit an explosives plant with a bang that was heard for 15 miles. He was fined over $250 after he told the judge he hadn't seen the plant through the underbrush. Perhaps he was careless, and maybe he needs a little target practice. But shooting at crows is a pouular pastime around Pearl River, N. Y.—and how was a visitor from New York City to know about an explosive plant?

The way the public acted was another matter. From 700 square miles of New York and New Jersey people came to see the excitement. Their cars blocked the roads, and they parked them anywhere. Fire apparatus and ambulances being rushed to the scene were hopelessly cut off. People thought an atomic bomb had exploded, and they didn't want to miss the excitement.

If they had been right, some of them might be dead by now. Nuclear radiation can kill. If such sightseers were to escape radiation damage, their curiosity could cost the lives of many victims and the loss of valuable property by cutting off rescue. There is less excuse for them than there is for the crow-hunter. Some mothers took their children to the scene because it wouldn't have been "safe" to leave them home while mother satisfied her curiosity!

Apparently the world is full of people who think nothing of taking criminal risks with other people's lives—and their own. In fact, the individual that seems to have shown the most sense in the whole affair is the crow. He made himself scarce, and hasn't been seen since.

How To Fight Russia

The way to fight Russia, according to Hanson W. Baldwin, military writer for the New York Times, is to attack its extremities. Napoleon and Hitler demonstrated for all time the folly of an invasion of the Russian interior. The better course was taken in the Crimean War of 1853-56. Then England and France attacked the Crimea, at the southern tip of Russia, laying siege to the naval fortress of Sebastopol.

The idea may have been sound, but the execution was bad. The British and French generals quarreled, and all lacked competence. Some modern experts believe Sebastopol could have been seized quickly, but the opportunity was lost, necessitating an 11-month siege. The fall of the fortress brought Russia to make peace terms satisfactory to the Allies.

The Crimea is not Russia's only vulnerable point. The Urkaine is its granary, and is approachable from the Black Sea. Then there are the Asiatic outposts, to defend which Russia would have to ship men and supplies for thousands of miles. That was one reason why Russia lost the 1904-05 war with Japan.

For that matter, had Napoleon abandoned his invasion and lopped off Russia's extremities, he might have brought the czar to terms. He might, for instance, have restored the independence to Poland, but presumably fear of antagonizing Austria, a co-owner of Polish territory, prevented.

Doubtless the Pentagon is considering this man-saving method of making war, and these bits of history influence our present policy.

Leaving For The Moon

Arthur V. St. Germain, if his plans work out, may soon be looking for an adventuresome companion. He says that he has completed plans for a rocket 27 stories high which would be able to carry two men to the moon and back. The trip back, of course, is the important thing. The rocket would weigh 180 tons, and travel 25,000 miles an hour. It would complete the journey in something under ten days.

The catch is that only the plans have been drawn. Presumably the money is yet to be found for the construction. As St. Germain is senior test engineer for the Fairchild Guided Missiles Division at the Navy test center at Point Mugu, California, he should know whether his conception is feasible. If he can persuade others that it is, there should be no great difficulty about getting the money.

Of course the Navy may decide that it would rather use St. Germain's missile for military purposes than in a journey to the moon. But if it takes the longer-range viewpoint, there may be some interesting reading about the moon in the newspapers one of these days.

A Senate committee is trying to ascertain what caused Senator Tydings' defeat in Maryland last November. Has it occurred to the committee that it may have been the fact he didn't get enough votes?

How To Keep Well

By DR. T. R. VAN DELLEN

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Stiff And Aching Muscles

SITTING in a draft may be followed by stiffness and soreness of the muscles. Just recently, one of my friends was unable to get out of bed because of lumbago. The only cause he could think of was that the night before he had sat with his back toward an open window through which a cool breeze was blowing. A lawyer I know always drives with the top of his convertible down. Driving a car with the window open often affects the left shoulder, particularly on a trip of several hundred miles.

The outcome is muscular rheumatism, or fibrositis, as the condition is called by physicians. In this disorder there is inflammation of the white fibrous tissue that is so prevalent throughout the body It is the shiny material that makes some steaks tough and the joint of a drumstick so difficult to pull apart. This material forms the sheaths around muscles, nerves, tendons, and ligaments. The firm capsules that hold together and surround the many joints of the body also consist of fibrous tissue and, in addition, it traverses the skin and separates the fatty from the muscular layers. At any rate, we can be thankful that fibrositis usually is confined to one area and rarely becomes generalized.

Muscular fibrositis is the most common variety. In lumbago, for example, the back is so stiff and painful that during the acute stage, the victim has difficulty turning over in bed and it practically is impossible to get up without help. It is sheer torture to breathe, cough, or dress, especially when it comes to putting on the hose and shoes.

A somewhat similar group of symptoms will appear when the neck muscles are involved. This is the old fashioned stiff neck that most of us have experienced at some time. The area between the shoulder blades is another favored spot and a certain type of headache has been ascribed to inflammed muscles and tendons of the scalp. Fibrositis frequently is responsible for the vague aches and pains so common in the arms, chest, gluteal region, and legs. In some forms of arthritis, such as rheumatic fever and rheumatoid arthritis, pain stems from irritated fibrous tissue rather than from the joints.

The sharp pain associated with the malady is aggravated by jarring and movement which stretch the inflamed parts. No wonder nature limits motions by making the muscles stiff. In most instances, distress subsides within a few days, or a week at most. If it does not disappear completely, it goes into the chronic phase. Many of these individuals are stiff and achy on awakening in the morning or after sitting in a chair for some time; on limbering up, discomfort vanishes. Others require salicylates such as aspirin or heat in the form of a heat lamp or hot water bag. These measures give temporary relief and often are needed when the weather is cold and damp or after a period of overexertion, fatigue, or nervousness.

Because infection is believed to play a major role, more lasting benefit is anticipated whenever a focus can be found and eliminated. Teeth, tonsils, and the prostate gland are the usual offenders along this line. Those who are predisposed to this annoying discomfort must take extra good care of themselves. The majority have learned the folly of sitting in a draft or exposing themselves to cold in other ways.

TOMORROW: Good posture is a health asset.

BUERGERS DISEASE

H. J. writes: Can athlete's foot cause Buerger's disease?

Some authorities believe this is possible. It is thought that the fungous infection lowers the resistance of the blood vessels, either to the fungous invasion or to the by-products produced by the infection. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on Buerger's disease (thromboangiitis obliterans).

MOLD ALLERGY

Yes, but this does not necessarily mean that a reaction cannot occur. If a drug is really needed, a chance can be taken.

Yes, males usually are slightly heavier at birth and during infancy but many factors other than sex influence weight.

Heroic Backstage Wire-Pulling Needed To Put Across Italy's New Armament Program; Wiping Out Italian Unemployment It Should Help Banish Communism

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Drew Pearson is only a flying tour of Europe and the Middle East, surveying the world situation).

ROME—The inside fact about the new armament program just voted by the Italian Parliament is that it was put across only after some heroic backstage wire-pulling which few people, even those in official life, know about. The behind-the-scenes story illustrates what terrific uphill obstacles the United States faces in both rearming Europe and inspiring internal reforms over here.

The rearmament move really began when Foreign Minister Count Carlo Sforza, a great friend of the United States, became worried about the bad press Italy was getting in the United States and asked some of his American newspaper friends about it. Their reply was "don't you realize that American boys are dying in Korea, that we all face possible war with Russia, yet Italy is doing nothing about it? The American people are getting tired of protecting the rest of the world."

Rearmament was not in Sforza's bailiwick. Furthermore, it was not in the bailiwick of certain Americans connected with the Marshall Plan who talked to Sforza about rearmament. Both were on delicate ground because he risked offending Italian generals; Marshall Plan officials because they risked offending U. S. Ambassador James Dunn, who follows the old-fashioned diplomatic theory that you must not jog the elbow of foreign governments regarding domestic policies and he was reluctant to crack down on the snail-like pace of Italian rearmament.

However, Sforza finally came up with a 26-page rearmament plan which was so confidential that it was given to ECA officials in the Rome railroad station by Sforza's deputy, so they wouldn't be seen together.

The ECA officials sent back word that the proposed plan chiefly called for more expenditures by the already overburdened American taxpayer and that any real Italian rearmament plan must also provide for Italian sacrifices. More conferences followed, out of which was finally evolved the $400,000,000 arms bill okayed by the Italian Parliament last week.

The new Italian arms bill can bring about a complete end of communism here, provided Italy is able to get all-too-scarce steel, aluminum and copper from the United States. For the new program should reactivate the northern automobile and tank factories, which have been virtually idle since the war, and wipe out Italian unemployment—the chief cause of communism.

However, the inside fact is a lot of money will also be wasted under Italian armament. The army, for instance, still maintains huge farms, theoretically for breeding cavalry horses. Though the cavalry has long since passed from use, the army clique refuses to relinquish its vast landed estates and Minister of Defense Randolfo Pacciardi, a devotee of David Dubinsky and the International Ladies Garment Workers, hasn't dared to buck the military hierarchy to bring about needed economies. In fact, Pacciardi has quietly appealed to American military advisors to pressure him for these economies.

This illustrates in Italian bureaucracy something which would make Senator Byrd faint. Commerce Minister Ivan Matteo Lombardo, commenting privately on this bureaucracy, once remarked "I have 13 stenographers. If I could fire all but three of them I could get some work done, but with 13 they just get in each other's way."

This bureaucracy has piled up so many government servants that 86 per cent of the social insurance paid in by the workers goes to pay for government administration. Repeatedly, since the war, the workers have had their premium payments for social security raised but not once have their insurance benefits been raised. The increase goes to pay bureaucrats' salaries.

Gervasi's Work Effective

A few weeks before General Eisenhower's scheduled visit to Italy, the walls of Rome were covered with posters reading "Ike, Go Home" plus other uncomplimentary remarks too filthy to be repeated here. Obviously this was the work of the Communists but since the walls of Rome are the television sets of the Italian people the posters had their effect and nothing was being done to counteract them.

Finally, while the American embassy hesitated, Frank Gervasi, the live-wire chief of ECA information, got busy. He organized a committee of pro-American Italians which, working backstage with the ECA, concocted some of the most effective posters ever seen in Italy.

Jean Belliard, son-in-law of Edgar Ansel Mowrer and now French attache on Eisenhower's staff, conceived one brilliant idea—namely, quoting from the Moscow press at the time Eisenhower liberated Europe. One set of posters therefore featured the hammer and sickle with quotes from Izvestia and Pravda hailing Ike as a great liberator. At the bottom of the poster was the date: May, 1945. Other posters featured Ike in his Columbia University cap and gown, regretfully laying aside his books to don an outgrown uniform.

Overnight, squads organized by the ECA went out, tore down the Communist posters and put up the new set. Few people had any idea who inspired the overnight change. In fact, gracious Ambassador Dunn, riding through Rome's streets the next day, remarked, "you see what the Italian people do when you leave them alone?"

For some months Gervasi, a former Hearst newspaperman and roving correspondent for Collier's, has been putting new life into American propaganda in Italy. Thanks to him, millions of Italian people now know what the Marshall Plan has brought to them. Three of his publications are among the most ingenious in Europe. One is a comic magazine called "The Story of America" which is sold on newsstands weekly and is lapped up by the Italian public.

Another is "Il Campi," or "The Land," a monthly magazine for farmers which is increasing Italian agricultural output and at the same time is getting across the fact that the United States has extended great help to Italy. The third is called "Illustrated Worker," a poor man's Collier's, aimed at weaning labor away from the Communists. The last-named is so popular that, in six months, it has reached a newsstand circulation of 200,000 and soon will become a paying proposition.

Gervasi's ingenuity has done a great deal to give communism its heavy setbacks in Italy. Yet, when plans for future American publicity here were recently submitted to the American embassy, Ambassador Dunn carefully struck out Gervasi's proposed plans.

Matter Of Fact

Meaning Of A Threat

BERLIN

IT is early days yet for the cooing optimism and negligent complacency which appear, from the perhaps jaundiced angle of vision of Berlin, to be overtaking Washington like a paralytic plague.

Western Europe is, after all, the key strategic position of the Western world. The pitifully small number of American, British and French divisions as yet available for the defense of Western Europe and now being tactically redeployed—that is, they are being transformed from an occupation force into a force that can fight this summer if need be. Yet the main defense of Western Europe remains the deterrent power of the strategic air force.

Meanwhile, peering o twards into the Soviet zone of Germany from the lookout that is Berlin, one sees no less than six Soviet armies. These armies comprise at least 30 divisions, including at least eight armored divisons and perhaps eleven heavy mechanzed divisions. They are supported by a powerful air force, which can be further strengthened at any moment, comprising nearly 500 first class jet fighters and about the same number of attack fighters and light bombers for close support.

All this military power in Germany is in turn immediately backed up in Poland by six more divisions or the equivalent, plus a certain number of supporting "air corps" as the Soviets call air groups. Of these divisions in Poland, moreover, at least three appear to be composed entirely of cadres, with as high as 50 per cent ratio of officers, so that their nine "regiments" can be rapidly transformed, by shipping in mass manpower, into nine full divisions.

Ready To Go

This was the trick that stood the order of battle experts on their tin ears in 1949, when the Kremlin began bringing its force in Germany up to the present strength.

Finally, and most important of all, this powerful force in East Germany and Poland is no longer relatively immobilized, as it was a year ago, by deficiencies in every sort of stock and reserve. It has been made ready to go, or nearly ready to go, by the processes of gradual accumulation of reserves and stocks described in a previous report.

In Korea we have already bitterly learned the danger of calculating the enemy's intentions instead of his capabilities (which was the error of all those from Gen. MacArthur all the way down to these reporters, who thought the Chinese would not massively intervene). The capabilities of these Soviet armies here in Europe are only too clear. The grim figures mean that any slackening of the American or Western defense effort at this time is downright criminal.

At the same time, anyone would be idiotically alarmist, as yet, to deduce that a Soviet offensive in Europe impends because the Soviet armies in Europe have been brought close to the stage of offensive readiness.

Many authorities certainly assert that the Kremlin will be able to transform its spring or autumn European army maneuvers into an attack westwards, sending the already deployed divisions across the border at a word of command. Others argue, however, that there are still gaps, in certain storage levels, in artillery, and so on, which the Kremlin will need a month to two months to fill. Probably the

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—If you were the mayor of a city and had the chamber of commerce and everybody else working together to bring new industries to your area and then the United States Government came in and undercut you with what is plainly "cutthroat competion," you would be plenty mad.

Well, Mayor De Lesseps S. Morrison of New Orleans is mad and has carried the case to the Louisiana delegation in Congress and the delegations from other southern states. He declares that Secretary of the Interior Oscar Chapman, government ownership champion, has broken the spirit as well as the letter of business practices in America by a decision to give the Aluminum Company of America electric power from the Bonneville power project in the Columbia River Valley in the Northwest at half price.

Possible By Subsidy

Although the Bonneville administrator announced in his annual report last year that there was no surplus power available and would not be until 1957, Mr. Chapman now has overruled his own executive and offered power to the aluminum company at about two mills per kilowatt, which is just about half what the New Orleans area could offer. The New Orleans mayor says, however, that this would not be possible except by a subsidy paid for by all the taxpayers of the country.

In addition, the New Orleans mayor points out that, because bauxite and other ingredients are available only in the Caribbean area, the aluminum product will have to be sent 6,000 miles back and forth across the continent for processing. With the uncertainty of future freight rates, he says the end result will be that the final product will not be manufactured as inexpensively as it soon will be by a competitor of the Aluminum Company—the Kaiser Company, which is building a $79,000,000 plant in New Orleans and plans to use natural gas for power purposes.

If New Orleans loses out, it means that a $45,000,000 plant which the Aluminum Company of America would have built there will not be constructed. It's pretty tough for any mayor to lose a $45,000,000 plant for his city but it's worse when it happens because someone in the government introduces a subsidy for another region and actually cuts the price through that advantage.

Nobody in private busines could give a below-cost rate to one customer to take business from a competitor. The federal anti-trust laws forbid it.

What causes indignation among the Southerners is the fact, that with billions of dollars in taxes to be raised from everybody in America, the defense emergency is being used to advance the cause of the advocates of a nationalization formula which ultimately could bring the same program of hostility to private industry as the labor government in Great Britain has introduced there.

Closer To Russia

It is a contradiction to find the Truman Administration, which professes to be friendly to "free enterprise" and to small business, too, lending itself to a conspiracy to prevent the South from getting a plant that would eventually bring a lower cost end-production than can be obtained by favoring a government project in the Northwest on a single phase—electric power. The Kaiser interests insist that they will be producing aluminum cheaper in the New Orleans are than the Aluminum Company can produce in any new plant now being projected for the Northwest. The Aluminum Company, on the other hand, is believed to be required to "play ball" with the Interior Department, which controls the allocation of power under the defense setup. Also Southern members of Congress argue that too many aluminum plants should not be concentrated in one area because it might make that locality vulnerable to atomic attack. They point out that the Northwest, which already has big aluminum plants, is nearer to Russia than the South is.

What is pjuzzling disinterested observers is how the Bonneville power administrator can be expected to supply surplus power when he really hasn't any at present. Reports are current that private users in the Northwest will suffer and that drastic curtailment of power and rationing in the Northwest will be inevitable. That may be the penalty which private users in the Northwest will have to pay in order that the Interior Department may continue its feud against private electric power companies and their investors as more and more tax money is used from the Treasury of the United States to carry on the fight.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Return Of Sumner Welles

I RECEIVED a circular letter announcing the return of Sumner Welles to active political life. It came as a surprise because it seemed as though he were in permanent retirement.

Mr. Welles's career was in the State Department in the hey-day of the wild men whom Senator Joe McCarthy has been denouncing as much for their habits as for their policies. He returns not to public office but as chairman of a new organization now being launched called "The First Freedom International," which is a curious title. What is the importance of the words, "The First," which are printed in smaller type? There have been many international organizations which have advocated freedom. Also, the title is reminiscent of the Second International of the Social Democrats, the Third international of Stalin and the Fourth International of Trotzky.

However, this is to be an anti-Communist international and is organized, it says, because others at work are failing. The circular says:

> ". . . freedom is the real revolution—not Soviet tyranny—and the time is overdue for us to take the initiative on its behalf, on a scale hitherto unattempted."

And to achieve this "real revolution" a catch-all committee is formed which includes all sorts of diametrically opposed individuals, from Republicans to social Democrats, up and down the gamut of ideas. How any Republican can fight communism in the company of a social Democrat, or how a religious leader can tie up with a Marxist who only objects to Stalin but not to Marxism, is difficult to analyze. Yet this organizing committee includes many distinguished and important names.

I picked at random a few and telephoned and I put the query this way: "I see you're serving on a committee under the chairmanship of Sumner Welles." Each seemed to show concern, as though I had presented him with a subpoena from the McCarran Committee. Each indicated that he had no knowledge that he had been asked to serve in this capacity.

I then gave the name of the organization and described its character. From some this got a response; from others it did not. In a word, there are always persons who lend their names to committees, petitions, open letters.

The card which accompanies this letter reads:

"I am happy to give my name without obligation as a member of the organizing committee of Freedom International."

Quite how one lends his name to a public cause "without obligation" is hard to understand. That is one of the most usual excuses given by those who joined Communist front organizations; they did not know that it was involved; they signed without obligation.

Nonsense! When a man signs his name to anything, he takes on an obligation. He is responsible for the entire program of that organization. He is responsible for its conduct. He is responsible for its officials. Once he lends his name, he cannot dodge the fact that he did so. The record stands unless he publicly repudiates it. Mature men and women are expected to be responsible for their decisions.

The name-signers have strengthened the Communists over the past years and I suppose "The First Freedom International," headed by Sumner Welles, is copying their methods. But what does such signature-hunting really accomplish, unless each individual who signs up is devoted to the cause and is ready to stand or fall by it? But this organization which Sumner Welles heads wants signatures "without obligation."

No movement so founded can be of any use in the fight against Communists in this country or in the world. Nor do I believe that Sumner Welles can now inspire confidence in anyone. Look at his career! He managed the State Department when Alger Hiss and his gang

THE FELLOWSHIP WORSHIPS

God is a Spirit: and they that worship him must worship in spirit and truth.

John 4:24.

Read Revelation 3.

We may well like the sanctuary's beauty, its dim religious light, its altar. But let us never forget that worship is not the substance, but only the sustenance, of the Christian life. To have a noble impulse is to worship God in spirit. To act out that impulse in our daily living is to worship him in truth. God is not greatly interested in human adulation. He is not greedy for praise. We must never ascribe to God a characteristic which we despise in mortals. What God wants is adoration put to work.

Archibald Rutledge tells of a mangy cur which belonged to Steve Boykin, one of his Negro hands. One day while Steve was off in the woods, his dog was set to guard his dinner pail. A fire broke out in the woods and swept over the dinner pail and the dog. "That dog knew what a fire was and had plenty of time to get away . . . When Steve saw, he muttered, 'My little dog he done worshiped me.' The yellow cur worshiped his master by dying for him." Anyone who truly worships God must own to some great mastership in life.

Let Us Pray: In all our worship, Lord, may we own to some great motivating principle. Forbid that we should have a deep emotion without putting it into action. Only thus do we worship thee in spirit and in truth. May the name of Jesus Christ be glorified in us. Amen.

No Dove Of Peace

Trying to reach agreement with Russia, even on the simplest matters, is the most trying and frustrating experience Western diplomats let themselves in for. The meeting of the Big Four deputies in Paris is the same old story.

The meeting was arranged for one purpose—to agree on the topics to be discussed at a forthcoming conference of foreign ministers and the U. S. Secretary of State, and on the order in which they are to be taken up. Russia's Gromyko promptly launched into a long stereotyped denunciation of the United States, Britain and France which could not conceivably contribute to this purpose.

Gromyko accused the three powers, and particularly the United States, of violating the Potsdam agreement of 1945, which divided Germany and Berlin into four zones of occupation. In that agreement all four powers agreed, for their respective zones and for Germany as a whole, to the democratization of schools and courts, to free elections on representative principles, to freedom of speech and assembly.

The Western powers have violated none of the foregoing provisions. Russia has flagrantly violated all of them, and many others.

Gromyko charged the Western powers with endangering world peace and preparing a new world war at a time when Communists armed by Russia are killing Americans in Korea in order to perpetuate similar Russian violations in that area. Meanwhile Russia is waging a new "peace offensive" throughout the world which consists mainly of inflammatory speeches designed to arouse warlike fury against the United States.

In the face of such behavior, representatives of the three Western powers have at times yielded to the temptation to talk back to Gromyko. In the main, however, they have tried to stick to the subject and get Gromyko to do likewise. But there has been no indication that a dove of peace may be nesting on the cornices of the Pink Palace where the deptuies are meeting.

The Crow Had Sense

There may be some excuse for the fellow who shot at a crow and hit an explosives plant with a bang that was heard for 15 miles. He was fined over $250 after he told the judge he hadn't seen the plant through the underbrush. Perhaps he was careless, and maybe he needs a little target practice. But shooting at crows is a pouular pastime around Pearl River, N. Y.—and how was a visitor from New York City to know about an explosive plant?

The way the public acted was another matter. From 700 square miles of New York and New Jersey people came to see the excitement. Their cars blocked the roads, and they parked them anywhere. Fire apparatus and ambulances being rushed to the scene were hopelessly cut off. People thought an atomic bomb had exploded, and they didn't want to miss the excitement.

If they had been right, some of them might be dead by now. Nuclear radiation can kill. If such sightseers were to escape radiation damage, their curiosity could cost the lives of many victims and the loss of valuable property by cutting off rescue. There is less excuse for them than there is for the crow-hunter. Some mothers took their children to the scene because it wouldn't have been "safe" to leave them home while mother satisfied her curiosity!

Apparently the world is full of people who think nothing of taking criminal risks with other people's lives—and their own. In fact, the individual that seems to have shown the most sense in the whole affair is the crow. He made himself scarce, and hasn't been seen since.

How To Fight Russia

The way to fight Russia, according to Hanson W. Baldwin, military writer for the New York Times, is to attack its extremities. Napoleon and Hitler demonstrated for all time the folly of an invasion of the Russian interior. The better course was taken in the Crimean War of 1853-56. Then England and France attacked the Crimea, at the southern tip of Russia, laying siege to the naval fortress of Sebastopol.

The idea may have been sound, but the execution was bad. The British and French generals quarreled, and all lacked competence. Some modern experts believe Sebastopol could have been seized quickly, but the opportunity was lost, necessitating an 11-month siege. The fall of the fortress brought Russia to make peace terms satisfactory to the Allies.

The Crimea is not Russia's only vulnerable point. The Urkaine is its granary, and is approachable from the Black Sea. Then there are the Asiatic outposts, to defend which Russia would have to ship men and supplies for thousands of miles. That was one reason why Russia lost the 1904-05 war with Japan.

For that matter, had Napoleon abandoned his invasion and lopped off Russia's extremities, he might have brought the czar to terms. He might, for instance, have restored the independence to Poland, but presumably fear of antagonizing Austria, a co-owner of Polish territory, prevented.

Doubtless the Pentagon is considering this mansaving method of making war, and these bits of history influence our present policy.

Leaving For The Moon

Arthur V. St. Germain, if his plans work out, may soon be looking for an adventuresome companion. He says that he has completed plans for a rocket 27 stories high which would be able to carry two men to the moon and back. The trip back, of course, is the important thing. The rocket would weigh 180 tons, and travel 25,000 miles an hour. It would complete the journey in something under ten days.

The catch is that only the plans have been drawn. Presumably the money is yet to be found for the construction. As St. Germain is senior test engineer for the Fairchild Guided Missiles Division at the Navy test center at Point Mugu, California, he should know whether his conception is feasible. If he can persuade others that it is, there should be no great difficulty about getting the money.

Of course the Navy may decide that it would rather use St. Germain's missile for military purposes than in a journey to the moon. But if it takes the longer-range viewpoint, there may be some interesting reading about the moon in the newspapers one of these days.

A Senate committee is trying to ascertain what caused Senator Tydings' defeat in Maryland last November. Has it occurred to the committee that it may have been the fact he didn't get enough votes?

How To Keep Well

By DR. T. R. VAN DELLEN

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Stiff And Aching Muscles

SITTING in a draft may be followed by stiffness and soreness of the muscles. Just recently, one of my friends was unable to get out of bed because of lumbago. The only cause he could think of was that the night before he had sat with his back toward an open window through which a cool breeze was blowing. A lawyer I know always drives with the top of his convertible down. Driving a car with the window open often affects the left shoulder, particularly on a trip of several hundred miles.

The outcome is muscular rheumatism, or fibrositis, as the condition is called by physicians. In this disorder there is inflammation of the white fibrous tissue that is so prevalent throughout the body It is the shiny material that makes some steaks tough and the joint of a drumstick so difficult to pull apart. This material forms the sheaths around muscles, nerves, tendons, and ligaments. The firm capsules that hold together and surround the many joints of the body also consist of fibrous tissue and, in addition, it traverses the skin and separates the fatty from the muscular layers. At any rate, we can be thankful that fibrositis usually is confined to one area and rarely becomes generalized.

Muscular fibrositis is the most common variety. In lumbago, for example, the back is so stiff and painful that during the acute stage, the victim has difficulty turning over in bed and it practically is impossible to get up without help. It is sheer torture to breathe, cough, or dress, especially when it comes to putting on the hose and shoes.

A somewhat similar group of symptoms will appear when the neck muscles are involved. This is the old fashioned stiff neck that most of us have experienced at some time. The area between the shoulder blades is another favored spot and a certain type of headache has been ascribed to inflammed muscles and tendons of the scalp. Fibrositis frequently is responsible for the vague aches and pains so common in the arms, chest, gluteal region, and legs. In some forms of arthritis, such as rheumatic fever and rheumatoid arthritis, pain stems from irritated fibrous tissue rather than from the joints.

The sharp pain associated with the malady is aggravated by jarring and movement which stretch the inflamed parts. No wonder nature limits motions by making the muscles stiff. In most instances, distress subsides within a few days, or a week at most. If it does not disappear completely, it goes into the chronic phase. Many of these individuals are stiff and achy on awakening in the morning or after sitting in a chair for some time; on limbering up, discomfort vanishes. Others require salicylates such as aspirin or heat in the form of a heat lamp or hot water bag. These measures give temporary relief and often are needed when the weather is cold and damp or after a period of overexertion, fatigue, or nervousness.

Because infection is believed to play a major role, more lasting benefit is anticipated whenever a focus can be found and eliminated. Teeth, tonsils, and the prostate gland are the usual offenders along this line. Those who are predisposed to this annoying discomfort must take extra good care of themselves. The majority have learned the folly of sitting in a draft or exposing themselves to cold in other ways.

Heroic Backstage Wire-Pulling Needed To Put Across Italy's New Armament Program; Wiping Out Italian Unemployment It Should Help Banish Communism

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Drew Pearson is only a flying tour of Europe and the Middle East, surveying the world situation).

ROME—The inside fact about the new armament program just voted by the Italian Parliament is that it was put across only after some heroic backstage wire-pulling which few people, even those in official life, know about. The behind-the-scenes story illustrates what terrific uphill obstacles the United States faces in both rearming Europe and inspiring internal reforms over here.

The rearmament move really began when Foreign Minister Count Carlo Sforza, a great friend of the United States, became worried about the bad press Italy was getting in the United States and asked some of his American newspaper friends about it. Their reply was "don't you realize that American boys are dying in Korea, that we all face possible war with Russia, yet Italy is doing nothing about it? The American people are getting tired of protecting the rest of the world."

Rearmament was not in Sforza's bailiwick. Furthermore, it was not in the bailiwick of certain Americans connected with the Marshall Plan who talked to Sforza about rearmament. Both were on delicate ground because he risked offending Italian generals; Marshall Plan officials because they risked offending U. S. Ambassador James Dunn, who follows the old-fashioned diplomatic theory that you must not jog the elbow of foreign governments regarding domestic policies and he was reluctant to crack down on the snail-like pace of Italian rearmament.

However, Sforza finally came up with a 26-page rearmament plan which was so confidential that it was given to ECA officials in the Rome railroad station by Sforza's deputy, so they wouldn't be seen together.

The ECA officials sent back word that the proposed plan chiefly called for more expenditures by the already overburdened American taxpayer and that any real Italian rearmament plan must also provide for Italian sacrifices. More conferences followed, out of which was finally evolved the $400,000,000 arms bill okayed by the Italian Parliament last week.

The new Italian arms bill can bring about a complete end of communism here, provided Italy is able to get all-too-scarce steel, aluminum and copper from the United States. For the new program should reactivate the northern automobile and tank factories, which have been virtually idle since the war, and wipe out Italian unemployment—the chief cause of communism.

However, the inside fact is a lot of money will also be wasted under Italian armament. The army, for instance, still maintains huge farms, theoretically for breeding cavalry horses. Though the cavalry has long since passed from use, the army clique refuses to relinquish its vast landed estates and Minister of Defense Randolfo Pacciardi, a devotee of David Dubinsky and the International Ladies Garment Workers, hasn't dared to buck the military hierarchy to bring about needed economies. In fact, Pacciardi has quietly appealed to American military advisors to pressure him for these economies.

This illustrates in Italian bureaucracy something which would make Senator Byrd faint. Commerce Minister Ivan Matteo Lombardo, commenting privately on this bureaucracy, once remarked "I have 13 stenographers. If I could fire all but three of them I could get some work done, but with 13 they just get in each other's way."

This bureaucracy has piled up so many government servants that 86 per cent of the social insurance paid in by the workers goes to pay for government administration. Repeatedly, since the war, the workers have had their premium payments for social security raised but not once have their insurance benefits been raised. The increase goes to pay bureaucrats' salaries.

Gervasi's Work Effective

A few weeks before General Eisenhower's scheduled visit to Italy, the walls of Rome were covered with posters reading "Ike, Go Home" plus other uncomplimentary remarks too filthy to be repeated here. Obviously this was the work of the Communists but since the walls of Rome are the television sets of the Italian people the posters had their effect and nothing was being done to counteract them.

Finally, while the American embassy hesitated, Frank Gervasi, the live-wire chief of ECA information, got busy. He organized a committee of pro-American Italians which, working backstage with the ECA, concocted some of the most effective posters ever seen in Italy.

Jean Belliard, son-in-law of Edgar Ansel Mowrer and now French attache on Eisenhower's staff, conceived one brilliant idea—namely, quoting from the Moscow press at the time Eisenhower liberated Europe. One set of posters therefore featured the hammer and sickle with quotes from Izvestia and Pravda hailing Ike as a great liberator. At the bottom of the poster was the date: May, 1945. Other posters featured Ike in his Columbia University cap and gown, regretfully laying aside his books to don an outgrown uniform.

Overnight, squads organized by the ECA went out, tore down the Communist posters and put up the new set. Few people had any idea who inspired the overnight change. In fact, gracious Ambassador Dunn, riding through Rome's streets the next day, remarked, "you see what the Italian people do when you leave them alone?"

For some months Gervasi, a former Hearst newspaperman and roving correspondent for Collier's, has been putting new life into American propaganda in Italy. Thanks to him, millions of Italian people now know what the Marshall Plan has brought to them. Three of his publications are among the most ingenious in Europe. One is a comic magazine called "The Story of America" which is sold on newsstands weekly and is lapped up by the Italian public.

Another is "Il Campi," or "The Land," a monthly magazine for farmers which is increasing Italian agricultural output and at the same time is getting across the fact that the United States has extended great help to Italy. The third is called "Illustrated Worker," a poor man's Collier's, aimed at weaning labor away from the Communists. The last-named is so popular that, in six months, it has reached a newsstand circulation of 200,000 and soon will become a paying proposition.

Gervasi's ingenuity has done a great deal to give communism its heavy setbacks in Italy. Yet, when plans for future American publicity here were recently submitted to the American embassy, Ambassador Dunn carefully struck out Gervasi's proposed plans.

Meaning Of A Threat

BERLIN

IT is early days yet for the cooing optimism and negligent complacency which appear, from the perhaps jaundiced angle of vision of Berlin, to be overtaking Washington like a paralytic plague.

Western Europe is, after all, the key strategic position of the Western world. The pitifully small number of American, British and French divisions as yet available for the defense of Western Europe and now being tactically redeployed—that is, they are being transformed from an occupation force into a force that can fight this summer if need be. Yet the main defense of Western Europe remains the deterrent power of the strategic air force.

Meanwhile, peering o twards into the Soviet zone of Germany from the lookout that is Berlin, one sees no less than six Soviet armies. These armies comprise at least 30 divisions, including at least eight armored divisons and perhaps eleven heavy mechanzed divisions. They are supported by a powerful air force, which can be further strengthened at any moment, comprising nearly 500 first class jet fighters and about the same number of attack fighters and light bombers for close support.

All this military power in Germany is in turn immediately backed up in Poland by six more divisions or the equivalent, plus a certain number of supporting "air corps" as the Soviets call air groups. Of these divisions in Poland, moreover, at least three appear to be composed entirely of cadres, with as high as 50 per cent ratio of officers, so that their nine "regiments" can be rapidly transformed, by shipping in mass manpower, into nine full divisions.

Ready To Go

This was the trick that stood the order of battle experts on their tin ears in 1949, when the Kremlin began bringing its force in Germany up to the present strength.

Finally, and most important of all, this powerful force in East Germany and Poland is no longer relatively immobilized, as it was a year ago, by deficiencies in every sort of stock and reserve. It has been made ready to go, or nearly ready to go, by the processes of gradual accumulation of reserves and stocks described in a previous report.

In Korea we have already bitterly learned the danger of calculating the enemy's intentions instead of his capabilities (which was the error of all those from Gen. MacArthur all the way down to these reporters, who thought the Chinese would not massively intervene). The capabilities of these Soviet armies here in Europe are only too clear. The grim figures mean that any slackening of the American or Western defense effort at this time is downright criminal.

At the same time, anyone would be idiotically alarmist, as yet, to deduce that a Soviet offensive in Europe impends because the Soviet armies in Europe have been brought close to the stage of offensive readiness.

Many authorities certainly assert that the Kremlin will be able to transform its spring or autumn European army maneuvers into an attack westwards, sending the already deployed divisions across the border at a word of command. Others argue, however, that there are still gaps, in certain storage levels, in artillery, and so on, which the Kremlin will need a month to two months to fill. Probably the

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—If you were the mayor of a city and had the chamber of commerce and everybody else working together to bring new industries to your area and then the United States Government came in and undercut you with what is plainly "cutthroat competion," you would be plenty mad.

Well, Mayor De Lesseps S. Morrison of New Orleans is mad and has carried the case to the Louisiana delegation in Congress and the delegations from other southern states. He declares that Secretary of the Interior Oscar Chapman, government ownership champion, has broken the spirit as well as the letter of business practices in America by a decision to give the Aluminum Company of America electric power from the Bonneville power project in the Columbia River Valley in the Northwest at half price.

Possible By Subsidy

Although the Bonneville administrator announced in his annual report last year that there was no surplus power available and would not be until 1957, Mr. Chapman now has overruled his own executive and offered power to the aluminum company at about two mills per kilowatt, which is just about half what the New Orleans area could offer. The New Orleans mayor says, however, that this would not be possible except by a subsidy paid for by all the taxpayers of the country.

In addition, the New Orleans mayor points out that, because bauxite and other ingredients are available only in the Caribbean area, the aluminum product will have to be sent 6,000 miles back and forth across the continent for processing. With the uncertainty of future freight rates, he says the end result will be that the final product will not be manufactured as inexpensively as it soon will be by a competitor of the Aluminum Company—the Kaiser Company, which is building a $79,000,000 plant in New Orleans and plans to use natural gas for power purposes.

If New Orleans loses out, it means that a $45,000,000 plant which the Aluminum Company of America would have built there will not be constructed. It's pretty tough for any mayor to lose a $45,000,000 plant for his city but it's worse when it happens because someone in the government introduces a subsidy for another region and actually cuts the price through that advantage.

Nobody in private busines could give a below-cost rate to one customer to take business from a competitor. The federal anti-trust laws forbid it.

What causes indignation among the Southerners is the fact, that with billions of dollars in taxes to be raised from everybody in America, the defense emergency is being used to advance the cause of the advocates of a nationalization formula which ultimately could bring the same program of hostility to private industry as the labor government in Great Britain has introduced there.

Closer To Russia

It is a contradiction to find the Truman Administration, which professes to be friendly to "free enterprise" and to small business, too, lending itself to a conspiracy to prevent the South from getting a plant that would eventually bring a lower cost end-production than can be obtained by favoring a government project in the Northwest on a single phase—electric power. The Kaiser interests insist that they will be producing aluminum cheaper in the New Orleans are than the Aluminum Company can produce in any new plant now being projected for the Northwest. The Aluminum Company, on the other hand, is believed to be required to "play ball" with the Interior Department, which controls the allocation of power under the defense setup. Also Southern members of Congress argue that too many aluminum plants should not be concentrated in one area because it might make that locality vulnerable to atomic attack. They point out that the Northwest, which already has big aluminum plants, is nearer to Russia than the South is.

What is pjuzzling disinterested observers is how the Bonneville power administrator can be expected to supply surplus power when he really hasn't any at present. Reports are current that private users in the Northwest will suffer and that drastic curtailment of power and rationing in the Northwest will be inevitable. That may be the penalty which private users in the Northwest will have to pay in order that the Interior Department may continue its feud against private electric power companies and their investors as more and more tax money is used from the Treasury of the United States to carry on the fight.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Return Of Sumner Welles

I RECEIVED a circular letter announcing the return of Sumner Welles to active political life. It came as a surprise because it seemed as though he were in permanent retirement.

Mr. Welles's career was in the State Department in the hey-day of the wild men whom Senator Joe McCarthy has been denouncing as much for their habits as for their policies. He returns not to public office but as chairman of a new organization now being launched called "The First Freedom International," which is a curious title. What is the importance of the words, "The First," which are printed in smaller type? There have been many international organizations which have advocated freedom. Also, the title is reminiscent of the Second International of the Social Democrats, the Third international of Stalin and the Fourth International of Trotzky.

However, this is to be an anti-Communist international and is organized, it says, because others at work are failing. The circular says:

> ". . . freedom is the real revolution—not Soviet tyranny—and the time is overdue for us to take the initiative on its behalf, on a scale hitherto unattempted."

And to achieve this "real revolution" a catch-all committee is formed which includes all sorts of diametrically opposed individuals, from Republicans to social Democrats, up and down the gamut of ideas. How any Republican can fight communism in the company of a social Democrat, or how a religious leader can tie up with a Marxist who only objects to Stalin but not to Marxism, is difficult to analyze. Yet this organizing committee includes many distinguished and important names.

I picked at random a few and telephoned and I put the query this way: "I see you're serving on a committee under the chairmanship of Sumner Welles." Each seemed to show concern, as though I had presented him with a subpoena from the McCarran Committee. Each indicated that he had no knowledge that he had been asked to serve in this capacity.

I then gave the name of the organization and described its character. From some this got a response; from others it did not. In a word, there are always persons who lend their names to committees, petitions, open letters.

The card which accompanies this letter reads:

"I am happy to give my name without obligation as a member of the organizing committee of Freedom International."

Quite how one lends his name to a public cause "without obligation" is hard to understand. That is one of the most usual excuses given by those who joined Communist front organizations; they did not know that it was involved; they signed without obligation.

Nonsense! When a man signs his name to anything, he takes on an obligation. He is responsible for the entire program of that organization. He is responsible for its conduct. He is responsible for its officials. Once he lends his name, he cannot dodge the fact that he did so. The record stands unless he publicly repudiates it. Mature men and women are expected to be responsible for their decisions.

The name-signers have strengthened the Communists over the past years and I suppose "The First Freedom International," headed by Sumner Welles, is copying their methods. But what does such signature-hunting really accomplish, unless each individual who signs up is devoted to the cause and is ready to stand or fall by it? But this organization which Sumner Welles heads wants signatures "without obligation."

No movement so founded can be of any use in the fight against Communists in this country or in the world. Nor do I believe that Sumner Welles can now inspire confidence in anyone. Look at his career! He managed the State Department when Alger Hiss and his gang

THE FELLOWSHIP WORSHIPS

God is a Spirit: and they that worship him must worship in spirit and truth.

John 4:24.

Read Revelation 3.

We may well like the sanctuary's beauty, its dim religious light, its altar. But let us never forget that worship is not the substance, but only the sustenance, of the Christian life. To have a noble impulse is to worship God in spirit. To act out that impulse in our daily living is to worship him in truth. God is not greatly interested in human adulation. He is not greedy for praise. We must never ascribe to God a characteristic which we despise in mortals. What God wants is adoration put to work.

Archibald Rutledge tells of a mangy cur which belonged to Steve Boykin, one of his Negro hands. One day while Steve was off in the woods, his dog was set to guard his dinner pail. A fire broke out in the woods and swept over the dinner pail and the dog. "That dog knew what a fire was and had plenty of time to get away . . . When Steve saw, he muttered, 'My little dog he done worshiped me.' The yellow cur worshiped his master by dying for him." Anyone who truly worships God must own to some great mastership in life.

Let Us Pray: In all our worship, Lord, may we own to some great notivating principle. Forbid that we should have a deep emotion without putting it into action. Only thus do we worship thee in spirit and in truth. May the name of Jesus Christ be glorified in us. Amen.

House Votes To Open Up Even Year Sessions To Any Type Legislation

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 15 (AP)—The House voted today to open up Maryland's even year 30-day sessions to any type legislation.

Under a 1948 constitutional amendment setting up annual sessions, only matters dealing with state finances, the "public general welfare" and emergencies may be passed upon in a 30-day session.

Other legislation must wait for the odd-year 90-day sessions, such as the present one.

The first short session in Maryland history was held last year. There was much confusion as to just what and what could not be passed.

Much pressure was exerted on the legislators to introduce all types of bills. Almost 350 were submitted. Many patently could not comply with the constitutional proviso.

Others fell into the doubtful class. Some of these were approved and signed into law by former Gov. Lane.

The Court of Appeals has ruled that two of the bills passed in 1950 did not fit the constitutional requirements for a short session and they were stricken off the books.

Delegate James (D-Harford) introduced the bill passed today in the House by an 89-13 vote and sent along to the Senate.

If it gains Senate approval and is signed by the Governor, the proposed change in the constitution will be submitted to the electorate at a referendum in 1952.

Another of the more than 20 measures passed by the House today sets up a statewide law requiring the registration and licensing of private detectives. The measure now goes to Gov. McKeldin.

The Senate put off action until tomorrow on a bill that will permit the Governor to raise the pay of the chief engineer from $8,000 to $12,000.

It already has amended the house-passed bill to require senate confirmation of future appointments to the job, which will be known as director of public improvements.

Md. Bookies Reported Linked To Syndicate

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 15 (AP)—A Kefauver crime committee investigator declared today Maryland bookies are linked to big gambling syndicates.

"Your handbooks are well organized," Downey Rice said at a House Judiciary Committee hearing on gambling legislation. "They are hooked up with individuals in other states."

Numbers operators have connections in adjoining states, he added.

Rice is an associate counsil of the Senate subcommittee investigating crime syndicates.

100 Marylanders Killed

BALTIMORE, March 15 (AP) — More than 100 Maryland men have died in the Korean fighting and another 600 have been wounded or listed as missing, Defense Department casualty lists show.

Detroit Train Wreck Investigation Begins

DETROIT, March 15 (AP) — The Wayne County prosecutor's office today began an investigation into the midnight wreck of the New York Centrals Ohio Special in which three persons were killed and 34 hurt.

Ralph Garber, chief assistant prosecutor, said "it is possible the train was going too fast for the conditions" when it tumbled off the tracks in suburban Trenton.

One witness said the train was going 50 miles an hour. The weather was murky, a snow-flaked drizzle falling.

New York Central executives said the wreck was caused by a broken rail.

Beer, Other Products On Way Out Of Cans

WASHINGTON, March 15 (AP)—Officials disclosed today that beer, pet foods and other "less essential" products are on their way out of tin cans.

Under present government orders, the amount of such products that may be packed in tin cans is limited to 90 per cent of last year's level.

Today the National Production Authority announced that the use of tin containers for beer, pet foods and other "less essential" products will be curtailed additionally by an undisclosed amount in the second quarter of this year.

Hiss To Begin Serving Sentence Next Week

NEW YORK, March 15 (AP)—U. S. District Attorney Irving H. Saypol said today he will ask Alger Hiss to begin serving his five-year prison sentence for perjury next Thursday.

Hiss, former high-ranking policy official in the State Department, was convicted of lying when he said he never gave government secrets to Whittaker Chambers, an acknowledged former Communist spy courier.

The Supreme Court refused last Monday to review his conviction.

65 More Under-Age GIs Back From Korea

SEATTLE, March 15 (AP) — Sixty-five beardless boys who learned manhood on the battlefields of Korea were among the returning soldiers aboard the transport Gen. H. B. Freeman which tied up here today. They will go back to civilian life — too young for the Army.

All were enlistees who falsified their ages to get into service. Most are still 17 or younger.

But to them there is a clear understanding why the United States is fighting in Korea.

Sgt. James H. Cox, Winston Salem, N. C., who has spent 27 months in uniform, drawled:

"I'll tell you why — we're fighting to keep Communism out of here." Then he swung an arm that took in all of America. His first goal is to hunt up an Army officer who will tell him to re-enlist.

Butler Campaign Treasurer Says Tabloid "Stupid"

WASHINGTON, March 15 (AP)—The campaign treasurer of Sen. Butler (R-Md) today denounced as "stupid" the tabloid "From the Record" used by Butler supporters in the 1950 campaign against former Democratic Sen. Millard Tydings.

Cornelius P. Mundy, Baltimore attorney who served as Butler's campaign treasurer, also told a Senate subcommittee investigating the campaign in which Butler defeated the veteran Democrat that:

1—Thousands of dollars of contributions to the Butler campaign, in evidence in committee records, had not passed through his hands as required by Maryland law despite his warnings that those in Butler headquarters read the state Corrupt Practices Act.

2—Early campaign strategy was discussed by him and Butler in the office of Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) with McCarthy and Robert Morris. The latter was Republican attorney for the Tydings subcommittee which investigated McCarthy's charges of Communist infiltration in the State Department.

3—All told, more than $90,000 was spent in Butler's behalf.

Vandenberg Unchanged

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., March 15 (AP)—The serious condition of ailing Sen. Vanderberg (R-Mich) remained unchanged today.

Peace Crusaders Run Into Trouble

WASHINGTON, March 15 (AP)—So-called "peace crusaders" tramped the streets of the capital today, finding little but trouble.

One delegation was ejected from the office of Rep. Moranc (D-Conn.) after he refused to talk with them and they refused to leave. Morano called them a Communist front organization.

Another group was advised to try their persuasive powers on the Soviet Embassy if they really wanted peace.

A third group, penetrated to a conference room at the State Department, was told by Francis H. Russell, director of public affairs, that they were playing Moscow's game.

Several hundred demonstrators marched past the White House, where extra police were stationed, but there was no disorder. They also filed without incident past Blair House, President Truman's temporary Washington residence.

Graham Probe Urged

WASHINGTON, March -5 (AP)—Rep. Keating (R-NY) urged today a full Senate committee hearing on the proposed promotion of President Truman's personal physician, Brig. Gen. Wallace H. Graham.

Graham was nominated yesterday by Mr. Truman for the rank of major general.

A third group, penetrated to a conference room at the State Department, was told by Francis H. Russell, director of public affairs, that they were playing Moscow's game.

Several hundred demonstrators marched past the White House, where extra police were stationed, but there was no disorder. They also filed without incident past Blair House, President Truman's temporary Washington residence.

Graham Probe Urged

WASHINGTON, March -5 (AP)—Rep. Keating (R-NY) urged today a full Senate committee hearing on the proposed promotion of President Truman's personal physician, Brig. Gen. Wallace H. Graham.

Graham was nominated yesterday by Mr. Truman for the rank of major general.

Eight leading men tell what they think are the special winning ways that every wife should have!

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

MANY a woman turns off her charming approach toward the outside world soon after the ring is slipped over her third finger. Does she consciously or unconsciously think that now she's got her one-and-only, she has no further need for charm and the popularity it evokes?

Far wiser is the wife who wants her husband's friends to think her charming and to enjoy being in her home. If she is a business woman as well as a wife, she can profit by adding to her abilities that of making her male associates accept her as a friendly colleague.

How To Be Admired

Any woman who is inclined to disagree with such ideas need only refresh her understanding of the definition of admiration. High regard, esteem, and honor are important implications of the world.

There is never an age, a situation, nor a state where charm is not an asset. A wife's charm even affects her husband's business. How frequently I hear tell-tale remarks such as. "Have to go to the Joneses tonight. He's a nice chap, but she's . . . " and a shoulder-shrug ends the comment.

Whether at home or at work, the praiseworthy qualities in a wife possess the same characteristics. Here are what some men in various fields have to say of them:

From a leading business man: "A spruce, trim appearance counts for a large percentage of a wife's success at home or in the office."

From a portrait painter: "The inner worth of the personality is what counts. It's always revealed in a natural-looking, expressive face."

Said a novelist: "I enjoy the kind of woman who can express her thoughts."

Something To Consider

A handsome professor stated: "It is a great pleasure to be in the company of a charming woman who thinks—informed thoughts, that is."

"My deepest admiration goes to the woman who practices generosity towards others," was the comment of a doctor.

"Tact and courtesy are two of the most charming qualities a woman can have," affirmed a store executive.

An army officer chose "humor and gayety" as the most winning qualities.

The one bachelor in the group summarized: "My idea of the perfect wife is one who has eyes only for her husband but ears for everyone."

Ex-President Said No

Hoover Says Dewey Offered Him U. S. Senate Post In 1949

NEW YORK (AP)—Herbert Hoover rejected an opportunity to return to public life in 1949 as U. S. Senator from New York.

The former President makes this disclosure in the last installment of his personal memoirs appearing in Collier's magazine.

By 1949, Mr. Hoover had moved his voting residence from California to New York.

In that year, he says, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey "did me the courtesy of offering me the appointment of United States senator to succeed to the unexpired term of Sen. Robert F. Wagner," who retired because of illness.

"I felt it necessary to refuse," the 76-year-old, former chief executive says. "It was in my view desirable to confer the honor on a younger man. Moreover, I felt my greatest remaining service would be to maintain my independence from political harness."

Gov. Dewey then appointed John Foster Dulles to the Senate.

Mr. Hoover also reveals that in his travels around the country after leaving the White House in 1933 he met many small business people who complained of injustices in the New Deal's National Recovery Act.

The ex-President advised all of them, he says, to defy the NRA on the grounds that it violated the Bill of Rights.

"As literally hundreds of appeals from such injustices came to me," Mr. Hoover writes, "I established a system of volunteer lawyers—old friends—who would advise. In no case did the authorities persevere against such a threat of exposure."

The NRA later was declared unconstitutional by the courts.

Although it contains some political references, most of the last chapter of Mr. Hoover's personal story is devoted to humorous and poignant incidents which befell him as ex-president.

He recalls that in 1938 he made a sentimental journey to a house in London which he and Mrs. Hoover had occupied many years before. All he wanted to do was look over the home once again. By then it had new occupants. And being unrecognized by the servants, the former president of the United States was turned away at the door.

Mr. Hoover recalls that in receiving an honorary degree from the University of Finland in Helsinki he also was presented with a sword—"The Sword of Truth."

"I had been through many honorary degrees and thought I could manage my part successfully," he says, "but the sword was a new feature. As I continued to hold it in my hand, the rector, a former Harvard professor, said (sotto voice):

"'Please put it on.'

"'Can't you (sotto voice) fasten it on your suspenders? I must have your two hands to take the oath.'"

Mr. Hoover "moored" the sword under his suspenders as best he could. Then it began to slip. With each word, it slipped further. Finally, just as he finished the oath, the sword clattered down the steps of the platform. The ex-President retrieved it.

"For once in my life I had a thought before an extemporaneous speech instead of afterward," he says. "I recounted that I had been raised in a religious faith of such strictness that as a boy I was not allowed my one great wish, which was to have a wooden sword; that I had served for a short time with the American army in battle and was not given a sword then; that I had been commander in chief of all the armies and navies of the United States and again was not allowed to have a sword; and that having come all the way to Finland to get my lifelong heart's desire I did not propose to lose it.

"For the balance of that speech I held the sword fast in my fist."

In another vein, Mr. Hoover recalls the death of his wife in 1944.

"I had lived with the loyalty and tender affection of an indomitable soul almost 50 years," he writes.

"... She left the sweetest compliment ever given to men when, in her simple letter of a will addressed to her sons, she wrote:

"'You have been lucky boys to have had such a father and I am a lucky woman to have had my life's trail alongside the paths of three such men and boys.'"

made free there. He managed the State Department when the fateful China policy was formed—a policy which has cost us 60,000 casualties already.

What did Welles do to eliminate Communists from the State Department when he was its effective boss? What did he do to drive out the homosexuals? What will this organization have to say about his management of the State Department when the McCarran committee's investigations into the I. P. R., about which I have been writing, begin to attract public attention?

I for one am not joining up with this business.

China Reds Gripe Because Russia Not Supplying Them With Planes

By FRED HAMPSON

HONG KONG—(AP)—Chinese Red soldiers are griping because Russia isn't supplying them with air power. And they're wondering how they can lose so many men and still win in Korea.

That the story brought to his British crown colony by a longtime resident of China, a man who understands all the Chinese dialects.

The source must remain anonymous because reprisals might result. But he said he heard a group of Chinese soldiers talking outside his bedroom window in a West China city.

The soldiers, some 50 of them, had stopped to rest during a march on a chill morning last month. The refugee said this is what he overheard:

"We have chased the Americans back in Korea," said one.

"I think we are better than the Americans," commented another, "but I don't understand why we don't drive them out of Korea."

A third observed: "I think we are losing too many men. The Americans have too much equipment."

"The Americans have too much air power," said the first soldier. "We don't seem to have any. We always have to fight without air power."

"The Russians were supposed to give us air power but we don't have it," complained the second voice. "I don't understand that. I don't understand it at all. Russia has plenty of air power."

"Russia has more air power than America," agreed the first.

"Then why don't we get some?" the second soldier demanded. "We lose too many men when we don't have air power."

"We can't drive the Americans out of Korea if we continue losing so many men," said the third man.

Mr. Hoover also reveals that in his travels around the country after leaving the White House in 1933 he met many small business people who complained of injustices in the New Deal's National Recovery Act.

The ex-President advised all of them, he says, to defy the NRA on the grounds that it violated the Bill of Rights.

"As literally hundreds of appeals from such injustices came to me," Mr. Hoover writes, "I established a system of volunteer lawyers—old friends—who would advise. In no case did the authorities persevere against such a threat of exposure."

The NRA later was declared unconstitutional by the courts.

Although it contains some political references, most of the last chapter of Mr. Hoover's personal story is devoted to humorous and poignant incidents which befell him as ex-president.

He recalls that in 1938 he made a sentimental journey to a house in London which he and Mrs. Hoover had occupied many years before. All he wanted to do was look over the home once again. By then it had new occupants. And being unrecognized by the servants, the former president of the United States was turned away at the door.

Mr. Hoover recalls that in receiving an honorary degree from the University of Finland in Helsinki he also was presented with a sword—"The Sword of Truth."

"I had been through many honorary degrees and thought I could manage my part successfully," he says, "but the sword was a new feature. As I continued to hold it in my hand, the rector, a former Harvard professor, said (sotto voice):

"'Please put it on.'

"'Can't you (sotto voice) fasten it on your suspenders? I must have your two hands to take the oath.'"

Mr. Hoover "moored" the sword under his suspenders as best he could. Then it began to slip. With each word, it slipped further. Finally, just as he finished the oath, the sword clattered down the steps of the platform. The ex-President retrieved it.

"For once in my life I had a thought before an extemporaneous speech instead of afterward," he says. "I recounted that I had been raised in a religious faith of such strictness that as a boy I was not allowed my one great wish, which was to have a wooden sword; that I had served for a short time with the American army in battle and was not given a sword then; that I had been commander in chief of all the armies and navies of the United States and again was not allowed to have a sword; and that having come all the way to Finland to get my lifelong heart's desire I did not propose to lose it.

"For the balance of that speech I held the sword fast in my fist."

In another vein, Mr. Hoover recalls the death of his wife in 1944.

"I had lived with the loyalty and tender affection of an indomitable soul almost 50 years," he writes.

". . . She left the sweetest compliment ever given to men when, in her simple letter of a will addressed to her sons, she wrote:

"'You have been lucky boys to have had such a father and I am a lucky woman to have had my life's trail alongside the paths of three such men and boys.'"

made free there. He managed the State Department when the fateful China policy was formed —a policy which has cost us 60,000 casualties already.

What did Welles do to eliminate Communists from the State Department when he was its effective boss? What did he do to drive out the homosexuals? What will this organization have to say about his management of the State Department when the McCarran committee's investigations into the I. P. R., about which I have been writing, begin to attract public attention?

I for one am not joining up with this business.

China Reds Gripe Because Russia Not Supplying Them With Planes

By FRED HAMPSON

HONG KONG—(AP)—Chinese Red soldiers are griping because Russia isn't supplying them with air power. And they're wondering how they can lose so many men and still win in Korea.

That the story brought to his British crown colony by a longtime resident of China, a man who understands all the Chinese dialects.

The source must remain anonymous because reprisals might result. But he said he heard a group of Chinese soldiers talking outside his bedroom window in a West China city.

The soldiers, some 50 of them, had stopped to rest during a march on a chill morning last month. The refugee said this is what he overheard:

"We have chased the Americans back in Korea," said one.

"I think we are better than the Americans," commented another, "but I don't understand why we don't drive them out of Korea."

A third observed: "I think we are losing too many men. The Americans have too much equipment."

"The Americans have too much air power," said the first soldier. "We don't seem to have any. We always have to fight without air power."

"The Russians were supposed to give us air power but we don't have it," complained the second voice. "I don't understand that. I don't understand it at all. Russia has plenty of air power."

"Russia has more air power than America," agreed the first.

"Then why don't we get some?" the second soldier demanded. "We lose too many men when we don't have air power."

"We can't drive the Americans out of Korea if we continue losing so many men," said the third man.

Phone 'Program' Fad Is Sweeping West Germany

By DON DOANE

FRANKFURT, Germany — (AP) — When a housewife in Stuttgart, Germany, runs out of ideas on what to cook, she simply dials 995 on her telephone.

She is given a complete, well-balanced menu for lunch or dinner, and advice on how to cook it.

This is the latest development in a fad of automatic telephone "programs" which is sweeping Western Germany.

It'se done with tape on wire recorders, which play constantly, over and over, any bit of information or entertainment you want to put on them.

Telephone subscribers can dial a given number, listen as long as they like, then hang up.

In Frankfurt, if your watch has stopped, just dial 019. You are answered by a voice repeating the exact time every few seconds.

Dial Frankfurt 09 on Sunday evening and another voice gives you the results of the day's soccer football matches and the winning pool selections.

Dial 018 in Frankfurt, and on request you can obtain the weather forecast or the latest stock market quotations.

In Berlin, a twist of the dial brings the latest news, compiled by the official U.S. radio station, RIAS.

This is especially handy for Germans living in the Communist sectors of Berlin who don't want to be caught listening to American news broadcasts.

They used to have a three digit number for these telephone newscasts. But the Communist officials in East Berlin contrived to jam it on the dial system.

So it was changed to 24000. Since then, this five digit number has offered news at any time of day or night, undisturbed by jamming.

Other big cities in Germany have installed similar automatic phone programs.

Sometimes, the cost is borne by the government-owned telephone company—which charges all subscribers according to the number of calls made, and thus collects increased revenue from the additional calls these programs attract.

Some programs are also sponsored by commercial firms. In Stuttgart, for example, along with your model menu you are encurage to buy food and liquor from a prominent chain store.

truth lies somewhere in between. Probably, therefore, there will be some warning, but not very much, if the Kremlin decides to take the staggering gamble of an appeal to naked force.

A Poised Threat

Second, and far more consoling, there is the really vital fact that the Kremlin obviously has other reasons just as good as a contemplated offensive for getting its European armies ready to go. The spring maneuver grounds are now being prepared near the zonal border. Reports are circulating that the usually modest spring maneuvers are to be very grandiose this year. The result will be a poised threat to any forthcoming Council of Foreign Ministers.

Equally, there will be maneuvers on a much larger scale beginning in August, again held close to the border. And these may influence the Western response to a planned aggregation against Yugoslavia or other piece of international bullying or flank attack. Here in Berlin, the betting is heavy that these are the real purposes of the outwardly deeply alarming process that has been going on in the Soviet zone.

Another way to sum up the situation is to say that the Kremlin, as usual, is behaving like the great race horse owners who always prefer to have several runners ready for the classic races. The horse of an attack on Western Europe is now, beyond much doubt. ready-groomed in the Kremlin stable. But again like the race horse owners, the Kremlin customarily decides which horse will be run to win by guessing the plans and estimating the strength of the probable opposition. And thus it is still reasonable to hope and expect that this ready prepared Soviet aggregation will not be launched after all, provided—always provided—that America and the Western allies are energetic, determined and courageous.

All-Night Adoration Planned By Church

All-night adoration for Holy Thursday is being planned by SS. Peter and Paul Catholic Church.

Rev. Louis Glantz, pastor, said the adoration will be held from 9 p. m. March 22 to 8 a. m. the following day, Good Friday, if a guarantee is received that enough people will attend.

Father Lewis reported that blanks have been distributed among parishoners, asking them to note the hour they will be present. A decision, he added, on the all-night adoration will be made Sunday.

A well-made Swiss watch, it is claimed, may run for 25 years without replacement of a single part.

Ex-Immigrant's Big Idea Plays Million-Dollar Tune

By Central Press

ESSEX FALLS, N. J., — For a fellow who came to this country 25 years ago with $25 in his pocket and a love for the harmonica, Finn H. Magnue of Essex Falls is doing just fine. These days, his harmonicas are blowing to the tune of millions of dollars a year. That's the gross from the new American harmonica industry which Magnus founded with the invention of the all-plastic harmonica in 1943.

Around New Jersey, this blond husky man, who traces his ancestry back to the Vikings, is known affectionately as the "King of the Harmonica." He might be described with equal accuracy as the Henry Ford of the plastic musical instrument business. How he got that way is a rags-to-riches story that he never tires of saying "could only happen here."

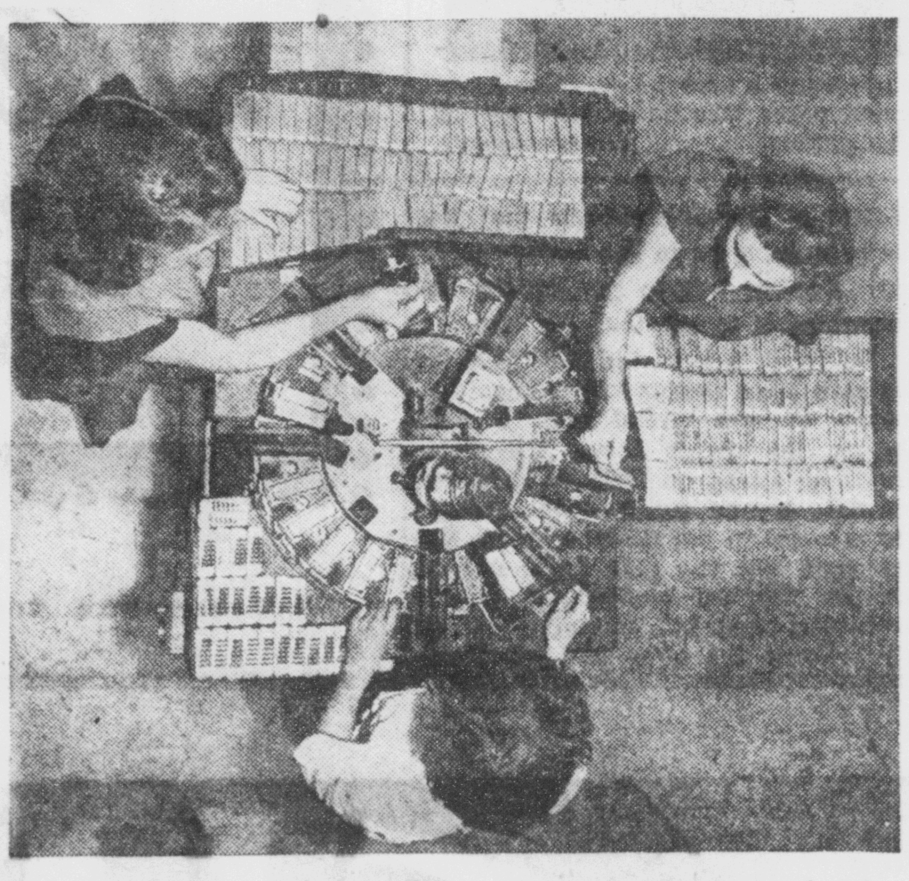
When the 17-year-old Norwegian clerk arrived in New York City in 1925, he was sure that there were great opportunities in this country for anyone who was willing to "give more than he got." Magnus was champing at the bit to prove his philosophy at a job. He rented a room, then sallied forth next morning to look for work. Bewildered by the maze of city streets, he got lost and never did find his room again, or recover the babbage he left there. But he did find a job.

He went to work promptly as a stevedore. Then, in turn, he was a dishwasher, elevator operator and factory stock clerk. All this time he was studying at night. Then he got a job with a button factory. In nine years he rose from night machine operator to superintendent and general manager.

One day in 1941, Magnus went shopping for a harmonica—the old metal kind. But in store after store, there were no harmonicas to be had. Bored salesmen explained that the war had cutt off this nation from German and Japanese manufacturers, and that was that.

"Aren't there any American makes?" Magnus asked. "Don't be silly," was the reply. "Don't you know there are 80 metal parts to each harmonica? You need 180 separate operations to put them together. It takes days. Who's got time for that?"

Finn Magnus—had big idea.



Plastic harmonica assembly line—6,000 an hour are turned out.

"How about mass production?" Magnus inquired. "Can't be done," snapped the salesman. "You need special skills to put them together. Harmonica reeds have got to be tuned by hand." And as Magnus walked out of the store, he heard the salesman scoff, "Who ever heard of American harmonicas?."

However, Magnus wouldn't admit for a moment that his adopted country couldn't do anything—and do it better — than Germany or Japan. So he gambled all his money, his time, his health and his future on his deep-rooted patriotism. He'd show the world that America could mass-produce harmonicas—and do it from plastics. Plastics experts said it was impossible.

"But I was too dumb to know it was impossible," Magnus says. "I just went ahead and did it."

So a new American industry was born. Today, with machines turning out 6,000 harmonicas each hour, his plant at Newark, N. J., is the hub of the world's harmonica industry.

Magnus' fertile brain didn't stop with this invention. Soon plastic chromatic harmonicas, accordions, concertinas and a remarkable new instrument called the keymonica (a cross of the clarinet, harmonica and button accordion) began to stream from his plant.

He thought he'd topped them all last year with the world's first portable electric organ, an instrument no bigger than a table radio which gives the rich sustained tones of an organ.

This year, Magnus has come up with an instrument that many regard as his greatest achievement—the first miniature bagpipe ever made. It's one-quarter the size of a scotch bagpipe, weighs only nine ounces, has a very mellow sound, and can be mastered in a few minutes.

Two ships of the fleet of Roman Emperor Caligula were found after lying for 1,800 years on the floor of a volcanic lake near Rome.

Hot-Rod Drivers Give Adventure Writer An Aim

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK—Howard Pease has been writing adventure books for teen-age boys for 24 years. A combination of hot-rod driving and marijuana smoking in his neighborhood now has turned him into a man with a message.

Pease has written a book called "The Dark Adventure"—all about wild boys in souped-up cars careening over the highways, sometimes under the influence of reefers. This time there's no happy ending, no young hero returning home safely from his adventures. Pease's hero windsup in police court.

"Every single word of the book is true," says Pease, "because I've taken all the incidents from newspapers, police blotters—and from the lips of my son and his friends. I worked the stories into my plot."

Book Created Controversy

Immediate reaction to the book has been a mixture of brickbats and bouquets. Some teachers and librarians have refused to put the book on shelves because of the sensational subject matter. Others have hailed the book as a dramatization and warning to headstrong youngsters who think their activities are thrilling and fun.

"All of the incidents used in the book actually occurred right in my home town (Palo Alto)," Pease said in an interview in New York.

Pease started to write books when he was a country librarian and found that young boys rarely were interested in reading outside of school. His first book was an adventure story. Today, 18 of the 19 books he has written are still in print—many of them read by sons of his original readers.

He Points Out Dangers

"What I'm trying to do in this book is reach the children and tell them they are flirting with their lives," he said. "I'm trying to show them that parents who are strict and insist on controlling their children are really better parents than the ones who let their children do whatever they want to."

Pease thinks an exciting adventure story, in which crime doesn't pay in the end, is the best way to reach a young audience.

"You can't get them by preaching," he says.

Tuberculosis leads all other diseases as a cause of death among young adults from 15 to 34 years of age.

Folks Must Feel Good To Do Job

To do a good day's work you must feel your best. James Keelan, Jr., 5565 Labadie Ave., St. Louis, Mo., is a machine operator. This is hard and exacting work and a man has to be on his toes to get the job done. There was a time when Mr. Keelan did not feel up to his work — was troubled with digestive disturbances. But Mr. Keelan heard about how HADACOL was helping folks suffering from deficiencies of Vitamins B1, B2, Niacin and Iron.

James Keelan, Jr.

Mr. Keelan says:

"In recent years, I had been troubled with heartburn and indigestion. But since taking HADACOL, I no longer suffer heartburn. Now, I can eat anything without ever suffering after-meal distress. I have recommended HADACOL to a number of my fellow workers."

HADACOL can help you if you suffer such deficiencies. Ask your druggist for HADACOL today.

Ex-Immigrant's Big Idea Plays Million-Dollar Tune

By Central Press

ESSEX FALLS, N. J., — For a fellow who came to this country 25 years ago with $25 in his pocket and a love for the harmonica, Finn H. Magnue of Essex Falls is doing just fine. These days, his harmonicas are blowing to the tune of millions of dollars a year. That's the gross from the new American harmonica industry which Magnus founded with the invention of the all-plastic harmonica in 1943.

Around New Jersey, this blond husky man, who traces his ancestry back to the Vikings, is known affectionately as the "King of the Harmonica." He might be described with equal accuracy as the Henry Ford of the plastic musical instrument business. How he got that way is a rags-to-riches story that he never tires of saying "could only happen here."

When the 17-year-old Norwegian clerk arrived in New York City in 1925, he was sure that there were great opportunities in this country for anyone who was willing to "give more than he got." Magnus was champing at the bit to prove his philosophy at a job. He rented a room, then sallied forth next morning to look for work. Bewildered by the maze of city streets, he got lost and never did find his room again, or recover the babbage he left there. But he did find a job.

He went to work promptly as a stevedore. Then, in turn, he was a dishwasher, elevator operator and factory stock clerk. All this time he was studying at night. Then he got a job with a button factory. In nine years he rose from night machine operator to superintendent and general manager.

One day in 1941, Magnus went shopping for a harmonica—the old metal kind. But in store after store, there were no harmonicas to be had. Bored salesmen explained that the war had cutt off this nation from German and Japanese manufacturers, and that was that.

"Aren't there any American makes?" Magnus asked. "Don't be silly," was the reply. "Don't you know there are 80 metal parts to each harmonica? You need 180 separate operations to put them together. It takes days. Who's got time for that?"

Finn Magnus—had big idea.

Plastic harmonica assembly line—6,000 an hour are turned out.

"How about mass production?" Magnus inquired. "Can't be done," snapped the salesman. "You need special skills to put them together. Harmonica reeds have got to be tuned by hand." And as Magnus walked out of the store, he heard the salesman scoff, "Who ever heard of American harmonicas?."

However, Magnus wouldn't admit for a moment that his adopted country couldn't do anything—and do it better — than Germany or Japan. So he gambled all his money, his time, his health and his future on his deep-rooted patriotism. He'd show the world that America could mass-produce harmonicas—and do it from plastics. Plastics experts said it was impossible.

"But I was too dumb to know it was impossible," Magnus says. "I just went ahead and did it."

So a new American industry was born. Today, with machines turning out 6,000 harmonicas each hour, his plant at Newark, N. J., is the hub of the world's harmonica industry.

Magnus' fertile brain didn't stop with this invention. Soon plastic chromatic harmonicas, accordions, concertinas and a remarkable new instrument called the keymonica (a cross of the clarinet, harmonica and button accordion) began to stream from his plant.

He thought he'd topped them all last year with the world's first portable electric organ, an instrument no bigger than a table radio which gives the rich sustained tones of an organ.

This year, Magnus has come up with an instrument that many regard as his greatest achievement—the first miniature bagpipe ever made. It's one-quarter the size of a scotch bagpipe, weighs only nine ounces, has a very mellow sound, and can be mastered in a few minutes.

Hot-Rod Drivers Give Adventure Writer An Aim

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK—Howard Pease has been writing adventure books for teen-age boys for 24 years. A combination of hot-rod driving and marijuana smoking in his neighborhood now has turned him into a man with a message.

Pease has written a book called "The Dark Adventure"—all about wild boys in souped-up cars careening over the highways, sometimes under the influence of reefers. This time there's no happy ending, no young hero returning home safely from his adventures. Pease's hero windsup in police court.

"Every single word of the book is true," says Pease, "because I've taken all the incidents from newspapers, police blotters—and from the lips of my son and his friends. I worked the stories into my plot."

Book Created Controversy

Immediate reaction to the book has been a mixture of brickbats and bouquets. Some teachers and librarians have refused to put the book on shelves because of the sensational subject matter. Others have hailed the book as a dramatization and warning to headstrong youngsters who think their activities are thrilling and fun.

"All of the incidents used in the book actually occurred right in my home town (Palo Alto)," Pease said in an interview in New York.

Pease started to write books when he was a country librarian and found that young boys rarely were interested in reading outside of school. His first book was an adventure story. Today, 18 of the 19 books he has written are still in print—many of them read by sons of his original readers.

He Points Out Dangers

"What I'm trying to do in this book is reach the children and tell them they are flirting with their lives," he said. "I'm trying to show them that parents who are strict and insist on controlling their children are really better parents than the ones who let their children do whatever they want to."

Pease thinks an exciting adventure story, in which crime doesn't pay in the end, is the best way to reach a young audience.

"You can't get them by preaching," he says.

Tuberculosis leads all other diseases as a cause of death among young adults from 15 to 34 years of age.

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK (INS)

FRANK COSTELLO became one of the first persons of the electronic age to turn down a television offer, when he took the stand the other day against the Senate Crime Investigation Committee.

This was no whim. We ran into him a few nights before that and his mind already was made up. "I'm not going to make a spectacle of myself in front of a couple million people I don't know," he said. "Why do those fellows want to make a show of things like this?" He had the tone and indignation of a man who had been asked to disrobe in Times Square.

His astute lawyer, George Wolf, who presented Costello's regrets to the committee, so far as television is concerned, had other reasons for not wanting the proceedings scanned by the beady red eye of the menacingly silent cameras.

He knew there would be a number of occasions during the questioning when he and his client would have to say, "Ooop, just a moment," and put their heads together in a huddle before Costello answered. Wolf felt, with justification, that this maneuver (though a standard practice in congressional hearings) might weigh heavily against his man in the TV viewers' minds.

Wolf wanted the radio end of the show cut off, too, but this apparently was too much to ask of the committee, so for the rest of Costello's time on the stand Wolf had to hold his hand over a table mike whenever he wanted to confer privately with Costello.

The committee reached a spooky compromise so far as televising its hearings were concerned when Costello was on the stand. It ruled that the cameras could scan each tense face in the court room except the rugged face of the star witness.

Rudolph Halley, the committee counsel, would ask a most pertinent question, made strangely more compelling because of his lisp. The eager eye of TV would then rush past the flinty yet irresistibly jovial face of New Hampshire's Sen. Tobey, the essentially kind and concerned face of Maryland's Sen. O'Conor, and the fresh professorial countenance of Tennessee's Sen. Kefauver, and come to rest on Wolf—not Costello, to whom the question was directed.

But the answering voice, heavily laced with laryngitis and either shrewdly wary or completely bewildered, would be the voice of Costello. Occasionally the men who manipulated the cameras would break the rule to the extent of showing Costello's neatly manicured hands—kneading each other.

In the press rows of the cramped and uncomfortable room there was the traditional sympathy for the witness. Don't ask me why but this is almost always true, and it does not really matter much who is the witness. Maybe the answer is that newspaper blokes are essentially guided by their hearts, or betrayed by same, and can manage to hate the accused only if he or she is some violently ostentatious monster, which Costello is not.

At one point during his first day on the stand Costello was asked a question by Halley which he either did not understand or chose not to understand. It was a polysyllabic one at that, and he told his prober, Halley, that he could not fathom it. Halley, he said, must have had the benefit of a college education—to which Halley promptly agreed. Costello then said ruefully that he had no such advantage, and a murmur of sympathy and approval swept the press bench.

The witness said he was helpless to explain why Roosevelt Raceway would pay him $60,000 to delouse it of bookies. The senators, who do not make that kind of money, expressed skepticism that it was an honest return for the services rendered, and the man tried to explain that most people would take the $60,000—if the person giving the money forced it on them and lauded them for doing a good job.

"You would too," he suggested to Halley. But the young prosecutor arched his back and cried, "I would not!" And not during his entire stay on the stand was Costello more genuinely thunderstruck.

Polka Dots Decorate Two Tone Pie

The smart polka dot trimming for the Chocolate Polka Dot Pie, illustrated, is achieved easily by using morsels of semi-sweet chocolate. Just invert the little peaked morsels and you have polka dots. Semi-sweet chocolate is sold in morsels, all ready for intriguing effects like polka dot trimmings.

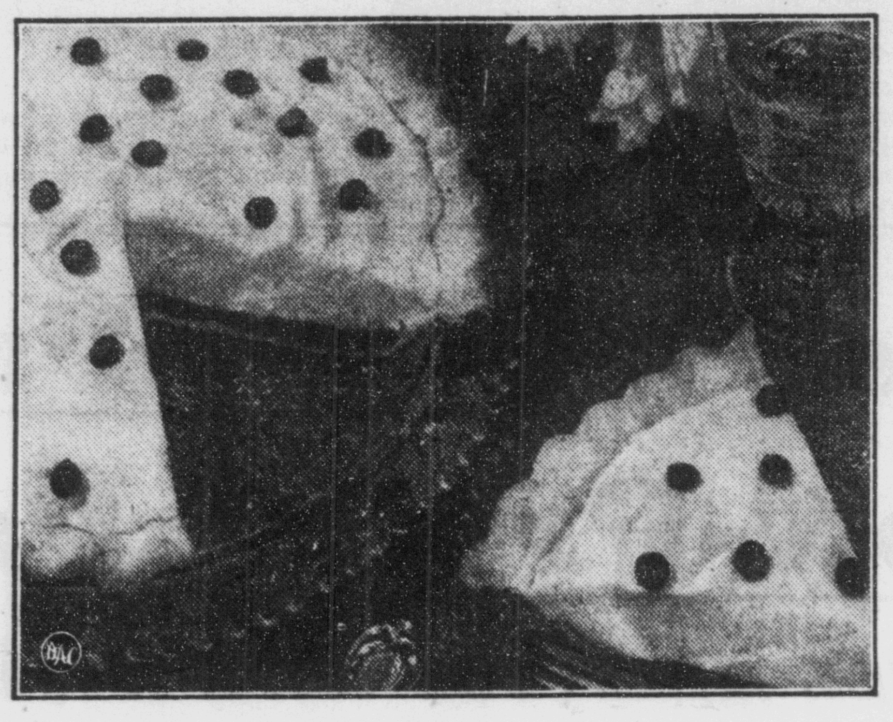
The chocolate portion of the two filling is also made witth semi-sweet chocolate, and one package of morsels takes care of both the chocolate layer and the polka dots. The lighter layer of the pie is delicious custard gelatine whipped fulffy. A beautiful pie for parties and for family treats, you will treasure this tested recipe.

Chocolate Polka Dot Pie

1 envelope unflavored gelatine
¼ cup cold water
⅔ cup sugar
1 tablespoon cornstarch
4 eggs, separated
2 cugs milk, scalded
1 package semi-sweet chocolate
1 teaspoon vanilla flavoring
¼ teaspoon salt
1 10-inch pastry crust

Soften gelatine in cold water. Combine ⅓ cup of the sugar and cornstarch. Beat egg yolks slightly; slowly add scalded milk. Stir in sugar mixture. Cook in double boiler, stirring constanly, until mixture coats spoon. To 1 cup custard, add ¾ package semi-sweet chocolate morsels. Stir until chocolate is melted; set aside. To remaining custard add softened gelatine. Stir until gelatine is dissolved; add vanilla. Chill until the consistency of unbeaten egg white. Beat egg whites until stiff; gradually beat in salt and remaining ⅓ cup sugar. Fold into custard-gelatine mixture. Stir shell. Turn gelatine mixture over cholocate mixture; turn into pie chocolate layer and chill until firm. Scatter remaining morsels of chocolate upside down over pie to resemble polka dots. YIELD: 1 10-inch pie.

Pies Are Wearing Polka Dots Of Semi-Sweet Chocolate



POLKA DOTS are perennial favorites in the fashion field, but they are something new in pie circles. What the well dressed pie will wear to parties is illustrated. The delicious flavor and texture of the two tone chocolate and custard gelatine filling is something you will want to enjoy at your own table. The recipe will be found elsewhere on this page.

Some lotus seeds have developed after being buried in bogs away from oxygen for 100 years.

Baked Pear

Three large or 6 small pears; juice of ½ lemon. Cut the pears in halves, removing the cores. Ina baking dish, place the lemon juice and enough water to cover the bottom of the dish. Place the pear halves cut side down in the dish and bake covered at 375 degrees F. for 20 to 25 minutes, depending on the ripeness of the fruit. At the end of the baking time remove the cover, turn the pears and sprinkle each half with ground cloves and from 1 to 2 teaspoons of sugar. Return to the oven to glaze and complete baking 10 to 15 minutes. Serve hot or chilled, depending on their use. May be used as a breakfast fruit chilled, as a dessert chilled, or heated in the oven or broiled as a meat accompaniment. Allow 1 large half for 2 small halves per serving.

Blackstrap Fad Discredited On Flavor, Quality Merits

Molasses is currently in the food spotlight because of great interest in its iron content. Unfortunately, this interest has been aroused via blackstrap molasses, the lowest grade, which is generally sold for industrial uses. For those who know high quality molasses with its sweet, delicate aromatic flavor . . . and for those who are being introduced to molasses as a bitter medicine . . . an explanation of the blackstrap fad is timely.

Blackstrap Is Waste Product

Blackstrap molasses is the waste product of sugar making. Sugar cane juice has been boiled at least three times, each time to crystallize out more sugar. The residual molasses from which it is no longer profitable to remove more sugar is blackstrap. It is bitter because so much of the true sugars have been extracted. It is black in color and acrid in flavor because of the numerous boilings. Most of the blackstrap produced in this country is sold to manufacturers of industrial alcohol and livestock feeds.

It is true that blackstrap contains more iron than high quality unsulphured molasses per unit of weight, but it also contains gum, other impurities and indigestible matter remaining after the sugar crystals have been removed. It is not considered suitable for baking which leaves it perhaps for use on cereal or in milk, or for eating as is. But because of its objectionable flavor, it is unpalatable and makes other foods unpalatable.

Many people who are eating blackstrap today do not enjoy its taste but think the iron content worth the displeasure. Actually, they could get daily requirements of iron in a flavorful, enjoyable form by the use of unsulphured, sweet molasses known since colonial days.

Unsulphured Molasses Is Primary Food

Unsulphured molasses is a primary food product, not a waste product of sugar making. The first reason for its quality is that it comes from the juice of sun-ripened, fully matured sugar cane which has grown from 12 to 15 months in the hot sun of the southlands. The juice is clarified and concentrated. Then it is aged, blended and packaged. As the label on the jar indicates, this molasses contains no sulphur or other preservatives.

Unsulphured molasses is also an energy food. It contains about 73 percent natural sugars which the body needs for energy and heat producing elements. This molasses is a convenient and rich source of nature's iron. Only liver compares favorably with molasses as a source of iron, and unsulphured molasses is a less expensive source. It contributes valuable calcium and some of the B1 vitamin essential to good appetite and steady nerves. The minerals are in a form readily assimilated by the body.

The flavor and quality of unsulphured molasses have been known since earliest colonial days when sailing vessels brought it from the West Indies. Its processing has remained unchanged for over 200 years except that now more modern machinery insures uniformity and absolute cleanliness. By using this high quality molasses in such pleasant ways as in gingerbread, puddings, cookies, with vegetables, in milk shakes and as a table syrup, the nutrients of molasses are enjoyed in delectable form.

Save With Breakfast

Breakfast is a better buy than ever before. Typical lunches and dinners jumped 11 cents each, according to Chicago retail prices, January, 1951, as compared with 1950. The cost of a basic cereal breakfast increased only a penny. Today, a good cereal breakfast takes only 1/7 of your daily food budget while supplying ¼ to ⅓ of your day's food needs.

Cereal Sandwich

Spoon half your oatmeat into your cereal bowl, add a tablespoon of blackberry jam, top with another layer of cereal, then milk. Same thing is fine with farina.

Breakfast Prescribed

After a doctor had told a writer he was suffering from hidden hunger, the doctor prescribed a good breakfast. The writer noted in an article recently, that after following this advice, "a relaxed and cheerful mood set in, and my morning's work went along with no sign of the old weariness, no more barking at people. Breakfast has remained my most important meal."

Next time you have left over pastry cream together a quarter cup of brown sugar with a tablespoon of butter or margarine and spread on the pastry squares, then sprinkle with nuts, and bake in a hot oven.

Ginger Bread Harvey Joins Easter Parade

For an enchanting Easter party we suggest our demure Ginger Bread Bunny. We've christened him Harvey after our favorite rabbit, and you can serve him complete with coconut grass and marzipan carrots.

Even though we can't pin any roses on for artistic ability, we found it easy to serve this masterpiece. Just use a couple of packages of ginger bread mix and pour into one of the attractive bunny molds that are still available. Give Harvey some whiskers and paws with pink sugar frosting. Surround him with crepe paper Easter eggs, and you'll have a table centerpiece to bring ohs and ahs from children and grown-ups too!

Did You Know

It's easy to decorate cakes if you practice with one of those handy little decorating tubes. If you're an expert, a cornucopia made of waxed paper will work just as well.

Easter Bunny Cake

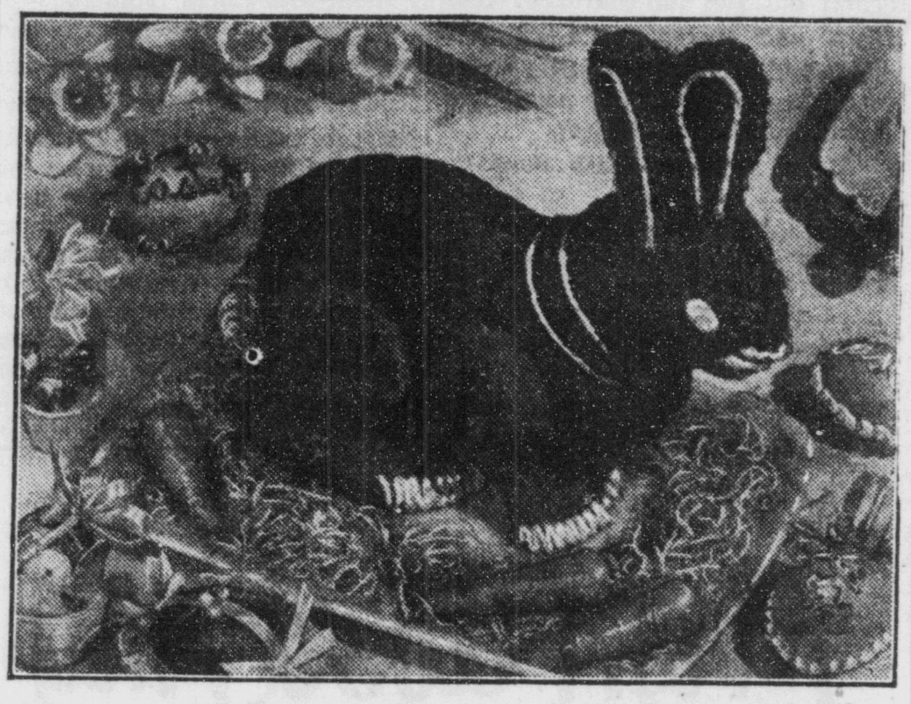
2 pkgs. ginger bread mix
1⅓ cups water
1 can (4 oz.) moist coconut
3 drops green vegetable coloring
3 marzipan carrots

Blend ginger bread mix with water until batter is smooth. Pour into mold which has been greased with unsalted shortening. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F) 50 minutes. Remove and cool slightly before removing from mold. When cake is cold, use pink frosting to decorate mouth, whiskers and paws. Blend coconut with green coloring and place on serving plate. Set bunny on top and arrange candy carrots around.

Pink Frosting

½ cup sifted confectioners' sugar
2 teaspoons milk (about)
3-4 drops pink vegetable coloring

Blend all ingredients and mix well.



WE CALL HIM HARVEY! This is our Easter Bunny, enchanting in his "garden" of green tinted coconut and marzipan carrots. Even a brand new bride can make him with Ginger Bread Mix and a bunny mold. Gay little crepe paper Easter eggs complete your table decorations.

Doughnuts Ring Bell

Time for Homemade Doughnuts.

Fresh, homemade doughnuts are welcome any time of the day. Serve them when a friend drops in for a visit, for party refreshments, between meals or as a special breakfast treat.

A good doughnut has a crisp, well-browned crust. It is tender and rich, but never greasy. Careful mixing of ingredients is essential to success. But even more important, doughnuts must be fried at the correct temperature. The best way to eliminate guesswork entirely is to use a deep fat frying thermometer. When it registers the temperature called for in the recipe, it's time to fry the doughnuts.

For doughnuts that are feather-light and fragrant, try this easy-to-make recipe.

Doughnuts

3 tablespoons shortening
¾ cup sugar
2 eggs, well beaten
¾ cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
3½ cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon salt
4 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon cinnamon

Cream shortening and sugar. Add eggs and beat until fluffy. Add milk and vanilla. Mix until smooth. Stir in flour, sifted with salt, baking powder and cinnamon. Chill dough to make it easier to handle. Place part of dough on lightly floured surface and roll out about ⅓ inch thick, handling as little as possible. Cut with floured doughnut cutter. Fry in deep fat heated to 365° F. Drop doughnuts into fat a few at a time. Fry until golden brown, turning once. Lift from fat with long, two-tined fork. Drain on absorbent paper. Just before serving, coat with granulated or confectioners' sugar, if desired. Makes about 2½ dozen doughnuts.

Tea Time Can Be Anytime

Tea time is any time—morning, noon or night—it's whenever you crave a moment of relaxation, alone or with friends. A cup of brisk tea gets to be a pleasant looked-forward-to habit in the daily routine that gives a quick pickup with never a letdown feeling afterwards.

Whether you drink tea at the kitchen table, in mid-morning, or in your living room at four in the afternoon with your next-door neighbor, or at nine at night while watching television, tea seems to give you at satisfying feeling of well being.

When tea is made properly, it tastes good no matter where you serve it or what sort of dishes you use; but sometimes it's fun to use pretty, as well as practical, tea accessories.

Brew your tea properly, for even the prettiest dishes cannot make a cup of tea taste good, if it is not made correctly. Here are simple directions given out by tea experts:

Use an earthenware, or china teapot. Pour boiling hot water into the pot and let it stand until pot is heated. Scalding or heating the pot this way is desirable to prevent the tea from getting cold while it is steeping.

Measure tea leaves into the hot empty pot, allowing 1 teaspoon of tea or 1 tea bag for each cup of water.

Pour the bubbling hot water over tea and allow to stand for 3 to 5 minutes.

Strain tea.

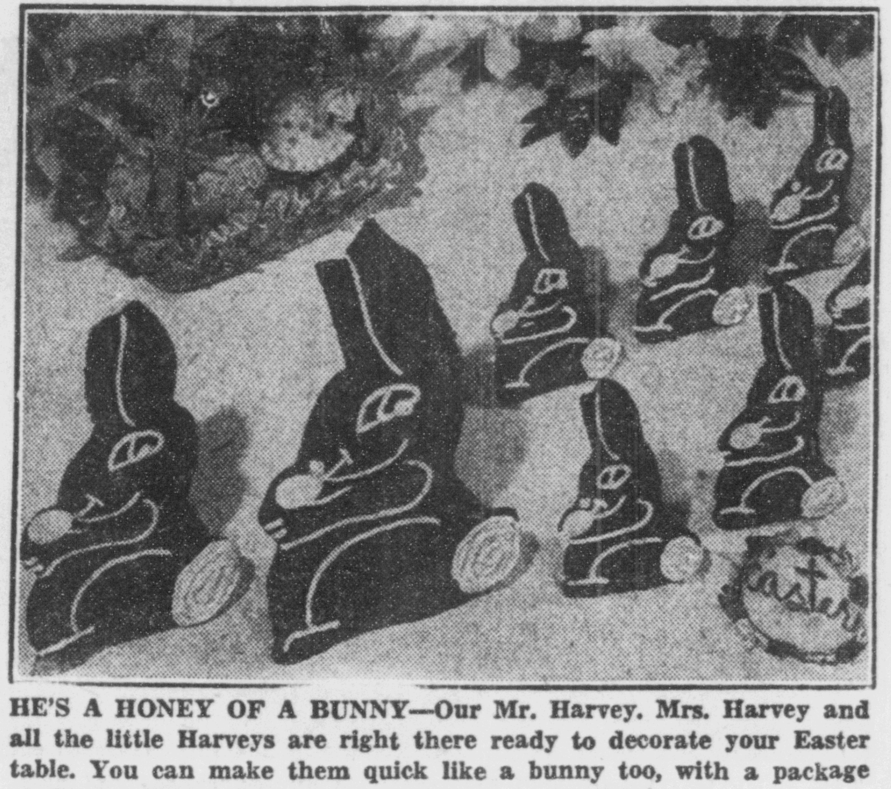
If a milder tea is desired, do not steep for a shorter time, but add a small quantity of hot water to the full-flavored cup of tea.

For a tasty bite to go along with a cup of piping hot tea, try these homemade English muffins.

Homemade Toasted English Muffins

½ cup milk
1 cup water
1 tablespoon salt
1 tablespoon sugar
1 pkg. dehydrated yeast
1 tablespoon water
3 tablespoons shortening
4 cups bread flour

Combine milk, water, salt and sugar in top of double boiler. Heat to lukewarm. Add yeast which has been dissolved in warm (not hot) water. Add 2 cups of flour and blend well until smooth. Return to top part of double boiler and let rise until double in bulk over warm (not hot) water. Add shortening (slightly softened) and remaining flour. Beat and knead thoroughly for fine texture. Let rise until double in bulk. Place dough on lightly floured board. Flatten with rolling pin to about ¾" thickness. Let stand until light. Cut with cutter 3½" in diameter. Bake 15 minutes on hot buttered griddle, turning several times during cooking. When cool, muffins should be split and toasted. Makes 12 muffins.



HE'S A HONEY OF A BUNNY—Our Mr. Harvey. Mrs. Harvey and all the little Harveys are right there ready to decorate your Easter table. You can make them quick like a bunny too, with a package of Ginger Bread Mix and a Easter cooky cut-out.

Mr. And Mrs. Harvey Come To Town

It's a honey of a bunny, our Easter cooky. This enchanting little family of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey and all the little Harveys come to town for a gay Easter party. You can make them up quickly like a bunny, too—with a handy package of ginger bread mix.

You don't even neede a special cooky cutter. All you do is tear off a cut-out sheet now available at your favorite grocer's. With full directions on the sheet, you paste the bunny cut-outs on cardboard, then place them on your cooky dough and cut around. You'll need a sharp knife, that's all. For outlining those fluffy tails and long ears, use a little frosting and a pastry tube or cornucopia made of waxed paper.

For a slightly different flavor in ginger bread, try a teaspoon or so of grated orange rind in the batter—it's really good!

Ginger Bread Bunnies

1 pkge. ginger bread mix
¼ cup water

Blend contents of package with water and mix to a smooth dough. Roll out ⅛ inch thick on lightly floured board. Place bunny cut-outs on dough and cut along edge with sharp knife. Mark lines on bunnies with back of knife. Place on greased cooky sheets and bake in moderate over (350°F.) 10-12 minutes. Cool. Pipe over markings on bunnies with frosting through a waxed paper cornucopia or a fine pastry tube.

Frosting

1 small egg white
½ cup (about) sifted confectioners' sugar

Beat egg white until frothy. Gradually beat in sugar until mixture is right consistency to go through the tube easily.

When you expect guests with children, why not put breakables away. Then you won't embarrass everybody if the children should touch and drop.

Plentiful Foods Listed For March

Brisk demand for eggs is to be expected during March, what with Lenten meals to make and Easter to celebrate before the windy month is over. Fortunately for cook and consumer alike, eggs will probably move to March food markets at a great clip. Supply, as a matter of fact, is expected to be so liberal that eggs are one of the featured foods on the March list of plentifuls for the Northeastern region, issued by the United States Department of Agriculture.

Calling attention to this abundance at egg counters, the department also reminds shoppers that storage stocks of apples continue at a very high level. Generous quantities will be offered during the weeks ahead, and apples rank with eggs as a featured item on the March list of plentifuls.

Other protein-rich foods, many of them well suited to meatless meals, are prominent on the March list. Peanut butter and cottage cheese will be in excellent supply. Fine for use as spreads or in general cooking, both are recommended for sandwiches, salads, and baked foods.

Frozen fish fillets, abundant and often reasonable priced, deserve special consideration for late-winter and early spring meals. In particularly heavy supply are such varieties as haddock, cod, flounder, sole and rosefish (ocean perch). Supplementing the fillet offerings are ample offerings of frozen halibut steaks. In addition, canned tuna, canned sardines, and canned mackeral are more plentiful than usual.

Broilers, fryers, and turkeys will be poultry counter features during March. On the vegetable-protein side, market men anticipate particularly large supplies of dry beans, especially pea beans, Great Northerns, red kidneys, pintos, and baby limas. Canned dry beans of most types will probably be plentiful, too, including canned baked beans and canned beans with or without pork.

Vitamin C for late-winter and early spring diets will be available in an abundance of processed oranges and grapefruit. Canned and frozen juices and canned segments are included. Lettuce, that ever-useful green, is expected in large supply during the weeks ahead.

Since lettuce is a perishable item, supplies and prices will tend to vary in consuming markets. Stocks of Irish potatoes are particularly high; spuds thus will be available in quantity.

Royal Pal Boxes With Dana Andrews

DANA ANDREWS* makes a pal out of his son Stephen . . . and boxing with Dad sure takes plenty of energy! Young Stephen gets extra food-energy from Royal Puddings.

For Snacktime: Apple Nut Bread

This quick loaf bread, well flavored with apples, cheese and nuts, is as easy to make as it is to eat. Serve it with butter or margarine for snacks, as breakfast sweet bread, or with luncheon salads.

If you work outside your home, and still like to give your family special home baked treats, depend upon quick breads to make meals extra good.

Loaf breads take no longer than a cake to mix, and they can be served for many occasions. Finger sandwiches made with loaf breads perk up a salad assortment and may also serve as simple dessert. Loaf bread sandwiches are good travelers in lunchboxes, too.

One of the most delicious of the loaf bread family, Apple Nut Bread, combines the flavors of freshly chopped apple, grated American cheese and chopped nuts. These foods also add their food values to those of enriched flour to make an important contribution to family health. All enriched breads rank high in essential B-vitamins and food iron. Apple Nut Bread is a delightful way to get your vitamins!

This sandwich bread is good the day that it is baked, though it slices better the following day. Jellies and jams, peanut butter and cream cheese are other good spreads for slices of this sandwich loaf.

APPLE NUT BREAD

- 2½ cups sifted enriched flour
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 1 teaspoon soda
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ½ cup shortening
- ¾ cup sugar
- 2 eggs
- 1¼ cups chopped unpeeled apples
- ½ cup grated cheese
- ¼ cup chopped nuts

Sift together flour, baking powder, soda and salt. Cream together shortening and sugar until light and fluffy. Add eggs and mix well. Add flour mixture to creamed mixture alternately with apples. Mix well. Add cheese and nuts. Blend well. Bake in greased loaf pan in moderate oven (350°F.) 70 minutes.

Makes 1 loaf.

Sauerkraut Scores With Epicures

Here's a sauerkraut and frankfurter recipe that definitely is dressed in its best bib and tucker. It's an epicure's dish, delicately seasoned by a bouquet garni, wine and currants, but simple to make. The frankfurters are simmered in wine and then baked with the sauerkraut mixture.

Epicurean Sauerkraut

(Makes 4-6 servings)

- 6 frankfurters
- ½ cup Chablis table wine
- 2 tablespoons bacon fat
- 1 medium-sized onion, thinly sliced
- 1 No. 2 can sauerkraut
- 1 small raw potato, grated
- 4 freshly bruised peppercorns
- ⅓ cup currants
- Bouquet garni*

Prick frankfurters with tines of a fork; place in a saucepan and pour wine over them. Cover and simmer 15 minutes. In a heavy skillet, melt bacon fat over low heat; add onions and saute until golden brown. Add sauerkraut; simmer 5 minutes, stirring frequently. Remove from heat; stir in potato, peppercorns and currants. In a 2-quart casserole, place half the sauerkraut mixture; lay frankfurters over this and pour in the wine. Place bouquet garni on frankfurters. Top with remainder of sauerkraut mixture. Cover and bake in moderate oven (350°) 30 minutes. Remove bouquet garni. Serve immediately.

*To make bouquet garni, tie together in cheesecloth ½ bay leaf, 6 sprigs parsley, 1 sprig thyme.

Economy Suggestions

Salmon Toastwiches For Lenten Lunches

When Lenten lunches tax the imagination, serve hearty, satisfying Salmon Toastwiches. To make drain a can of salmon and save the liquid. Bone and flake the salmon and combine with mayonnaise, chopped onion, piccalilli, lemon juice, salt and pepper. Spread between slices of buttered bread and coat both sides of the sandwich with a mixture of beaten eggs, milk and salmon liquid. Brown in hot shortening and serve immediately. Salmon Toastwiches are especially welcome these frostly Winter days.

Hot Shrimp Sandwich For Family Or Guests

As a hot snack when guests drop in, or as the center of a famliy luncheon menu, shrimp sandwiches are taste-tempters that continue to demonstrate their appeal throughout the Lenten season. Combine chopped shrimp, grated American cheese, beaten egg, salt, Worcestershire sauce, dry mustard, vinegar and pepper. Toast bread slices on both sides and spread with butter or margarine. Place shrimp mixture on toast, arrange on cookie sheet, and toast in a hot oven for five minutes. The shrimp mixture may be prepared a few hours ahead of time and kept in the refrigerator, ready to spread on the toast at the last minute.

Budget-Wise Bread Stuffings

A lemon, or other tart stuffing, brings out the full flavor of fish filets, and increase the servings per pound. During Lent, baked fish with bread stuffing will please the family and ease the budget.

Bread Croutons With Soup

Croutons provide an appetizing way to use leftover bread and they add extra flavor to soups. For example serve parsley strips with onion soup. To make the toasted strips, spread a mixture of creamed butter or margarine, grated American cheese, cream, prepared mustard, and minced parsley on strips of bread with crusts removed. Broil until delicately browned. Tomato soup is more appetizing served with croutons made by spreading horseradish flavored butter or margarine on toasted bread. Cut the toast into cubs and float them on the bowls of soup. Caraway seed strips are delicious with beeg bouillon and other clear soups. They are made by brushing bread strips with butter or margarine and sprinkling them with caraway seeds. Toast the strips in a modern oven until golden brown. These suggestions are for only a few of the many kinds of croutons and toast strips that may be served with soups.

Cake Crumb Dessert

A delicious refrigerator dessert may be made from leftover cake. Cut the cake into small pieces and combine with an equal quantity of diced marshmallows and half that amount of drained crushed pineapple. Bind together with whipped cream and chill in the refrigerator for three hours before serving. Eliminating waste by making use of leftovers cuts food costs.

"Mrs. Filbert, my husband just won't have any Margarine but yours!"

writes Mrs. V. Connell, 712 Defense Rd., Chester, Pa.

"I first made my margarine to please my own family!" says Mrs. Filbert.

"Men are the toughest judges of food I know—so I'm doubly proud when I hear they like my margarine! I make it up fresh every day from the finest ingredients—fortify every pound with 15,000 units of Vitamin A.

"Read these other nice compliments I've gotten lately in the mail: Richmond, Va.—'Your margarine's our favorite, Mrs. Filbert. We've used it for years!' Plentiful Foods Listed For March

Brisk demand for eggs is to be expected during March, what with Lenten meals to make and Easter to celebrate before the windy month is over. Fortunately for cook and consumer alike, eggs will probably move to March food markets at a great clip. Supply, as a matter of fact, is expected to be so liberal that eggs are one of the featured foods on the March list of plentifuls for the Northeastern region, issued by the United States Department of Agriculture.

Calling attention to this abundance at egg counters, the department also reminds shoppers that storage stocks of apples continue at a very high level. Generous quantities will be offered during the weeks ahead, and apples rank with eggs as a featured item on the March list of plentifuls.

Other protein-rich foods, many of them well suited to meatless meals, are prominent on the March list. Peanut butter and cottage cheese will be in excellent supply. Fine for use as spreads or in general cooking, both are recommended for sandwiches, salads, and baked foods.

Frozen fish fillets, abundant and often reasonable priced, deserve special consideration for late-winter and early spring meals. In particularly heavy supply are such varieties as haddock, cod, flounder, sole and rosefish (ocean perch). Supplementing the fillet offerings are ample offerings of frozen halibut steaks. In addition, canned tuna, canned sardines, and canned mackeral are more plentiful than usual.

Broilers, fryers, and turkeys will be poultry counter features during March. On the vegetable-protein side, market men anticipate particularly large supplies of dry beans, especially pea beans, Great Northerns, red kidneys, pintos, and baby limas. Canned dry beans of most types will probably be plentiful, too, including canned baked beans and canned beans with or without pork.

Vitamin C for late-winter and early spring diets will be available in an abundance of processed oranges and grapefruit. Canned and frozen juices and canned segments are included. Lettuce, that ever-useful green, is expected in large supply during the weeks ahead.

Since lettuce is a perishable item, supplies and prices will tend to vary in consuming markets. Stocks of Irish potatoes are particularly high; spuds thus will be available in quantity.

RIVAL
The POPULAR PRICED QUALITY DOG FOOD

For Snacktime: Apple Nut Bread

This quick loaf bread, well flavored with apples, cheese and nuts, is as easy to make as it is to eat. Serve it with butter or margarine for snacks, as breakfast sweet bread, or with luncheon salads.

If you work outside your home, and still like to give your family special home baked treats, depend upon quick breads to make meals extra good.

Loaf breads take no longer than a cake to mix, and they can be served for many occasions. Finger sandwiches made with loaf breads perk up a salad assortment and may also serve as simple dessert. Loaf bread sandwiches are good travelers in lunchboxes, too.

One of the most delicious of the loaf bread family, Apple Nut Bread, combines the flavors of freshly chopped apple, grated American cheese and chopped nuts. These foods also add their food values to those of enriched flour to make an important contribution to family health. All enriched breads rank high in essential B-vitamins and food iron. Apple Nut Bread is a delightful way to get your vitamins!

This sandwich bread is good the day that it is baked, though it slices better the following day. Jellies and jams, peanut butter and cream cheese are other good spreads for slices of this sandwich loaf.

APPLE NUT BREAD

2½ cups sifted enriched flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon salt
½ cup shortening
¾ cup sugar
2 eggs
1¼ cups chopped unpeeled apples
½ cup grated cheese
¼ cup chopped nuts

Sift together flour, baking powder, soda and salt. Cream together shortening and sugar until light and fluffy. Add eggs and mix well. Add flour mixture to creamed mixture alternately with apples. Mix well. Add cheese and nuts. Blend well. Bake in greased loaf pan in moderate oven (350°F.) 70 minutes.

Makes 1 loaf.

6 frankfurters
½ cup Chablis table wine
2 tablespoons bacon fat
1 medium-sized onion, thinly sliced
1 No. 2 can sauerkraut
1 small raw potato, grated
4 freshly bruised peppercorns
⅓ cup currants
Bouquet garni*

Prick frankfurters with tines of a fork; place in a saucepan and pour wine over them. Cover and simmer 15 minutes. In a heavy skillet, melt bacon fat over low heat; add onions and saute until golden brown. Add sauerkraut; simmer 5 minutes, stirring frequently. Remove from heat; stir in potato, peppercorns and currants. In a 2-quart casserole, place half the sauerkraut mixture; lay frankfurters over this and pour in the wine. Place bouquet garni on frankfurters. Top with remainder of sauerkraut mixture. Cover and bake in moderate oven (350°) 30 minutes. Remove bouquet garni. Serve immediately.

*To make bouquet garni, tie together in cheesecloth ½ bay leaf, 6 sprigs parsley, 1 sprig thyme.

Smorgasbord Suggestions

In Sweden they have a wonderful way with food that's known the world over. And their hospitality is something fabulous. Smorgasbord, the Swedish version of buffet service, is just the ticket for you if you'd like to serve a crowd a meal that's delicious, and informal, and inexpensive.

A table laden with good foods in the Swedish manner — an appetizer, a couple of hot dishes, fresh rolls, tossed salad, and coffee — will certainly fortify your reputation as a hostess.

Swedish meat balls — tiny well-seasoned balls made from chopped meat, crumbs, eggs, and a delectable assortment of seasonings — are always popular on any buffet table. Enterprising cooks have discovered that these meat balls have a fine flavor when corn flakes crumbs are included.

Swedish Meat Balls

1 pound finely ground beef
2 eggs, slightly beaten
2 tablespoons minced onions
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1¼ cups milk
4 cups corn flakes
2 tablespoons shortening
1 cup milk
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
½ teaspoon salt

Mix together meat, eggs, onions, seasonings, milk and finely crushed corn flakes. Divide into 24 small portions and form into balls. Brown in shortening about 30 minutes, turning only once. Life from pan. Stir milk into meat drippings; heat, add parsley and salt. Pour over meat balls.

Yield: 24 small meat balls.

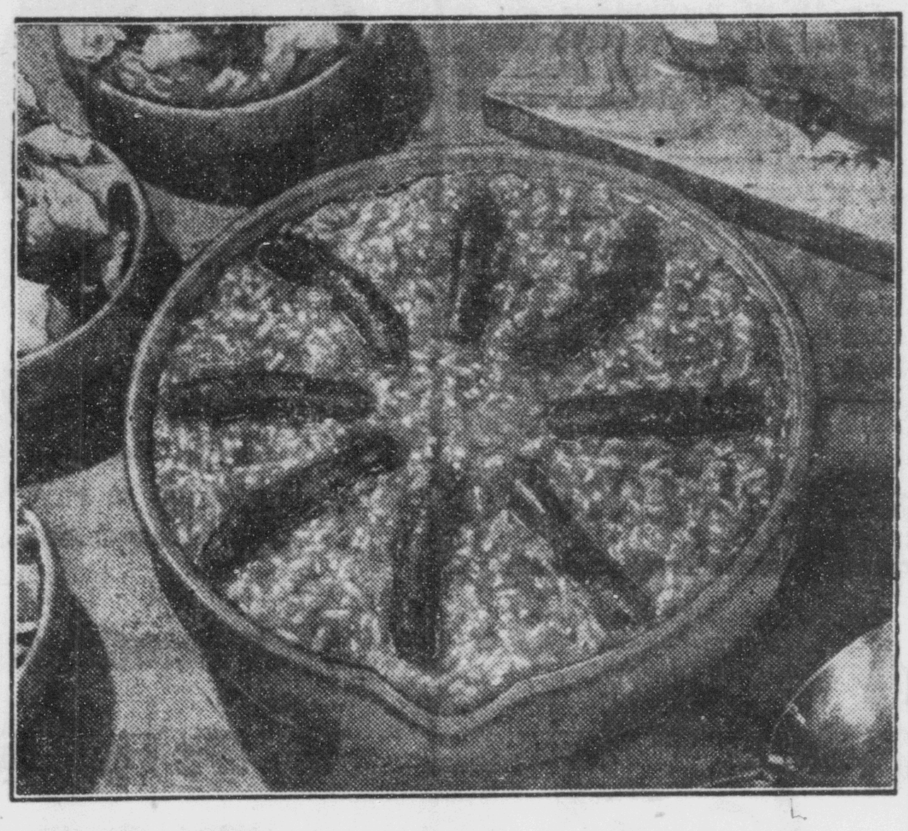
Oysters and Noodles Casserole

1½ tablespoons salt
3 quarts boiling water
4 ounces (½ package) medium noodles
⅓ cup butter or margarine
⅓ cup flour
2 teaspoons salt
1 cup rice cereal, crushed
3 cups milk
2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
1½ cups oysters
¼ cup finely minced onions
¼ cup chopped green pepper
2 tablespoons melted butter

Add salt to rapidly boiling water. Gradually add noodles, boil until tender, drain and rinse in cold water.

Melt butter in top of double boiler. Add flour and salt, and stir until smooth. Pour in milk slowly, stirring until thickened. Fold in noodles, Worcestershire sauce, well-drained oysters, onions and green pepper. Pour into greased 1½ quart casserole. Combine melted butter with rice cereal crumbs and sprinkle over top of casserole. Bake in moderate oven (400° F.) 20-30 minutes. Yield: 6 servings.

Sausage-Tomato Scallop



Condensed tomato soup is sauce supreme for this baked rice dish witl link sausage on top.

Sausage-Tomato Scallop

An oven-supper dish to fit nicely with your hurried winter schedule is this: Rice baked in condensed tomato soup and topped with well browned little sausages.

The soup gives a good moistness to the rice. And there's flavor a'plenty from the smooth tomato sauce, savory sausage, and onion. You'll dish it all up in no time, once the family gets a taste of this combination.

Sausage-Tomato Scallop

½ cup uncooked rice; 1 can (1¼ cups) condensed tomato soup; ¾ cup water; 2 tablespoons chopped green pepper; ¼ cup choped onion; 8 link sausages (about ½ lb).

Stir the rice into the soup and water which have been blended together in a casserole. Mix the chopped green pepper and onion through the soup-rice mixture. Bake 1¼ hours in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.). After the first half hour of baking, stir up the rice in the soup; then place the pre-browned sausage on top of the rice-soup mixture and bake for remaining time. Serves 4.

Sauerkraut And Cheese Frankfurters Will Rate High With Your Family

What better time could there be to try some new sauerkraut and frankfurter recipes.

A dish that's fit to set before a king or better still, an appreciative husband and youngsters, is this tasty sauerkraut topped with "partified" franks. The sauerkraut blends its hearty flavor with the horseradish and caraway seed to create a delightfully different main dish that you'll want to make again and again. Cheese-stuffed franks are just the right accompaniment.

Kuart with Cheese Frankfurters
(Makes 4-6 servings)

One No. 2½ can sauerkraut (or 3½ cups bulk kraut), 1 teaspoon caraway seed, 2 teaspoons horseradish, 8 frankfurters, 8 ¼-inch strips cheddar cheese, 8 slices bacon.

In a saucepan, combine sauerkraut, caraway seed and horseradish; mix well. Cover and simmer 20 minutes.

With a sharp knife, slit each frankfurter lengthwise without cutting all the way through. Fill slits with cheese strips and wrap each frankfurter with a bacon slice; secure with toothpicks. Place on broiler rack with the cheese side down. Broil until bacon is done; turn and broil other side. Allow approximately 3 minutes for each side. Serve with cooked sauerkraut.

Baked Beans Earns Awards

Baked beans steeped in fragrant molasses have been a standby of New England cookery for generations. This substantial vegetable dish is naturally associated with king-size appetites and cold weather, but it can be served with equal appreciation all year long at picnics or out-door buffets.

Uusulphured Molasses Tops In Delicate Flavor

The following recipe for baked beans call for the use of unsulphured molasses, the sweetener with distinctive flavor. Though the preparation timef or this baked dish takes a bit longer than for some casseroles, the method can be easily followed by the most inexperienced cook. The sense of satisfaction gained by preparing this old-fashioned classic is another culinary way of gaining self-sufficiency.

Molasses Baked Beans

4 cups (2 lbs.) dried beans; cold water; 1 large onion; 4 teaspoons salt; ⅜ cup unsulphured molasses; ½ teaspoon pepper; 2 teaspoons dry mustard; 2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce; ½ pound salt pork.

Wash beans. Cover generously with cold water; soak overnight. Add onion, salt, and if necessary, additional water to cover beans; bring to boiling point in covered saucepan. Remove onion; reserve. Simmer beans until tender. Drain; save 3 cups bean liquid (add additional water to make 3 cups, if necessary). Mix bean liquid with molasses, pepper, mustard, and Worcestershide sauce. Turn beans, onion and salt pork into large casserole or bean pot. Add liquid mixture. Cover. Bake in moderately slow oven (325 degrees F.) 1¾ hours. Uncover. Lift pork to top of beans; bake 20 to 25 minutes to brown pork. YIELD: 16 servings.

Baked Lima Beans

2 cups dried Lima beans; 6 cups cold water; 4 teaspoons salt; ¼ cup catsup; ¼ cup unsulphured molasses; 2 tablespoons chopped onion; 1 teaspoon dry mustard; ¼ teaspoon pepper; frankfurters or bacon strips.

Wash beans. Add cold water; soak overnight. Add salt. Cover saucepan. Cook in water in which beans were soaked until tender. Drain; save 2 cups bean liquid and mix with catsup, molasses, onion, mustard, and pepper. Pour beans into a 2-quart bean pot. Add liquid mixture. Arrange frankfurters or bacon stips over beans. Cover. Bake in moderately slow oven (325 degrees F.) 2 hours. Uncover. Bake 15 to 20 minutes to brown frankfurters or bacon. YIELD: 8 to 10 servings.

Smorgasbord Suggestions

In Sweden they have a wonderful way with food that's known the world over. And their hospitality is something fabulous. Smorgasbord, the Swedish version of buffet service, is just the ticket for you if you'd like to serve a crowd a meal that's delicious, and informal, and inexpensive.

A table laden with good foods in the Swedish manner — an appetizer, a couple of hot dishes, fresh rolls, tossed salad, and coffee — will certainly fortify your reputation as a hostess.

Swedish meat balls — tiny well-seasoned balls made from chopped meat, crumbs, eggs, and a delectable assortment of seasonings — are always popular on any buffet table. Enterprising cooks have discovered that these meat balls have a fine flavor when corn flakes crumbs are included.

Swedish Meat Balls

- 1 pound finely ground beef
- 2 eggs, slightly beaten
- 2 tablespoons minced onions
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper
- 1¼ cups milk
- 4 cups corn flakes
- 2 tablespoons shortening
- 1 cup milk
- 1 tablespoon chopped parsley
- ½ teaspoon salt

Mix together meat, eggs, onions, seasonings, milk and finely crushed corn flakes. Divide into 24 small portions and form into balls. Brown in shortening about 30 minutes, turning only once. Life from pan. Stir milk into meat drippings; heat, add parsley and salt. Pour over meat balls.

Yield: 24 small meat balls.

Oysters and Noodles Casserole

- 1½ tablespoons salt
- 3 quarts boiling water
- 4 ounces (½ package) medium noodles
- ⅓ cup butter or margarine
- ⅓ cup flour
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 1 cup rice cereal, crushed
- 3 cups milk
- 2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
- 1½ cups oysters
- ¼ cup finely minced onions

Bridge Construction Near Pinto Discussed At Meeting

The proposed relocation of a roadway and the erection of a bridge across the Potomac River near the Allegany Ballistics Laboratory in the Pinto section was one of the subjects discussed at a meeting yesterday in Baltimore between the State Roads Commission and members of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners.

Last fall the Bureau of Ordnance, Navy Department, contacted O. B. Case, manager of the laboratory, which is operated by the Hercules Powder Company for the Navy, relative to the project.

The possible expansion of the laboratory is restricted due to the present location of the road. The bridge across the Potomac is also reported hazardous to traffic. The structure was erected about 1876 and is only 15 feet wide and one-way traffic is required.

It is reported, according to the county commissioners, that one proposal for changing the route of the highway would provide an overhead bridge across the river and Western Maryland Railway tracks some distance upstream from the present structure.

The West Virginia State Roads Commission is reported as favoring the overhead bridge plan. It would remove the dangers inherent in a rail crossing and also would fit in with the proposed highway route.

On the Maryland side, the widening of the present underpass beneath the B. and O. Railroad's trackage will be necessary in any event.

The cost of the proposed work would probably be borne to a great extent by the Bureau of Public Roads of the federal government due to the nature of the project and its relation to the defense effort.

The Navy has requested cost estimates from the West Virginia and Maryland State Roads Commissions so that funds could be asked of the Bureau of Public Roads. The Allegany County Commissioners have asked that the bridge maintenance be taken over by the state as it is an interstate route and the cost of replacing the structure would be prohibitive as far as county finances are concerned.

Your Hollywood education isn't complete till you've flown to Palm Springs. . . In this winter resort of Hollywood, the high mountains completely cut off all weather. . . Fog, rain or snow near the coast —everything but sun. . . In Palm Springs your favorite movie, radio or TV star relaxes at ex-movie star Charlie Farrell's Racquet Club.

If only the glamorous gang of the '20's—Valentino, Swanson, Vilma Banky, Pola Negri, John Gilbert, and the others—could go back to the little spot they first discovered they'd rub their eyes in amazement!

For lo! Instead of one inn an Indian reservation, Palm Springs has grown into hundreds of hotels, swimming pools, ranches, trailer camps, private estates, restaurants, cocktail lounges, department stores, and "date" stands! These stands sell the palm fruit from the nearby "greatest date-growing center in the world."

In Palm Springs nowadays, movie stars on vacation are especially amused to read "The Desert Rat Scrapbook," sold on the newsstands and advertised as "Only pocket-sized newspaper in America that you can open in the wind—magic desert air folded into each packet" . . . Published by Harry Oliver, he announces that he is "publisher, distributor, editor, artist, gardener, janitor and owner."

The little sheet's full of sassy observations, such as:

"Worry is like a rocking chair because it gives you something to do when you ain't going anywhere."

Hazelwood Submits Low Bid On Frostburg Science Hall

The Hazelwood Construction Company has submitted a low bid for the erection of a new science building at Frostburg State Teachers College, according to Miss Lillian C. Compton, president.

Miss Compton said she had received the information from Annapolis by telephone and that official awarding of the contract was expected within a few days. She added that she had also been informed that sufficient funds have been appropriated by the General Assembly.

Further details will be received from Dr. Thomas G. Pullen, state superintendent of schools.

The structure will be a two-story building and will contain four offices for faculty members, two classrooms, washrooms and individual laboratories for chemistry, biology, physics and microbiology classes.

The facilities will be used both by college students and nurses from the Cumberland hospitals who attend various classes at the school.

Construction is expected to start about two weeks after the formal awarding of the contract.

Puffenbarger Joins Annapolis Paper

Charles W. Puffenbarger, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Puffenbarger, 538 Greene Street, has joined the staff of the Southern Maryland Times at Annapolis.

A recent graduate of the University of Maryland School of Journalism, Puffenbarger replaces Dorothy Kroeger, who has accepted a reportorial position in Europe. Puffenbarger graduated from Allegany High School and served in the infantry during World War II. He did public relations work for the Army while in the Philippines.

Bridge Construction Near Pinto Discussed At Meeting

The proposed relocation of a roadway and the erection of a bridge across the Potomac River near the Allegany Ballistics Laboratory in the Pinto section was one of the subjects discussed at a meeting yesterday in Baltimore between the State Roads Commission and members of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners.

Last fall the Bureau of Ordnance, Navy Department, contacted O. B. Case, manager of the laboratory, which is operated by the Hercules Powder Company for the Navy, relative to the project.

The possible expansion of the laboratory is restricted due to the present location of the road. The bridge across the Potomac is also reported hazardous to traffic. The structure was erected about 1876 and is only 15 feet wide and one-way traffic is required.

It is reported, according to the county commissioners, that one proposal for changing the route of the highway would provide an overhead bridge across the river and Western Maryland Railway tracks some distance upstream from the present structure.

The West Virginia State Roads Commission is reported as favoring the overhead bridge plan. It would remove the dangers inherent in a rail crossing and also would fit in with the proposed highway route.

On the Maryland side, the widening of the present underpass beneath the B. and O. Railroad's trackage will be necessary in any event.

The cost of the proposed work would probably be borne to a great extent by the Bureau of Public Roads of the federal government due to the nature of the project and its relation to the defense effort.

The Navy has requested cost estimates from the West Virginia and Maryland State Roads Commissions so that funds could be asked of the Bureau of Public Roads. The Allegany County Commissioners have asked that the bridge maintenance be taken over by the state as it is an interstate route and the cost of replacing the structure would be prohibitive as far as county finances are concerned.

Your Hollywood education isn't complete till you've flown to Palm Springs. . . In this winter resort of Hollywood, the high mountains completely cut off all weather. . . Fog, rain or snow near the coast—everything but sun. . . In Palm Springs your favorite movie, radio or TV star relaxes at ex-movie star Charlie Farrell's Racquet Club.

If only the glamorous gang of the '20's—Valentino, Swanson, Vilma Banky, Pola Negri, John Gilbert, and the others—could go back to the little spot they first discovered they'd rub their eyes in amazement!

For lo! Instead of one inn an Indian reservation, Palm Springs has grown into hundreds of hotels, swimming pools, ranches, trailer camps, private estates, restaurants, cocktail lounges, department stores, and "date" stands! These stands sell the palm fruit from the nearby "greatest date-growing center in the world."

In Palm Springs nowadays, movie stars on vacation are especially amused to read "The Desert Rat Scrapbook," sold on the newsstands and advertised as "Only pocket-sized newspaper in America that you can open in the wind—magic desert air folded into each packet" . . . Published by Harry Oliver, he announces that he is "publisher, distributor, editor, artist, gardener, janitor and owner."

Brazilian Doctor, Dying Of Cancer, To Realize Goal

RECIFE, Brazil—(AP)—A young Brazilian doctor who is dying of cancer smiled and said "I am happy."

Dr. Napoleao Laureano, whose friends sent him to Memorial Hospital in New York in an effort to find a cure, has been assured that his great ambition—to bring better cancer detection and treatment facilities to his home town—will be realized.

On a trip to his home town of Jaoa Pessoa he was assured by Dr. Pedro Gondim, secretary of finance for the state of Paraiba, that the hospital would be started at Jaoa Pessoa within a year, financed by contributions and state aid.

A year ago, before he knew he had the disease, he completed a special course in cancer in preparation for setting up a cancer hospital in his home town.

Before he could complete his dream, he was stricken. Now he has resolved to spend his last days by using himself as "live propaganda" for raising hospital funds.

When he took a hurried plane trip home to Jaoa Pessoa about 1,000 people met him at the airport. Most of them followed behind his car when he went to his home. The crowd grew to 1,500 and the reception overflowed the doctor's broad tree-studded yard.

The doctor and his pretty 25-year-old wife, Marcina, were overjoyed by the reception.

"I forgot I was sick," he said simply. "The response to my campaign is far beyond by expectations. Everybody seems to want to help."

After the visit, the doctor returned to his hospital bed here. He is trying to gain time for his campaign by building up his cancer stricken body.

How much time does he have left?

Eight days ago he predicted "only a month or so." That was in New York's Memorial Hospital. But today, the young doctor said he would rather not guess how long he can live.

In New York he had said " a man ought to die at home."

But he has had little time to think of death since his return.

His daily schedule is filled with talks to public officials and representatives of newspapers, magazines and radio stations. He plans to fly to Rio De Janeiro Thursday and hopes to see President Getulio Vargas.

Already special soccer games, movies and other events are being held in Jaoa Pessoa to finance the doctor's hospital. A similar campaign will start in Recife next week.

Eastern Nazarene Choir Sings Here Monday Night

The A Capella Choir of Eastern Nazarene College, Wollston, Mass., will present a sacred concert at the First Church of the Nazarene, Oldtown Road, Monday at 7:45 p. m.

The choir is making an extended two week tour presenting programs in seven different states and Canada. The choir, consisting of forty voices, is under the direction of Mrs. Esther D. Williamson, professor of voice. The college Trumpet Trio and the Heralder Male Quartet will also render selections during the program.

Rev. Kenneth Pearsall, executive field secretary of the college, will accompany the choir and will speak briefly during the intermission.

The program will include the "Alma Mater" with the congregation standing followed by invocation. The choir will then present "The Creation," "The Lord's Prayer," Advent Motet consisting of "Lord Hossana" and "Consolation" and "O Thou, In Whose Presence."

Selection by the male quartet will be "Joshua Fit The Battle of Jericho," "Blessed Be The Name of Jesus," "Great Is Thy Faithfulness," "He Hideth My Soul," and "A Mighty Fortress Is Our God."

The Trumpet Trio will give excerpts from Handel's "Messiah" including "Since By Man Came Death," "I Know That My Redeemer Liveth," "Worthy Is The Lamb," and "Hallelujah!"

The program will be closed with the benediction.

Program Tonight

In connection with the observance of Purim, Feast of Lots, a musical program, "Esther, Queen of Persia," will be presented at B'er Chayim Temple today at 8 p. m.

resolution, the State Planning Commission was directed to study development of access roads to state parks.

The sponsors, Delegates Robinson (D-Balto 4th) and Kelley (R-Allegany), also requested the commission to review the entire state's recreational facilities.

Both delegates mentioned particularly the recreational areas in Western Maryland which "do not have the highways necessary to make them accessible to the people."

Bond Plan Passes

A bill authorizing the University of Maryland to issue its own building bonds passed Wednesday in the House of Delegates with only 17 negative votes.

The opposition was led by Delegate Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., who contended in a bitter debate that the measure would place no limitation on the amount of bonds that the university could issue.

to be spent with approval of the racing commission on improvements.. The new bill would permit an increase to one per cent.

It also continues requirements that the money be spent three years after collected and if not to be kept by the state. Reckord's committee wanted to do away with them.

In another racing development, the General Assembly today enacted a bill giving money from unclaimed winning tickets to the state. The tracks now keep it.

Grace Methodist Church will celebrate Palm Sunday with a special order of service according to Rev. Allen B. L. Fisher, minister.

The service will open with a prelude, "At Thy Feet" by Edvard Grieg. The congregation will join in the singing of the Doxology, after which the minister will give the call to worship. "Come Thou Almighty King" will be sung as the opening hymn.

The call to prayer will be given by Rev. Fisher. The choir will sing the prayer hymn, "Jesus, Stand Among Us." The Pastoral prayer will be followed by the choir response, "Hear Our Prayer, O Lord." Miss Ethel Everett will sing a solo, "In The Garden" by I. B. Wilson.

The congregation will unite with the minister in the Palm Sunday responsive reading, singing afterwards the Gloria Patri and followed by "The Apostoles' Creed." The Offertory will be "The Palms" by J. Faure.

The Sacrament of Baptism will be followed by the reception of members. The minister will speak on "A Unique Journey." The choir will close the service with the singing of "The Holy City" by Noble Cain.

Benediction will be followed by the Choral Amen. Mrs. W. Loren Ranck who is both choir director and organist will play "Open the Gates of the Temple" as the postlude.

Eastern Nazarene Choir Sings Here Monday Night

The A Capella Choir of Eastern Nazarene College, Wollston, Mass., will present a sacred concert at the First Church of the Nazarene, Oldtown Road, Monday at 7:45 p. m.

The choir is making an extended two week tour presenting programs in seven different states and Canada. The choir, consisting of forty voices, is under the direction of Mrs. Esther D. Williamson, professor of voice. The college Trumpet Trio and the Heralder Male Quartet will also render selections during the program.

Rev. Kenneth Pearsall, executive field secretary of the college, will accompany the choir and will speak briefly during the intermission.

The program will include the "Alma Mater" with the congregation standing followed by invocation. The choir will then present "The Creation," "The Lord's Prayer," Advent Motet consisting of "Lord Hossana" and "Consolation" and "O Thou, In Whose Presence."

Selection by the male quartet will be "Joshua Fit The Battle of Jericho," "Blessed Be The Name of Jesus," "Great Is Thy Faithfulness," "He Hideth My Soul," and "A Mighty Fortress Is Our God."

The Trumpet Trio will give excerpts from Handel's "Messiah" including "Since By Man Came Death," "I Know That My Redeemer Liveth," "Worthy Is The Lamb," and "Hallelujah!"

The program will be closed with the benediction.

Program Tonight

In connection with the observance of Purim, Feast of Lots, a musical program, "Esther, Queen of Persia," will be presented at B'er Chayim Temple today at 8 p. m.

resolution, the State Planning Commission was directed to study development of access roads to state parks.

The sponsors, Delegates Robinson (D-Balto 4th) and Kelley (R-Allegany), also requested the commission to review the entire state's recreational facilities.

Both delegates mentioned particularly the recreational areas in Western Maryland which "do not have the highways necessary to make them accessible to the people."

Bond Plan Passes

A bill authorizing the University of Maryland to issue its own building bonds passed Wednesday in the House of Delegates with only 17 negative votes.

The opposition was led by Delegate Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., who contended in a bitter debate that the measure would place no limitation on the amount of bonds that the university could issue.

White Convicted On Three Motor Vehicle Violations

A public school bus driver was found guilty yesterday in Trial Magistrates Court on three motor charges in connection with his operation of a vehicle last Thursday.

Lester W. White, of 3 Altamont Terrace, was fined a total of $152.90 — $101.45 for drunken driving, $50 for reckless driving, and $2.45 for permitting an unauthorized person to drive his car.

In the two-day hearing, when a number of school children, students at Allegany High School, testified as to White's action, testimony showed that White permitted a boy, Robert Athey, of Cresaptown, to drive the bus part way on the route.

Several of the teen-age girls testified that White was dozing at the driver's seat when they boarded the bus enroute to their homes in the Cresaptown area.

They said that White asked Athey to drive the bus after telling him "I am in no shape to drive."

Athey took over the wheel and drove the vehicle as far as Warner's Store in Cresaptown. Several stated that in their opinion White had been drinking.

Enroute to Cresaptown, they said he went back in the bus and sat down to talk to an 18-year-old girl, a senior.

One of the boys in the bus suggested jokingly that White pay Athey for driving. This he did, the students stated, and the 18-year-old girl stated, "if you're passing out money, how about lending me $5." She emphasized that she was kidding him and later returned the money to him.

At another time during the journey, White went back in the bus asking for tickets for the ride. It was pointed out that no charge is ever placed for the ride.

When the bus stopped above Warner's store, the students said the 18-year-old girl got off and White chased her for a short distance, saying as he ran: "Don't run, I'm just having a little fun, I won't hurt you."

The girl said she stopped and talked to him for a short time, and then the teen-ager continued on her way to her home, while White returned to the bus.

Here he took over the wheel, and testimony of other students earlier showed that he rounded several corners so recklessly they had to hold on to the seats to keep from falling in the aisle.

After he parked the bus at Cresaptown school at the end of his run, Miss Cornelia Collins one of the bus drivers following White's bus, took the keys from him.

Before starting out on the trip at Allegany, students said A. W. Heavener, 34 Marion Street, another of the bus drivers on the run, awoke White by shaking him and telling him "to get a hold of yourself."

White on the stand yesterday stated that he had two beers in the morning and said "I was as sober then as I am now."

When asked by Assistant State's Attorney William H. Geppert as to why he allowed the boy to drive the bus, White answered that he could not give a reason.

White, represented by Harold M. Naughton, pointed out that he always "kidded around with the kids" while driving the bus.

The buses are owned by a Rawlings man William V. Collins, and are under contract to the Board of Education.

White paid his fines yesterday morning. Others testifying included two companions of White before he went to school to board the bus and Cpl. Carl Conrad, who preferred the charges.

Safe Cracking Probe Continues

City Detective Thomas J. See said yesterday that an investigation continues into the robbery of the Southern States Cooperative, 300 South George Street on Wednesday night. This is another in the wave of breakings and enterings which have been going on in Cumberland for the past month or more.

The robbery was discovered at 4:15 a. m. by Officer Charles Cubbage, according to the report of Lt. James E. Van to the Chief of Police R. E. Flynn. Cubbage had previously checked the place at 1:30 a. m.

The intruders sawed off the dial of a safe in the main office and opened the lower half. Robert Heavener, manager, reported this section contained valuable papers, but so far as he could ascertain no money was taken.

The upper half of the safe could not be opened by the safecrackers, police reported. Other articles in the large warehouse such as flashlights and candy were stolen, but Heavener said he was of the opinion the thief was after money.

Lt. Van reported he found no fingerprints on the safe, as they had been dusted off. The "yegg" apparently used a pair of gloves he found in the warehouse.

A black hair was found on the glass of the front door which had been broken to gain entry, Lt. Van added.

The front and main office were thoroughly ransacked, police said The safe dial was sawed by a hack saw used in the cooperative.

The insistence that the world, in order to survive, must be converted to the political, social and economic practices of the western world is the analogue of Cain's demand that Abel give up his gardening and take up sheepherding.

Here he took over the wheel, and testimony of other students earlier showed that he rounded several corners so recklessly they had to hold on to the seats to keep from falling in the aisle.

After he parked the bus at Cresaptown school at the end of his run, Miss Cornelia Collins one of the bus drivers following White's bus, took the keys from him.

Before starting out on the trip at Allegany, students said A. W. Heavener, 34 Marion Street, another of the bus drivers on the run, awoke White by shaking him and telling him "to get a hold of yourself."

White on the stand yesterday stated that he had two beers in the morning and said "I was as sober then as I am now."

When asked by Assistant State's Attorney William H. Geppert as to why he allowed the boy to drive the bus, White answered that he could not give a reason.

White, represented by Harold M. Naughton, pointed out that he always "kidded around with the kids" while driving the bus.

The buses are owned by a Rawlings man William V. Collins, and are under contract to the Board of Education.

White paid his fines yesterday morning. Others testifying included two companions of White before he went to school to board the bus and Cpl. Carl Conrad, who preferred the charges.

Safe Cracking Probe Continues

City Detective Thomas J. See said yesterday that an investigation continues into the robbery of the Southern States Cooperative, 300 South George Street on Wednesday night. This is another in the wave of breakings and enterings which have been going on in Cumberland for the past month or more.

The robbery was discovered at 4:15 a. m. by Officer Charles Cubbage, according to the report of Lt. James E. Van to the Chief of Police R. E. Flynn. Cubbage had previously checked the place at 1:30 a. m.

The intruders sawed off the dial of a safe in the main office and opened the lower half. Robert Heavener, manager, reported this section contained valuable papers, but so far as he could ascertain no money was taken.

The upper half of the safe could not be opened by the safecrackers, police reported. Other articles in the large warehouse such as flashlights and candy were stolen, but Heavener said he was of the opinion the thief was after money.

Lt. Van reported he found no fingerprints on the safe, as they had been dusted off. The "yegg" apparently used a pair of gloves he found in the warehouse.

A black hair was found on the glass of the front door which had been broken to gain entry, Lt. Van added.

The front and main office were thoroughly ransacked, police said The safe dial was sawed by a hack saw used in the cooperative.

The insistence that the world, in order to survive, must be converted to the political, social and economic practices of the western world is the analogue of Cain's demand that Abel give up his gardening and take up sheepherding.

School Bus Inspection Set

Another periodic inspection of school buses in Allegany County has been scheduled for March 20, 21 and 22, Arthur G. Ramey, director of transportation in the county school system, said yesterday.

Marion Abbott, an examiner from the Department of Motor Vehicles, will be here to assist a local mechanic in the examinations. The last inspection was in December.

The schedule:

March 20, morning, Flintstone and Piney Plains; afternon, Oldtown; March 21, morning, Cumberland; afternoon, Westernport, Barton and Lonaconing; Thursday, morning, Frostburg.

Three of these examinations are held each school year.

The inspectors will check lettering, tires, lights, signals, paint, springs, exhaust system, bumpers, doors, mirrors, glasses, wipers, defroster, heater, horn, fire extinguisher, flares, first aid kit, hand axe, chains, upholstery, brakes, steering and cleanliness.

Modern baking powder first appeared in kitchens in 1859.

Mackey Is Awarded Underwriter Diploma

Henry A Mackey, local representative of the New England Mutual Life Insurance Company, has been awarded the Purdue University Life Insurance Marketing Institute Diploma. The announcement was made by Hal Nutt, Director of the Institute.

Frederick A. Savage Jr., general agent, made the formal presentation at an agency meeting with associates in Baltimore.

The LIMI diploma represents a full year of combined campus and field training in advanced underwriting under the supervision of the Institute at the University.

AAUW To Hear Mrs. Lucile Roeder

Commissioner of Streets Lucile W. Roeder will be guest speaker at the regular monthly meeting of the Cumberland branch AAUW Wednesday, March 21 at 8 p. m. at the Board of Education building, Washington Street. Her subject will be "Behind the Scenes at City Hall".

This meeting will be under the direction of the Status of Women committee. Mrs. Joseph H. Kruson, president, will preside.

Group To Plan Armed Forces Day Program

Members of local business, professional and fraternal organizations have been asked to send two representatives to a meeting April 11 at 8. p. m., in the postmaster's office here to organize a citizens committee for observance of the second annual Armed Forces Day, May 19.

The letter, sent by civilian chairman, Thomas F. Conlon, asks that all groups participate in order to make this city's observance one of which to be proud. Conlon points out that Cumberland has been selected by military officials as one of the towns in which a special effort is being made and requests their cooperation in the project.

Response has been gratifying so far, Conlon said yesterday.

Members of the civilian and military groups sponsoring the local observance wish to emphasize that any organization may participate by contacting Conlon at the local post office and sending representatives to the April meeting.

Elliott Memorial WSCS Studies Korea

The Elliott Memorial W.S.C.S. met at the home of Mrs. Mildred Kirby a recent evening. Devotions were led by Mrs. Edith Flora with Mrs. Sophia Miller offering prayer.

Miss Ilda Leasure gave a talk on the missionary topic, "Life in Korea Today" as seen by servicemen and church people.

A nominating committee composed of Mrs. Mary Stewart, chairman; Mrs. Margaret Flora and Mrs. Elva Brotemarkle was appointed by Mrs. Martha Ryan, president.

Members attending were Mrs. Dorothy Wilson, Mrs. Lora Willison, Mrs. Mary Stewart, Mrs. Martha Ryan, Mrs, Sophia Miller, Mrs. Lottie Leasure, Mrs. Mildred Kirby, Mrs. Virginia Hulings, Mrs. Alyia Hitchcock, Mrs. Margaret Flora, Mrs. Edith Flora, Mrs. Elsie Brotemarkle, Mrs. Jean Baird, Miss Georgia Flora, Miss Betty Drake and Miss Ilda Leasure.

Area Student Elected To Honorary Society

Thomas A. McCarty, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. G. McCarty 741 Fayette Street, a junior at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute in Troy, New York, will be initiated into Gamma Alpha Rho, honorary society of aeronautical engineers, at their banquet on March 18th.

McCarty, who won the alumni scholarship in 1948 while a resident of Washington, D. C., was made a member of the Rensselaer Society of Engineers in his sophomore year.

LaVale 4-H Club Meets

The LaVale 4-H Club met Tuesday at 7:30 o'clock at the home of Jerry Lancaster. Following routine business, plans were made for a three act play "Womanless Wedding" to be presented at LaVale Fire Hall, April 20.

Rehearsal will be held Saturday at the home of Frederick Gellner. Next month's meeting will be held at the home of Charles Beamer. Harry Morgan, Frostburg, will be guest speaker.

The canning and bottling of tomato juice increased tomato consumption in the United States four to five times.

Kingwood Man Held In Jail

KINGWOOD, W. Va.—A resident of Irish Ridge Road in Kingwood, W. Va., is in Preston county jail awaiting a hearing on charges of destruction of property, intoxication and carrying a concealed weapon.

The man, W. E. Walker, Wednesday night was ejected from the Eagles Home in Kingwood for creating a disturbance. He later returned and forced his way into the club and proceeded to "shoot up the bar," officers said. Patrons of the home took refuge behind tables and doors to escape the bullets. No one was reported injured.

After emptying the .38 calibre pistol he was carrying, Walker left the club and drove away in a pick-up truck. He was apprehended in the center of Kingwood by Cpl. F. D. Roberts and Trooper W. S. Fike of the West Virginia State Police.

The pistol was found on Walker's person and an examination of his truck revealed he was carrying a cargo of blasting powder and dynamite.

Preston County Mines Again In Operation

MASONTOWN, W. Va. — Officials of the Bretz Coal Company, near Masontown, W. Va., yesterday morning said that all six union mines in Preston county had resumed operations following a dispute involving a discharged weighman.

The truce was reached following a conference of company officials with Cecil J. Urbaniak, president of UMW District 31, and other union officials.

The six mines in the Valley District of Preston county employ about 700 men. Pickets earlier this week appeared at a tipple which served the mines and had caused it to close.

A company official said the pickets had let the air from the tires of trucks at the tipple and dumped two loads of coal.

John L. Clise Elected Head Of Frostburg Elks

Plans Made For Dance, Banquet On March 17

FROSTBURG — John L. Clise, 95 Mt. Pleasant Street, was elected exalted ruler of Frostburg Lodge, No. 470, B. P. O. Elks Tuesday evening.

Other officers are William D. Davis, esteemed leading knight; Fred Stoudt, of Lonaconing, esteemed lecturing knight; Joseph H. Spates, secretary; George Grahame, treasurer; J. William Shea, tiler; Carmel Pinto, trustee for three years; John L. Clise, representative to the Grand Lodge convention to be held this summer in Chicago; and John L. Durst, alternate delegate. The hold-over trustees are Rudolph Nickel and Robert Lemmert.

Plans have been completed for the annual St. Patrick's banquet and dance Saturday in the American Legion Home, commencing at 6:30 p. m., and will be followed by a dance from 9 to 12 p. m.

A. Charles Stewart, past grand trustee, will be the toastmaster at the banquet and the principal address will be delivered by Harry I. Stegmaier, Cumberland, past president of the Maryland Delaware and District of Columbia Elks Association.

Music will be furnished by Art Shaffer and his orchestra.

During the business meeting DeWayne McAtee, exalted ruler, appointed a committee consisting of John L. Clise and Francis Richardson to seek information as to what co-operation the Elks might give Beall High School in any plans for promoting the interests of the institution.

The lodge also voted a donation to the American Red Cross and the Elks minstrel to be staged by the Cumberland Elks for the Allegany County Crippled Children League.

Installation of the newly elected officers will be held the first meeting in April.

County Agent Speaks At 4-H Club Meeting

LONACONING — Joseph Steger, assistant county agent for 4-H clubs for boys, addressed a group at Central High School Wednesday evening in the organization of the 4-H Boys Club in Lonaconing.

It was decided to hold meetings once a month with election of officers April 11 at Central High School.

Those who attended were Joe Moses, Jackie Tipton, Billy Ravensroft, Lloyd Robertson, Harry Ternent, Jack Ternet, Teddy Kirkwood, Babby Moore, Bobby Loar and Jackie Doolan.

Sisters To Meet

FROSTBURG—Calanthe Temple No. 3, Pythian Sisters, will meet this evening, 7:30 o'clock, in the Junior Order Hall. Edna Hounshell, most excellent chief, will preside. Captain Edna Engle requests that all officers and staff members be present.

Plans Made For Dance, Banquet On March 17

FROSTBURG — John L. Clise, 95 Mt. Pleasant Street, was elected exalted ruler of Frostburg Lodge, No. 470, B. P. O. Elks Tuesday evening.

Other officers are William D. Davis, esteemed leading knight; Fred Stoudt, of Lonaconing, esteemed lecturing knight; Joseph H. Spates, secretary; George Grahame, treasurer; J. William Shea, tiler; Carmel Pinto, trustee for three years; John L. Clise, representative to the Grand Lodge convention to be held this summer in Chicago; and John L. Durst, alternate delegate. The hold-over trustees are Rudolph Nickel and Robert Lemmert.

Plans have been completed for the annual St. Patrick's banquet and dance Saturday in the American Legion Home, commencing at 6:30 p. m., and will be followed by a dance from 9 to 12 p. m.

A. Charles Stewart, past grand trustee, will be the toastmaster at the banquet and the principal address will be delivered by Harry I. Stegmaier, Cumberland, past president of the Maryland Delaware and District of Columbia Elks Association.

Music will be furnished by Art Shaffer and his orchestra.

During the business meeting DeWayne McAtee, exalted ruler, appointed a committee consisting of John L. Clise and Francis Richardson to seek information as to what co-operation the Elks might give Beall High School in any plans for promoting the interests of the institution.

The lodge also voted a donation to the American Red Cross and the Elks minstrel to be staged by the Cumberland Elks for the Allegany County Crippled Children League.

Installation of the newly elected officers will be held the first meeting in April.

Staggers Heads Tri-Towns Rec Association

Plans Are Discussed For Next Summer

PIEDMONT, W. Va. — Vernon A. Staggers, principal of Piedmont High School was reelected president of the T ri-Towns Recreation Association here Tuesday evening.

Others officers are Baxter Willey, first vice president, Mrs. James B. Wills, second vice president and Okey Michael, secretary. George Boyd was re-elected treasurer.

Staggers reviewed the activities for the past five years and pointed out its steady growth.

He renumerated the various playgrounds as follows, Piedmont High School, Water Street, Piedmont; Erin Street, Piedmont, and Oakview, Westernport.

A Maryland Avenue playground and two on Westernport Hill are to be developed. He said there was need for another one on Piedmont Hill but a lot has not yet been secured.

Luke has several playgrounds and Franklin, Md., near Westernport, put one in operation last year. Beryl, W. Va., is laying plans for one this summer.

Budget Set

The budget has been placed at $1,500 for running the summer program and already $700 has been subscribed including $100 from the city of Piedmont.

Mayor George Kight and Okey Michael, chairmen of the constitution and by-laws committee submitted a draft of its work which was agreeable to the meeting and stated he would have it more fully prepared for the next meeting.

Charles L. Kopp, Cumberland, superintendent of schools, has given permission to use the playground of Hammond Street School in Westernport during the summer.

Organizations Present

The following organizations were represented by Lester Arnold and Ira Cheshire, Piedmont Lodge No. 1120, Loyal Order of the Moose; Howard Blackburn, Victory Post No. 155, American Legion of Westernport; Mayor George Kight, Town of Westernport; Mrs. Doris Bantz, Social Welfare Club.

John E. Grindle, Bruce High, and Trinity Methodist Church, Piedmont; Joseph Maybury, City of Piedmont; Mr. Sanders, Mr. Taylor and Mrs. William Russell, Howard High School Parent-Teacher Association of Piedmont; Rodney Baker, Westernport and Luke Lions Club and John F. Rose, Tri-Towns Rotary Club.

Rodney Baker, a member of the Piedmont High School faculty and Harold Marsh, who served as co-directors of the supervision of the playgrounds have been reappointed for next year at a salary of $40 a week each.

The next meeting will be held April 10.

Special Service Set At Mill Run Church

WESTERNPORT — Special services will be conducted at the Mill Run Methodist Church Sunday at 10 a. m. Rev. Charles L. Davis, pastor, announces.

Lillian Hellman Takes Characters To "Dream's End" In New Play

NEW YORK — In her earlier dramas, all of which won well-deserved fame, Lillian Hellman made Cupidity the god of love for groups of characters and avarice a ruling passion. In "The Little Foxes" and again in "Another Part of the Forest" the playwright created brothers, sisters, uncles, fathers and mothers who were engaged in most uncivil war with each other over possessions.

Now she has bobbed up with a surprise package which, upon its opening, has caused New York critics to look twice to make sure that the Hellman brand was or it. For this is the most interesting character study of a group of people who have reached dream's end and it is titled "The Autum Garden." In a season where fine acting has been more frequent than good writing, it becomes almost monotonous to repeat that the players more often or not rise well above the importance of the play itself, since a better job of casting would be hard to imagine.

And yet Miss Hellman, who has allowed futility to dog almost every life she traces in her drama, has created most interesting characters who requires expert explanation by the actors.

They are, for the most part, middle aged people in a most genteel Southern boarding house and they have only their own pasts to blame for their various defeats. Since the lives of several of the unusual guests at Constance Tuckerman's establishment on the Gulf Coast have crossed before, their renewed acquaintance picks up threads of plot, but generally speaking they are ideally idle people who are bored with themselves and practically everything else. This self-imposed torpor is disturbed by the arrival of an egotistical artist who is a meddler and fixer-upper in the fashion of Aubrey Piper of "The Show Off". His purpose to the plot is to behave in such a fashion that all others in the cast become ashamed and self-analytical.

As almost anyone can see, this adds up to a series of caricatures involving the dozen members of the cast, and there are no villains, nor are there vital points to be made as in the preceding Hellman dramas. Yet, such are the portraits and those players who sit for them that it is to be highly recommended—but, perhaps, not to everybody. I have a feeling that there is a considerable audience for so-called "different" plays, although one does grow pessimistic at times.

For instance: "Darkness At Noon" is certain to be selected the play of the year by the Critics Circle and by the Pulitzer Prize boys, yet it is not among the "big five" on the best seller lists.

But to playgoers who wish to see acting as it should be—and is—the list of tops in "The Autumn Garden" include Frederic March as the artist meddler, his wife, Florence Eldridge as the gabby Southern gal who talks herself out of a husband and almost everything else; Ken Smith as a lonely banker who finds his bottle of bourbon a handy friend in need; Ethel Griffies, as a tart-tongued matriach; Colin Keith-Johnson as an embittered general of a recent war and Miss Joan Lorring, whose portrayal of an emancipated, sexygal was a top item in "Come Home, Little Sheba."

The Old Second Guesser

By JOHN N. WHEELER

Glamor A La Carte

AFTER staying here for three days, I feel the glamor of Hollywood, and this town is right on the fringe, is beginning to tarnish a little. Maybe it's my age that causes the tinsel to seem a little drab, although I did meet a starlet from Twentieth Century-Fox who would make your eyes pop out so far a nine-months-old baby could knock them off with his rattle. And to show I am a bad reporter, I don't know her name.

After several visits to the film capital, I feel if they think you are doing good they feed you caviar and cake, and maybe champagne. But, if you were down on your luck and found yourself drowning and hollering for help, most of the characters who live here would look the other way and turn a deaf ear, or, if they heard you, throw you both ends of the rope. Some of the actors are so phony that, when they wear a toupee, they sprinkle a little salt on their shoulders to make it look like dandruff.

Riding on the United Lines airplane from San Francisco, luckily I met Mr. and Mrs. Gardner Cowles—he publishes Look magazine and several newspapers. Incidentally, I had the best lunch I ever ate off the ground, and, of course, it went with the fare. We started with a cracked-crab cocktail, then spring lamb, vegetables, salad and dessert with a printed menu on a postal card to go with it.

My friends invited me to ride with them from the airport to the Beverly Hills Hotel, a popular joint, filled with the rich, mostly, for I fell over the heads of two big New York banks before I got to the registration desk. On the way, we talked about various matters—the Duke and Duchess of Windsor, the marital status of a well-known magazine publisher, and finally Mrs. C. showed me a copy of a letter she had written to Senora Evita Peron protesting the treatment of the great Buenos Aires daily, La Prensa. We had traveled to South America together on a Pan American first flight last June. Up to date, she has had no reply. Before he parted, they invited me to a cocktail party they were giving to announce the annual Look awards, a very nice gesture.

I found I rated a room, so I settled down to do some business until Tuesday afternoon when I put on a newly pressed suit and showed up at the clambake which turned out to be all caviar and cake and champagne with a la carte service free of other drinks and food from the sumptuous buffet. Celebrities were thicker than freckles on a red-headed girl who has been exposed to the summer sun—Bob Hope, Jimmy Stewart, Walt Disney, Edgar Bergen, etc., etc. No one asked anybody for an autograph, and it was a very pleasant party, altogether. A charming lady, named Mrs. Edgar Bergen, spent quite a little time talking to me which was flattering, since she is beautiful as well. However, her husband and his accomplishments were the headlines of our conversation.

She told me he had bought the rights to a French play years ago, the idea being to make it with Charlie McCarthy, but he has put it off for the plot calls for the death of the dummy, and sentiment restrains him.

"Do you think he ever will?" I asked.

"I doubt it," she answered.

"You know," I suggested, "Arthur Conan Dovle once killed off Sherlock Holmes and later revived him and brought him back to life by popular demand." I also found out both she and her husband can and do fly a Navion plane.

I ate so much and stayed so late, I skipped dinner entirely. Any more victuals would have been coals to Newcastle. Among those present was Prince Mike Romanoff, who is top society out here now. He did not invite me to his restaurant for dinner which perhaps is just as well, since a rich friend of mine reported he had been there recently and the Prince put the bee on him for $1,000 to help finance a new building for his garish joint.

"Well, anyway," he remarked as he pulled out his fountain pen, "I ought always to be able to get a table."

Teacher, Made Drug Addict By Hiccups, Enters Hospital

COLUMBUS, Ohio—(AP)—A little gray-haired school teacher—who has hiccuped every 30 seconds for 18 years—began the biggest trip of her life Wednesday.

Miss Virgil Vale, 54, marched stoutly off to the U. S. Public Health Hospital at Lexington, Ky., under sentence from U. S. District Court.

You see, the little old woman has hiccuped 2,880 times a day—or 18,921,000 times — since 1933. These nerve convulsions have made life a sea of pain and turned a small-town teacher into a narcotic addict.

They drove her to forge prescriptions for drugs to ease the burning pain that like clock-work struck the diaphragm twice a minute, day and night.

"I'd wake up in the middle of the night," said Miss Vale, "and the hiccups would nearly drive me crazy."

All this began one day back in 1933. Miss Vale was standing at the head of her class in Cambridge, Ohio. A light fixture fell. It struck her head. Soon thereafter the hiccups began.

By Christmas time, Miss Vale couldn't teach anymore. In 1936, physicians ordered her to take drugs to ease the pain. In 1944, she began forging prescriptions to get drugs.

Finally, U. S. Narcotics Agent Al Cook caught up with Miss Vale. "I'm glad you did," she said. "I just couldn't face it by myself."

Then she told Cook how she had visited Cleveland Clinic, Johns Hopkins and many specialists, underwent two operatins—and still the hiccups went on.

She was living a hermit existence in a small apartment on an industrial commission income of $18 a week. Drugs were costing her $50 a month.

She stood before U. S. District Judge Mell G. Underwood, a little retired school teacher. She still looked like the woman who taught you to spell. She heard Judge Underwood sentence her to Lexington. He told her the hospital could help her drug addiction.

"Maybe these hiccups will go away, too," the little woman said hopefully.

In early European universities, the professors were hired by the students.

Local Quint Opens Series At Wheeling

Pence, Hall Ejected For Fighting; Blues Are Hosts Tonight

The New York Rens, nationally famous negro professional road quint, proved too good for Cumberland's Spas last night and defeated the local All-American Pro League entry by the score of 70-57 on SS. Peter and Paul court.

The game was enlivened by a scrap between Bob Hall, Rens' guard, and Bob Pence, of the Spas, and resulted in both players being banished in the third period. Pence accused Hall of elbowing and shoving him throughout the game.

Cumberland took a 2-0 lead at the start on foul goals by Jack Murphy and George Geatz. Fred Pearson's basket knotted the count at 2-2. A fielder by Carl Helem sent the Rens to the fore at 4-2 and the visitors were never headed thereafter. Murphy's basket tied the count at 19-19 in the second heat but Smith's goal sent the Rens out in front and they stayed there. The quarter scores were 15-12, 38-28 and 56-46.

Jack Murphy led the Spas on scoring with 20 points. Helem and Singleton topped the winners with 19 and 17 tallies.

Only 333 paying patrons witnessed the contest.

Morgantown Hi Wins In Tourney

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., March 15 (AP)—Morgantown nipped Mullens 58-51 tonight to join Beckley, Clarksburg Victory, and Charleston as West Virginia state class A basketball meet semi-finalists.

Beckley and Clarksburg Victory clash in the upper-bracket contest tomorrow at 7 p. m., with Mograntown and Charleston taking the court immediately thereafter. Greenbank (27-0) and Fairview (23-3) meet for the state Class B title here tomorrow at 2 p. m.

Beckley eliminated Grafton 63-53 today with a 19-point fourth period; Victory outscrambled Warwood 60-52, and Charleston fought off Huntington Central 72-62 after almost losing a big lead.

Huntington, behind 19-9 at the end of the first period, as much as 17 back once in the second period, and up to 16 points off the pace in the third frame, twice surged within four points of Charleston in the final two and one-half minutes of play.

Victory. which had led from midway in the first period, rolled in eight straight points in the final two and one-half minutes to gain its victory. Warwood had fought back from an 11-point deficit in the third period to a 52-52 deadlock.

Beckley made its big height advantage spell the difference in the final 10 minutes against Grafton. Bob Davis and Willie Bergines, finishing with 26 and 24 points, respectively, finally beat down the sparkling, 27-point play of the losers' Don Willis.

Boxers Get $20,094

CHICAGO, March 15 (AP)—Johnny Bratton, Chicago's newly crowned welterweight champion, recognized approvingly by the National Boxing Association, today spent leisure hours so soothing to a boxer after a tough battle.

Also, Bratton had $10,047.18 salted in his jeans. It was the financial award for winning the NBA title over gamecock Charley Fusari in their blistering 15-round bout in the Chicago Stadium last night. Fusari, game, aggressive Italian from Irvington, N. J., pocketed the same amount.

DODGERS COP 4TH

MIAMI, March 15 (AP) — Brooklyn ran its winning streak to four games tonight by overwhelming Cincinnati, 10-3, before a crowd of 1,977.

Clarence Podbielan, youthful righthander, held the Reds without a hit for four innings but Clyde King game up five after two out in the seventh. Ed Euratt, Harry Perkowski and Rudy Minarcin were bounded for a 16 with rookie Rocky Bridges leading the Dodger attack with four.

Manager Charlie Dressen was greatly improved at Jackson Memorial Hospital but Dan Bankhead was still bedded with a heavy cold. Jackie Robinson complained of a sore side. Score:

There's a feud going on in West Virginia between sports writers of the Fairmont and Parkersburg papers.

It all started when Bill Johnson of the Parkersburg News lambasted Coach Robert "Red" Brown and the West Virginia University varsity basketball team.

Bill Evans, of the Fairmont Times, whom we've known since the days of the Middle Atlantic League, wrote that Johnson "had a hole in his head for saying uncomplimentary things about his Mountaineers."

Johnson retaliated by referring to Evans as "The Grand Duke of Verbosity," which means Mr. Evans employs an unnecessary number of words when he writes.

Clem Hamilton, another Fairmont writer, entered the feud by belting out a column in defense of Sir William Evans, "Red" Brown and his boys.

It does seem strange that Allegany county will not be represented by a Class "A" basketball team in the state championship game this year—the second time in 18 years.

Only once in the past 17 years has a local team failed to win Class "A" honors — that being in 1928 when Hagerstown eliminated Allegany High and Catonsville High was the champ.

Here are the "A" winners since the tournaments were started:

1927—Allegany. 1928—Catonsville. 1929—Penn Avenue. 1930—Allegany. 1931—Allegany. 1932—Allegany. 1933—Allegany. 1934—Allegany. 1935—Penn Avenue. 1936—Allegany. 1937—Allegany. 1938—Fort Hill. 1939—Fort Hill. 1947—Allegany. 1948—Fort Hill. 1949—Fort Hill. 1950—Allegany.

In 1940 and 1941, Allegany defeated Cambridge, 68-48 and 52-24 in games billed for the title but there was no statewide tourney in those years.

Jim Moran was voted the most popular boy in the school. The Explorers' basketball and football star also was named the best athlete. Doug Connolly and Tom Keech were voted the "friendliest" students.

LaSalle Seniors also selected their favorites. The Cumberland Spas is their favorite basketball team while they rate Willie Hoppe as the best pool player with Jack McMullen, as runner-up, which is quite an honor for Jack.

Harry Heilmann, 61, Has Heart Ailment, Condition Critical

LAKELAND, Fla., March 15 (AP) — Harry Heilmann, former star with the Detroit Tigers and now a baseball announcer, was taken to Morrell Hospital today in critical condition with a heart ailment.

Heilmann, 61, was placed in an oxygen tent. Dr. W. J. Annis said the former Detroit outfielder's heart condition was aggravated by a cold.

Heilmann, one of the five greatest right-handed hitters in baseball history, won the American League batting championship four times, in 1921, 1923, 1925 and 1927.

Laurel Will Go Hollywood For Racing

Bands, Pretty Girls, Corsages On Program

LAUREL, Md., March 15 (AP)—Laurel Race Track plans to put on the dog at its meeting which opens a week from Friday. Bands, pretty girls, orchid corsages. Some $2 bettor is even going to win a horse.

"We thought we had Margaret Truman lined up to sing the Star Spangled Banner on opening day," laments Milt Crandall.

Crandall is a Hollywood public relations man, hired as "director of special events" to pep up proceedings at the sedate racing plant midway between Washington and Baltimore on U. S. 1.

Although Crandall still is angling for a name singer to intone the National Anthem on the curtain raiser program March 23, he has a pageant and the Greater Kensington String Band of Philadelphia on tap.

The pageant will recreate early day race-going in Maryland, with a George and Martha Washington and an Andy Jackson.

The winner of the horse will be the bettor who shows the highest percentage return on his investments at the track on April 7. It will be a saddle horse.

"We don't want anybody to get hurt, just show them a good time," Crandall explains.

"The typical racing fan" also will be feted April 7. Some Joe (he must still have his shirt) will be shuttled to the track in a limousine, fed, and given a form sheet, a program, binoculars and $50 to bet.

All the ladies will get in free April 4 and the first thousand will get a three-orchid corsage.

There also will be eight horse races every day.

Giving Laurel a lilt is the handiwork of John D. Schapiro. Schapiro became head of the track when his father, millionaire Baltimore junk man, bought it last year from the very proper Maryland Jockey Club. The Jockey Club still owns Pimlico and The Preakness.

Justice Department Moves To Deport Alleged Games Fixer

WASHINGTON, March 15 (AP)—The Justice Department today moved to deport Salvatore Sollazzo, alleged fixer of college basketball games in the New York City area.

The department announced that a warrant of arrest, calling for Sollazzo's deportation to his native Italy, was served on him late this afternoon in the New York City jail.

He is behind bars there on a state indictment charging him with the bribery of 11 prominent cage players.

Stadium Inn Ties K-C For Shuffle Lead

Frostburg Cops Three, Knights Lose Pair

Stadium Inn, of Frostburg, first half champions, tied the Cumberland Knights of Columbus for first place in the Men's National Shuffleboard League of Allegany County, by sweeping three games from the Mt. Savage V. F. W. while the Knights were dropped two out of three here to the Alhambra Club.

The tied pace-setters now have 19-5 records.

Minnick led Stadium's Inn scorers with 27 points while Pollock topped Mt. Savage with 16.

McDade was high man for the Alhambra Club with 18 tallies to his credit. Love posted 27 for the local K. of C. team.

In other matches the Frostburg K. of C. topped Viaduct Inn, 2-1; Frostburg Moose took three from Clingerman's Restaurant, Cumberland V. F. W. downed the Century A. C., Frostburg, 2-1, and the Goodfellowship Club gained a 2-1 nod over the Frostburg American Legion.

Other high scorers were: Riggleman, Frostburg Moose, 29; Warren, Clingerman's, 13.

The Amvets visit the Woodmen of the World for a match tonight.

Announcement was made that the postponed Mt. Savage VFW-Goodfellowship match of last week will be played on March 20.

Illinois Pointer Wins U. S. Title

HERNANDO, Miss., March 15 (AP)—An Illinois pointer that overrode an early handicap came back today to win the United States field trial club's derby championship.

Mirror, owned by Dr. R. A. Scott of Carbondale, Ill., hit the muddy sedge fields in search of quail and snagged the title with his first spectacularly handled bevy.

ERIE, Pa., March 15 — Beaver Falls squared its All-American Professional Basketball League playoff series with the Erie Admirals by winning tonight's game at Beaver Falls by the score of 65-55. Each team has won one game.

The "rubber" game is set here Sunday at 3 p.m.

Erie led at the halfway mark, 27-26, but the Tommies forged ahead in the third quarter when Stan Navage connected for six field goals in eight tries.

Al Vlasic and Navage led the winners with 22 and 18 points. Fred Schwab paced Erie with 16 markers.

Tigers Advance To State Final, Face Aberdeen

Losers Held To Nine Goals; Burt, McKenzie Get 28 Of 39 Points

FROSTBURG, March 15 — Central High School of Lonaconing bottled up Gaithersburg High with a zone defense tonight and romped to victory over the Montgomery countains to reach the finals in Maryland's Class "B" schlastic basketball tournament. The score was 39-25.

Playing on the Beall High floor, Coach John Meyers' Tigers limited the visitors to nine field goals—two in the first half and seven in the second and held the upper hand throughout the contest.

Central jumped off to a 10-3 lead at the quarter and held the long end of an 18-7 count at the halfway mark. Gaithersburg registered two field goals and three foul goals in the first two periods. The third quarter score was 28-11.

Curtis Johnson played an outstanding floor game for the Orange and Black while Kenneth Burt, center, and Don McKenzie, forward, accounted for 28 of the 39 tallies. Burt racked up six field goals and 3-4 fouls while McKenzie garnered four double-deckers and 5-7 fouls. White, guard, marked up ten of Gaithersburg's 25 points.

Thirty-one personal fouls were called on the teams—17 on Central and 14 Gaithersburg. Jackson, Gaithersburg forward, made his exit on personals in the final period.

Gaithersburg is coached by Fred Sacco, former Beall High School athlete.

Central's opponent Saturday night at 7 p. m., at College Park will be Aberdeen High School of Harford county which eliminated Cambridge of the Eastern Shore in a 51-50 thriller on Wednesday night.

On the other state finals, Barton plays Ocean City in the "C" contest at 3:30 and Hagerstown opposes Wicomico High of Salisbury in the "A" finale at 8 o'clock. The lineups:

Summers Quits As VMI Director Of Athletics

LEXINGTON, Va., March 15—(AP)—Frank L. Summers resigned today as athletic director at Virginia Military Institute to enter the insurance business.

The resignation will be effective June 1.

Summers, who became athletic director at V. M. I., in 1947, said he had been considering entering the insurance field "for more than two years." He said the move "probably should have been made 20 years ago."

Ferrier Favored In $10,000 Open At Jacksonville

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 15 (AP)—Jim Ferrier, the hottest man in golf for the past month, is the inevitable favorite for the $10,000 Jacksonville Open Tournament starting tomorrow.

The huge Australian, winner of more cash in tournament golf last year than anyone else except Sam Snead, pocketed $2,000 as winner of the Miami Beach Open last Sunday and $2,000 as winner of the St. Petersburg Open a week earlier.

One more bite like that and Ferrier, who calls San Francisco his home town, will overtake Lloyd Mangrum of Chicago as top man on the 1951 money list. That is, provided Mangrum finishes worse than second place in the Jacksonville Tournament.

Mangrum has won $7,126 this year. Ferrier has collected $6,262. Mangrum won an additional $2,500 in the Seminole Tournament ending yesterday but it doesn't count in official PGA money winnings.

The four-day tournament will be played over the 6,508 yard par 36-36—72 Hyde Park course. The half-flat, half-rolling course has narrow, tree-lined fairways that call for a lot of accuracy.

Brigham Young And Dayton Battle Way To NIT Finals

Seton Hall, St. John's Lose Before 16,815

NEW YORK, March 15 (INS)—Brigham Young and Dayton battled their way to the National Invitation finals with impressive victories tonight over Seton Hall and St. John's.

Brigham Young's classy third-seeded outfit trounced Seton Hall, 69 to 59 while Dayton downed top-seeded St. John's in an overtime 69-62.

The two winners meet for the championship Saturday night, while the losers play for third place in the tourney.

A Madison Square Garden crowd of 16,815—largest of the tournament—saw tonight's games and came away equally impressed by the Flyers and the Cougers.

Dayton came back to rip favored St. John's apart with two key men, Don Meineke and Leland Norris, out on fouls and after wasting a ten point lead.

Flashy Roland Minson led the Cougars with 26 points, giving him a two-game total of 54 points. Teammates Jerry Romney and Joe Richie had 16 and 14 points respectively.

The Flyers, without two kingpins Don Meineke and Leland Norris for much of the second half, saw the top-seeded Redmen tie the score at 58-all on Bob Zawoluk's layup with 35 seconds to play.

Then trailing in the overtime 62-to-59, they exploded a fantastic ten points through the hoop in two minutes time.

Vaughn Taylor, stand-in for Meineke, made a one-hander to put the Flyers within one point and Chuch Grigsby's beautiful pivot shot sent the unheralded Ohioans ahead 63-62 at 3:40 of the period.

Meineke, who scored 67 points in two previous Dayton victories, was of comparatively little help tonight. He managed to hit for 11 points against St. John's towering Zawoluk but he incurred his fourth foul with only five-and-a-half minutes gone in the second half. Returning briefly six minutes later, he committed his fifth offense and was followed to the bench by Norris with almost eight minutes left.

Local Quint Opens Series At Wheeling

Pence, Hall Ejected For Fighting; Blues Are Hosts Tonight

The New York Rens, nationally famous negro professional road quint, proved too good for Cumberland's Spas last night and defeated the local All-American Pro League entry by the score of 70-57 on SS. Peter and Paul court.

The game was enlivened by a scrap between Bob Hall, Rens' guard, and Bob Pence, of the Spas, and resulted in both players being banished in the third period. Pence accused Hall of elbowing and shoving him throughout the game.

Cumberland took a 2-0 lead at the start on foul goals by Jack Murphy and George Geatz. Fred Pearson's basket knotted the count at 2-2. A fielder by Carl Helem sent the Rens to the fore at 4-2 and the visitors were never headed thereafter. Murphy's basket tied the count at 19-19 in the second heat but Smith's goal sent the Rens out in front and they stayed there. The quarter scores were 15-12, 38-28 and 56-46.

Jack Murphy led the Spas on scoring with 20 points. Helem and Singleton topped the winners with 19 and 17 tallies.

Only 333 paying patrons witnessed the contest.

Morgantown Hi Wins In Tourney

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., March 15 (AP)—Morgantown nipped Mullens 58-51 tonight to join Beckley, Clarksburg Victory, and Charleston as West Virginia state class A basketball meet semi-finalists.

Beckley and Clarksburg Victory clash in the upper-bracket contest tomorrow at 7 p. m., with Mograntown and Charleston taking the court immediately thereafter. Greenbank (27-0) and Fairview (23-3) meet for the state Class B title here tomorrow at 2 p. m.

Beckley eliminated Grafton 63-53 today with a 19-point fourth period; Victory outscrambled Warwood 60-52, and Charleston fought off Huntington Central 72-62 after almost losing a big lead.

Huntington, behind 19-9 at the end of the first period, as much as 17 back once in the second period, and up to 16 points off the pace in the third frame, twice surged within four points of Charleston in the final two and one-half minutes of play.

Victory, which had led from midway in the first period, rolled in eight straight points in the final two and one-half minutes to gain its victory. Warwood had fought back from an 11-point deficit in the third period to a 52-52 deadlock.

Beckley made its big height advantage spell the difference in the final 10 minutes against Grafton. Bob Davis and Willie Bergines, finishing with 26 and 24 points, respectively, finally beat down the sparkling, 27-point play of the losers' Don Willis.

CHISOX BEAT TRIBE

PASADENA, Calif., March 15 (AP) — The Chicago White Sox squeezed out a 10-9 exhibition victory over the Cleveland Indians today in a slugfest which produced 38 hits, six of them home runs.

Bob Feller was touched for nine runs and all three of the White Sox homers, two by Eddie Robinson and the other by Ed Stewart. Harry Simpson smacked two homers for the Indians and Larry Doby accounted for the other Cleveland round-tripper. Score:

CLEVELAND (A)	412	100	100—	9	20	3
CHICAGO (A)	004	501	00x—	10	18	0

Feller, Fahr (5), Wheat (8) and Tebbett; Gumpert, Keriazakos (3), Holcombe (6) and Masi, Hairston (7).

Harry Heilmann, 61, Has Heart Ailment, Condition Critical

LAKELAND, Fla., March 15 (AP) — Harry Heilmann, former star with the Detroit Tigers and now a baseball announcer, was taken to Morrell Hospital today in critical condition with a heart ailment.

Heilmann, 61, was placed in an oxygen tent. Dr. W. J. Annis said the former Detroit outfielder's heart condition was aggravated by a cold.

Heilmann, one of the five greatest right-handed hitters in baseball history, won the American League batting championship four times, in 1921, 1923, 1925 and 1927.

Laurel Will Go Hollywood For Racing

Bands, Pretty Girls, Corsages On Program

LAUREL, Md., March 15 (AP)—Laurel Race Track plans to put on the dog at its meeting which opens a week from Friday. Bands, pretty girls, orchid corsages. Some $2 bettor is even going to win a horse.

"We thought we had Margaret Truman lined up to sing the Star Spangled Banner on opening day," laments Milt Crandall.

Crandall is a Hollywood public relations man, hired as "director of special events" to pep up proceedings at the sedate racing plant midway between Washington and Baltimore on U. S. 1.

Although Crandall still is angling for a name singer to intone the National Anthem on the curtain raiser program March 23, he has a pageant and the Greater Kensington String Band of Philadelphia on tap.

The pageant will recreate early day race-going in Maryland, with a George and Martha Washington and an Andy Jackson.

The winner of the horse will be the bettor who shows the highest percentage return on his investments at the track on April 7. It will be a saddle horse.

"We don't want anybody to get hurt, just show them a good time," Crandall explains.

"The typical racing fan" also will be feted April 7. Some Joe (he must still have his shirt) will be shuttled to the track in a limousine, fed, and given a form sheet, a program, binoculars and $50 to bet.

All the ladies will get in free April 4 and the first thousand will get a three-orchid corsage.

There also will be eight horse races every day.

Giving Laurel a lilt is the handiwork of John D. Schapiro. Schapiro became head of the track when his father, millionaire Baltimore junk man, bought it last year from the very proper Maryland Jockey Club. The Jockey Club still owns Pimlico and The Preakness.

Justice Department Moves To Deport Alleged Games Fixer

WASHINGTON, March 15 (AP)—The Justice Department today moved to deport Salvatore Sollazzo, alleged fixer of college basketball games in the New York City area.

The department announced that a warrant of arrest, calling for Sollazzo's deportation to his native Italy, was served on him late this afternoon in the New York City jail.

He is behind bars there on a state indictment charging him with the bribery of 11 prominent cage players.

Stadium Inn Ties K-C For Shuffle Lead

Frostburg Cops Three, Knights Lose Pair

Stadium Inn, of Frostburg, first half champions, tied the Cumberland Knights of Columbus for first place in the Men's National Shuffleboard League of Allegany County, by sweeping three games from the Mt. Savage V. F. W. while the Knights were dropped two out of three here to the Alhambra Club.

The tied pace-setters now have 19-5 records.

Minnick led Stadium's Inn scorers with 27 points while Pollock topped Mt. Savage with 16.

McDade was high man for the Alhambra Club with 18 tallies to his credit. Love posted 27 for the local K. of C. team.

In other matches the Frostburg K. of C. topped Viaduct Inn, 2-1; Frostburg Moose took three from Clingerman's Restaurant, Cumberland V. F. W. downed the Century A. C., Frostburg, 2-1, and the Goodfellowship Club gained a 2-1 nod over the Frostburg American Legion.

Other high scorers were: Riggleman, Frostburg Moose, 29; Warren, Clingerman's, 13.

The Amvets visit the Woodmen of the World for a match tonight.

Announcement was made that the postponed Mt. Savage VFW-Goodfellowship match of last week will be played on March 20.

Illinois Pointer Wins U. S. Title

HERNANDO, Miss., March 15 (AP)—An Illinois pointer that overrode an early handicap came back today to win the United States field trial club's derby championship.

Mirror, owned by Dr. R. A. Scott of Carbondale, Ill., hit the muddy sedge fields in search of quail and snagged the title with his first spectacularly handled bevy.

Two Game Officials Hurt In Plane Crash

ELKTON, Md., March 15 (AP) — Two Game and Inland Fish Commission officials were injured today when the light plane they were using to make a wildlife survey struck a wire and was forced down.

George D. P. Patterson, 26, Baltimore, suffered head injuries, and David Smith, about 30, deputy game warden for Harford County, suffered a dislocated shoulder.

Peter Pan, C. & P. Win

Peter Pan Cleaners defeated the C. & P. Telephone Company, 61-46, and the Elks edged the Independents, 51-48, last night in the Central YMCA Senior Men's Basketball League on the "Y" court.

Tommies Top Erie, 65-55, Tie Series

ERIE, Pa., March 15 — Beaver Falls squared its All-American Professional Basketball League playoff series with the Erie Admirals by winning tonight's game at Beaver Falls by the score of 65-55. Each team has won one game.

The "rubber" game is set here Sunday at 3 p.m.

Erie led at the halfway mark, 27-26, but the Tommies forged ahead in the third quarter when Stan Navage connected for six field goals in eight tries.

Al Vlasic and Navage led the winners with 22 and 18 points. Fred Schwab paced Erie with 16 markers.

Tigers Advance To State Final, Face Aberdeen

Losers Held To Nine Goals; Burt, McKenzie Get 28 Of 39 Points

FROSTBURG, March 15 — Central High School of Lonaconing bottled up Gaithersburg High with a zone defense tonight and romped to victory over the Montgomery countains to reach the finals in Maryland's Class "B" schlastic basketball tournament. The score was 39-25.

Playing on the Beall High floor, Coach John Meyers' Tigers limited the visitors to nine field goals—two in the first half and seven in the second and held the upper hand throughout the contest.

Central jumped off to a 10-3 lead at the quarter and held the long end of an 18-7 count at the halfway mark. Gaithersburg registered two field goals and three foul goals in the first two periods. The third quarter score was 28-11.

Curtis Johnson played an outstanding floor game for the Orange and Black while Kenneth Burt, center, and Don McKenzie, forward, accounted for 28 of the 39 tallies. Burt racked up six field goals and 3-4 fouls while McKenzie garnered four double-deckers and 5-7 fouls. White, guard, marked up ten of Gaithersburg's 25 points.

Thirty-one personal fouls were called on the teams—17 on Central and 14 Gaithersburg. Jackson, Gaithersburg forward, made his exit on personals in the final period.

Gaithersburg is coached by Fred Sacco, former Beall High School athlete.

Central's opponent Saturday night at 7 p. m., at College Park will be Aberdeen High School of Harford county which eliminated Cambridge of the Eastern Shore in a 51-50 thriller on Wednesday night.

On the other state finals, Barton plays Ocean City in the "C" contest at 3:30 and Hagerstown opposes Wicomico High of Salisbury in the "A" finale at 8 o'clock. The lineups:

Summers Quits As VMI Director Of Athletics

LEXINGTON, Va., March 15—(AP)—Frank L. Summers resigned today as athletic director at Virginia Military Institute to enter the insurance business.

The resignation will be effective June 1.

Summers, who became athletic director at V. M. I., in 1947, said he had been considering entering the insurance field "for more than two years." He said the move "probably should have been made 20 years ago."

Ferrier Favored In $10,000 Open At Jacksonville

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 15 (AP)—Jim Ferrier, the hottest man in golf for the past month, is the inevitable favorite for the $10,000 Jacksonville Open Tournament starting tomorrow.

The huge Australian, winner of more cash in tournament golf last year than anyone else except Sam Snead, pocketed $2,000 as winner of the Miami Beach Open last Sunday and $2,000 as winner of the St. Petersburg Open a week earlier.

One more bite like that and Ferrier, who calls San Francisco his home town, will overtake Lloyd Mangrum of Chicago as top man on the 1951 money list. That is, provided Mangrum finishes worse than second place in the Jacksonville Tournament.

Mangrum has won $7,126 this year. Ferrier has collected $6,262. Mangrum won an additional $2,500 in the Seminole Tournament ending yesterday but it doesn't count in official PGA money winnings.

The four-day tournament will be played over the 6,508 yard par 36-36—72 Hyde Park course. The half-flat, half-rolling course has narrow, tree-lined fairways that call for a lot of accuracy.

Brigham Young And Dayton Battle Way To NIT Finals

Seton Hall, St. John's Lose Before 16,815

NEW YORK, March 15 (INS)—Brigham Young and Dayton battled their way to the National Invitation finals with impressive victories tonight over Seton Hall and St. John's.

Brigham Young's classy third-seeded outfit trounced Seton Hall, 69 to 59 while Dayton downed top-seeded St. John's in an overtime 69-62.

The two winners meet for the championship Saturday night, while the losers play for third place in the tourney.

A Madison Square Garden crowd of 16,815—largest of the tournament—saw tonight's games and came away equally impressed by the Flyers and the Cougers.

Dayton came back to rip favored St. John's apart with two key men, Don Meineke and Leland Norris, out on fouls and after wasting a ten point lead.

Flashy Roland Minson led the Cougars with 26 points, giving him a two-game total of 54 points. Teammates Jerry Romney and Joe Richie had 16 and 14 points respectively.

The Flyers, without two kingpins Don Meineke and Leland Norris for much of the second half, saw the top-seeded Redmen tie the score at 58-all on Bob Zawoluk's layup with 35 seconds to play.

Then trailing in the overtime 62-to-59, they exploded a fantastic ten points through the hoop in two minutes time.

Vaughn Taylor, stand-in for Meineke, made a one-hander to put the Flyers within one point and Chuch Grigsby's beautiful pivot shot sent the unheralded Ohioans ahead 63-62 at 3:40 of the period.

Meineke, who scored 67 points in two previous Dayton victories, was of comparatively little help tonight. He managed to hit for 11 points against St. John's towering Zawoluk but he incurred his fourth foul with only five-and-a-half minutes gone in the second half. Returning briefly six minutes later, he committed his fifth offense and was followed to the bench by Norris with almost eight minutes left.

HITTING AND PITCHING PLUS O'NEILL, BOUDREAU SPELL SOXCESS FOR BOSTON

Editor's Note: This is the fourth of a series of articles on the 1951 prospects of the major league baseball teams.

By WALTER L. JOHNS
Central Press Sports Editor

SARASOTA, Fla — Not only the sock in the Boston Red Sox but good pitching, a new spirit and two fugitives from Cleveland, Steve O'Neill and Lou Boudreau, should win the pennant for the Beantowners this year.

Potentially, the Red Sox have the best team in baseball. Period.

In stout Stephen Francis O'Neill, the pug-faced Irishman, they have a good manager, a welcome change from the sour, rough and gruff Joe McCarthy, who gave up the ghost last June 23 when Steve took over.

The most dominating force in this potent Red Sox team, however, is Lou Boudreau, the magnificent shortstop who was given the gate by the Cleveland management in a deal that still stinks to high heaven.

Lou is the talk of the camp.

Always a terrific personality and certainly one of the outstanding ball players of this era, Boudreau has played his cards well. He is working hard, is streamlined down to 183 pounds and his play at any position he has tried in the infield has been sensational.

Lou feels great, likes his association with the Bosox and his only desire is to go out and win for Steve.

His pressure is enough to make the other infielders stand up and work their heads off—for Lou, who gives the club an all-around infielder and a fine right-handed pinch-hitter even if he sits on the bench, still is rated as good a chance as any of the others to win a regular job from outstanding regulars like Johnny Pesky at third, Vern Stephens at short and even Bobby Doerr at second.

In a pinch, too, Lou can play first and even catch!

With such additions as O'Neill, always a winning manager at Detroit, and Boudreau, slap-happy Beantowners present a fierce front, one which should carry them to the pennant this year.

• — • — •

Pitching always has been given as the reason why the Red Sox failed to come through. That, plus inability to win on the road and win the big games.

Stout Steve, still one of the most genial guys in baseball, says he has no pitching worries. "We've got a great staff," he says with all sincerity. I think we've helped ourselves a lot with those trades." And "those trades" are what have added to the pennant fever in this camp.

In picking up Ray Scarborough and Lefty Bill Wight from Chicago the Red Sox grabbed off two stars and two guys already being considered for starting roles by Manager Steve.

The others Steve plans for starters are the ace lefty, Mel Parnell; the big righthander, Willard Nixon, who came up to the Sox last year after starting with Louisville, and Harry Taylor, former Dodger flinger who won 13 games for St. Paul and then beat both the A's and Yanks in his only American league starts late last year.

Adding to the pitching cup of joy was the return of two other possible starters, Lefty McDermott and Chuck Stobbs. Both were 1-A in service call but Stobbs was given a medical reprieve because of an asthmatic conditions and McDermott has a bad ear which is expected to keep him out of service. Stobbs won 12 for Boston last year and McDermott won seven and lost three.

O'Neill plans to carry 10 pitchers and the personnel of the rest of the staff is good, too. There's Ellis Kinder, who won 14 for the Bosox. There's young Paul Hinrichs, the minister-to-be who was signed by the Yanks for a fancy sum and then dropped because they thought he had a bad arm. O'Neill says the boy's trouble was his groin but he looks good in camp.

Of the rookies, O'Neill likes Jimmie McDonald, who won 11 for Louisville; Bill Evans, a right hander who won 15 for Sacramento; Bennett Flowers, a right-hander from Louisville and Jim Suchecki, also from Louisville.

The Red Sox have pitchers; don't worry about that!

• — • — •

The powerhouse that murdered American league pitching the last few years is still here.

In the outfield the Sox present a fearsome trio of Ted Williams, Dom DiMaggio and Billy Goodman.

Williams, who is hitting well in camp, has complained some about his bad elbow, hurt in the All-game, but O'Neill reports that Ted's arm is okay. Goodman, who led all Boston batters and the league with a 354 mark last year, will play right, according to O'Neill, but Billy can fill in most anywhere.

The infield has its murderers' row, too. Walt Dropo, the rookie star of 1950, has added a little weight and is rarin' to go again. Doerr is at second, Stephens at short and Pesky at third!

BOSTON RED SOX
Finish in '50: Third
Last pennant: 1946
Leading pitcher:
Mel Parnell (18-10)
Leading hitter:
Billy Goodman (.354)
(Averages are for 1950)

Just in case you've forgotten, Doerr hit 27 homers, Dropo 34, Stephens 30 and Williams (only 89 games) smashed 28.

O'Neill's only wide open spot is behind the plate. There are four receivers competing for the job. They are Matt Batts, Buddy Rosar Al Evans and Mike Guerra.

Evans came from Washington and Guerra from the A's.

"Right now," says Steve, "this group is all even. We'll have to see who gets the starting job."

For outfield help and pinch-hitting roles Steve has two clouters in Clyde Vollner and Tom Wright.

• — • — •

You don't talk much about rookies on this club for the varsity is so solid that it would take an amazing reversal of form to unseat them.

But there is one rookie and he's been classed as sensational and will be carried by O'Neill as a spare infielder.

He is Fred Hatfield, who plays third base "like nobody has seen before," to repeat what one observer said here. Hatfield, who spent the last two years with Birmingham, also can hit, having belted 27 homers last year.

Despite the array of talent, good pitching and the presence of Boudreau, Manager Steve doesn't go off the deep end and predict a pennant.

"We've got the best possibilities," he says, "but I look for a battle among the same top four—Boston, New York, Cleveland and Detroit."

• — • — •

There you have the Red Sox of 1951. Will they fold like they did the last two years?

This observer doesn't think so. Not with the new spirit on the club. And O'Neill and Boudreau.

CARDS EDGE BRAVES

BRANDENTON, Fla., March 15 (AP) — A leaping, one-handed catch of Bob Addis' whistling line drive by third baseman Don Richmond abruptly ended a Boston Braves' threat today and preserved a 3-2 exhibition victory for the St. Louis Cardinals.

The Cards had a 3-1 lead going into the last of the ninth. Sid Gordon doubled off Tom Keatin after one was out. With two out Willard Marshall poled a 300 foot triple to riht scorin Gordon. Addis then whacked a 2-2 pitch toward left which Richmond leaped and cauht. Score:

ST. LOUIS (N) ... 110 000 100—3 11 0

HOMER WINS FOR NATS

ORLANDA, Fla., March 15 & — Irv Noren's seventh inning homer lifted Washington to a 5-4 victory over Detroit today as Bob Kuzava, Sid Hudson and Gene Bearden collaborated in restricting the Tigers to four hits.

Noren smashed his game-winning blast over the rightfield fence off rookie Wayne McLeland.

Sherry Robertson led Washington's 12-hit attack with a double and two singles. Score:

The nostrils of the giraffe are heavily lined with stiff hairs as a protection against the great number of insects the animal disturbs when it browses in the branches of trees.

The bearded vulture, or Lammergeyer, which is more like an eagle than vulture, is not classed as a bird of chase, but it does secure its food by knocking chamois, goats and other animals off the ledges of precipices on which they are standing.

HITTING AND PITCHING PLUS O'NEILL, BOUDREAU SPELL SOXCESS FOR BOSTON

Editor's Note: This is the fourth of a series of articles on the 1951 prospects of the major league baseball teams.

By WALTER L. JOHNS
Central Press Sports Editor

SARASOTA, Fla — Not only the sock in the Boston Red Sox but good pitching, a new spirit and two fugitives from Cleveland, Steve O'Neill and Lou Boudreau, should win the pennant for the Beantowners this year.

Potentially, the Red Sox have the best team in baseball. Period.

In stout Stephen Francis O'Neill, the pug-faced Irishman, they have a good manager, a welcome change from the sour, rough and gruff Joe McCarthy, who gave up the ghost last June 23 when Steve took over.

The most dominating force in this potent Red Sox team, however, is Lou Boudreau, the magnificent shortstop who was given the gate by the Cleveland management in a deal that still stinks to high heaven.

Lou is the talk of the camp.

Always a terrific personality and certainly one of the outstanding ball players of this era, Boudreau has played his cards well. He is working hard, is streamlined down to 183 pounds and his play at any position he has tried in the infield has been sensational.

Lou feels great, likes his association with the Bosox and his only desire is to go out and win for Steve.

His pressure is enough to make the other infielders stand up and work their heads off—for Lou, who gives the club an all-around infielder and a fine right-handed pinch-hitter even if he sits on the bench, still is rated as good a chance as any of the others to win a regular job from outstanding regulars like Johnny Pesky at third, Vern Stephens at short and even Bobby Doerr at second.

In a pinch, too, Lou can play first and even catch!

With such additions as O'Neill, always a winning manager at Detroit, and Boudreau, slap-happy Beantowners present a fierce front, one which should carry them to the pennant this year.

Pitching always has been given as the reason why the Red Sox failed to come through. That, plus inability to win on the road and win the big games.

Stout Steve, still one of the most genial guys in baseball, says he has no pitching worries. "We've got a great staff," he says with all sincerity. I think we've helped ourselves a lot with those trades." And "those trades" are what have added to the pennant fever in this camp.

In picking up Ray Scarborough and Lefty Bill Wight from Chicago the Red Sox grabbed off two stars and two guys already being considered for starting roles by Manager Steve.

The others Steve plans for starters are the ace lefty, Mel Parnell; the big righthander, Willard Nixon, who came up to the Sox last year after starting with Louisville, and Harry Taylor, former Dodger flinger who won 13 games for St. Paul and then beat both the A's and Yanks in his only American league starts late last year.

Adding to the pitching cup of joy was the return of two other possible starters, Lefty McDermott and Chuck Stobbs. Both were 1-A in service call but Stobbs was given a medical reprieve because of an asthmatic conditions and McDermott has a bad ear which is expected to keep him out of service. Stobbs won 12 for Boston last year and McDermott won seven and lost three.

Outfielder Billy Goodman Outfielder Ted Williams Infielder Lou Boudreau

O'Neill plans to carry 10 pitchers and the personnel of the rest of the staff is good, too. There's Ellis Kinder, who won 14 for the Bosox. There's young Paul Hinrichs, the minister-to-be who was signed by the Yanks for a fancy sum and then dropped because they thought he had a bad arm. O'Neill says the boy's trouble was his groin but he looks good in camp.

Of the rookies, O'Neill likes Jimmie McDonald, who won 11 for Louisville; Bill Evans, a right hander who won 15 for Sacramento; Bennett Flowers, a right-hander from Louisville and Jim Suchecki, also from Louisville.

The Red Sox have pitchers; don't worry about that!

The powerhouse that murdered American league pitching the last few years is still here.

In the outfield the Sox present a fearsome trio of Ted Williams, Dom DiMaggio and Billy Goodman.

Williams, who is hitting well in camp, has complained some about his bad elbow, hurt in the All-game, but O'Neill reports that Ted's arm is okay. Goodman, who led all Boston batters and the league with a 354 mark last year, will play right, according to O'Neill, but Billy can fill in most anywhere.

The infield has its murderers' row, too. Walt Dropo, the rookie star of 1950, has added a little weight and is rarin' to go again. Doerr is at second, Stephens at short and Pesky at third!

Just in case you've forgotten, Doerr hit 27 homers, Dropo 34, Stephens 30 and Williams (only 89 games) smashed 28.

O'Neill's only wide open spot is behind the plate. There are four receivers competing for the job. They are Matt Batts, Buddy Rosar Al Evans and Mike Guerra.

Evans came from Washington and Guerra from the A's.

"Right now," says Steve, "this group is all even. We'll have to see who gets the starting job."

For outfield help and pinch-hitting roles Steve has two clouters in Clyde Vollner and Tom Wright.

You don't talk much about rookies on this club for the varsity is so solid that it would take an amazing reversal of form to unseat them.

But there is one rookie and he's been classed as sensational and will be carried by O'Neill as a spare infielder.

He is Fred Hatfield, who plays third base "like nobody has seen before," to repeat what one observer said here. Hatfield, who spent the last two years with Birmingham, also can hit, having belted 27 homers last year.

Despite the array of talent, good pitching and the presence of Boudreau, Manager Steve doesn't go off the deep end and predict a pennant.

"We've got the best possibilities," he says, "but I look for a battle among the same top four—Boston, New York, Cleveland and Detroit."

There you have the Red Sox of 1951. Will they fold like they did the last two years?

This observer doesn't think so. Not with the new spirit on the club. And O'Neill and Boudreau.

CARDS EDGE BRAVES

BRANDENTON, Fla., March 15 (AP) — A leaping, one-handed catch of Bob Addis' whistling line drive by third baseman Don Richmond abruptly ended a Boston Braves' threat today and preserved a 3-2 exhibition victory for the St. Louis Cardinals.

The Cards had a 3-1 lead going into the last of the ninth. Sid Gordon doubled off Tom Keatin after one was out. With two out Willard Marshall poled a 300 foot triple to riht scorin Gordon. Addis then whacked a 2-2 pitch toward left which Richmond leaped and cauht. Score:

ST. LOUIS (N) ... 110 000 100—3 11 0

HOMER WINS FOR NATS

ORLANDA, Fla., March 15 & — Irv Noren's seventh inning homer lifted Washington to a 5-4 victory over Detroit today as Bob Kuzava, Sid Hudson and Gene Bearden collaborated in restricting the Tigers to four hits.

Noren smashed his game-winning blast over the rightfield fence off rookie Wayne McLeland.

Sherry Robertson led Washington's 12-hit attack with a double and two singles. Score:

Chandler Wanted To Fire Mulbry, Executive Council Blocked Move

Secretary-Treasurer Offered To Resign But It Was Not Accepted

BY JOE REICHLER

SARASOTA, Fle., March 15 (AP)—An attempt by lame duck commissioner Happy Chandler to oust his old sidekick, Walter Mulbry, the secretary-treasurer of baseball, has been blocked by the executive council.

Mulbry tendered his immediate resignation when informed that Chandler had accused him of "disloyalty," but the four-man executive council refused to accept it.

Will Harridge, president of the American League, and a member of the council, released the following statement today:

"On the night of March 12, at Miami Beach, Fla., following the major league joint meeting, the executive council met with Walter Mulbry and discussed the present situation with him. Mr. Mulbry tendered his immediate resignation which the executive council refused to accept, the council deciding to continue Mr. Mulbry in office as secretary treasurer until such time as the council determined."

The meeting, held approximately four hours after Chandler's final repudiation Monday, was kept secret in order "not to irritate the commissioner any further."

Resignation Not Accepted

It was the third time in three months that Mulbry, a Chandler appointee, offered to resign. Mulbry, a lifelong friend of Chandler, broke with his superior some time before the first Chandler setback last December. The reason for the break was never made public.

Mulbry first offered to resign at the St. Petersburg convention prior to the vote which resulted in the failure to re-elect Chandler. It was refused. He attempted to resign again after the vote. Again it was not accepted.

Under the major league agreement, the commissioner appoints the $30,000-a-year secretary, who continues in office at the pleasure of the executive council. This means that Chandler could not fire Mulbry.

At the joint meeting in Miami Beach Monday, Warren Giles of Cincinnati cited a bill of particulars against Mulbry, at the behest of Chandler. There was a split over the resolution to dismiss Mulbry and the owners unanimously agreed to leave the matter in the hands of the executive council.

"The executive council decided to retain Mulbry to protect the interests and welfare of the commissioners office," said Harridge. "We are backing Mulbry to the limit. We have asked him to carry one until the commissioner resigns, at the pleasure of the council. Then we set up machinery for him to act in the commissioner's capacity until a new man is elected.

"It would be a terrible situation if Mulbry resigned, and we had nobody with experience and a knowledge of the duties to run the commissioner's office. We have to have the attention of an experienced man to take care of the players' pension fund, the funds in the commissioner's office and to protect and take care of player disputes."

"We believe Mulbry has done a good job as far as baseball is concerned."

The executive council is made up of Harridge, President Ford Frick of the National League, Tom Yawkey, president of the Boston Red Sox and Giles.

Chandler believed Mulbry was an important factor in his defeat. Had Chandler been re-elected, his first move would have been to force out Mulbry, and replace him with Roger Doulens, an airways publicity representative.

When Chandler was advised of his defeat, he made one request.

"Give me the satisfaction of firing Mulbry before I leave office."

The attendance record for a minor league baseball game was set October 9, 1944, in Baltimore's Municipal Stadium. For the Little World Series game between the Orioles and Louisville, 52,833 paid their way into the park.

Chandler Wanted To Fire Mulbry, Executive Council Blocked Move

Secretary-Treasurer Offered To Resign But It Was Not Accepted

BY JOE REICHLER

SARASOTA, Fle., March 15 (AP)—An attempt by lame duck commissioner Happy Chandler to oust his old sidekick, Walter Mulbry, the secretary-treasurer of baseball, has been blocked by the executive council.

Mulbry tendered his immediate resignation when informed that Chandler had accused him of "disloyalty," but the four-man executive council refused to accept it.

Will Harridge, president of the American League, and a member of the council, released the following statement today:

"On the night of March 12, at Miami Beach, Fla., following the major league joint meeting, the executive council met with Walter Mulbry and discussed the present situation with him. Mr. Mulbry tendered his immediate resignation which the executive council refused to accept, the council deciding to continue Mr. Mulbry in office as secretary treasurer until such time as the council determined."

The meeting, held approximately four hours after Chandler's final repudiation Monday, was kept secret in order "not to irritate the commissioner any further."

Resignation Not Accepted

It was the third time in three months that Mulbry, a Chandler appointee, offered to resign. Mulbry, a lifelong friend of Chandler, broke with his superior some time before the first Chandler setback last December. The reason for the break was never made public.

Mulbry first offered to resign at the St. Petersburg convention prior to the vote which resulted in the failure to re-elect Chandler. It was refused. He attempted to resign again after the vote. Again it was not accepted.

Under the major league agreement, the commissioner appoints the $30,000-a-year secretary, who continues in office at the pleasure of the executive council. This means that Chandler could not fire Mulbry.

At the joint meeting in Miami Beach Monday, Warren Giles of Cincinnati cited a bill of particulars against Mulbry, at the behest of Chandler. There was a split over the resolution to dismiss Mulbry and the owners unanimously agreed to leave the matter in the hands of the executive council.

"The executive council decided to retain Mulbry to protect the interests and welfare of the commissioners office," said Harridge. "We are backing Mulbry to the limit. We have asked him to carry one until the commissioner resigns, at the pleasure of the council. Then we set up machinery for him to act in the commissioner's capacity until a new man is elected.

"It would be a terrible situation if Mulbry resigned, and we had nobody with experience and a knowledge of the duties to run the commissioner's office. We have to have the attention of an experienced man to take care of the players' pension fund, the funds in the commissioner's office and to protect and take care of player disputes."

"We believe Mulbry has done a good job as far as baseball is concerned."

The executive council is made up of Harridge, President Ford Frick of the National League, Tom Yawkey, president of the Boston Red Sox and Giles.

Chandler believed Mulbry was an important factor in his defeat. Had Chandler been re-elected, his first move would have been to force out Mulbry, and replace him with Roger Doulens, an airways publicity representative.

When Chandler was advised of his defeat, he made one request.

The attendance record for a minor league baseball game was set October 9, 1944, in Baltimore's Municipal Stadium. For the Little World Series game between the Orioles and Louisville, 52,833 paid their way into the park.

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD
By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, March 15—(INS)—From the movie arms of Ezio Pinza into the movie arms of Paul Douglas is the next thing in the movie life of Janet Leigh.

As soon as Janet finishes the very last scenes in "Strictly Dishonorable" with Ezio, she dons makeup for "Angels In The Outfield," the baseball saga for which Paul Douglas was borrowed from 20th. This is the Clarence Brown production and is based on the story by Father R. S. Grady.

Janet plays a newspaper woman, and now it looks as if she'll stay on the MGM lot after roaming about a spell at RKO. Tony Curtis is still No. 1 in her life.

Looks as if Actor Robert Newton and the four-months-old baby he brought to this country amid so much excitement and threats of lawsuit from his wife, will be here for a spell.

"Adrocles And The Lion" won't be made for at least ten weeks, so Jerry Wald and Norman Krasna have grabbed Newton to play one of the top roles in "The Blue Veil," Jane Wyman's picture.

Newton is happy about it because he feels he might as well be working while waiting around for the Shaw picture to start.

As doting as though there were no divorce pending, Judy Garland and Vincente Minnelli co-hosted a party for 56 youngsters celebrating little Liza's birthday at the home of the Ira Gershwins on Tuesday.

Judy and Vinc posed separately and together with their little girl cutting her cake and while she opened her gifts. Vinc gave Liza a majorette uniform, copied after one she had admired on a TV show. Judy gave her an evening gown copied after one of Mary Martin's.

Minnelli says his parting from Judy is entirely amicable and that he believes it is the right thing for Judy to have custody of the child. However, Liza will remain here with him for four weeks before leaving with her nurse to join Judy in London. I'm glad for everyone's sake that there will be no battle.

It's very possible John Farrow may make "The Life Of Christ," on which he has been working for three years, in Italy. Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., has been discussing that possibility with him.

Paramount is interested, and I can understand why, because the sketches which Johnny brought for me to see are really beautiful.

This idea of a picture based on the beautiful story of our Savior has been uppermost in John's mind for years, and I do hope he'll be able to make the picture.

Snapshots of Hollywod collected at random:

Paul Marsh, popular publicist, has been buying cigars. Reason—a new baby daughter, his first.

Jules Stein has gone to New York to personally handle the picture deal of Russell Nype who is going to make a picture this summer. Nype has 12 weeks leave of absence from "Call Me Madam." He's the boy the Duchess of Windsor finds so attractive.

Gordon MacRae comes through with this for Doris Day when she marries Marty Melcher next month. Says Gordon, "Doris should wear a new tune, an old tune, a borrowed tune and a blue tune."

The blues singers from Honolulu, Charles Durand and Guy Brion, brought out a goodly number of the film crowd. Gloria DeHaven was there with Nicky Hilton and they were photographed again and again, this time without trouble.

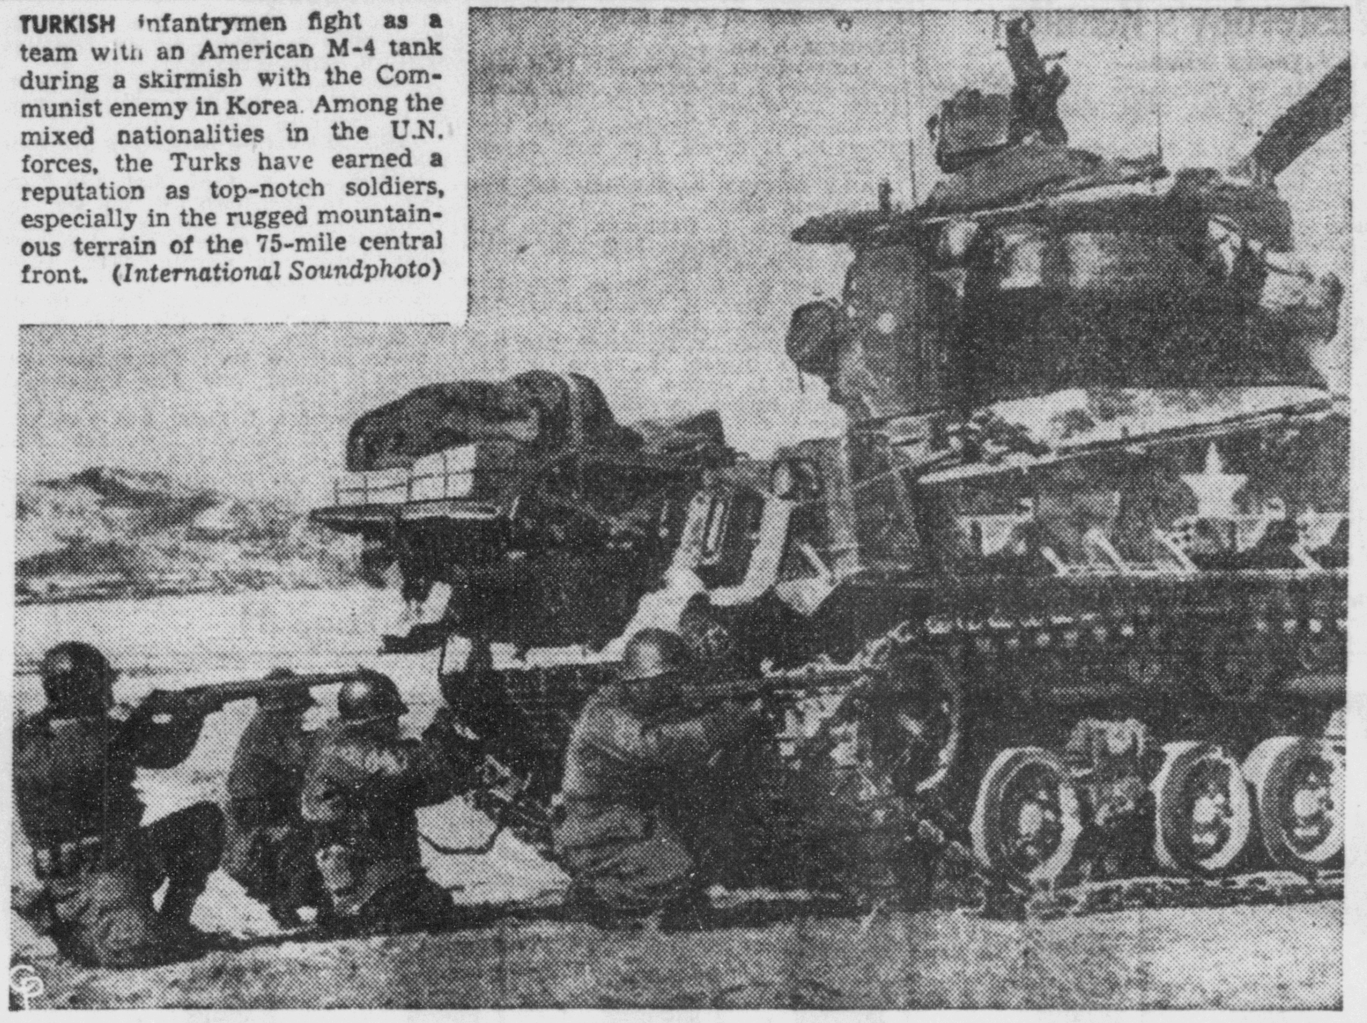
The Princess Fathia, sister of King Farouk, and her husband Riad Rhali, were in ringside seats. She's the sister who was disowned at the time of her marriage by her king brother.

Everything must be okey-dokey with Joan Davis and Danny Elman. They were Mocamboing together and apparently very happy.

Nancy Guild's two-year-old daughter, Elizabeth, has been very sick with tonsilitis and bronchitis, so Nancy tells me she's taking the baby to Palm Springs for some sun. I met her at our mutual dentist, Dr. Lumsden.

Linda Darnell and Greg Tallas are still an item. They were glimpsed at the Har-Omar at a table for two.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!



TURKISH infantrymen fight as a team with an American M-4 tank during a skirmish with the Communist enemy in Korea. Among the mixed nationalities in the U.N. forces, the Turks have earned a reputation as top-notch soldiers, especially in the rugged mountainous terrain of the 75-mile central front. Try And Stop Me
By BENNETT CERF

Garson Kanin, famed director and author of Born Yesterday, confesses that one of his earliest theatrical chores was a primitive radio commercial in which he essayed the role of a dish-washing machine. Rita Johnson, also involved in the epic, played the part of a fish platter. "I am a simple dish," she was paid the minimum Equity wage to declare. "I love liquid soap, and never chip in the smoothing, rotary motion of the Blank Economy Washer."

Then Kanin replied in equally poetic terms. Exactly what he said, however, he swears will remain a secret known only to fellow dish-washing machines.

A worried girl came down from the mountains to tell her doctor, "We gotta do somthin' 'bout grandmaw's smokin'. She inhales." "Nothing so terrible about that, Elviry," soothed the doctor. "Plenty of women inhale nowadays." "You don't understan'," persisted Elviry. "Grandmaw don't exhale!"

HOLLYWOOD
By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, March 15—(INS)—From the movie arms of Ezio Pinza into the movie arms of Paul Douglas is the next thing in the movie life of Janet Leigh.

As soon as Janet finishes the very last scenes in "Strictly Dishonorable" with Ezio, she dons makeup for "Angels In The Outfield," the baseball saga for which Paul Douglas was borrowed from 20th. This is the Clarence Brown production and is based on the story by Father R. S. Grady.

Janet plays a newspaper woman, and now it looks as if she'll stay on the MGM lot after roaming about a spell at RKO. Tony Curtis is still No. 1 in her life.

Looks as if Actor Robert Newton and the four-months-old baby he brought to this country amid so much excitement and threats of lawsuit from his wife, will be here for a spell.

"Adrocles And The Lion" won't be made for at least ten weeks, so Jerry Wald and Norman Krasna have grabbed Newton to play one of the top roles in "The Blue Veil," Jane Wyman's picture.

Newton is happy about it because he feels he might as well be working while waiting around for the Shaw picture to start.

As doting as though there were no divorce pending, Judy Garland and Vincente Minnelli co-hosted a party for 56 youngsters celebrating little Liza's birthday at the home of the Ira Gershwins on Tuesday.

Judy and Vinc posed separately and together with their little girl cutting her cake and while she opened her gifts. Vinc gave Liza a majorette uniform, copied after one she had admired on a TV show. Judy gave her an evening gown copied after one of Mary Martin's.

Minnelli says his parting from Judy is entirely amicable and that he believes it is the right thing for Judy to have custody of the child. However, Liza will remain here with him for four weeks before leaving with her nurse to join Judy in London. I'm glad for everyone's sake that there will be no battle.

It's very possible John Farrow may make "The Life Of Christ," on which he has been working for three years, in Italy. Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., has been discussing that possibility with him.

Paramount is interested, and I can understand why, because the sketches which Johnny brought for me to see are really beautiful.

This idea of a picture based on the beautiful story of our Savior has been uppermost in John's mind for years, and I do hope he'll be able to make the picture.

Snapshots of Hollywod collected at random:

Paul Marsh, popular publicist, has been buying cigars. Reason—a new baby daughter, his first.

Jules Stein has gone to New York to personally handle the picture deal of Russell Nype who is going to make a picture this summer. Nype has 12 weeks leave of absence from "Call Me Madam." He's the boy the Duchess of Windsor finds so attractive.

Gordon MacRae comes through with this for Doris Day when she marries Marty Melcher next month. Says Gordon, "Doris should wear a new tune, an old tune, a borrowed tune and a blue tune."

The blues singers from Honolulu, Charles Durand and Guy Brion, brought out a goodly number of the film crowd. Gloria DeHaven was there with Nicky Hilton and they were photographed again and again, this time without trouble.

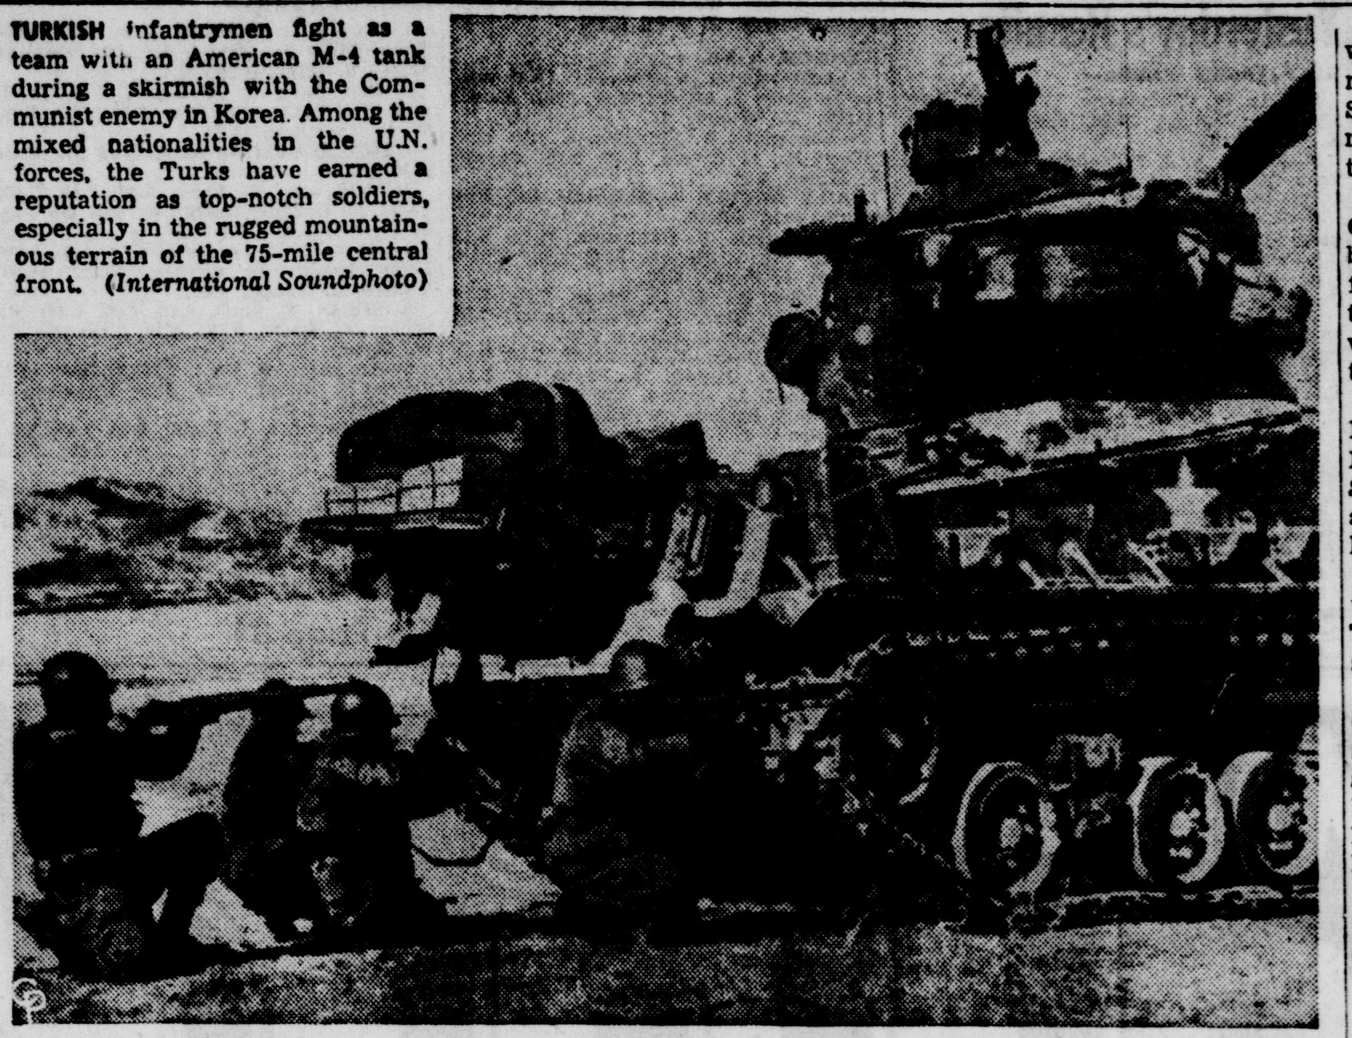
The Princess Fathia, sister of King Farouk, and her husband Riad Rhali, were in ringside seats. She's the sister who was disowned at the time of her marriage by her king brother.

Everything must be okey-dokey with Joan Davis and Danny Elman. They were Mocamboing together and apparently very happy.

Nancy Guild's two-year-old daughter, Elizabeth, has been very sick with tonsilitis and bronchitis, so Nancy tells me she's taking the baby to Palm Springs for some sun. I met her at our mutual dentist, Dr. Lumsden.

Linda Darnell and Greg Tallas are still an item. They were glimpsed at the Har-Omar at a table for two.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!



TURKISH infantrymen fight as a team with an American M-4 tank during a skirmish with the Communist enemy in Korea. Among the mixed nationalities in the U.N. forces, the Turks have earned a reputation as top-notch soldiers, especially in the rugged mountainous terrain of the 75-mile central front. Try And Stop Me
By BENNETT CERF

Garson Kanin, famed director and author of Born Yesterday, confesses that one of his earliest theatrical chores was a primitive radio commercial in which he essayed the role of a dish-washing machine. Rita Johnson, also involved in the epic, played the part of a fish platter. "I am a simple dish," she was paid the minimum Equity wage to declare. "I love liquid soap, and never chip in the smoothing, rotary motion of the Blank Economy Washer."

Then Kanin replied in equally poetic terms. Exactly what he said, however, he swears will remain a secret known only to fellow dish-washing machines.

A worried girl came down from the mountains to tell her doctor, "We gotta do somthin' 'bout grandmaw's smokin'. She inhales." "Nothing so terrible about that, Elviry," soothed the doctor. "Plenty of women inhale nowadays." "You don't understan'," persisted Elviry. "Grandmaw don't exhale!"

The Flea Position

THE MAIL PACKET is in with intelligence from overseas. I like to keep abreast of the more important news from Britain and I'm sure you do too. You want to know what's happening in England? I'll tell you what's happening in England. There's a shortage of fleas.

So severe a shortage—let's not mince words—that there probably won't be a flea circus at the Festival of Britain this year. Billy Rayner who was to have staged the flea circus reviewed the flea situation to "The Daily Telegraph" and, believe me, it's grim. Trained fleas, as any fool knows, have to come from human beings. Fleas from animals die when they are parted from the animal. Well, sir, no one seems to have fleas any more. Mr. Raynor has advertised for them without success. (He wants 12).

John Crosby

• — • — •

"Since the war, the flea position has been getting steadily worse," explained Mr. Raynor. "I blame the vacuum cleaners and the newfangled disinfectants. The average flea lives only for about three months and they do not breed in captivity. Toward the end of the three months they become stiff-jointed, just like humans in their old age. And then they cannot ride the cycles, pull chariots or do sword-fighting. All the old fleas can manage is an occasional dance. The public won't pay to see that. It is just what they expect from fleas anyway.

"We usually find that the more educated people are, the more interest they take in our fleas. At Oxford we bring the house down,"

Horrifying situation, no doubt about it. Flea circuses are a much older and, in many ways, more respected form of show business than radio or television. We can let it fall victim to vacuum cleaners and newfangled disinfectants. Seems to me, if we can ship a load of coal to Yorkshire, one of the leading coal-producing areas in the world, (as we recently did) we ought to be able to rustle up 12 fleas for the British.

I've been looking around on my own. Inspected my four-year-old son from head to toe to see if he was harboring any talent. His fleas used to be able to do sword-fighting with the authority of Errol Flynn. But not any more. Not any more. I blame it on the progressive school my son is attending. Nowadays, my son's fleas just lie around reading books. And the public won't pay to see that. It's just what they expect from fleas anyway. They can't even muster up an occasional dance, these fleas.

• — • — •

It's all very well for Mr. Rayner to say that the more educated the people are, the greater their interest in fleas. But the more educated the fleas get, the more trouble they are. Our fleas are still young enough to ride the cycles, pull chariots or do sword-fighting. They just won't They've been educated to the point where they consider it beneath their dignity. And they don't think the money is right. These young American fleas all want to be Ed Sullivan; their aim is to introduce people and let them ride the cycles. The great ambition of one of our fleas is to introduce Ed Sullivan and make him pull the chariot for a change.

• — • — •

You can hardly blame them, the way the talent situation is these days. A girl can rehearse for three weeks, memorize 60 pages of dialogue and give a whale of a performance on, say "Studio One." She'll make maybe $200, if she's lucky. It's much more rewarding to be Eva Gabor, tell the guests where to sit down and say "What's new?"—an easy line. If you ask me, these fleas just wised up a little quicker than the humans. There'll come a time—you mark my words—when the actors, the singers, the dancers are going to get darned tired of doing even an occasional dance for Mr. Sullivan. Let him do his own occasional dance.

"The Authority on Authorities"

CAN'T KEEP THEM BOTH

ONE OF the first laws of science is the principle in physics that two bodies can not occupy the same space at the same time That is the factor which makes a squeeze play work. Suppose you are the victimized defender and you get down to the stage where you have to make a discard which would leave only three cards in your hand. If you have only spaces for that many, obviously you can't retain four. Suppose, however, you would require two cards in each of two suits to guard them. Obviously you can't guard them both, but must release your protection in one or the other.

Instead of using the Blackwood 4-No Trumps after hearing South's strong 3-No Trumps, North decided that inviting slam naturally while showing his five-card spade length was better. South accepted by cue-bidding his club A, which of course might have been a mere suit rebid, whereupon North soundly put the slam into No Trumps

Upon seeing the dummy after the club Q lead, South counted ten tricks in top cards and chances for developing others. The club K won the first trick, then the spade K and Q showed that this suit wouldn't break, as West shed a diamond The diamond 5 to the J finesse worked to make the eleventh trick available. To develop a squeeze, South scored the diamond A and gave up the spade 6 to East's 8, discarding the club 4 East, refusing to lead into the spade tenace, returned the diamond 7 to the K. Now the heart K and A were scored and the spade A laid down for discard of the club 7

Dummy still retained the heart Q-7 and club 6, and South the heart 6 and club A-9. West had to keep the heart J-10 to guard against the 7 in dummy, so was obliged to discard from his club J-10. The declarer then scored the heart Q, club A to drop the J and finally the club 9 to complete the squeeze and make his contract

The Flea Position

THE MAIL PACKET is in with intelligence from overseas. I like to keep abreast of the more important news from Britain and I'm sure you do too. You want to know what's happening in England? I'll tell you what's happening in England. There's a shortage of fleas.

So severe a shortage—let's not mince words—that there probably won't be a flea circus at the Festival of Britain this year. Billy Rayner who was to have staged the flea circus reviewed the flea situation to "The Daily Telegraph" and, believe me, it's grim. Trained fleas, as any fool knows, have to come from human beings. Fleas from animals die when they are parted from the animal. Well, sir, no one seems to have fleas any more. Mr. Raynor has advertised for them without success. (He wants 12).

"Since the war, the flea position has been getting steadily worse," explained Mr. Raynor. "I blame the vacuum cleaners and the newfangled disinfectants. The average flea lives only for about three months and they do not breed in captivity. Toward the end of the three months they become stiff-jointed, just like humans in their old age. And then they cannot ride the cycles, pull chariots or do sword-fighting. All the old fleas can manage is an occasional dance. The public won't pay to see that. It is just what they expect from fleas anyway.

"We usually find that the more educated people are, the more interest they take in our fleas. At Oxford we bring the house down,"

Horrifying situation, no doubt about it. Flea circuses are a much older and, in many ways, more respected form of show business than radio or television. We can let it fall victim to vacuum cleaners and newfangled disinfectants. Seems to me, if we can ship a load of coal to Yorkshire, one of the leading coal-producing areas in the world, (as we recently did) we ought to be able to rustle up 12 fleas for the British.

I've been looking around on my own. Inspected my four-year-old son from head to toe to see if he was harboring any talent. His fleas used to be able to do sword-fighting with the authority of Errol Flynn. But not any more. Not any more. I blame it on the progressive school my son is attending. Nowadays, my son's fleas just lie around reading books. And the public won't pay to see that. It's just what they expect from fleas anyway. They can't even muster up an occasional dance, these fleas.

It's all very well for Mr. Rayner to say that the more educated the people are, the greater their interest in fleas. But the more educated the fleas get, the more trouble they are. Our fleas are still young enough to ride the cycles, pull chariots or do sword-fighting. They just won't They've been educated to the point where they consider it beneath their dignity. And they don't think the money is right. These young American fleas all want to be Ed Sullivan; their aim is to introduce people and let them ride the cycles. The great ambition of one of our fleas is to introduce Ed Sullivan and make him pull the chariot for a change.

●—●—●

You can hardly blame them, the way the talent situation is these days. A girl can rehearse for three weeks, memorize 60 pages of dialogue and give a whale of a performance on, say "Studio One." She'll make maybe $200, if she's lucky. It's much more rewarding to be Eva Gabor, tell the guests where to sit down and say "What's new?"—an easy line. If you ask me, these fleas just wised up a little quicker than the humans. There'll come a time—you mark my words—when the actors, the singers, the dancers are going to get darned tired of doing even an occasional dance for Mr. Sullivan. Let him do his own occasional dance.

"The Authority on Authorities"

CAN'T KEEP THEM BOTH

ONE OF the first laws of science is the principle in physics that two bodies can not occupy the same space at the same time That is the factor which makes a squeeze play work. Suppose you are the victimized defender and you get down to the stage where you have to make a discard which would leave only three cards in your hand. If you have only spaces for that many, obviously you can't retain four. Suppose, however, you would require two cards in each of two suits to guard them. Obviously you can't guard them both, but must release your protection in one or the other.

Instead of using the Blackwood 4-No Trumps after hearing South's strong 3-No Trumps, North decided that inviting slam naturally while showing his five-card spade length was better. South accepted by cue-bidding his club A, which of course might have been a mere suit rebid, whereupon North soundly put the slam into No Trumps

Upon seeing the dummy after the club Q lead, South counted ten tricks in top cards and chances for developing others. The club K won the first trick, then the spade K and Q showed that this suit wouldn't break, as West shed a diamond The diamond 5 to the J finesse worked to make the eleventh trick available To develop a squeeze, South scored the diamond A and gave up the spade 6 to East's 8, discarding the club 4 East, refusing to lead into the spade tenace, returned the diamond 7 to the K. Now the heart K and A were scored and the spade A laid down for discard of the club 7

Dummy still retained the heart Q-7 and club 6, and South the heart 6 and club A-9 West had to keep the heart J-10 to guard against the 7 in dummy, so was obliged to discard from his club J-10 The declarer then scored the heart Q, club A to drop the J and finally the club 9 to complete the squeeze and make his contract

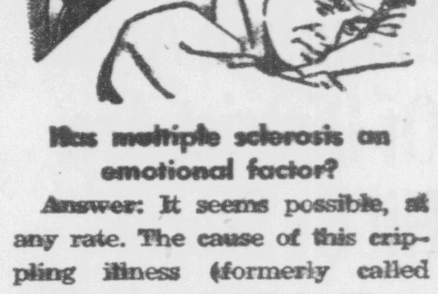
MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

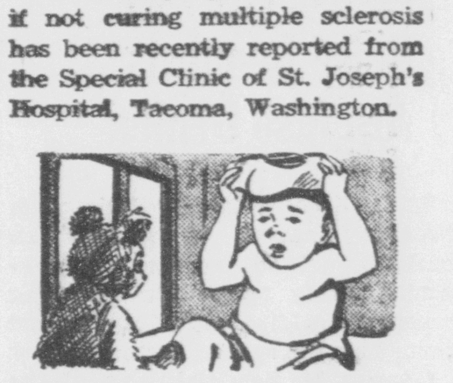
May a "rejection complex" lead to murder?

Answer: Yes. It ranks near or at the top of the list of unconscious motivations for violent killing. Because of the panic terror it is based on, there is no rage more intense or blind than that of a child who feels rejected by his mother. And when this rage, which the child was helpless to express, is revived through a man's being rejected by the wife or sweetheart he has made the "mother substitute," he is likely to attack her without mercy or regard for consequences, even to himself. You will seldom open a newspaper without reading of such a murder.



Has multiple sclerosis an emotional factor?

Answer: It seems possible, at any rate. The cause of this crippling illness (formerly called "creeping paralysis") is still unknown, but in many cases, it is said to follow "emotional upheavals" such as a man's being deserted by his wife. However, such a shock may merely lower the victim's resistance to whatever weakness or infection he is currently exposed to rather than directly causing a specific disease. Remarkable progress in arresting, if not curing multiple sclerosis has been recently reported from the Special Clinic of St. Joseph's Hospital, Tacoma, Washington.



May small children suffer from migraine?

Answer: Apparently. Two Swedish physicians, Drs. Bo Vahlquist and Gunnar Hackzell, report studying 31 cases in children from one to four years old. Babies under two do not usually tell you that their heads hurt but the typical paleness of migraine accompanied by intense vomiting may occur from the age of one year. Migraine in small children usually does not last as long or show as many warning symptoms as in adults, but the nausea is even more severe. There is said to be a fair chance of the child's "outgrowing" the condition.

A Wheeling writer suggests that the best way for Mike Valan to recoup some of his losses which amount to thousands of dollars, is to take steps to organize a league composed of basketball teams in the Ohio valley.

He believes a loop with Charleston, Fairmont, Huntington, Clarksburg, Wheeling, Bellaire, Martins Ferry, Weirton and Steubenville in it would be a walloping success at the box office because they're all natural rivals.

Wheelingites, he says, have no interest in the A-A League's three Pennsylvania clubs—Altoona, Beaver Falls and Erie—or Cumberland, and they stay away from Madison gym for the pro settos.

Leo Clark of Meyersdale, Pa., is a patient in the U. S. Veterans Hospital, Aspinwall, Pa., where he may have to undergo another operation on his leg which was amputated during World War I by the Germans who performed a crude operation after he was wounded by shrapnel and fell into their hands.

Gangrene set in and many operations have been performed in recent years.

Leo is a brother of Francis "Irish" Clark, well known Meyersdale and Cumberland basketball star, and was a basketeer himself back in the days when Lonaconing had topnotch independent teams. Leo also was an outstanding baseball umpire prior to the First World War.

Stock Prices Make Modest Advance In Stormy Session

NEW YORK, March 15 (AP)—There was stormy weather in the stock market today, but the session ended with a rainbow around its shoulders.

The sweeps up and down covered considerable territory during the day. The average gain at the close was modest, but some of the individual issues raced up to nearly $4 a share.

By far the best gains were shown in the radio-television group and the rails, steels, motors, chemicals, air lines, and utilities had their share of plus signs.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks added 20 cents at $92.10. The industrial component was up 50 cents, rails 20 cents, and utilities 10 cents. The upturn came after four straight days of losses.

The volume of trading came to 2,070,000 shares as against 2,110,000 shares yesterday. This is the third straight day that the two million mark has been passed.

Radio Corp. was the most active issued up 1⅜ at 20⅜. It was followed by International Telephone up ½ at 17, General Motors up⅛ at 51¼, Socony Vacuum off ¼ at 25⅝, and U. S. Steel up ¼ at 42.

Most of the oils were lower.

Zenith Radio declared a quarterly dividend of 50 cents and a 50-cent extra. The previous extra was last October, the first in many years. It closed up 3¾ at 68½.

Texas & Pacific Railway declared a quarterly dividend of $1.25 to put the common on a $5 annual basis as against the previous $4 basis. A $1 extra was paid last December. The stock closed up 2 at $95.

MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

May a "rejection complex" lead to murder?

Answer: Yes. It ranks near or at the top of the list of unconscious motivations for violent killing. Because of the panic terror it is based on, there is no rage more intense or blind than that of a child who feels rejected by his mother. And when this rage, which the child was helpless to express, is revived through a man's being rejected by the wife or sweetheart he has made the "mother substitute," he is likely to attack her without mercy or regard for consequences, even to himself. You will seldom open a newspaper without reading of such a murder.

Has multiple sclerosis an emotional factor?

Answer: It seems possible, at any rate. The cause of this crippling illness (formerly called "creeping paralysis") is still unknown, but in many cases, it is said to follow "emotional upheavals" such as a man's being deserted by his wife. However, such a shock may merely lower the victim's resistance to whatever weakness or infection he is currently exposed to rather than directly causing a specific disease. Remarkable progress in arresting, if not curing multiple sclerosis has been recently reported from the Special Clinic of St. Joseph's Hospital, Tacoma, Washington.

May small children suffer from migraine?

Answer: Apparently. Two Swedish physicians, Drs. Bo Vahlquist and Gunnar Hackzell, report studying 31 cases in children from one to four years old. Babies under two do not usually tell you that their heads hurt but the typical paleness of migraine accompanied by intense vomiting may occur from the age of one year. Migraine in small children usually does not last as long or show as many warning symptoms as in adults, but the nausea is even more severe. There is said to be a fair chance of the child's "outgrowing" the condition.

A Wheeling writer suggests that the best way for Mike Valan to recoup some of his losses which amount to thousands of dollars, is to take steps to organize a league composed of basketball teams in the Ohio valley.

He believes a loop with Charleston, Fairmont, Huntington, Clarksburg, Wheeling, Bellaire, Martins Ferry, Weirton and Steubenville in it would be a walloping success at the box office because they're all natural rivals.

Wheelingites, he says, have no interest in the A-A League's three Pennsylvania clubs—Altoona, Beaver Falls and Erie—or Cumberland, and they stay away from Madison gym for the pro settos.

Leo Clark of Meyersdale, Pa., is a patient in the U. S. Veterans Hospital, Aspinwall, Pa., where he may have to undergo another operation on his leg which was amputated during World War I by the Germans who performed a crude operation after he was wounded by shrapnel and fell into their hands.

Gangrene set in and many operations have been performed in recent years.

Leo is a brother of Francis "Irish" Clark, well known Meyersdale and Cumberland basketball star, and was a basketeer himself back in the days when Lonaconing had topnotch independent teams. Leo also was an outstanding baseball umpire prior to the First World War.

Morris Touchstone, one-time W. M. I. League basketball and soccer referee, has been named coach of the North team for the North-South intercollegiate lacrosse game to be played June 9 at Troy, N. Y.

Touchstone, who worked schoolboy games here in the 1920s, has coached soccer at Yale and the U. S. Military Academy. He is now head coach of lacrosse at West Point.

Stock Prices Make Modest Advance In Stormy Session

NEW YORK, March 15 (AP)—There was stormy weather in the stock market today, but the session ended with a rainbow around its shoulders.

The sweeps up and down covered considerable territory during the day. The average gain at the close was modest, but some of the individual issues raced up to nearly $4 a share.

By far the best gains were shown in the radio-television group and the rails, steels, motors, chemicals, air lines, and utilities had their share of plus signs.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks added 20 cents at $92.10. The industrial component was up 50 cents, rails 20 cents, and utilities 10 cents. The upturn came after four straight days of losses.

The volume of trading came to 2,070,000 shares as against 2,110,000 shares yesterday. This is the third straight day that the two million mark has been passed.

Radio Corp. was the most active issued up 1⅜ at 20⅜. It was followed by International Telephone up ⅛ at 17, General Motors up⅛ at 51¼, Socony Vacuum off ¼ at 25⅝, and U. S. Steel up ¼ at 42.

Most of the oils were lower.

Zenith Radio declared a quarterly dividend of 50 cents and a 50-cent extra. The previous extra was last October, the first in many years. It closed up 3¾ at 68½.

Texas & Pacific Railway declared a quarterly dividend of $1.25 to put the common on a $5 annual basis as against the previous $4 basis. A $1 extra was paid last December. The stock closed up 2 at $95.

City's Special Taxing Plan Is Rejected By Delegation

Police, Fire Pay Raise Requests Are Also Denied

The Allegany County Delegation yesterday agreed to sponsor an enabling act to increase Cumberland's taxing power for operating expenses by five cents but turned down bids for special taxing powers.

Charles M. See, chairman of the Delegation, said the action was by a majority of the Delegation, which at the same time turned down all requests for salary increases by city employes, including the police and fire departments.

He said the bill will be placed in the hopper today.

Athur M. Gibson, city auditor, said the five cents additional taxing power, raising the operating levy to 95 cents, will give the city about $32,150 additional revenue, just about enough to pay for the $13 a month cost of living increase granted to all city employes last December, and estimated to cost about $30,000.

Deny Wage Boosts

See said the Delegation felt that if it granted increases to the police and firemen it should grant boosts to all city employes and that such action would make the city tax burden prohibitive.

He said the Delegation felt that due to the unemployment in Allegany County that this is not the opportune time to increase the tax rates.

The city had asked that the tax rate be increased from 90 to $1.10 per $100 of assessable property.

Delegates said they had given the wage increase requests a great deal of consideration but came to the conclusion they could not be granted since only more taxes would have made the grant possible.

Decision Is Slated

See said a decision is slated today on the Bowling Green special taxing area bill.

He added that Delegate Whitworth's bill to call for a county wide vote on Daylight Savings Time is in the hands of the printer and that the Cumberland sewage bond bill is being held up by the Delegation pending a definite decision.

He said a bill to revise the Cumberland Civil Service and Merit Systems has not yet been received by the Delegation.

The authority to raise the tax rate five cents will enable the city to raise about $610,850, based on a valuation of $64,300,000.

The chief trouble is that this year's budget includes $150,000 surplus remaining from state shared income.

Must Curtail Services

It will mean that the city must curtail some services in order to remain within its budget.

One of the problems, according to Gibson, is that most of the state shared income, especially from gasoline taxes and racing, must be matched by city funds. Gasoline tax income, for instance, must be used for street maintenance and construction and racing income for the sanitation system and street cleaning.

In order to keep the state income, the city must raise money from taxes to match the grants, and the needs of the city for street and sanitation is so great that it cannot afford to turn down the state grants.

Officer Served Warrant On Assault Charge

A warrant has been served on Officer George Pfeiffer of the city police force charging him with assault following a scuffle while placing a Ridgeley, W. Va., man under arrest January 30 in a bus on Virginia Avenue.

According to the state's attorney's office it was issued by Trial Magistrate Frank A. Perdew. No date has as yet been set for the hearing.

He is charged with hitting Herman Brant, 43. Brant was a patient in Memorial Hospital three weeks following the scuffle.

Officer Pfeiffer, in an earlier statement to the press, declared he noticed Brant standing on the corner of Virginia and Laing Avenues the night of January 30.

He asked him to straighten his disarrayed clothing and after Brant boarded the bus Officer Pfeiffer said the Ridgeley man directed an obscene remark to him.

The officer then said he boarded the bus and in a scuffle that ensued, he admitted that it was necessary to hit Brant with his mace.

He was later taken to the hospital, discharged and taken into custody.

Brant remained in the city jail overnight and was taken to the hospital the following morning when he was found in a dazed condition in his cell.

He was treated during the three weeks for an injury over his right eye. He was semi-conscious for fairly long periods, doctors reported.

Brant was booked at police headquarters for being drunk and disorderly, and for resisting arrest.

The family claims that Brant has not regained the sight of his right eye since being released from the hospital.

The state's attorney's office has conducted an investigation into the case. Several witnesses to the altercation between the Ridgeley man and the officer have made official statements.

WEATHER

Local residents were missed again by the snow and sleet that has hit this district for the second time in three days. There was no precipitation here. Highest temperature recorded at Constitution Park weather station was 43. Low was 31. It was 36 about 10 o'clock last night. Today's forecast calls for fair and mild.

Mountain Areas Of District Are Hit By Storm

Roads Slippery West Of Cumberland

For the second time in three days the Tri-State area has been struck by an unseasonable snow storm. The mountains near Frostburg and Grantsville caught the brunt of the storm.

Snow was falling last night in the mountain city and westward, making roads hazardous and visibility poor. State Police warned motorists that most of the hills west of here were slippery and that some cars were unable to negotiate the hills without chains.

Roads east of Cumberland were reported clear.

Points along the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad main line were generally above freezing with a uniform blanket of two to three inches of new snow. It was still snowing at Altamont, Terra Alta, Blazer, and Hardman, W. Va.

At Deal, Pa., the six inch blanket of old snow was still there with the weather cloudy. It was snowing lightly at Thomas, W. Va., while Rockwood, Pa., reported a 28 degree temperature and cloudy, with about three inches of old snow remaining.

There was no new snow in the district around Romney, W. Va., although there was some wind blowing. Roads were clear.

Forecasts for today call for fair and milder this afternoon.

Textile Workers Ask Wage Boost

Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America (CIO), yesterday opened negotiations with the Celanese Corporation of America for a wage increase at the Amcelle plant.

Herbert W. Payne, rayon director for the TWUA, who headed the union delegation at the hour and one-half conference at the plant yesterday afternoon, declined to comment on the meeting.

The union early this year requested a voluntary reopening of the contract at the Amcelle plant to provide cost of living wage adjustments.

It was understood, prior to the meeting, that the union would ask that wages be brought up to the 10 per cent general advance since January, 1950, permitted by the Wage Stabilization Board.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Humbertson, Jr., RFD No. 1, Cash Valley Road, a son yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Karlowa, Jr., Hyattsville, a daughter Wednesday at Prince Georges County General Hospital, Cheverly. The mother is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Winfield Burton, Cumberland and the father is the son of Robert Karlowa, Frostburg.

Bowling Green Tax Area Hearing Held In Annapolis

A hearing was held in Annapolis Tuesday in connection with the creation of the Bowling Green Special Tax Area in Allegany County. It concerns installation of fire hydrants and street lights in the community.

Fifteen residents of Bowling Green were present at the Tuesday hearing. Representing those for the new legislation were Mr. and Mrs. Ralph G. Cover, Mrs. Paul Umberger, Samuel S. Smith, Arthur C. Page and George Harman.

The proponents said that since assessment value of the community is rapidly approaching the $1,000,000 mark, that based on the figure, light service and water rental service on hydrants would not exceed the 30 cent figure per $100 as set forth in the proposed bill.

Also it was made known that when the hydrants were in operation and approved by the Maryland Fire Underwriters Rating Bureau that a substantial savings in insurance rates would result. Public safety was stressed in the installation of necessary pipe and water hydrants which required a mimimum of 25 cents on $100. A referendum is included in the bill so that residents can vote pro or con by secret ballot after its passage by the Maryland Assembly.

The opposition including Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Glenn Curry, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Painter, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Painter, Mrs. Charles Hughes, V. L. Shepherd and Oliver Winebrenner said that they had moved out of Cumberland to escape city tax rates and objected to the imposition of additional taxation despite the insurance rate decrease. One opponent cited inflation and proposed national taxes saying that the majority of the residents of the community would be unable to carry the added burden.

Preston Pickets Stand Mute In County Court

March 28 Date Set For First Pleadings

KINGWOOD, W. Va., March 15 (AP)—On the advice of their attorney, 58 pickets accused of violence in Preston County's non-union coal fields stood mute when invited to plead to indictments today.

Instead, Thomas W. Lewis of Kingwood, attorney for the United Mine Workers, indicated he would challenge each of the indictments, and Circuit Judge C. P. Wilhelm set March 28 to hear the first of these pleadings.

Lewis is appearing in the case as assistant to Louis Meisel, counsel for UMW District 31 at Fairmont.

All but two of the accused men were named in true bills returned by a special grand jury impaneled last week to look into the two-months-old strike that has been continuing in the non-union mining fields of Preston County.

Two other indictements were returned this week by the regular grand jury.

Felonies and misdemeanors were included among the counts. Most of the felony charges involved the stoning of buses and passenger automobiles carrying non-union miners to their jobs.

Among the defendants in court were two UMW field organizers, Harry Myers of Morgantown and Joe Serdich of Grant Town.

Probe Ends In Fatal Accident

The investigation into the fatal injury of Miss Helen G. Farnham, 78, Chicago, has been completed according to the state's attorney's office. It was found that no criminal negligence was involved and no charges preferred against the driver Ervin R. Emerick, 25, Corriganville.

The elderly woman died two hours after being admitted to Memorial Hospital last Friday afternoon after she had walked into the right rear end of a lumber truck going north on Route 35 towards the Pennsylvania State line. The driver swerved to the left across the highway into a hedge in an attempt to avoid striking the woman.

Miss Farnham had been visiting her niece, Mrs. Graeme W. Stewart, Ellerslie, and had been in DeVore's grocery store prior to the mishap. She died of a fractured skull.

Property Is Sold

A deed filed in Allegany County Circuit Court yesterday revealed the sale of property on Bedford Street extended from H. Frank Hinze to Arthur Franklin Friendland and Bernice A. Friendland. Tax stamps indicated the sale price was approximately $15,000.

War Is Not Inevitable, Van Kirk Says

Addresses Civic Club's Annual Men's Dinner

Classing war as certainly not inevitable, Rev. Dr. Walter Van Kirk, secretary of the Department of International Justice and Goodwill of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, said here last night and that he believes the world is in need of moral and spiritual regeneration.

Speaking on the theme, "Peace and War," at the fifth annual Men's Dinner Meeting of the Woman's Civic Club, held at the Cumberland Country Club, Dr. Van Kirk, international known lecturer, author and radio commentator, recalled that he attended the opening of the United Nations in San Francisco. He called upon his listeners to keep their faith in the UN.

Continue To Negotiate

He said America should never get to the point of no longer negotiating with Russia or with any nation, and added that only a strong nation is in a position to negotiate.

Avoid impatience and continue to negotiate in order to gain world peace, he advised his listeners.

Terming another world charter unnecessary, he said the need is for spiritual rebuilding regardless of belief, which would bring about the ability to stand against secularism.

The club choral group, directed by Mrs. William B. Ludman, presented thre selections, "The Love Nest," "Rosemarie" and "It's An Irish Lullaby." Miss Joyce Bestwick led group singing, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. R. C. Lord. The Colomy Trio furnished dinner music.

Mrs. A. W. Keight, president, presided. Dr. Van Kirk was introduced by Rev. Dr. Hixon T. Bowersox, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church. The invocation was asked by Mrs. R. W. Young.

District President Attends

Special guests were Mrs. Ray W. Brown, president of the First District of the Maryland Federation of Women's Clubs, and Mr. Brown.

Mrs. Earl F. Gower, Jr., hospitality chairman, was in charge of arrangements, assisted by Mrs. Paul M. Fletcher, Mrs. Walter L. Pierce, Mrs. S. Hodges Smith and Mrs. Albert S. Paye. Mrs. J. M. Pitkethly was program chairman.

The large dinner table was decorated with tall silver candelabra with yellow candles and large bouquets of spring flowers. The smaller table was decorated with silver and crystal candelabra with yellow candles, surrounded by fern. To each yellow candle a purple iris was attached.

Rev. Linger To Head District Revivals

Baptist churches of the Western District, composed of Allegany and Garret Counties, will join all other Baptist districts east of the Mississippi River in an evangelistic and revival campaign beginnng March 26 and continuing through April 8.

The campaign is a voluntary one, but most Baptist Churches in this district will cooperate. Rev. O. Afton Linger, pastor of First Baptist Church here will be general chairman for the district and Rev. Kenneth M. Hayes, pastor of Second Baptist, will be organizational chairman.

There will be visiting evangelists assisting most of the ministers.

An advertising campaign will be launched this week with large billboard posters donated by local advertisers free of charge for this purpose.

Baptist leaders throughout the southland have initiated this evangelistic series as a forward step in the solution of national and world problems.

Bill Of Complaint

A bill of complaint, Elmer Clarence Furlow, Jr., vs. Mildred Lucille Furlow was filed yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Opportunities In Turkey Raising In County Are Stressed By Agent

Poultry Producers Plan Large Program To Increase Interest In Creating Farms

More extensive raising of turkeys and hatchery eggs was advocated yesterday at a meeting in city hall of poultry producers from Allegany County and nearby Bedford County, Pennsylvania.

Ralph F. McHenry, county farm agent, said approximately 70 poultrymen from this area attended the morning and afternoon sessions held in the city hall auditorium.

Turkey raising for beginners was the topic of a discussion by Russell Hinds, University of Maryland extension service, at the morning program.

Turkey Production Low

Hinds revealed that statistics show the average person consumes about five pounds of turkey during the year yet only 178 turkeys were raised in Allegany County last season.

An increasing amount of interest has been shown in turkey raising in the county in the past year, McHenry stated, and the farm agent and members of the university extension service advocate greater efforts toward turkey raising as a profitable poultry business in the county.

An extensive discussion on hatchery eggs was part of the day's program, also.

W. H. Rice, poultry specialist of the university extension service spoke on the devolpment of a program for producing eggs in Allegany County for use in hatcheries. He highlighted his talk with a film "Today's Chick."

Receive 20 Cents More

Producers of eggs for hatcheries get about 20 cents more per dozen, McHenry revealed, as the eggs are a special kind.

The producer raises the kind of chickens desired by the hatcheries, has them blood tested and free from disease.

Eggs then produced by these chickens are tested and sold to the hatcheries. The blood tests are primarily used to combat "Pollorum," a disease transmitted from the blood stream of the chicken to the egg and attacks and kills baby chicks, McHenry said.

A great amount of interest is shown in this field, also, McHenry noted, with four area producers now engaged in the production of hatchery eggs. They are Richard Stegmaier, near Cumberland, William Engle, Eckhart, R. W. Ferguson, Union Grove and Paul Sanders, near Cumberland.

Rice also gave a talk on brooding baby chicks, how to regulate the brooders and the care and handling of the chicks.

Door Prizes Awarded

Special door prizes, donated by Cumberland feed stores, were won by Mrs. J. C. Smith, Piney Grove, Mrs. J. W. Silver, Valley Road, William M. Taylor, Keyser, W. Va., and Earl Kitzmiller, Cresaptown.

Richard Stegmaier presided at the meeting and a poultry policy committee, consisting of Stegmaier, chairman, Mrs. Wilma Stearns, North Branch, William Engle, Eckhart, Paul Robinette, Flintstone, and James C. Twigg, Spring Gap, was named to arrange additional poultry meetings and to plan an auto tour of local area turkey farms and hatcheries.

The county farm agent is working in conjunction with the poultry producers on the extensive program, McHenry said.

Easter Cantata Set For Local Church

Palm Sunday evening, at 7:30 o'clock, the Sanctuary Choir of St. John's Lutheran Church, Rev. Donald F. Brake pastor, will present the Easter Cantata "Sunrise Over Calvary" by Noel Benson. Soloists will be Mrs. Eugene Bittner, Mrs. John Weber and Miss Pearl Beeche.

The choir will be under the direction of Miss Roslyn McCollum with Mrs. Allan R. Trevaskis at the organ.

At the morning service members of the Confirmation Class will be received into Church Membership; and the pastor will speak on the theme, "My King."

House Group Approves Hike In Betting Tax

Improvements Funds Divorced From Bill

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 15 (AP)—A two per cent hike in the take on bets at harness horse and half-mile thoroughbred race tracks won House committee approval today.

At the same time, the ways and Means Committee divorced handling of the improvement funds of the mile tracks. Changes designed to protect the funds from federal income taxes were incorporated in a new bill.

Opposition loomed to the bill raising the total tax from 10 to 12 per cent at the harness and half-mile tracks. It was set for decision Monday night.

Small Tracks Get Break

The revised formulas would give the small tracks a break. The half-milers would be allowed to keep 11 per cent of the first $1,500,000 bet. They'd split evenly with the state the 12 per cent on all above.

The harness tracks would get 11 per cent of the first $2,000,000 and 7½ per cent on any more.

All race tracks now get six per cent and the state four on all wagers.

Milton A. Reckord, president of Havre de Grace and Pimlico who headed a committee recommending the changes, said the new formulas would mean about $30,000 more to the five half-mile tracks and around $60,000 for each of the four harness tracks.

In addition, he said they would assure the Maryland Fair Board of $250,000 annually from the racing revenues and increase state general funds by $60,000.

New Improvement Bill

The new bill on improvement funds would designate them as taxes to be appropriated back to the tracks by the state.

Attorney General Hall Hammond said in this way they would not be subject to federal income taxes. Reckord's original bill would have permitted the tracks to pay such taxes from the funds themselves.

The tracks now set aside one-half per cent of their six per cent take

Baptist Youth Will Hold District Meeting Here

A youth rally and mass meeting sponsored by the Western District Baptist Training Union will be held tomorrow at 7:30 p. m. in First Baptist Church, here.

This meeting is a combined affair including Youth Rally for the Simultaneous Evangelistic Crusade and the regular quarterly mass meeting of the Associated Training Union.

Miss Violet Popp, director of the Brotherhood Training Union will preside. The devotional will be led by Jesse Judy of First Baptist Church.

The theme of the rally "My Testimony" will be discussed by four young people of the district.

"The Power of Christian Influence" will be discussed by William Miller, of the First Baptist Church.

Warfield Wilson, of Grace Baptist, will talk on "The Power of Church Loyalty."

"The Power of a Prayer List" will be discussed by Miss Phyllis Barncord of LaVale Baptist.

Miss Dottie Miller, of Westernport's First Baptist will discuss "The Power of Personal Soul Winning."

"My Testimony In Scripture and Prayer" will be discussed by Marvin Simpson of Second Baptist Church.

Miss Betty Hanna of Zion Welch Baptist, Frostburg, will sing special music.

Frank Byer, LaVale Baptist, will be in charge of the music.

Topic for the sermon to be delivered by Rev. O. Afton Linger, pastor of First Baptist, will be "Be Thou An Example."

All young people, adults, and children are urged to attend this meeting which will be the final mass meeting before the beginning of the simultaneous revivals in church of the Southern Baptist District.

Traffic Hazard At Barrelville To Be Eliminated

Delegate Lester B. Reed reported last night that the State Roads Commission has promised to eliminate the rock in Barrelville which has resulted in a number of fatal accidents in recent years.

The rock is located in Barrelville where Route 47, out of Wellersburg, Pa., and Maryland Route 36 meet.

Delegate Reed said Joseph D. Buscher, special assistant attorney general for the SRC, said the relocation of 3.2 miles of road from the rock to Corriganville, slated in the SRC's 1951 program, would eliminate the traffic hazard.

He added that if the work could not be completed this year, the specific hazard will be eliminated.

Local Delegates To Attend Youth Government

Boy Governor To Be Selected Saturday

A group of 20 boys from Allegany County Hi-Y clubs will go to College Park Saturday for a Pre-Legislative Conference at the University of Maryland in connection with the YMCA Youth and Government program.

These boys, selected as senators and delegates, will join some 175 other youths from YMCA's in Maryland for an all-day session devoted to raining in Legislative processes and study of the operation of state government.

The Saturday session is preparatory to the Model Legislature to be held at Annapolis April 26, 27 and 28 where the boy legislators will present and discuss bills designed to aid some of the state's problems.

The local delegation will leave Central YMCA at 4:30 a. m. Saturday in a chartered bus with Winfield H. Adam, general secretary of the "Y" in charge of the group. The Hagerstown delegation will be picked up on the way to College Park.

Features of the College Park meeting will include a discussion by President H. C. Byrd on "Citizenship for These Times," and a talk on "How a Bill Becomes Law in General Assembly," by Dr. Elwyn A. Mauch, director of the State Fiscal Research Bureau.

Leaders Counsel Boys

Resource leaders will counsel the boys on issues facing the state in aviation and transportation, education, finances, judiciary, motor vehicles, public welfare, conservation of soil and game and wild life.

The highlight of the day will be the election of state officers who will be in charge of the Model Legislature. R. Noel Spence, Hagerstown, and Tom Wilson, Baltimore, are running for office of Governor.

Also to be selected are presiding officers of the Senate and House of Delegates. The candidates for Boy-Governor will speak at the Governor's Forum prior to election, and the candidates for President of the Senate and Speaker of the House will present their platform at the Legislator's Panel.

Dr. Robert G. Dixon of the University of Maryland and Chairman of the Committee on Elections will supervise the balloting in which the local delegation will participate.

The Youth and Government Program is planned and directed by a statewide committee of state citizens headed by Dr. Earle T. Hawkins, president of State Teachers College at Towson. Harry Bard, curriculum specialist of Secondary Schools in Baltimore will head the Model Legislature Program in Annapolis.

The Central YMCA delegation is composed of Senators Ronald Decker, 514 Cumberland Street, and Charles O'Neal, 1205 Bedford Street from Allegany High School, Holbert Fazenbaker, Luke from Bruce High of Westernport, and Schley Lyons, 113 West Second Street, from Fort Hill.

Hearing Opens On $125,000 Appeal Case

Adjustment Sought On Flood Job Award

Testimony opened here yesterday on the request of the Union Foundation Corporation for a $125,000 adjustment in its pay for the first phase of the Cumberland Flood Control project.

The case involves an appeal of the United Foundation Corporation, Union, N. J., to the Chief Engineer, United States Army Engineers, from a decision of the Contracting Officer of the Corps of Engineers.

In effect, the firm has asked a review of the finding of fact on the first phase of the local work.

H. H. Rice, Washington, D. C., a member of the Corps of Appeals Board appointed by the Chief Engineer to hear the appeal, said the firm has filed a claim of about $125,000, including an appeal to be excused from the payment of from 80 to 85 days of liquidating damage at $200 a day due to delay in completing the job.

The three-man board yesterday heard testimony in the Post Office building on about a third of the items listed by the contractor in his appeal.

Officials explained that a contractor may, after the completion of work with the Army Engineers, apply for a decision from the corps if he believes circumstances entitles him to special consideration.

In dispute on the first phase, which brought a decision of $304,000, are such items as:

Types of sheeting and shoring needed to complete the work.

Type of excavation needed due to the character of the soil.

Appeal from the liquidating damage.

Charges of delay due to slowness of approving material used in the work.

That Corps of Engineers officials were too strict.

After the District Engineer handed down a decision on the job in May, 1949, ruling against the contractor, the decision was appealed to the board.

George Company Awarded $3,305 In Court Opinion

Judge Harris Rules On Mechanic's Lien

Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris handed down an opinion in favor of the George Construction Company for $3,305.49 in a mechanic's lien suit filed in Allegany County Circuit Court.

The suit was filed July 13, 1950 by Charles E. George and William N. George, trading as the George Construction Company against the building of Albert W. Klavuhn and Ruth E. Klavuhn, his wife, in the amount of $3,963.20 for non-payment of contract by the defendants.

Entered Verbal Contract

The owners of the construction company, first cousins of Albert Klavuhn, had in July or August of 1949 verbally entered into an agreement to construct a building housing a service station, garage, restaurant and apartment, east of Clarysville, on U. S. Route No. 40, at a place known as "Lion's Spring," for the defendants at a cost of $21,969.66, according to testimony presented in the case.

A written contract was singned by the parties in December 1949 after the defendants attempted to negotiate a loan at a Cumberland bank on the property. The contract was ante-dated September 8, 1949, testimony revealed, and specifications, which were termed brief, incomplete and vague by Judge Harris, were attached. The written contract called for payment of $19,082 by Albert and Ruth Klavuhn, the opinion stated.

The defendants claimed extras of $691.20 were added, that the contract was not performed in workmanlike manner, construction deviated from plans, and materials were of inferior quality. Also the defendants claimed credit was not given to them for work done and materials furnished for the construction work.

No Proof Of Damage

Judge Harris, in his opinion, said no proof was given that defendants suffered damage as result of delay in construction and that nothing in testimony revealed the construction company was seeking profit in addition to costs of work, probably due to the friendly and confiding relationship of the parties.

He further stated the contractors were obligated to contract and that the difference between the original contract price and the written agreement was attributed to changes in the plans.

The opinion further allowed subject to exceptions the extras were permissable. The Klavuhns then were allowed additional credit of $656.71 besides $15,811 already paid to plaintiffs. The court then stated that work was done by sub-contract to credit concerns in Cumberland and an inspection of the premises revealed nothing amiss.

The credits and payments were to be subtracted from contracted amount and a lien of $3,305.49 was to be allowed the construction company with power to decree that property be sold for claim unless the defendants pay the amount plus court costs on or before May 1, 1951.

City's Special Taxing Plan Is Rejected By Delegation

Police, Fire Pay Raise Requests Are Also Denied

The Allegany County Delegation yesterday agreed to sponsor an enabling act to increase Cumberland's taxing power for operating expenses by five cents but turned down bids for special taxing powers.

Charles M. See, chairman of the Delegation, said the action was by a majority of the Delegation, which at the same time turned down all requests for salary increases by city employes, including the police and fire departments.

He said the bill will be placed in the hopper today.

Athur M. Gibson, city auditor, said the five cents additional taxing power, raising the operating levy to 95 cents, will give the city about $32,150 additional revenue, just about enough to pay for the $13 a month cost of living increase granted to all city employes last December, and estimated to cost about $30,000.

Deny Wage Boosts

See said the Delegation felt that if it granted increases to the police and firemen it should grant boosts to all city employes and that such action would make the city tax burden prohibitive.

He said the Delegation felt that due to the unemployment in Allegany County that this is not the opportune time to increase the tax rates.

The city had asked that the tax rate be increased from 90 to $1.10 per $100 of assessable property.

Delegates said they had given the wage increase requests a great deal of consideration but came to the conclusion they could not be granted since only more taxes would have made the grant possible.

Decision Is Slated

See said a decision is slated today on the Bowling Green special taxing area bill.

He added that Delegate Whitworth's bill to call for a county wide vote on Daylight Savings Time is in the hands of the printer and that the Cumberland sewage bond bill is being held up by the Delegation pending a definite decision.

He said a bill to revise the Cumberland Civil Service and Merit Systems has not yet been received by the Delegation.

The authority to raise the tax rate five cents will enable the city to raise about $610,850, based on a valuation of $64,300,000.

The chief trouble is that this year's budget includes $150,000 surplus remaining from state shared income.

Must Curtail Services

It will mean that the city must curtail some services in order to remain within its budget.

One of the problems, according to Gibson, is that most of the state shared income, especially from gasoline taxes and racing, must be matched by city funds. Gasoline tax income, for instance, must be used for street maintenance and construction and racing income for the sanitation system and street cleaning.

In order to keep the state income, the city must raise money from taxes to match the grants, and the needs of the city for street and sanitation is so great that it cannot afford to turn down the state grants.

Officer Served Warrant On Assault Charge

A warrant has been served on Officer George Pfeiffer of the city police force charging him with assault following a scuffle while placing a Ridgeley, W. Va., man under arrest January 30 in a bus on Virginia Avenue.

According to the state's attorney's office it was issued by Trial Magistrate Frank A. Perdew. No date has as yet been set for the hearing.

He is charged with hitting Herman Brant, 43. Brant was a patient in Memorial Hospital three weeks following the scuffle.

Officer Pfeiffer, in an earlier statement to the press, declared he noticed Brant standing on the corner of Virginia and Laing Avenues the night of January 30.

He asked him to straighten his disarrayed clothing and after Brant boarded the bus Officer Pfeiffer said the Ridgeley man directed an obscene remark to him.

The officer then said he boarded the bus and in a scuffle that ensued, he admitted that it was necessary to hit Brant with his mace.

He was later taken to the hospital, discharged and taken into custody.

Brant remained in the city jail overnight and was taken to the hospital the following morning when he was found in a dazed condition in his cell.

He was treated during the three weeks for an injury over his right eye. He was semi-conscious for fairly long periods, doctors reported.

Brant was booked at police headquarters for being drunk and disorderly, and for resisting arrest.

The family claims that Brant has not regained the sight of his right eye since being released from the hospital.

The state's attorney's office has conducted an investigation into the case. Several witnesses to the altercation between the Ridgeley man and the officer have made official statements.

WEATHER

Local residents were missed again by the snow and sleet that has hit this district for the second time in three days. There was no precipitation here. Highest temperature recorded at Constitution Park weather station was 43. Low was 31. It was 36 about 10 o'clock last night. Today's forecast calls for fair and mild.

Mountain Areas Of District Are Hit By Storm

Roads Slippery West Of Cumberland

For the second time in three days the Tri-State area has been struck by an unseasonable snow storm. The mountains near Frostburg and Grantsville caught the brunt of the storm.

Snow was falling last night in the mountain city and westward, making roads hazardous and visibility poor. State Police warned motorists that most of the hills west of here were slippery and that some cars were unable to negotiate the hills without chains.

Roads east of Cumberland were reported clear.

Points along the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad main line were generally above freezing with a uniform blanket of two to three inches of new snow. It was still snowing at Altamont, Terra Alta, Blazer, and Hardman, W. Va.

At Deal, Pa., the six inch blanket of old snow was still there with the weather cloudy. It was snowing lightly at Thomas, W. Va., while Rockwood, Pa., reported a 28 degree temperature and cloudy, with about three inches of old snow remaining.

There was no new snow in the district around Romney, W. Va., although there was some wind blowing. Roads were clear.

Forecasts for today call for fair and milder this afternoon.

Textile Workers Ask Wage Boost

Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America (CIO), yesterday opened negotiations with the Celanese Corporation of America for a wage increase at the Amcelle plant.

Herbert W. Payne, rayon director for the TWUA, who headed the union delegation at the hour and one-half conference at the plant yesterday afternoon, declined to comment on the meeting.

The union early this year requested a voluntary reopening of the contract at the Amcelle plant to provide cost of living wage adjustments.

It was understood, prior to the meeting, that the union would ask that wages be brought up to the 10 per cent general advance since January, 1950, permitted by the Wage Stabilization Board.

BIRTHS

Memorial Hospital announces the following births:

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin G. Beeman, Barton, a daughter yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Dewey C. Bucy, RFD No. 1, a son yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. George Wilson Brook, "K" Street, NE, Washington, D. C., a daughter yesterday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Wojcik, 516 Pearre Avenue, a daughter yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Humbertson, Jr., RFD No. 1, Cash Valley Road, a son yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Karlowa, Jr., Hyattsville, a daughter Wednesday at Prince Georges County General Hospital, Cheverly. The mother is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Winfield Burton, Cumberland and the father is the son of Robert Karlowa, Frostburg.

Bowling Green Tax Area Hearing Held In Annapolis

A hearing was held in Annapolis Tuesday in connection with the creation of the Bowling Green Special Tax Area in Allegany County. It concerns installation of fire hydrants and street lights in the community.

Fifteen residents of Bowling Green were present at the Tuesday hearing. Representing those for the new legislation were Mr. and Mrs. Ralph G. Cover, Mrs. Paul Umberger, Samuel S. Smith, Arthur C. Page and George Harman.

The proponents said that since assessment value of the community is rapidly approaching the $1,000,000 mark, that based on the figure, light service and water rental service on hydrants would not exceed the 30 cent figure per $100 as set forth in the proposed bill.

Also it was made known that when the hydrants were in operation and approved by the Maryland Fire Underwriters Rating Bureau that a substantial savings in insurance rates would result. Public safety was stressed in the installation of necessary pipe and water hydrants which required a mimimum of 25 cents on $100. A referendum is included in the bill so that residents can vote pro or con by secret ballot after its passage by the Maryland Assembly.

The opposition including Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Glenn Curry, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Painter, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Painter, Mrs. Charles Hughes, V. L. Shepherd and Oliver Winebrenner said that they had moved out of Cumberland to escape city tax rates and objected to the imposition of additional taxation despite the insurance rate decrease. One opponent cited inflation and proposed national taxes saying that the majority of the residents of the community would be unable to carry the added burden.

Civic Club Holds Annual Men's Dinner

March 28 Date Set For First Pleadings

KINGWOOD, W. Va., March 15 (AP)—On the advice of their attorney, 58 pickets accused of violence in Preston County's non-union coal fields stood mute when invited to plead to indictments today.

Instead, Thomas W. Lewis of Kingwood, attorney for the United Mine Workers, indicated he would challenge each of the indictments, and Circuit Judge C. P. Wilhelm set March 28 to hear the first of these pleadings.

Lewis is appearing in the case as assistant to Louis Meisel, counsel for UMW District 31 at Fairmont.

All but two of the accused men were named in true bills returned by a special grand jury impaneled last week to look into the two-months-old strike that has been continuing in the non-union mining fields of Preston County.

Two other indictements were returned this week by the regular grand jury.

Felonies and misdemeanors were included among the counts. Most of the felony charges involved the stoning of buses and passenger automobiles carrying non-union miners to their jobs.

Among the defendants in court were two UMW field organizers, Harry Myers of Morgantown and Joe Serdich of Grant Town.

Probe Ends In Fatal Accident

The investigation into the fatal injury of Miss Helen G. Farnham, 78, Chicago, has been completed according to the state's attorney's office. It was found that no criminal negligence was involved and no charges preferred against the driver Ervin R. Emerick, 25, Corriganville.

The elderly woman died two hours after being admitted to Memorial Hospital last Friday afternoon after she had walked into the right rear end of a lumber truck going north on Route 35 towards the Pennsylvania State line. The driver swerved to the left across the highway into a hedge in an attempt to avoid striking the woman.

Miss Farnham had been visiting her niece, Mrs. Graeme W. Stewart, Ellerslie, and had been in DeVore's grocery store prior to the mishap. She died of a fractured skull.

Property Is Sold

A deed filed in Allegany County Circuit Court yesterday revealed the sale of property on Bedford Street extended from H. Frank Hinze to Arthur Franklin Friendland and Bernice A. Friendland. Tax stamps indicated the sale price was approximately $15,000.

War Is Not Inevitable, Van Kirk Says

Addresses Civic Club's Annual Men's Dinner

Classing war as certainly not inevitable, Rev. Dr. Walter Van Kirk, secretary of the Department of International Justice and Goodwill of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, said here last night and that he believes the world is in need of moral and spiritual regeneration.

Speaking on the theme, "Peace and War," at the fifth annual Men's Dinner Meeting of the Woman's Civic Club, held at the Cumberland Country Club, Dr. Van Kirk, international known lecturer, author and radio commentator, recalled that he attended the opening of the United Nations in San Francisco. He called upon his listeners to keep their faith in the UN.

Continue To Negotiate

He said America should never get to the point of no longer negotiating with Russia or with any nation, and added that only a strong nation is in a position to negotiate.

Avoid impatience and continue to negotiate in order to gain world peace, he advised his listeners.

Terming another world charter unnecessary, he said the need is for spiritual rebuilding regardless of belief, which would bring about the ability to stand against secularism.

The club choral group, directed by Mrs. William B. Ludman, presented thre selections, "The Love Nest," "Rosemarie" and "It's An Irish Lullaby." Miss Joyce Bestwick led group singing, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. R. C. Lord. The Colomy Trio furnished dinner music.

Mrs. A. W. Keight, president, presided. Dr. Van Kirk was introduced by Rev. Dr. Hixon T. Bowersox, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church. The invocation was asked by Mrs. R. W. Young.

District President Attends

Special guests were Mrs. Ray W. Brown, president of the First District of the Maryland Federation of Women's Clubs, and Mr. Brown.

Mrs. Earl F. Gower, Jr., hospitality chairman, was in charge of arrangements, assisted by Mrs. Paul M. Fletcher, Mrs. Walter L. Pierce, Mrs. S. Hodges Smith and Mrs. Albert S. Paye. Mrs. J. M. Pitkethly was program chairman.

The large dinner table was decorated with tall silver candelabra with yellow candles and large bouquets of spring flowers. The smaller table was decorated with silver and crystal candelabra with yellow candles, surrounded by fern. To each yellow candle a purple iris was attached.

Rev. Linger To Head District Revivals

Baptist churches of the Western District, composed of Allegany and Garret Counties, will join all other Baptist districts east of the Mississippi River in an evangelistic and revival campaign beginnng March 26 and continuing through April 8.

The campaign is a voluntary one, but most Baptist Churches in this district will cooperate. Rev. O. Afton Linger, pastor of First Baptist Church here will be general chairman for the district and Rev. Kenneth M. Hayes, pastor of Second Baptist, will be organizational chairman.

There will be visiting evangelists assisting most of the ministers.

An advertising campaign will be launched this week with large billboard posters donated by local advertisers free of charge for this purpose.

Baptist leaders throughout the southland have initiated this evangelistic series as a forward step in the solution of national and world problems.

Bill Of Complaint

A bill of complaint, Elmer Clarence Furlow, Jr., vs. Mildred Lucille Furlow was filed yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Opportunities In Turkey Raising In County Are Stressed By Agent

Poultry Producers Plan Large Program To Increase Interest In Creating Farms

More extensive raising of turkeys and hatchery eggs was advocated yesterday at a meeting in city hall of poultry producers from Allegany County and nearby Bedford County, Pennsylvania.

Ralph F. McHenry, county farm agent, said approximately 70 poultrymen from this area attended the morning and afternoon sessions held in the city hall auditorium.

Turkey raising for beginners was the topic of a discussion by Russell Hinds, University of Maryland extension service, at the morning program.

Turkey Production Low

Hinds revealed that statistics show the average person consumes about five pounds of turkey during the year yet only 178 turkeys were raised in Allegany County last season.

An increasing amount of interest has been shown in turkey raising in the county in the past year, McHenry stated, and the farm agent and members of the university extension service advocate greater efforts toward turkey raising as a profitable poultry business in the county.

An extensive discussion on hatchery eggs was part of the day's program, also.

W. H. Rice, poultry specialist of the university extension service spoke on the devolpment of a program for producing eggs in Allegany County for use in hatcheries. He highlighted his talk with a film "Today's Chick."

Receive 20 Cents More

Producers of eggs for hatcheries get about 20 cents more per dozen, McHenry revealed, as the eggs are a special kind.

The producer raises the kind of chickens desired by the hatcheries, has them blood tested and free from disease.

Eggs then produced by these chickens are tested and sold to the hatcheries. The blood tests are primarily used to combat "Pollorum," a disease transmitted from the blood stream of the chicken to the egg and attacks and kills baby chicks, McHenry said.

A great amount of interest is shown in this field, also, McHenry noted, with four area producers now engaged in the production of hatchery eggs. They are Richard Stegmaier, near Cumberland, William Engle, Eckhart, R. W. Ferguson, Union Grove and Paul Sanders, near Cumberland.

Rice also gave a talk on brooding baby chicks, how to regulate the brooders and the care and handling of the chicks.

Door Prizes Awarded

Special door prizes, donated by Cumberland feed stores, were won by Mrs. J. C. Smith, Piney Grove, Mrs. J. W. Silver, Valley Road, William M. Taylor, Keyser, W. Va., and Earl Kitzmiller, Cresaptown.

Richard Stegmaier presided at the meeting and a poultry policy committee, consisting of Stegmaier, chairman, Mrs. Wilma Stearns, North Branch, William Engle, Eckhart, Paul Robinette, Flintstone, and James C. Twigg, Spring Gap, was named to arrange additional poultry meetings and to plan an auto tour of local area turkey farms and hatcheries.

The county farm agent is working in conjunction with the poultry producers on the extensive program, McHenry said.

Easter Cantata Set For Local Church

Palm Sunday evening, at 7:30 o'clock, the Sanctuary Choir of St. John's Lutheran Church, Rev. Donald F. Brake pastor, will present the Easter Cantata "Sunrise Over Calvary" by Noel Benson. Soloists will be Mrs. Eugene Bittner, Mrs. John Weber and Miss Pearl Beeche.

The choir will be under the direction of Miss Roslyn McCollum with Mrs. Allan R. Trevaskis at the organ.

At the morning service members of the Confirmation Class will be received into Church Membership; and the pastor will speak on the theme, "My King."

House Group Approves Hike In Betting Tax

Improvements Funds Divorced From Bill

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 15 (AP)—A two per cent hike in the take on bets at harness horse and half-mile thoroughbred race tracks won House committee approval today.

At the same time, the ways and Means Committee divorced handling of the improvement funds of the mile tracks. Changes designed to protect the funds from federal income taxes were incorporated in a new bill.

Opposition loomed to the bill raising the total tax from 10 to 12 per cent at the harness and half-mile tracks. It was set for decision Monday night.

Small Tracks Get Break

The revised formulas would give the small tracks a break. The half-milers would be allowed to keep 11 per cent of the first $1,500,000 bet. They'd split evenly with the state the 12 per cent on all above.

The harness tracks would get 11 per cent of the first $2,000,000 and 7½ per cent on any more.

All race tracks now get six per cent and the state four on all wagers.

Milton A. Reckord, president of Havre de Grace and Pimlico who headed a committee recommending the changes, said the new formulas would mean about $30,000 more to the five half-mile tracks and around $60,000 for each of the four harness tracks.

In addition, he said they would assure the Maryland Fair Board of $250,000 annually from the racing revenues and increase state general funds by $60,000.

New Improvement Bill

The new bill on improvement funds would designate them as taxes to be appropriated back to the tracks by the state.

Attorney General Hall Hammond said in this way they would not be subject to federal income taxes. Reckord's original bill would have permitted the tracks to pay such taxes from the funds themselves.

The tracks now set aside one-half per cent of their six per cent take

Baptist Youth Will Hold District Meeting Here

A youth rally and mass meeting sponsored by the Western District Baptist Training Union will be held tomorrow at 7:30 p. m. in First Baptist Church, here.

This meeting is a combined affair including Youth Rally for the Simultaneous Evangelistic Crusade and the regular quarterly mass meeting of the Associated Training Union.

Miss Violet Popp, director of the Brotherhood Training Union will preside. The devotional will be led by Jesse Judy of First Baptist Church.

The theme of the rally "My Testimony" will be discussed by four young people of the district.

"The Power of Christian Influence" will be discussed by William Miller, of the First Baptist Church.

Warfield Wilson, of Grace Baptist, will talk on "The Power of Church Loyalty."

"The Power of a Prayer List" will be discussed by Miss Phyllis Barncord of LaVale Baptist.

Miss Dottie Miller, of Westernport's First Baptist will discuss "The Power of Personal Soul Winning."

"My Testimony In Scripture and Prayer" will be discussed by Marvin Simpson of Second Baptist Church.

Miss Betty Hanna of Zion Welch Baptist, Frostburg, will sing special music.

Frank Byer, LaVale Baptist, will be in charge of the music.

Topic for the sermon to be delivered by Rev. O. Afton Linger, pastor of First Baptist, will be "Be Thou An Example."

All young people, adults, and children are urged to attend this meeting which will be the final mass meeting before the beginning of the simultaneous revivals in church of the Southern Baptist District.

Traffic Hazard At Barrelville To Be Eliminated

Delegate Lester B. Reed reported last night that the State Roads Commission has promised to eliminate the rock in Barrelville which has resulted in a number of fatal accidents in recent years.

The rock is located in Barrelville where Route 47, out of Wellersburg, Pa., and Maryland Route 36 meet.

Delegate Reed said Joseph D Buscher, special assistant attorney general for the SRC, said the relocation of 3.2 miles of road from the rock to Corriganville, slated in the SRC's 1951 program, would eliminate the traffic hazard.

He added that if the work could not be completed this year, the specific hazard will be eliminated.

Local Delegates To Attend Youth Government

Boy Governor To Be Selected Saturday

A group of 20 boys from Allegany County Hi-Y clubs will go to College Park Saturday for a Pre-Legislative Conference at the University of Maryland in connection with the YMCA Youth and Government program.

These boys, selected as senators and delegates, will join some 175 other youths from YMCA's in Maryland for an all-day session devoted to raining in Legislative processes and study of the operation of state government.

The Saturday session is preparatory to the Model Legislature to be held at Annapolis April 26, 27 and 28 where the boy legislators will present and discuss bills designed to aid some of the state's problems.

The local delegation will leave Central YMCA at 4:30 a. m. Saturday in a chartered bus with Winfield H. Adam, general secretary of the "Y" in charge of the group. The Hagerstown delegation will be picked up on the way to College Park.

Features of the College Park meeting will include a discussion by President H. C. Byrd on "Citizenship for These Times," and a talk on "How a Bill Becomes Law in General Assembly," by Dr. Elwyn A. Mauch, director of the State Fiscal Research Bureau.

Leaders Counsel Boys

Resource leaders will counsel the boys on issues facing the state in aviation and transportation, education, finances, judiciary, motor vehicles, public welfare, conservation of soil and game and wild life.

The highlight of the day will be the election of state officers who will be in charge of the Model Legislature. R. Noel Spence, Hagerstown, and Tom Wilson, Baltimore, are running for office of Governor.

Also to be selected are presiding officers of the Senate and House of Delegates. The candidates for Boy-Governor will speak at the Governor's Forum prior to election, and the candidates for President of the Senate and Speaker of the House will present their platform at the Legislator's Panel.

Dr. Robert G. Dixon of the University of Maryland and Chairman of the Committee on Elections will supervise the balloting in which the local delegation will participate.

The Youth and Government Program is planned and directed by a statewide committee of state citizens headed by Dr. Earle T. Hawkins, president of State Teachers College at Towson. Harry Bard, curriculum specialist of Secondary Schools in Baltimore will head the Model Legislature Program in Annapolis.

The Central YMCA delegation is composed of Senators Ronald Decker, 514 Cumberland Street, and Charles O'Neal, 1205 Bedford Street from Allegany High School, Holbert Fazenbaker, Luke from Bruce High of Westernport, and Schley Lyons, 113 West Second Street, from Fort Hill.

Hearing Opens On $125,000 Appeal Case

Adjustment Sought On Flood Job Award

Testimony opened here yesterday on the request of the Union Foundation Corporation for a $125,000 adjustment in its pay for the first phase of the Cumberland Flood Control project.

The case involves an appeal of the United Foundation Corporation, Union, N. J., to the Chief Engineer, United States Army Engineers, from a decision of the Contracting Officer of the Corps of Engineers.

In effect, the firm has asked a review of the finding of fact on the first phase of the local work.

H. H. Rice, Washington, D. C., a member of the Corps of Appeals Board appointed by the Chief Engineer to hear the appeal, said the firm has filed a claim of about $125,000, including an appeal to be excused from the payment of from 80 to 85 days of liquidating damage at $200 a day due to delay in completing the job.

The three-man board yesterday heard testimony in the Post Office building on about a third of the items listed by the contractor in his appeal.

Officials explained that a contractor may, after the completion of work with the Army Engineers, apply for a decision from the corps if he believes circumstances entitles him to special consideration.

In dispute on the first phase, which brought a decision of $304,000, are such items as:

Types of sheeting and shoring needed to complete the work.

Type of excavation needed due to the character of the soil.

Appeal from the liquidating damage.

Charges of delay due to slowness of approving material used in the work.

That Corps of Engineers officials were too strict.

After the District Engineer handed down a decision on the job in May, 1949, ruling against the contractor, the decision was appealed to the board.

George Company Awarded $3,305 In Court Opinion

Judge Harris Rules On Mechanic's Lien

Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris handed down an opinion in favor of the George Construction Company for $3,305.49 in a mechanic's lien suit filed in Allegany County Circuit Court.

The suit was filed July 13, 1950 by Charles E. George and William N. George, trading as the George Construction Company against the building of Albert W. Klavuhn and Ruth E. Klavuhn, his wife, in the amount of $3,963.20 for non-payment of contract by the defendants.

Entered Verbal Contract

The owners of the construction company, first cousins of Albert Klavuhn, had in July or August of 1949 verbally entered into an agreement to construct a building housing a service station, garage, restaurant and apartment, east of Clarysville, on U. S. Route No. 40, at a place known as "Lion's Spring," for the defendants at a cost of $21,969.66, according to testimony presented in the case.

A written contract was singned by the parties in December 1949 after the defendants attempted to negotiate a loan at a Cumberland bank on the property. The contract was ante-dated September 8, 1949, testimony revealed, and specifications, which were termed brief, incomplete and vague by Judge Harris, were attached. The written contract called for payment of $19,082 by Albert and Ruth Klavuhn, the opinion stated.

The defendants claimed extras of $691.20 were added, that the contract was not performed in workmanlike manner, construction deviated from plans, and materials were of inferior quality. Also the defendants claimed credit was not given to them for work done and materials furnished for the construction work.

No Proof Of Damage

Judge Harris, in his opinion, said no proof was given that defendants suffered damage as result of delay in construction and that nothing in testimony revealed the construction company was seeking profit in addition to costs of work, probably due to the friendly and confiding relationship of the parties.

He further stated the contractors were obligated to contract and that the difference between the original contract price and the written agreement was attributed to changes in the plans.

The opinion further allowed subject to exceptions the extras were permissable. The Klavuhns then were allowed additional credit of $656.71 besides $15,811 already paid to plaintiffs. The court then stated that work was done by sub-contract to credit concerns in Cumberland and an inspection of the premises revealed nothing amiss.

The credits and payments were to be subtracted from contracted amount and a lien of $3,305.49 was to be allowed the construction company with power to decree that property be sold for claim unless the defendants pay the amount plus court costs on or before May 1, 1951.

Weather Forecast
Generally fair and milder today.

COSTELLO WALKS OUT ON INQUIRY

Allies Strengthen Line Across Korea

Yanks Seize Key Road Hub Of Hongchon

Enemy Continues Retreat Northward

TOKYO, Friday, March 16 (AP)—American forces easily captured Hongchon Thursday. Most of the Chinese had pulled out of that Red stronghold on the Central Korean front.

Seizure of the town, 20 miles south of parallel 38, forged a firmer link in the chain of Allied arms stretching from liberated Seoul across the peninsula.

All along that 100-mile front, the Chinese and Korean Reds still were withdrawing northward.

Doughboys rode tanks into Hongchon. They met only small arms fire. Red mortar shells clumped into the town afterwards.

Reds Believed Massing

Until recently, Hongchon was a major Chinese assembly area, but the Reds pulled north in a series of rearguard actions.

The Reds are believed massing at Chunchon, 16 air miles northwest of Hongchon and 45 air miles northeast of Seoul.

For weeks the Reds have poured supplies into that town from the northwest and northeast.

American and South Korean troops reentered Seoul in force Thursday. The rubbled old capital, once a city of 1,500,000, was populated only by old folks and children—an estimated 200,000.

The frightened citizens were happy to see their liberators after more than two months of Red occupation.

"The women threw themselves at our feet and sobbed hysterically," reported AP Correspondent Jim Becker. "Tears coursed down the cheeks of bearded old men."

Patrols Search City

Patrols searched the city for Communists. Civilians reported that some Reds discarded uniforms and were hiding out in disguise.

The Korean republic flag fluttered from the shattered capitol, marking the fourth time Seoul had changed hands since the North Korean invasion June 25.

The republic's government announced that more than a million who fled Seoul two months ago would be allowed to return when the city can be restored to normal operations.

There was no street-by-street battle for the city this time. After weeks of terrific artillery bombardment, Allied forces entered without firing a shot. They had to remove some land mines.

Rhee Will Ask U. N. To Bomb Red China

TOKYO, March 16 (Friday) (INS) — Korean President Syngman Rhee today informed Gen. Douglas MacArthur that Korea is formally requesting United Nations authorization for the supreme Allied commander's forces to bomb Red China.

The Korean President wrote:

"We are making a formal request that the U. N. may authorize you to end this Chinese war by bombing the source of Chinese reinforcement in men and materiel from their sanctuary in Manchuria in order to restore peace without unnecessary sacrifice of lives and bloodshed."

Rumors Of Peace Talks Increase

[By The Associated Press]

Rumors of a peace negotiations with the Chinese Communists touched off a flurry of "war stock" selling and "peacetime" stock and commodity buying in Wall Street and other stock and commodity markets of the country yesterday.

A private brokerage house wire carried a report late Wednesday that peace negotiations would be started as the United Nations forces moved towards the 38th parallel in Korea. The wire gave no source for the report.

State Department Press Officer Michael McDermott said in Washington Wednesday night that there was "no basis whatever" for any such report and that there was no sign the enemy had given up its aim of driving the U. N. forces out of Korea.

High U. N. officials at Lake Success and in New York said they had heard of the peace rumors but knew of nothing to substantiate them.

Martin Is Named Federal Reserve Board Chairman

WASHINGTON, March 15 (AP)—Thomas B. McCabe, Republican industrialist, stepped out of the hot-spot post of Federal Reserve Board chairman today and William McChesney Martin (above), 44-year-old Treasury official, was named by President Truman to succeed him.

McCabe's exit was much less of a surprise than the designation of his successor, an assistant secretary of the Treasury who was president of the New York Stock Exchange at the age of 31.

The announcement of the switch was made this afternoon by White House Press Ssecretary Joseph H. Short at Key West, Fla., where President Truman is vacationing.

Cotton-Rayon Strike Averted By Agreement

Terms Include Wage Hike Of 7½ Per Cent

BOSTON, March 15 (AP)—A strike of cotton-rayon workers, set for midnight, was averted today when management and union leaders reached tentative agreement on new contract terms.

The agreement directly affects some 30,000 workers in New England and was expected to set a pattern for another 170,000 in southern states and other sections.

Emil Rieve, head of the big CIO textile workers union, said later that efforts will be made to have the agreement cover all cotton-rayon workers.

Pacts To Be Extended

He also announced that existing contracts—especially in the South—will be extended to March 31 "to avoid interruptions in production." Most of the southern contracts previously had been extended until today in order to have all industry agreements expire on the same date.

Rieve said the extensions will be granted "provided such extension is requested by local unions."

The agreement is subject to ratification by the workers.

Terms of the settlement, a spokesman said, "generally includes a 7½ per cent wage increase," offered yesterday by management. The union had demanded 12 per cent.

Cost-of-Living Allowance

Other provisions:

A cost-of-living allowance to be changed every three-months—based on the 1.14 per cent government consumers' cost of living index;

Weekly payments for sickness and accident insurance boosted from $17.50 to $22.50;

Severance pay for workers at age 65 or more with 15 years service and who have worked at least 1,000 hours per year. They will receive one week's pay per service year up to 20 years;

Daily hospitalization fees hiked from $7 to $8, plus a boost from $35 to $80 in special hospital and surgical fees. Operating fees were increased from $150 to $200.

18½-Year Draft Bill Approved By House Unit

Refuses To Limit Armed Force Size

WASHINGTON, March 15 (AP) — The House Armed Services Committee by overwhelming 32-3 vote today approved a bill for drafting boys at 18½ years and setting up universal military training later.

Members wrote in an amendment giving draftees a choice of serving in racially segregated or non-segregated units.

This provision, by Rep. Winstead (D-Miss), would permit a draftee, when he registers, to write in whether he has a preference. It states this choice would be respected as far as military necessity would permit.

The vote on this amendment was 21 to 12. It is not in the draft bill which passed the Senate last Friday. There are many differences in the bills which will have to be settled in conference committee if the House passes the bill its committee approved today.

Refuses To Set Ceiling

Chairman Vinson (D-Ga) said he will ask the House Rules Committee to set the bill for House consideration April 3.

The committee refused to limit the size of the nation's military force.

Administration supporters, by an 18 to 15 vote, knocked out of the new draft bill a ceiling figure of 4,000,000 men.

Such a limitation was written into the recently-passed Senate bill by a narrow margin over opposition from military leaders.

The Defense Department is building rapidly toward a force of 3,462,205 by this summer. Secretary of Defense Marshall has referred to this as not a ceiling figure, but a minimum.

The House bill calls for lowering the minimum draft age from 19 to 18½ (the Senate made it a flat 18) and extending the service of draftees from 21 months to 26 (the Senate voted for 24).

12 Months Duty For Reserves

Committee members reported that they also took these steps at today's closed-door session:

1. Approved action which Vinson said would call mandatory release of most inactive reserves and volunteer reserves after 12 months active duty since the Korean outbreak.

2. Refused to extend the period of service of members of the National Guard and organized reserves beyond 21 months.

3. Retained by a tie vote, 16-16, power of Congress to end or suspend all inductions into the armed forces, or universal training, by a simple concurrent resolution (approval of both houses).

4. Approved a termination date of July 1, 1954, covering the draft.

Food Prices Take Slight Drop Last Part Of February

WASHINGTON, March 15 (AP)—Retail food prices declined slightly during the last two weeks of February, the Bureau of Labor Statistics reported today.

However the food prices were approximately 1.5 per cent higher on Feb. 26 than on Jan. 29, according to a special survey in eight cities. A rise of 1.8 per cent during the first two weeks of the month was partly offset by the small decline during the last two weeks.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics took occasion to announce it had added 10 foods to the list of prices which it measures because they have become important in family spending. They were layer cake, jelly roll, frankfurters, ice cream, frozen strawberries, frozen peas, canned baby foods, frozen orange juice, cola drink, and grape jelly.

Father Asks Truman To Let Him Replace Son In Korea

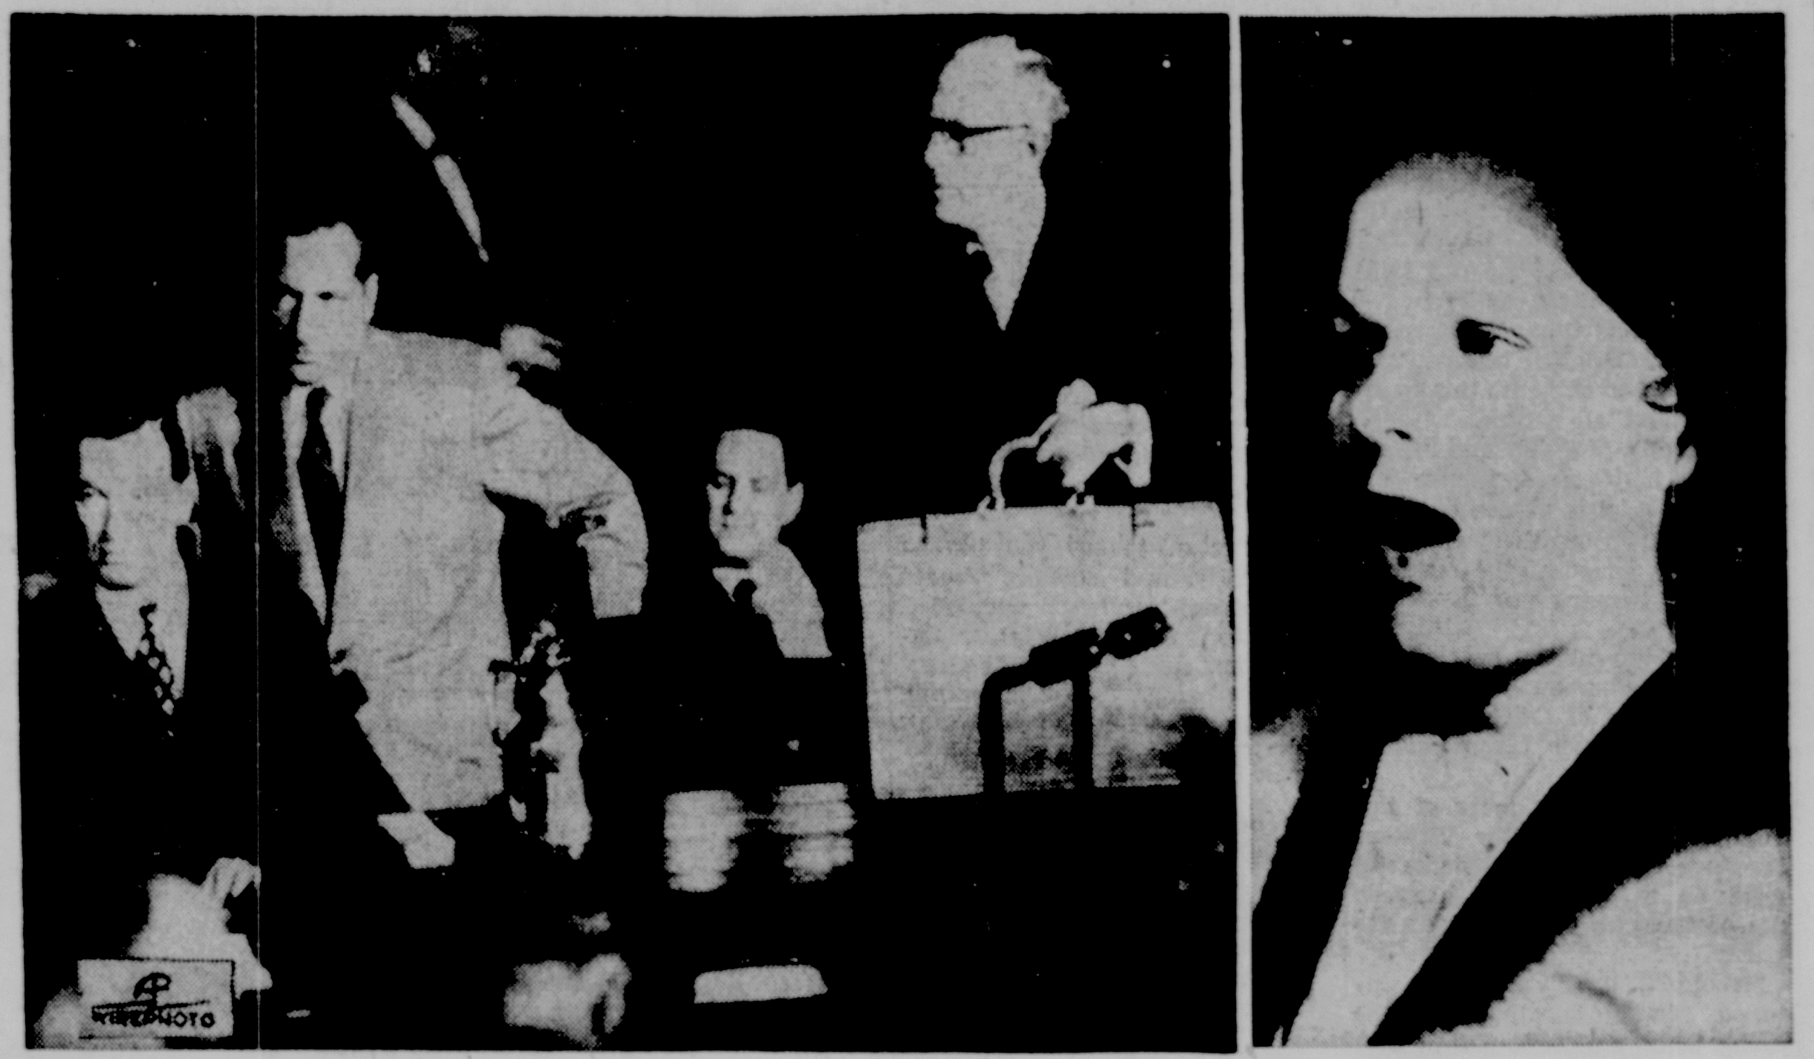
BALTIMORE, March 15 (AP)—The 44-year-old father of a soldier fighting in Korea has asked President Truman to "let me take my son's place."

Langdon P. McAninch, Sr., a truck mechanic, said tonight he wrote the President in behalf of his 21-year-old son, a private first class, who was wounded in the leg and returned to duty in the front lines 23 days later.

He said he mailed the letter to the White House Monday.

"In the interest of all the wounded boys in Korea, there must be hundreds in the same condition as my son, I'm sending you some excerpts from my son's letters.

"If we are so short of men that the wounded don't have time to heal their wounds, send me over. Let me take my son's place. I'm twice as old, so I'll do twice as good a job."



Costello Takes Walk; Virginia Testifies

Racketeer Frank Costello and Virginia Hill Hauser, one-time girl friend of slain Mobster Benjamin "Bugsy" Siegel, shared the spotlight at yesterday's Senate crime investigation hearing in New York. Costello, defying a demand by probers that he continue to answer questions, walks out soon after taking the stand. His attorney, George Wolf, who pleaded that Costello had "reached the limit of his physical endurance," lifts his brief case and prepares to follow. Virginia, right, told the probers that she didn't know "who could have had it in" for Siegel, mowed down in her Beverly Hills, Calif., home in June, 1947.

Chief Executive Sharply Defends Administration

Will Be Remembered If World War Averted

KEY WEST, Fla., March 15 (AP) — President Truman sharply defended the honor of his administration today, declared his house is always clean and that his presidency will be remembered: "If we get through this era without a third world war."

Conscious of mounting editorial and cartoon criticism of White House and other federal officials involved in the Senate Reconstruction Finance Corporation inquiry, Mr. Truman told a news conference:

My people are honorable—all of them are.

To a suggestion by Sen. Knowland (R-Calif) in a recent Senate debate that he return from his Florida vacation and clean house, the President said solemnly:

My house is always clean. What are you talking about.

What Mr. Truman had to say about the troubles upsetting his administration, overshawoded other news conference developments.

He said he was working for the country's welfare and he thought all other government employes are trying to do the same thing. He said he thought character assassination is a terrible thing.

Told that newspaper and editorial criticism reflected on the moral and ethical standards of some White House employes, he said:

It isn't true. Point blank—categorically, it's just not true.

He likened his troubles to those of Washington, Lincoln, Jefferson and other presidents of the past and then, in response to a reporter's request for an evacluation of his own administration, he said, giving permission for direct quotation:

"I hope it will be remembered for its sincere effort for world peace, and if we accomplish that, if we get through this era without a third world war, I think that probably is what it will be remembered for."

He spoke from a chair on the lawn of the "Little White House" where he said he is enjoying his ninth stay, feeling well as usual, and weighing 176 pounds.

Stolen Data Was Sent Immediately To Soviet

NEW YORK, March 15 (AP) — Confessed Spy Harry Gold testified today that valuable atom bomb secrets stolen by a spy ring in the United States in 1945 were "sent immediately to the Soviet Union."

He said this information was given him by Anatoli Yakovlev, who was a Russian vice consul in New York at the time.

Gold said he himself turned over to Yakovlev secrets which he obtained in furtive meetings in the United States with Dr. Klaus Fuchs and former Army Sgt. David Greenglass.

Gold, Philadelphia biochemist serving a 30-year sentence on a plea of guilty to spying for Russia, was a witness in the federal court trial of three persons accused as Russian spies.

New Restrictions On Credit To Combat Inflation Urged By Secretary Of Commerce

WASHINGTON, March 15 (AP)—Secretary of Commerce Sawyer today spoke out for new restrictions on credit, including tighter rules on consumer buying, to battle inflation.

Sawyer, who spent the day with several score of the country's top business executives who make up his business advisory council, told reporters:

"It is hard to overestimate the peril that faces us if we cannot keep this inflationary spiral under control."

Sawyer's references to new credit restrictions came in reply to questions. He made no specific proposal.

Elsewhere in the government's efforts to keep prices and wages in hand during the vast military buildup, there were these developments:

1. Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston gave up, at least for the time being, efforts to bring labor and management together on forming a new Wage Stabilization Board and said the next move is up to them.

2. President Truman, at Key West, announced an executive order calling for a 17-member national advisory board on mobilization policy to serve under Mobilization Director Wilson, but to advise the President. It would include farm, labor and business men.

It was regarded here as a pacifying gesture toward labor leaders, who have pulled out of the whole mobilization program on the ground that big business is in command—and toward farm critics who complain that agriculture has no voice in the program.

3. The Office of Price Stabilization set specific price ceilings on cattle hides. Officials said they do not expect the order to change the price of shoes. The price of hides was set at the level of last November, revising the Jan. 25 price freeze on this commodity.

Sawyer said credit restrictions already imposed by the government have had no marked effect as yet.

Stabilizer Johnston called in reporters after labor leaders who had been scheduled to confer with him this afternoon reported they could not get to the meeting. He said he had no further plans to meet with either management or labor representatives although he still was available to assist in getting some agreement if the parties want his help.

Iran Parliament Moves To Take Over Oil Fields

TEHRAN, Iran, March 15 (AP) — By unanimous vote, Iran's parliament decided tentatively today to nationalize a British oil industry which would be a prize of any war between the West and Soviet Russia. Britain's 50-year control of the Iranian oil fields was repudiated.

Spectators in the gallery of parliament cheered the prospect that the government will take over the powerful Anglo-Iranian Oil Company, which pipes millions of tons of fuel yearly to the armies, navies and air forces of the United States, Britain and other Western Powers.

Cold war implications were evident. Soviet Russia has accused past Iranian governments of being subservient to the "Western war-mongers".

McGee Granted Execution Stay; "Pressure" Hit

WASHINGTON, March 15 (AP) — Supreme Court Justice Black today granted a temporary stay of execution to Willie McGee, negro convicted of rape, but angrily denounced "pressure" tactics used in the defendant's behalf.

McGee, a three-time loser on previous appeals to the Supreme Court, was convicted of raping a white woman in Mississippi six years ago. He was scheduled to die next Tuesday.

In granting the stay, Justice Black rebuked those who attempt to influence the decisions of judges by sending them telegrams.

"The courts of the United States are not the kinds of instruments of justice that can be influenced by such pressures," Black said.

Black pointed to a five-inch stack of telegrams on his desk.

Gov. Fielding Wright of Mississippi has said that hundreds of protests against McGee's execution originated from Communist sources.

Justice Black specified that the stay of execution should remain in effect until the full Supreme Court rules on a new appeal to be filed by attorneys for the negro.

He said the appeal must be filed on or before next Tuesday. The high court could then decide at its next formal session, on March 26, whether it will grant McGee a hearing.

Cook Granted Parole

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 15 (AP)—Robert S. Cook, 26-year-old former seaman convicted of a long string of robberies in Baltimore in 1946, has been granted parole.

The State House announced today Gov. McKeldin approved Cook's release from Maryland Penitentiary.

Briton Named "Ringleader" In Surplus Property Deals

WASHINGTON, March 15 (AP)—Congressmen looking into reports of fabulous deals in American surplus military goods—some of it reportedly sold back to the U. S. Army—identified "the ringleader" today as a Briton named George Dawson.

His name figured repeatedly in testimony about intricate but profitable dealings in trucks, axle assemblies, electronic and radio equipment and other materials in demand since the Korean outbreak.

The testimony was given a House Expenditures subcommittee inquiring into surplus sales of U. S. Army equipment in Germany. Chairman Bonner (D-NC) summed up testimony to date as showing "the ringleader in this" is Dawson.

Rep. Curtis (R-Mo) commented: "Our preliminary information is that George Dawson has made over $100,000,000 in this business."

Dawson's alleged part in the resale of U. S. surplus, originally assigned to the Bonn government of Germany, was gone into as the committee quizzed top army and occupation authorities on the deals.

The witnesses were Secretary of the Army Pace; Geoffry W. Lewis, deputy director of the Bureau of German Affairs in the State Department, and W. J. Monticone, assistant fiscal officer in the office of the high commissioner for Germany in Frankfort.

GOP's Anti-RFC Drive Political, Fulbright Says

Republicans Contend Full Truth Not Told

WASHINGTON, March 15 (AP)—Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark) told the Senate during stormy debate today that Republicans are "playing politics" with an eye on the 1952 elections in pressing for further investigation of the RFC scandals.

But Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio), Thye (R-Minn) and others insisted that the full truth has not yet been told about the Reconstruction Finance Corporation's multi-billion dollar loan policies.

Angrey charges and countercharges flew across the aisles as senators freely exchanged such terms as "skulduggery . . . untruth . . . cover up . . . whitewash."

Would Call Boyle, Dawson

Bricker demanded that Chairman William M. Boyle, Jr., of the Democratic National Committee and White House Aide Donald Dawson be called to testify before the RFC inquiry is closed.

They likewise contended that "the rug should be pulled all the way back" to find out what has been going on in the RFC.

Bricker said the names of Boyle and Dawson have run all the way through testimony about alleged influence peddling in connection with RFC loans, and he shouted:

"The report will never be complete until Bill Boyle and Don Dawson come before the committee and testify."

"Little Dirt" Uncovered

Fulbright, whose Senate Banking subcommittee has been conducting the RFC inquiry, told the Senate the Republicans want to prolong the investigation "until just before the elections in 1952 because it has uncovered a little dirt."

"They want a continual revelation of a little dirt that might have some bearing on the next election," Fulbright said.

The Arkansas Senator went on to say:

"If Congress wants us to broaden our inquiry, I'm willing to do it."

But he said it should include an investigation of ethical standard among government officials and in congress itself.

Defiant Crime Probe Witness Risks Arrest

Racketeer Refuses To Answer Queries

NEW YORK, March 15 (AP) — Racketeer Frank Costello risked arrest today by defiantly stamping out of the Senate crime committee hearing.

"I am going to walk out," he croaked in his hoarse voice after refusing to answer any more committee questions.

Then he stood up and strode from the hearing in the federal court building in downtown Foley Square.

"I am going directly home to bed," said the 60-year-old Costello, star witness as the Senate committee moved through the fourth day of its sensational open hearings in New York.

Committee Chairman Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn) said Costello can escape arrest if he comes back by next Tuesday — the last day of the hearings. However, contempt proceedings will be started at once, he added.

Kefauver had warned Costello before he left he'd be arrested if he took the walk and cited for contempt as well.

But Costello said he'd had enough and his attorney said he'd "reached the limit of his physical endurance."

The attorney, George Wolf, had asked the committee to postpone further testimony from Costello. This the committee refused to do.

Wolf offered the committee a doctor's certificate that Costello should stay home and have "complete voice rest for several days."

The racketeer — whom the Senate committee calls one of the nation's biggest crime syndicate leaders — has suffered from laryngitis ever since he first took the stand Tuesday.

He testified again yesterday and was to have continued this afternoon.

A perjury threat has been hanging over Costello since yesterday when he testified he never had his telephones checked for wiretaps. Another witness testified just the opposite — saying Costello hired him and paid him to check the phones.

Earlier, Kefauver had said this and all the rest of the record were being given to the U. S. District Attorney to check for possible perjury prosecution.

Costello took his walk just after the former Virginia Hill, one-time girl friend of the late Mobster Benjamin (Bugsy) Siegel, poutingly told the committee he never took money from "gangsters or racketeers."

Siegel was shot to death in her California home in 1947.

"Have you any knowledge of who could have had it in for him?" the 36-year-old Alabama-born witness was asked.

"If I knew anything about it I'd be the first to tell," she replied.

Both Houses Will Debate GI Issue

WASHINGTON, March 15 (AP)—Senators who want to limit President Truman's power to send American troops abroad claimed a preliminary victory today when administration leaders agreed to let the issue be debated by both houses of Congress.

Democratic Floor Leader McFarland of Arizona told reporters a concurrent resolution on the question, requiring action by both the Senate and House, would be taken up as soon as the Senate had acted on its own resolution.

"But that doesn't mean we have to vote for it," McFarland added.

Nevertheless, Sen. Knowland (R-Cal.) said proponents of the presidential limitation had "gotten over a big hump."

Acting jointly, the Senate Foreign Affairs and Armed Services Committees have reported two identical resolutions. They approve Mr. Truman's plan to send four more divisions of ground troops to Europe, but reserve the right of Congress to authorize all future troop assignments abroad.

One requires Senate action alone, and if passed would merely express the sense of the Senate. The other, requiring Senate and House action, would carry more weight.

Four Girls Die In Crash

BOSTON, March 15 (INS)—Four teen-age girls were killed tonight when the car in which they were riding went out of control on Veterans of Foreign Wars Parkway, West Roxbury, leaped off the road, struck a tree and skidded 30 yards and overturned.

Rainmakers' Enthusiasm Brings "Show Me" From Weather Bureau

WASHINGTON —(AP)—Rain-making pioneers, their heads in the clouds, put out a qualified forecast that mankind will have "a considerable control" of the weather in years to come.

The Weather Bureau's response: You'll have to show us.

At least one man's temperature rose, and various flurries of laughter were generated, as three Senate subcommittees held a joint hearing on legislation that would put rain-making and similar weather experiments under federal control.

Dr. Bernard Vonnegut of the General Electric Company said the chances are "far greater than 99 out of 100 that cloud-seeding can be of enormous value to our country."

Vonnegut developed G. E.'s system of making rain by introducing a chemical mist of silver iodide into thunderclouds.

He told senators the "wise use" of this cloud-seeding may well cut storm and flood damage and make flying safer, besides providing rain for drought-stricken areas.

Dr. Vincent J. Schaefer of G. E., first man to "milk" the clouds with dry ice, agreed with his colleague. Both said the federal government should carry on a broad program of weather control research. They likewise agreed the government should control all such private experiments.

For the Weather Bureau, Assistant Director W. F. McDonald shook his head and observed sorrowly that a lot of people are engaged in wishful thinking.

"The bureau feels," he said, "that it is still too early to try to define what can or cannot be done in this field and that a great deal more work is necessary before sound conclusions can be formed."

McDonald, a bulky, gray-haired man, said it's possible that rainfall may be started locally "in some degree" by artificial means. Beyond that he wouldn't go.

"Look," said Sen. Anderson (D-NM), "if clouds are sprayed with these chemicals and then it rains, and they're sprayed again and it rains, and every time they're sprayed it rains, doesn't it begin to look as if there's something to this spraying business?"

McDonald's jaw shot out.

"That," he declared, "is like saying that if a lot of women hang out their washings on Monday, and it rains on Wednesday, the rain was caused by hanging out the washing."

McDonald went on to say that the Weather Bureau has made an extensive study of rain-making experiments and has taken part in some of them.

If Congress wants more of this work done, he said, the Weather Bureau would be happy to do it, and could do it better than anybody else, if Congress would provide the money.

"Wouldn't that," Anderson inquired, "be like turning over the atomic bomb project to a firm that said the bomb couldn't be made?"

"We've never said rain could not be artifically induced," McDonald retorted, banging his palms on the table.

"You mean to say you haven't consistently and steadily fought rain-making?" Anderson demanded.

"Senator," said the Weather Bureau man, reddening and banging the table harder, "you keep putting words in my mouth."

Palm Sunday Procession To Open Holy Week Rites In Arab-Held Jerusalem

JERUSALEM — (AP) — A colorful Palm Sunday procession will mark the opening of Holy Week observances in this sacred city of Christendom, divided now between Jew and Moslem with most of the major Christian shrines in Moslem hands.

Thousands are expected to participate in the traditional pageant which commemorates Christ's entry into the city on an ass. Other thousands, juding from past years, will line the road from nearby Mount Olivet through St. Stephen's Gate.

Other ceremonies will follow throughout the week, highlighted by the Way of the Cross on Good Friday afternoon and the joyous Easter morning services in the Basilica of the Holy Sepulchre.

For the first time since the rule of the Ottoman Turks, prior to World War I, the major Christian holy places are in Moslem hands and guarded by a Moslem "protector of the holy places."

White-bearded King Abdullah of Jordan, who claims descent from the family of the Moslem prophet, Mohammed, formally annexed that part of Palestine which includes most Christian shrines shortly after Easter last year. Abdullah's Palestine covers about 1,600 square miles and includes such Biblical spots as the walled city of Jerusalem, Bethlehem and Jericho.

Two months ago, King Abdullah named a former member of his cabinet—Ragheb Nashashibi Pasha, "protector of the holy places."

This put all Christian holy places either under Moslem or Jewish control. The Jews have only a few Christian shrines on their side of the line. They have formally proclaimed the section they hold the capital of Israel.

The situation today offers little likelihood of carrying out the United Nations plan to internationalize the holy places in and around Jerusalem.

A week before Easter last year, the U. N. trusteeship Council passed an internationalization statute, but set no date when it would go into effect.

Premier David Ben Gurion of Israel said recently that only a war could change the status of divided Jerusalem—a city split into halves by barbed wire and guard posts.

King Abdullah has maintained that Jerusalem would be made an international area only over his dead body.

The people of Jerusalem are worried chiefly over the bad times, especially those in this Arab section that have been dependent for years on the money brought in by tourist traffic.

The wreckage and rubble of the 1948 Arab-Jewish fighting is still piled up in many parts of the city. Tank obstacles slow traffic on the streets outside the turreted walls of the old city. In the old city itself the twisted, cobbled streets are too narrow and winding for cars.

"Barricade" literally means "made from barrels."

Vacationing By Car This Summer? It'll Cost More Than It Did In '50

By HARRY WARNER, JR.
Central Press Correspondent

WASHINGTON—If you are planning to drive a car when taking next summer's vacation, it's going to cost more than it did last summer.

The American Automobile Association has come up with figures showing that both fixed annual expenses and per-mile driving costs are going up. The increase amounts to six per cent since the summer of 1949.

For example, if you should be planning a coast-to-coast motor trip next summer, operating the car will cost something like $200.

To pin it down to exact figures, suppose it's to be a round trip between New York and Los Angeles. If there's no major change in prices between now and summer, it will cost 3.3 cents per mile, the distance between the cities is 2,875 miles, and the total operating cost would be $189.75.

That figure varies, depending on the car, the driving conditions, and the area traveled, the AAA points out. The 3.3 cents per mile would be the cost where gas sold for 26½ cents per gallon and the auto averaged 14½ miles to the gallon of gas.

This car would consume 1.99 cents worth of gas and oil to the mile, maintenance would average seven-tenths of a cent per mile, and tire wear would average out to .61 of a cent per mile.

Any vacationists who insist on knowing exactly how much a planned trip will cost could also figure the proportion of fixed annual costs consumed during the vaca o

The AAA estimates that insurance against fire, theft, property damage, and liability, together with license fees and depreciation, average out to about $1.45 a day.

That would add another $27.55 to the car expenses during actual driving time for the round trip, if the tourists took their time and didn't average over 300 miles daily.

Persons who want to figure out probable expenses for the coming summer's holidays can do it themselves without calculus, if they know how far they are going and how long they will be gone. The AAA's budget system goes like this:

Allow 3.5 cents per mile for operating the car, to be on the safe side. This will mean that it will cost about $10 a day to operate the gas buggy, or $35 for every 1,000 miles. Set aside another $3 per day for food for each person who will go along.

Expect to pay for overnight accommodations on the basis of a national average of about $7 per night for two persons in one room. The AAA warns that the actual expense for two persons may be as low as $4 or as high as $9, depending on location and quality.

Another 75 cents per day for each person should be allotted for admission to, scenic attractions, shrines, hotdogs, and similar traveling activities.

The AAA thinks that two persons should be able to vacation on $25 a day on the road this summer.

Incidentally, the AAA points out that the two types of expenses involved for the car owner—fixed annual costs and the actual operating expenditures—show the disadvantage of the customary system of car allowances to employes.

Surveys show that most companies pay a flat milage allowance when their employes use their own cars on company business. Six cents per mile is the rate paid by 45 per cent of all companies surveyed.

The AAA prefers a system developed by a Chicago accounting firm. A fair allowance under this method would be $1.50 for each day that the car is used on company business, plus an additional 3½ cents for each mile that the car is driven on company business.

If more than 18,000 miles per year are involved, another $10.60 per thousand miles for everything over 18,000 miles is recommended to cover special depreciation costs.

No Dove Of Peace

Trying to reach agreement with Russia, even on the simplest matters, is the most trying and frustrating experience Western diplomats let themselves in for. The meeting of the Big Four deputies in Paris is the same old story.

The meeting was arranged for one purpose—to agree on the topics to be discussed at a forthcoming conference of foreign ministers and the U. S. Secretary of State, and on the order in which they are to be taken up. Russia's Gromyko promptly launched into a long stereotyped denunciation of the United States, Britain and France which could not conceivably contribute to this purpose.

Gromyko accused the three powers, and particularly the United States, of violating the Potsdam agreement of 1945, which divided Germany and Berlin into four zones of occupation. In that agreement all four powers agreed, for their respective zones and for Germany as a whole, to the democratization of schools and courts, to free elections on representative principles, to freedom of speech and assembly.

The Western powers have violated none of the foregoing provisions. Russia has flagrantly violated all of them, and many others.

Gromyko charged the Western powers with endangering world peace and preparing a new world war at a time when Communists armed by Russia are killing Americans in Korea in order to perpetuate similar Russian violations in that area. Meanwhile Russia is waging a new "peace offensive" throughout the world which consists mainly of inflammatory speeches designed to arouse warlike fury against the United States.

In the face of such behavior, representatives of the three Western powers have at times yielded to the temptation to talk back to Gromyko. In the main, however, they have tried to stick to the subject and get Gromyko to do likewise. But there has been no indication that a dove of peace may be nesting on the cornices of the Pink Palace where the deptuies are meeting.

The Crow Had Sense

There may be some excuse for the fellow who shot at a crow and hit an explosives plant with a bang that was heard for 15 miles. He was fined over $250 after he told the judge he hadn't seen the plant through the underbrush. Perhaps he was careless, and maybe he needs a little target practice. But shooting at crows is a pouular pastime around Pearl River, N. Y.—and how was a visitor from New York City to know about an explosive plant?

The way the public acted was another matter. From 700 square miles of New York and New Jersey people came to see the excitement. Their cars blocked the roads, and they parked them anywhere. Fire apparatus and ambulances being rushed to the scene were hopelessly cut off. People thought an atomic bomb had exploded, and they didn't want to miss the excitement.

If they had been right, some of them might be dead by now. Nuclear radiation can kill. If such sightseers were to escape radiation damage, their curiosity could cost the lives of many victims and the loss of valuable property by cutting off rescue. There is less excuse for them than there is for the crow-hunter. Some mothers took their children to the scene because it wouldn't have been "safe" to leave them home while mother satisfied her curiosity!

Apparently the world is full of people who think nothing of taking criminal risks with other people's lives—and their own. In fact, the individual that seems to have shown the most sense in the whole affair is the crow. He made himself scarce, and hasn't been seen since.

How To Fight Russia

The way to fight Russia, according to Hanson W. Baldwin, military writer for the New York Times, is to attack its extremities. Napoleon and Hitler demonstrated for all time the folly of an invasion of the Russian interior. The better course was taken in the Crimean War of 1853-56. Then England and France attacked the Crimea, at the southern tip of Russia, laying siege to the naval fortress of Sebastopol.

The idea may have been sound, but the execution was bad. The British and French generals quarreled, and all lacked competence. Some modern experts believe Sebastopol could have been seized quickly, but the opportunity was lost, necessitating an 11-month siege. The fall of the fortress brought Russia to make peace terms satisfactory to the Allies.

The Crimea is not Russia's only vulnerable point. The Urkaine is its granary, and is approachable from the Black Sea. Then there are the Asiatic outposts, to defend which Russia would have to ship men and supplies for thousands of miles. That was one reason why Russia lost the 1904-05 war with Japan.

For that matter, had Napoleon abandoned his invasion and lopped off Russia's extremities, he might have brought the czar to terms. He might, for instance, have restored the independence to Poland, but presumably fear of antagonizing Austria, a co-owner of Polish territory, prevented.

Doubtless the Pentagon is considering this man-saving method of making war, and these bits of history influence our present policy.

Leaving For The Moon

Arthur V. St. Germain, if his plans work out, may soon be looking for an adventuresome companion. He says that he has completed plans for a rocket 27 stories high which would be able to carry two men to the moon and back. The trip back, of course, is the important thing. The rocket would weigh 180 tons, and travel 25,000 miles an hour. It would complete the journey in something under ten days.

The catch is that only the plans have been drawn. Presumably the money is yet to be found for the construction. As St. Germain is senior test engineer for the Fairchild Guided Missiles Division at the Navy test center at Point Mugu, California, he should know whether his conception is feasible. If he can persuade others that it is, there should be no great difficulty about getting the money.

Of course the Navy may decide that it would rather use St. Germain's missile for military purposes than in a journey to the moon. But if it takes the longer-range viewpoint, there may be some interesting reading about the moon in the newspapers one of these days.

A Senate committee is trying to ascertain what caused Senator Tydings' defeat in Maryland last November. Has it occurred to the committee that it may have been the fact he didn't get enough votes?

Stiff And Aching Muscles

SITTING in a draft may be followed by stiffness and soreness of the muscles. Just recently, one of my friends was unable to get out of bed because of lumbago. The only cause he could think of was that the night before he had sat with his back toward an open window through which a cool breeze was blowing. A lawyer I know always drives with the top of his convertible down. Driving a car with the window open often affects the left shoulder, particularly on a trip of several hundred miles.

The outcome is muscular rheumatism, or fibrositis, as the condition is called by physicians. In this disorder there is inflammation of the white fibrous tissue that is so prevalent throughout the body. It is the shiny material that makes some steaks tough and the joint of a drumstick so difficult to pull apart. This material forms the sheaths around muscles, nerves, tendons, and ligaments. The firm capsules that hold together and surround the many joints of the body also consist of fibrous tissue and, in addition, it traverses the skin and separates the fatty from the muscular layers. At any rate, we can be thankful that fibrositis usually is confined to one area and rarely becomes generalized.

Muscular fibrositis is the most common variety. In lumbago, for example, the back is so stiff and painful that during the acute stage, the victim has difficulty turning over in bed and it practically is impossible to get up without help. It is sheer torture to breathe, cough, or dress, especially when it comes to putting on the hose and shoes.

A somewhat similar group of symptoms will appear when the neck muscles are involved. This is the old fashioned stiff neck that most of us have experienced at some time. The area between the shoulder blades is another favored spot and a certain type of headache has been ascribed to inflammed muscles and tendons of the scalp. Fibrositis frequently is responsible for the vague aches and pains so common in the arms, chest, gluteal region, and legs. In some forms of arthritis, such as rheumatic fever and rheumatoid arthritis, pain stems from irritated fibrous tissue rather than from the joints.

The sharp pain associated with the malady is aggravated by jarring and movement which stretch the inflamed parts. No wonder nature limits motions by making the muscles stiff. In most instances, distress subsides within a few days, or a week at most. If it does not disappear completely, it goes into the chronic phase. Many of these individuals are stiff and achy on awakening in the morning or after sitting in a chair for some time; on limbering up, discomfort vanishes. Others require salicylates such as aspirin or heat in the form of a heat lamp or hot water bag. These measures give temporary relief and often are needed when the weather is cold and damp or after a period of overexertion, fatigue, or nervousness.

Because infection is believed to play a major role, more lasting benefit is anticipated whenever a focus can be found and eliminated. Teeth, tonsils, and the prostate gland are the usual offenders along this line. Those who are predisposed to this annoying discomfort must take extra good care of themselves. The majority have learned the folly of sitting in a draft or exposing themselves to cold in other ways.

TOMORROW: Good posture is a health asset.

Heroic Backstage Wire-Pulling Needed To Put Across Italy's New Armament Program; Wiping Out Italian Unemployment It Should Help Banish Communism

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Drew Pearson is only a flying tour of Europe and the Middle East, surveying the world situation).

ROME—The inside fact about the new armament program just voted by the Italian Parliament is that it was put across only after some heroic backstage wire-pulling which few people, even those in official life, know about. The behind-the-scenes story illustrates what terrific uphill obstacles the United States faces in both rearming Europe and inspiring internal reforms over here.

The rearmament move really began when Foreign Minister Count Carlo Sforza, a great friend of the United States, became worried about the bad press Italy was getting in the United States and asked some of his American newspaper friends about it. Their reply was "don't you realize that American boys are dying in Korea, that we all face possible war with Russia, yet Italy is doing nothing about it? The American people are getting tired of protecting the rest of the world."

Rearmament was not in Sforza's bailiwick. Furthermore, it was not in the bailiwick of certain Americans connected with the Marshall Plan who talked to Sforza about rearmament. Both were on delicate ground because he risked offending Italian generals; Marshall Plan officials because they risked offending U. S. Ambassador James Dunn, who follows the old-fashioned diplomatic theory that you must not jog the elbow of foreign governments regarding domestic policies and he was reluctant to crack down on the snail-like pace of Italian rearmament.

However, Sforza finally came up with a 26-page rearmament plan which was so confidential that it was given to ECA officials in the Rome railroad station by Sforza's deputy, so they wouldn't be seen together.

The ECA officials sent back word that the proposed plan chiefly called for more expenditures by the already overburdened American taxpayer and that any real Italian rearmament plan must also provide for Italian sacrifices. More conferences followed, out of which was finally evolved the $400,000,000 arms bill okayed by the Italian Parliament last week.

The new Italian arms bill can bring about a complete end of communism here, provided Italy is able to get all-too-scarce steel, aluminum and copper from the United States. For the new program should reactivate the northern automobile and tank factories, which have been virtually idle since the war, and wipe out Italian unemployment—the chief cause of communism.

However, the inside fact is a lot of money will also be wasted under Italian armament. The army, for instance, still maintains huge farms, theoretically for breeding cavalry horses. Though the cavalry has long since passed from use, the army clique refuses to relinquish its vast landed estates and Minister of Defense Randolfo Pacciardi, a devotee of David Dubinsky and the International Ladies Garment Workers, hasn't dared to buck the military hierarchy to bring about needed economies. In fact, Pacciardi has quietly appealed to American military advisors to pressure him for these economies.

This illustrates in Italian bureaucracy something which would make Senator Byrd faint. Commerce Minister Ivan Matteo Lombardo, commenting privately on this bureaucracy, once remarked "I have 13 stenographers. If I could fire all but three of them I could get some work done, but with 13 they just get in each other's way."

This bureaucracy has piled up so many government servants that 86 per cent of the social insurance paid in by the workers goes to pay for government administration. Repeatedly, since the war, the workers have had their premium payments for social security raised but not once have their insurance benefits been raised. The increase goes to pay bureaucrats' salaries.

Gervasi's Work Effective

A few weeks before General Eisenhower's scheduled visit to Italy, the walls of Rome were covered with posters reading "Ike, Go Home" plus other uncomplimentary remarks too filthy to be repeated here. Obviously this was the work of the Communists but since the walls of Rome are the television sets of the Italian people the posters had their effect and nothing was being done to counteract them.

Finally, while the American embassy hesitated, Frank Gervasi, the live-wire chief of ECA information, got busy. He organized a committee of pro-American Italians which, working backstage with the ECA, concocted some of the most effective posters ever seen in Italy.

Jean Belliard, son-in-law of Edgar Ansel Mowrer and now French attache on Eisenhower's staff, conceived one brilliant idea—namely, quoting from the Moscow press at the time Eisenhower liberated Europe. One set of posters therefore featured the hammer and sickle with quotes from Izvestia and Pravda hailing Ike as a great liberator. At the bottom of the poster was the date: May, 1945. Other posters featured Ike in his Columbia University cap and gown, regretfully laying aside his books to don an outgrown uniform.

Overnight, squads organized by the ECA went out, tore down the Communist posters and put up the new set. Few people had any idea who inspired the overnight change. In fact, gracious Ambassador Dunn, riding through Rome's streets the next day, remarked, "you see what the Italian people do when you leave them alone?"

For some months Gervasi, a former Hearst newspaperman and roving correspondent for Collier's, has been putting new life into American propaganda in Italy. Thanks to him, millions of Italian people now know what the Marshall Plan has brought to them. Three of his publications are among the most ingenious in Europe. One is a comic magazine called "The Story of America" which is sold on newsstands weekly and is lapped up by the Italian public.

Another is "Il Campi," or "The Land," a monthly magazine for farmers which is increasing Italian agricultural output and at the same time is getting across the fact that the United States has extended great help to Italy. The third is called "Illustrated Worker," a poor man's Collier's, aimed at weaning labor away from the Communists. The last-named is so popular that, in six months, it has reached a newsstand circulation of 200,000 and soon will become a paying proposition.

Gervasi's ingenuity has done a great deal to give communism its heavy setbacks in Italy. Yet, when plans for future American publicity here were recently submitted to the American embassy, Ambassador Dunn carefully struck out Gervasi's proposed plans.

Matter Of Fact

Meaning Of A Threat

BERLIN

IT is early days yet for the cooing optimism and negligent complacency which appear, from the perhaps jaundiced angle of vision of Berlin, to be overtaking Washington like a paralytic plague.

Western Europe is, after all, the key strategic position of the Western world. The pitifully small number of American, British and French divisions as yet available for the defense of Western Europe and now being tactically redeployed—that is, they are being transformed from an occupation force into a force that can fight this summer if need be. Yet the main defense of Western Europe remains the deterrent power of the strategic air force.

Meanwhile, peering outwards into the Soviet zone of Germany from the lookout that is Berlin, one sees no less than six Soviet armies. These armies comprise at least 30 divisions, including at least eight armored divisons and perhaps eleven heavy mechanzed divisions. They are supported by a powerful air force, which can be further strengthened at any moment, comprising nearly 500 first class jet fighters and about the same number of attack fighters and light bombers for close support.

All this military power in Germany is in turn immediately backed up in Poland by six more divisions or the equivalent, plus a certain number of supporting "air corps" as the Soviets call air groups. Of these divisions in Poland, moreover, at least three appear to be composed entirely of cadres, with as high as 50 per cent ratio of officers, so that their nine "regiments" can be rapidly transformed, by shipping in mass manpower, into nine full divisions.

Ready To Go

This was the trick that stood the order of battle experts on their tin ears in 1949, when the Kremlin began bringing its force in Germany up to the present strength.

Finally, and most important of all, this powerful force in East Germany and Poland is no longer relatively immobilized, as it was a year ago, by deficiencies in every sort of stock and reserve. It has been made ready to go, or nearly ready to go, by the processes of gradual accumulation of reserves and stocks described in a previous report.

In Korea we have already bitterly learned the danger of calculating the enemy's intentions instead of his capabilities (which was the error of all those from Gen. MacArthur all the way down to these reporters, who thought the Chinese would not massively intervene). The capabilities of these Soviet armies here in Europe are only too clear. The grim figures mean that any slackening of the American or Western defense effort at this time is downright criminal.

At the same time, anyone would be idiotically alarmist, as yet, to deduce that a Soviet offensive in Europe impends because the Soviet armies in Europe have been brought close to the stage of offensive readiness.

Many authorities certainly assert that the Kremlin will be able to transform its spring or autumn European army maneuvers into an attack westwards, sending the already deployed divisions across the border at a word of command. Others argue, however, that there are still gaps, in certain storage levels, in artillery, and so on, which the Kremlin will need a month to two months to fill. Probably the

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—If you were the mayor of a city and had the chamber of commerce and everybody else working together to bring new industries to your area and then the United States Government came in and undercut you with what is plainly "cutthroat competion," you would be plenty mad.

Well, Mayor De Lesseps S. Morrison of New Orleans is mad and has carried the case to the Louisiana delegation in Congress and the delegations from other southern states. He declares that Secretary of the Interior Oscar Chapman, government ownership champion, has broken the spirit as well as the letter of business practices in America by a decision to give the Aluminum Company of America electric power from the Bonneville power project in the Columbia River Valley in the Northwest at half price.

Possible By Subsidy

Although the Bonneville administrator announced in his annual report last year that there was no surplus power available and would not be until 1957, Mr. Chapman now has overruled his own executive and offered power to the aluminum company at about two mills per kilowatt, which is just about half what the New Orleans area could offer. The New Orleans mayor says, however, that this would not be possible except by a subsidy paid for by all the taxpayers of the country.

In addition, the New Orleans mayor points out that, because bauxite and other ingredients are available only in the Caribbean area, the aluminum product will have to be sent 6,000 miles back and forth across the continent for processing. With the uncertainty of future freight rates, he says the end result will be that the final product will not be manufactured as inexpensively as it soon will be by a competitor of the Aluminum Company—the Kaiser Company, which is building a $79,000,000 plant in New Orleans and plans to use natural gas for power purposes.

If New Orleans loses out, it means that a $45,000,000 plant which the Aluminum Company of America would have built there will not be constructed. It's pretty tough for any mayor to lose a $45,000,000 plant for his city but it's worse when it happens because someone in the government introduces a subsidy for another region and actually cuts the price through that advantage.

Nobody in private busines could give a below-cost rate to one customer to take business from a competitor. The federal anti-trust laws forbid it.

What causes indignation among the Southerners is the fact, that with billions of dollars in taxes to be raised from everybody in America, the defense emergency is being used to advance the cause of the advocates of a nationalization formula which ultimately could bring the same program of hostility to private industry as the labor government in Great Britain has introduced there.

Closer To Russia

It is a contradiction to find the Truman Administration, which professes to be friendly to "free enterprise" and to small business, too, lending itself to a conspiracy to prevent the South from getting a plant that would eventually bring a lower cost end-production than can be obtained by favoring a government project in the Northwest on a single phase—electric power. The Kaiser interests insist that they will be producing aluminum cheaper in the New Orleans are than the Aluminum Company can produce in any new plant now being projected for the Northwest. The Aluminum Company, on the other hand, is believed to be required to "play ball" with the Interior Department, which controls the allocation of power under the defense setup. Also Southern members of Congress argue that too many aluminum plants should not be concentrated in one area because it might make that locality vulnerable to atomic attack. They point out that the Northwest, which already has big aluminum plants, is nearer to Russia than the South is.

What is pjuzzling disinterested observers is how the Bonneville power administrator can be expected to supply surplus power when he really hasn't any at present. Reports are current that private users in the Northwest will suffer and that drastic curtailment of power and rationing in the Northwest will be inevitable. That may be the penalty which private users in the Northwest will have to pay in order that the Interior Department may continue its feud against private electric power companies and their investors as more and more tax money is used from the Treasury of the United States to carry on the fight.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Return Of Sumner Welles

I RECEIVED a circular letter announcing the return of Sumner Welles to active political life. It came as a surprise because it seemed as though he were in permanent retirement.

Mr. Welles's career was in the State Department in the hey-day of the wild men whom Senator Joe McCarthy has been denouncing as much for their habits as for their policies. He returns not to public office but as chairman of a new organization now being launched called "The First Freedom International," which is a curious title. What is the importance of the words, "The First," which are printed in smaller type? There have been many international organizations which have advocated freedom. Also, the title is reminiscent of the Second International of the Social Democrats, the Third international of Stalin and the Fourth International of Trotzky.

However, this is to be an anti-Communist international and is organized, it says, because others at work are failing. The circular says:

> ". . . freedom is the real revolution—not Soviet tyranny—and the time is overdue for us to take the initiative on its behalf, on a scale hitherto unattempted."

And to achieve this "real revolution" a catch-all committee is formed which includes all sorts of diametrically opposed individuals, from Republicans to social Democrats, up and down the gamut of ideas. How any Republican can fight communism in the company of a social Democrat, or how a religious leader can tie up with a Marxist who only objects to Stalin but not to Marxism, is difficult to analyze. Yet this organizing committee includes many distinguished and important names.

I picked at random a few and telephoned and I put the query this way: "I see you're serving on a committee under the chairmanship of Sumner Welles." Each seemed to show concern, as though I had presented him with a subpoena from the McCarran Committee. Each indicated that he had no knowledge that he had been asked to serve in this capacity.

I then gave the name of the organization and described its character. From some this got a response; from others it did not. In a word, there are always persons who lend their names to committees, petitions, open letters.

The card which accompanies this letter reads:

"I am happy to give my name without obligation as a member of the organizing committee of Freedom International."

Quite how one lends his name to a public cause "without obligation" is hard to understand. That is one of the most usual excuses given by those who joined Communist front organizations; they did not know that it was involved; they signed without obligation.

Nonsense! When a man signs his name to anything, he takes on an obligation. He is responsible for the entire program of that organization. He is responsible for its conduct. He is responsible for its officials. Once he lends his name, he cannot dodge the fact that he did so. The record stands unless he publicly repudiates it. Mature men and women are expected to be responsible for their decisions.

The name-signers have strengthened the Communists over the past years and I suppose "The First Freedom International," headed by Sumner Welles, is copying their methods. But what does such signature-hunting really accomplish, unless each individual who signs up is devoted to the cause and is ready to stand or fall by it? But this organization which Sumner Welles heads wants signatures "without obligation."

No movement so founded can be of any use in the fight against Communists in this country or in the world. Nor do I believe that Sumner Welles can now inspire confidence in anyone. Look at his career! He managed the State Department when Alger Hiss and his gang

THE FELLOWSHIP WORSHIPS

God is a Spirit: and they that worship him must worship in spirit and truth.
John 4:24.
Read Revelation 3.

We may well like the sanctuary's beauty, its dim religious light, its altar. But let us never forget that worship is not the substance, but only the sustenance, of the Christian life. To have a noble impulse is to worship God in spirit. To act out that impulse in our daily living is to worship him in truth. God is not greatly interested in human adulation. He is not greedy for praise. We must never ascribe to God a characteristic which we despise in mortals. What God wants is adoration put to work.

Archibald Rutledge tells of a mangy cur which belonged to Steve Boykin, one of his Negro hands. One day while Steve was off in the woods, his dog was set to guard his dinner pail. A fire broke out in the woods and swept over the dinner pail and the dog. "That dog knew what a fire was and had plenty of time to get away . . . When Steve saw, he muttered, 'My little dog he done worshiped me.' The yellow cur worshiped his master by dying for him." Anyone who truly worships God must own to some great mastership in life.

Let Us Pray: In all our worship, Lord, may we own to some great motivating principle. Forbid that we should have a deep emotion without putting it into action. Only thus do we worship thee in spirit and in truth. May the name of Jesus Christ be glorified in us. Amen.

House Votes To Open Up Even Year Sessions To Any Type Legislation

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 15 (AP)—The House voted today to open up Maryland's even year 30-day sessions to any type legislation.

Under a 1948 constitutional amendment setting up annual sessions, only matters dealing with state finances, the "public general welfare" and emergencies may be passed upon in a 30-day session.

Other legislation must wait for the odd-year 90-day sessions, such as the present one.

The first short session in Maryland history was held last year. There was much confusion as to just what and what could not be passed.

Much pressure was exerted on the legislators to introduce all types of bills. Almost 350 were submitted. Many patently could not comply with the constitutional proviso.

Others fell into the doubtful class. Some of these were approved and signed into law by former Gov. Lane.

The Court of Appeals has ruled that two of the bills passed in 1950 did not fit the constitutional requirements for a short session and they were stricken off the books.

Delegate James (D-Harford) introduced the bill passed today in the House by an 89-13 vote and sent along to the Senate.

If it gains Senate approval and is signed by the Governor, the proposed change in the constitution will be submitted to the electorate at a referendum in 1952.

Another of the more than 20 measures passed by the House today sets up a statewide law requiring the registration and licensing of private detectives. The measure now goes to Gov. McKeldin.

The Senate put off action until tomorrow on a bill that will permit the Governor to raise the pay of the chief engineer from $8,000 to $12,000.

It already has amended the house-passed bill to require senate confirmation of future appointments to the job, which will be known as director of public improvements.

Md. Bookies Reported Linked To Syndicate

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 15 (AP)—A Kefauver crime committee investigator declared today Maryland bookies are linked to big gambling syndicates.

"Your handbooks are well organized," Downey Rice said at a House Judiciary Committee hearing on gambling legislation. "They are hooked up with individuals in other states."

Numbers operators have connections in adjoining states, he added.

Rice is an associate counsil of the Senate subcommittee investigating crime syndicates.

100 Marylanders Killed

BALTIMORE, March 15 (AP) — More than 100 Maryland men have died in the Korean fighting and another 600 have been wounded or listed as missing, Defense Department casualty lists show.

Detroit Train Wreck Investigation Begins

DETROIT, March 15 (AP) — The Wayne County prosecutor's office today began an investigation into the midnight wreck of the New York Centrals Ohio Special in which three persons were killed and 34 hurt.

Ralph Garber, chief assistant prosecutor, said "it is possible the train was going too fast for the conditions" when it tumbled off the tracks in suburban Trenton.

One witness said the train was going 50 miles an hour. The weather was murky, a snow-flaked drizzle falling.

New York Central executives said the wreck was caused by a broken rail.

Beer, Other Products On Way Out Of Cans

WASHINGTON, March 15 (AP)—Officials disclosed today that beer, pet foods and other "less essential" products are on their way out of tin cans.

Under present government orders, the amount of such products that may be packed in tin cans is limited to 90 per cent of last year's level.

Today the National Production Authority announced that the use of tin containers for beer, pet foods and other "less essential" products will be curtailed additionally by an undisclosed amount in the second quarter of this year.

Hiss To Begin Serving Sentence Next Week

NEW YORK, March 15 (AP)—U. S. District Attorney Irving H. Saypol said today he will ask Alger Hiss to begin serving his five-year prison sentence for perjury next Thursday.

Hiss, former high-ranking policy official in the State Department, was convicted of lying when he said he never gave government secrets to Whittaker Chambers, an acknowledged former Communist spy courier.

The Supreme Court refused last Monday to review his conviction.

65 More Under-Age GIs Back From Korea

SEATTLE, March 15 (AP) — Sixty-five beardless boys who learned manhood on the battlefields of Korea were among the returning soldiers aboard the transport Gen. H. B. Freeman which tied up here today. They will go back to civilian life — too young for the Army.

All were enlistees who falsified their ages to get into service. Most are still 17 or younger.

But to them there is a clear understanding why the United States is fighting in Korea.

Sgt. James H. Cox, Winston Salem, N. C., who has spent 27 months in uniform, drawled:

"I'll tell you why — we're fighting to keep Communism out of here." Then he swung an arm that took in all of America. His first goal is to hunt up an Army officer who will tell him to re-enlist.

Butler Campaign Treasurer Says Tabloid "Stupid"

WASHINGTON, March 15 (AP)—The campaign treasurer of Sen. Butler (R-Md) today denounced as "stupid" the tabloid "From the Record" used by Butler supporters in the 1950 campaign against former Democratic Sen. Millard Tydings.

Cornelius P. Mundy, Baltimore attorney who served as Butler's campaign treasurer, also told a Senate subcommittee investigating the campaign in which Butler defeated the veteran Democrat that:

1—Thousands of dollars of contributions to the Butler campaign, in evidence in committee records, had not passed through his hands as required by Maryland law despite his warnings that those in Butler headquarters read the state Corrupt Practices Act.

2—Early campaign strategy was discussed by him and Butler in the office of Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) with McCarthy and Robert Morris. The latter was Republican attorney for the Tydings subcommittee which investigated McCarthy's charges of Communist infiltration in the State Department.

3—All told, more than $90,000 was spent in Butler's behalf.

Vandenberg Unchanged

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., March 15 (AP)—The serious condition of ailing Sen. Vanderberg (R-Mich) remained unchanged today.

Peace Crusaders Run Into Trouble

WASHINGTON, March 15 (AP)—So-called "peace crusaders" tramped the streets of the capital today, finding little but trouble.

One delegation was ejected from the office of Rep. Moranc (D-Conn.) after he refused to talk with them and they refused to leave. Morano called them a Communist front organization.

Another group was advised to try their persuasive powers on the Soviet Embassy if they really wanted peace.

A third group, penetrated to a conference room at the State Department, was told by Francis H. Russell, director of public affairs, that they were playing Moscow's game.

Several hundred demonstrators marched past the White House, where extra police were stationed, but there was no disorder. They also filed without incident past Blair House, President Truman's temporary Washington residence.

Graham Probe Urged

WASHINGTON, March -5 (AP)—Rep. Keating (R-NY) urged today a full Senate committee hearing on the proposed promotion of President Truman's personal physician, Brig. Gen. Wallace H. Graham.

Graham was nominated yesterday by Mr. Truman for the rank of major general.

Flintstone Women's Society Observes 10th. Anniversary

Pleasant Grove Group Guests

The Women's Society of Christian Service of Flintstone church entertained the Pleasant Grove WSCS Monday evening at the church, observing the 10th birthday of the WSCS of the Methodist church.

Mrs. B. C. Robinette, president, welcomed the guests, after which a Lenten program was presented by the Flintstone group on the theme "Strength for our Weakness", with Mrs. Roscoe Ash in charge.

Special instrumental numbers were given by Miss JoAnn Teeter, Mrs. Leah Twigg and Mrs. Harry Wilson of the Pleasant Grove society. Rev. R. L. Wittig sang a solo, accompanied by Mrs. Wittig. Mrs. J. H. Allison sang " 'Twas Midnight on Mt. Olives Brow" accompanied by Mrs. B. C. Robinette at the piano. A special number was presented by Pleasant Grove Choir and two numbers were given by Flintstone choir.

Minutes of January and February meetings were read by the secretary, Mrs. J. H. Allison. Brief remarks were given by Mrs. Harry Northcraft, president of the visiting society.

The Pleasant Grove society presented the hostess society with a beautifully decorated two-tier cake, with eleven candles on it, ten for the birthday and one to grow on, representing something accomplished in the past ten years and one to represent the growth in the coming year. The group sang "Happy Birthday, Dear Neighbor," and each member introduced her self to the group.

Refreshments were served in the church social room under the supervision of Mrs. Eugene May, after which a humorous program was presented, directed by Mrs. R. L. Wittig. Readings were given by Mrs. Herbert Myers and Mrs. Harry Bender. The party concluded with all joining hands and singing "Blest be the Tie that Binds."

Those taking part in the program from Flintstone were Mrs. Eugene May, Mrs. Richard L. Wittig, Mrs. Blaine C. Robinette, Mrs. Harry R. Ash, Mrs. Harry Bender, Mrs. J. H. Allison, Mrs. Leah Twigg, Mrs. Herbert Myers, Mrs. Helen Dennison, Mrs. Harold K. Cheney, Mrs. Charles Shriver, Mrs. Roland Gilson, Mrs. Emory Shriver and Mrs. Lena Twigg. Visitors were Mrs. George Clingerman, Miss JoAnn Teeter and Mrs. Jacob Teeter.

Visitors from Pleasant Grove society were Mrs. Jessie Knight, Mrs. James Michael, Mrs. Calvin Layton, Mrs. William Swan, Mrs. Carl Griffith, Mrs. George Raines, Mrs. Albertson, Mrs. Harry Northcraft, Mrs. Martin Gordon, Mrs. Harry Wilson, Mrs. Lester Hinkle, Mrs. Adolph Norris, Mrs. Samuel Clark, Mrs. Carl Wilson and Mrs. Dewey Smith.

Marriage Of Sister Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Kamens, of the Washington-Lee Apartments, announce the marriage of Mrs. Kamen's sister, Mrs. Sophia Rosenbaum of New York City, formerly of Cumberland, to Louis D. Schwartz, Plaza Hotel, New York City.

The wedding ceremony was solemnized Thursday afternoon in the study of Rabbi Jonah Wise of Central Synagogue, Fifth Avenue, New York City. After the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Schwartz left for a wedding trip to California.

Mrs. Rosenbaum, the former Miss Sophia Kline, is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Samuel E. Kline. She is the sister also of George L. Kline of the Kline Furniture Company.

Mr. Schwartz is an attorney in New York City where the couple will reside.

Married Couples Club Has Dinner Meeting

The Married Couples Club of Centre Street Methodist Church held a dinner-meeting recently at the church. The tables were decorated in keeping with the Easter season. Robert Little Ebert talked on "Gemology."

The committee in charge of arrangements was composed of Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Defibaugh, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Guy, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Romine, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Gunsallus, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Paulman.

Others present were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Statler, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Cessna, Mr. and Mrs. Ramond Boore, Mr. and Mrs. John Purucker, Mr. and Mrs. J. Paul Fisher, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Allstetter, Mr. and Mrs. William R. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Kemp, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Straw, Mr. and Mrs. William Luman, Mr. and Mrs. Roger H. Row, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Alexander, Mr. and Mrs. James Gardner, Mr. and Mrs. William Hoover and Mrs. Herbert Lehr.

Home Training Course Planned

The first of two training meetings for club home management chairmen under the Extension Service of the University of Maryland will be held Saturday at 10 a. m. at the Court House. The second will be held March 21 at 4 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Harry Morgan, 141 Frost Avenue, Frostburg.

WASHINGTON

BOY, THAT was a quickie! . . . Dined on the plane with the glittering carpet of Hollywood spread below. . . Breakfasted at home on the world's best coffee, brewed by my ace-cook, Augusta. . . And on the way from the airport I had even seen the first robin, bobbin' at the Lincoln Memorial.

By noon I had the first spring news, was ready for action!

AUSTINE

Oscar Ewing, controversial head of the Federal Security Agency, has been wooed by private industry for big-paying job. . . Announcement of resignation often follows a rumor like this.

Washington deb of a few years past, blonde Betty Burton, has become the toast of Paris. . Entertains quietly but very well in the George Abel's house. They have lent it to her while they're over here. . . But Betty swears she won't marry any of her French beaux.

Steve Early and Les Biffle are now "T" men. . . Nothing to do with tax investigation. . . No siree, the former Assistant Secretary of Defense and the Secretary of the Senate have been named directors of Laurel Race Track. . Friends are flooding them with requests for tickets—free passes to the track—and also ask them for hot tips. So "T" for Tickets and Tips.

Incidentally, Lovable Les, who has suffered agonies from bursitis, and got very little help from modern medical science, was recently advised by his wife to "go see a witch doctor!"

Friends of Gen. Vaughan, of deep freeze fame, say that the Maragon five per cent conviction case for perjury has been frozen in the Circuit Court of Appeals. . . Anyone calling the court will be informed that "the judges are studying the case."

While ex-Senator Chan Gurney didn't get the job as Assistant Secretary of War, his former colleague in the Senate, a fellow named Truman, was responsible for sending Gurney's name up to become a member of the Civil Aeronautics Board.

Jim Mead, chairman of the Federal Trade Commission, is relaying a quip:

When the attractive wife of a Washington official got a compliment on her new mink wrap she hastily explained. "My husband bought it for me, I didn't get it either COD or RFC."

Here is more Hollywood hoop-la from my private hoard:

James Hilton, in his new book, says Hollywood is a "place where everybody's scared—scared of each other, of the future, of gossip columns, of ulcers, of the public, of Washington, of censorship. These folks are afraid for their lives, they've built themselves a concentration camp that they're all fighting to stay inside—a damned democratic deluxe concentration camp—where you by-pass the adult intelligence and shoot for the blood pressure of the 12-year old."

Be that as it may, they still seem to get their kicks.

Eight leading men tell what they think are the special winning ways that every wife should have!

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

MANY a woman turns off her charming approach toward the outside world soon after the ring is slipped over her third finger. Does she consciously or unconsciously think that now she's got her one-and-only, she has no further need for charm and the popularity it evokes?

Far wiser is the wife who wants her husband's friends to think her charming and to enjoy being in her home. If she is a business woman as well as a wife, she can profit by adding to her abilities that of making her male associates accept her as a friendly colleague.

How To Be Admired

Any woman who is inclined to disagree with such ideas need only refresh her understanding of the definition of admiration. High regard, esteem, and honor are important implications of the world.

There is never an age, a situation, nor a state where charm is not an asset. A wife's charm even affects her husband's business. How frequently I hear tell-tale remarks such as, "Have to go to the Joneses tonight. He's a nice chap, but she's . . . " and a shoulder-shrug ends the comment.

Whether at home or at work, the praiseworthy qualities in a wife possess the same characteristics. Here are what some men in various fields have to say of them:

From a leading business man: "A spruce, trim appearance counts for a large percentage of a wife's success at home or in the office."

From a portrait painter: "The inner worth of the personality is what counts. It's always revealed in a natural-looking, expressive face."

Said a novelist: "I enjoy the kind of woman who can express her thoughts."

Something To Consider

A handsome professor stated: "It is a great pleasure to be in the company of a charming woman who thinks—informed thoughts, that is."

"My deepest admiration goes to the woman who practices generosity towards others," was the comment of a doctor.

"Tact and courtesy are two of the most charming qualities a woman can have," affirmed a store executive.

An army officer chose "humor and gayety" as the most winning qualities.

The one bachelor in the group summarized: "My idea of the perfect wife is one who has eyes only for her husband but ears for everyone."

Ex-President Said No

Hoover Says Dewey Offered Him U. S. Senate Post In 1949

NEW YORK (AP)—Herbert Hoover rejected an opportunity to return to public life in 1949 as U. S. Senator from New York.

The former President makes this disclosure in the last installment of his personal memoirs ppearing in Collier's magazine.

By 1949, Mr. Hoover had moved his voting residence from California to New York.

In that year, he says, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey "did me the courtesy of offering me the appointment of United States senator to succeed to the unexpired term of Sen. Robert F. Wagner," who retired because of illness.

"I felt it necessary to refuse," the 76-year-old, former chief executive says. "It was in my view desirable to confer the honor on a younger man. Moreover, I felt my greatest remaining service would be to maintain my independence from political harness."

Gov. Dewey then appointed John Foster Dulles to the Senate.

Mr. Hoover also reveals that in his travels around the country after leaving the White House in 1933 he met many small business people who complained of injustices in the New Deal's National Recovery Act.

The ex-President advised all of them, he says, to defy the NRA on the grounds that it violated the Bill of Rights.

"As literally hundreds of appeals from such injustices came to me," Mr. Hoover writes, "I established a system of volunteer lawyers—old friends—who would advise. In no case did the authorities persevere against such a threat of exposure."

The NRA later was declared unconstitutional by the courts.

Although it contains some political references, most of the last chapter of Mr. Hoover's personal story is devoted to humorous and poignant incidents which befell him as ex-president.

He recalls that in 1938 he made a sentimental journey to a house in London which he and Mrs. Hoover had occupied many years before. All he wanted to do was look over the home once again. By then it had new occupants. And being unrecognized by the servants, the former president of the United States was turned away at the door.

Mr. Hoover recalls that in receiving an honorary degree from the University of Finland in Helsinki he also was presented with a sword—"The Sword of Truth."

"I had been through many honorary degrees and thought I could manage my part successfully," he says, "but the sword was a new feature. As I continued to hold it in my hand, the rector, a former Harvard professor, said (sotto voice):

"'Please put it on.'

"'Can't you (sotto voice) fasten it on your suspenders? I must have your two hands to take the oath.'"

Mr. Hoover "moored" the sword under his suspenders as best he could. Then it began to slip. With each word, it slipped further. Finally, just as he finished the oath, the sword clattered down the steps of the platform. The ex-President retrieved it.

"For once in my life I had a thought before an extemporaneous speech instead of afterward," he says. "I recounted that I had been raised in a religious faith of such strictness that as a boy I was not allowed my one great wish, which was to have a wooden sword; that I had served for a short time with the American army in battle and was not given a sword then; that I had been commander in chief of all the armies and navies of the United States and again was not allowed to have a sword; and that having come all the way to Finland to get my lifelong heart's desire I did not propose to lose it.

"For the balance of that speech I held the sword fast in my fist."

In another vein, Mr. Hoover recalls the death of his wife in 1944.

"I had lived with the loyalty and tender affection of an indomitable soul almost 50 years," he writes.

". . . She left the sweetest compliment ever given to men when, in her simple letter of a will addressed to her sons, she wrote:

"'You have been lucky boys to have had such a father and I am a lucky woman to have had my life's trail alongside the paths of three such men and boys.'"

On that note, the only living former president of the United States ends his personal story.

These Days

made free there. He managed the State Department when the fateful China policy was formed —a policy which has cost us 60,000 casualties already.

What did Welles do to eliminate Communists from the State Department when he was its effective boss? What did he do to drive out the homosexuals? What will this organization have to say about his management of the State Department when the McCarran committee's investigations into the I. P. R., about which I have been writing, begin to attract public attention?

I for one am not joining up with this business.

China Reds Gripe Because Russia Not Supplying Them With Planes

By FRED HAMPSON

HONG KONG—(AP)—Chinese Red soldiers are griping because Russia isn't supplying them with air power. And they're wondering how they can lose so many men and still win in Korea.

That the story brought to his British crown colony by a longtime resident of China, a man who understands all the Chinese dialects.

The source must remain anonymous because reprisals might result. But he said he heard a group of Chinese soldiers talking outside his bedroom window in a West China city.

The soldiers, some 50 of them, had stopped to rest during a march on a chill morning last month. The refugee said this is what he overheard:

"We have chased the Americans back in Korea," said one.

"I think we are better than the Americans," commented another, "but I don't understand why we don't drive them out of Korea."

A third observed: "I think we are losing too many men. The Americans have too much equipment."

"The Americans have too much air power," said the first soldier. "We don't seem to have any. We always have to fight without air power."

"The Russians were supposed to give us air power but we don't have it," complained the second voice. "I don't understand that. I don't understand it at all. Russia has plenty of air power."

"Russia has more air power than America," agreed the first.

"Then why don't we get some?" the second soldier demanded. "We lose too many men when we don't have air power."

"We can't drive the Americans out of Korea if we continue losing so many men," said the third man.

Phone 'Program' Fad Is Sweeping West Germany

By DON DOANE

FRANKFURT, Germany —(AP)— When a housewife in Stuttgart, Germany, runs out of ideas on what to cook, she simply dials 995 on her telephone.

She is given a complete, well-balanced menu for lunch or dinner, and advice on how to cook it.

This is the latest development in a fad of automatic telephone "programs" which is sweeping Western Germany.

It'se done with tape on wire recorders, which play constantly, over and over, any bit of information or entertainment you want to put on them.

Telephone subscribers can dial a given number, listen as long as they like, then hang up.

In Frankfurt, if your watch has stopped, just dial 019. You are answered by a voice repeating the exact time every few seconds.

Dial Frankfurt 09 on Sunday evening and another voice gives you the results of the day's soccer football matches and the winning pool selections.

Dial 018 in Frankfurt, and on request you can obtain the weather forecast or the latest stock market quotations.

In Berlin, a twist of the dial brings the latest news, compiled by the official U.S. radio station, RIAS.

This is especially handy for Germans living in the Communist sectors of Berlin who don't want to be caught listening to American news broadcasts.

They used to have a three digit number for these telephone newscasts. But the Communist officials in East Berlin contrived to jam it on the dial system.

So it was changed to 24000. Since then, this five digit number has offered news at any time of day or night, undisturbed by jamming.

Other big cities in Germany have installed similar automatic phone programs.

Sometimes, the cost is borne by the government-owned telephone company—which charges all subscribers according to the number of calls made, and thus collects increased revenue from the additional calls these programs attract.

Some programs are also sponsored by commercial firms. In Stuttgart, for example, along with your model menu you are encurage to buy food and liquor from a prominent chain store.

Matter Of Fact

truth lies somewhere in between. Probably, therefore, there will be some warning, but not very much, if the Kremlin decides to take the staggering gamble of an appeal to naked force.

A Poised Threat

Second, and far more consoling, there is the really vital fact that the Kremlin obviously has other reasons just as good as a contemplated offensive for getting its European armies ready to go. The spring maneuver grounds are now being prepared near the zonal border. Reports are circulating that the usually modest spring maneuvers are to be very grandiose this year. The result will be a poised threat to any forthcoming Council of Foreign Ministers.

Equally, there will be maneuvers on a much larger scale beginning in August, again held close to the border. And these may influence the Western response to a planned aggregation against Yugoslavia or other piece of international bullying or flank attack. Here in Berlin, the betting is heavy that these are the real purposes of the outwardly deeply alarming process that has been going on in the Soviet zone.

Another way to sum up the situation is to say that the Kremlin, as usual, is behaving like the great race horse owners who always prefer to have several runners ready for the classic races. The horse of an attack on Western Europe is now, beyond much doubt, ready-groomed in the Kremlin stable. But again like the race horse owners, the Kremlin customarily decides which horse will be run to win by guessing the plans and estimating the strength of the probable opposition. And thus it is still reasonable to hope and expect that this ready prepared Soviet aggregation will not be launched after all, provided—always provided—that America and the Western allies are energetic, determined and courageous.

All-Night Adoration Planned By Church

All-night adoration for Holy Thursday is being planned by SS. Peter and Paul Catholic Church.

Rev. Louis Glantz, pastor, said the adoration will be held from 9 p. m. March 22 to 8 a. m. the following day, Good Friday, if a guarantee is received that enough people will attend.

Father Lewis reported that blanks have been distributed among parishoners, asking them to note the hour they will be present. A decision, he added, on the all-night adoration will be made Sunday.

A well-made Swiss watch, it is claimed, may run for 25 years without replacement of a single part.

Ex-Immigrant's Big Idea Plays Million-Dollar Tune

By Central Press

ESSEX FALLS, N. J., — For a fellow who came to this country 25 years ago with $25 in his pocket and a love for the harmonica, Finn H. Magnue of Essex Falls is doing just fine. These days, his harmonicas are blowing to the tune of millions of dollars a year. That's the gross from the new American harmonica industry which Magnus founded with the invention of the all-plastic harmonica in 1943.

Around New Jersey, this blond husky man, who traces his ancestry back to the Vikings, is known affectionately as the "King of the Harmonica." He might be described with equal accuracy as the Henry Ford of the plastic musical instrument business. How he got that way is a rags-to-riches story that he never tires of saying "could only happen here."

When the 17-year-old Norwegian clerk arrived in New York City in 1925, he was sure that there were great opportunities in this country for anyone who was willing to "give more than he got." Magnus was champing at the bit to prove his philosophy at a job. He rented a room, then sallied forth next morning to look for work. Bewildered by the maze of city streets, he got lost and never did find his room again, or recover the babbage he left there. But he did find a job.

He went to work promptly as a stevedore. Then, in turn, he was a dishwasher, elevator operator and factory stock clerk. All this time he was studying at night. Then he got a job with a button factory. In nine years he rose from night machine operator to superintendent and general manager.

One day in 1941, Magnus went shopping for a harmonica—the old metal kind. But in store after store, there were no harmonicas to be had. Bored salesmen explained that the war had cutt off this nation from German and Japanese manufacturers, and that was that.

"Aren't there any American makes?" Magnus asked. "Don't be silly," was the reply. "Don't you know there are 80 metal parts to each harmonica? You need 180 separate operations to put them together. It takes days. Who's got time for that?"

Finn Magnus—had big idea.

Plastic harmonica assembly line—6,000 an hour are turned out.

"How about mass production?" Magnus inquired. "Can't be done," snapped the salesman. "You need special skills to put them together. Harmonica reeds have got to be tuned by hand." And as Magnus walked out of the store, he heard the salesman scoff, "Who ever heard of American harmonicas?."

However, Magnus wouldn't admit for a moment that his adopted country couldn't do anything—and do it better — than Germany or Japan. So he gambled all his money, his time, his health and his future on his deep-rooted patriotism. He'd show the world that America could mass-produce harmonicas—and do it from plastics. Plastics experts said it was impossible.

"But I was too dumb to know it was impossible," Magnus says. "I just went ahead and did it."

So a new American industry was born. Today, with machines turning out 6,000 harmonicas each hour, his plant at Newark, N. J., is the hub of the world's harmonica industry.

Magnus' fertile brain didn't stop with this invention. Soon plastic chromatic harmonicas, accordions, concertinas and a remarkable new instrument called the keymonica (a cross of the clarinet, harmonica and button accordion) began to stream from his plant.

He thought he'd topped them all last year with the world's first portable electric organ, an instrument no bigger than a table radio which gives the rich sustained tones of an organ.

This year, Magnus has come up with an instrument that many regard as his greatest achievement—the first miniature bagpipe ever made. It's one-quarter the size of a scotch bagpipe, weighs only nine ounces, has a very mellow sound, and can be mastered in a few minutes.

Two ships of the fleet of Roman Emperor Caligula were found after lying for 1,800 years on the floor of a volcanic lake near Rome.

Hot-Rod Drivers Give Adventure Writer An Aim

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK—Howard Pease has been writing adventure books for teen-age boys for 24 years. A combination of hot-rod driving and marijuana smoking in his neighborhood now has turned him into a man with a message.

Pease has written a book called "The Dark Adventure"—all about wild boys in souped-up cars careening over the highways, sometimes under the influence of reefers. This time there's no happy ending, no young hero returning home safely from his adventures. Pease's hero windsup in police court.

"Every single word of the book is true," says Pease, "because I've taken all the incidents from newspapers, police blotters—and from the lips of my son and his friends. I worked the stories into my plot."

Book Created Controversy

Immediate reaction to the book has been a mixture of brickbats and bouquets. Some teachers and librarians have refused to put the book on shelves because of the sensational subject matter. Others have hailed the book as a dramatization and warning to headstrong youngsters who think their activities are thrilling and fun.

"All of the incidents used in the book actually occurred right in my home town (Palo Alto)," Pease said in an interview in New York.

Pease started to write books when he was a country librarian and found that young boys rarely were interested in reading outside of school. His first book was an adventure story. Today, 18 of the 19 books he has written are still in print—many of them read by sons of his original readers.

He Points Out Dangers

"What I'm trying to do in this book is reach the children and tell them they are flirting with their lives," he said. "I'm trying to show them that parents who are strict and insist on controlling their children are really better parents than the ones who let their children do whatever they want to."

Pease thinks an exciting adventure story, in which crime doesn't pay in the end, is the best way to reach a young audience.

"You can't get them by preaching," he says.

Tuberculosis leads all other diseases as a cause of death among young adults from 15 to 34 years of age.

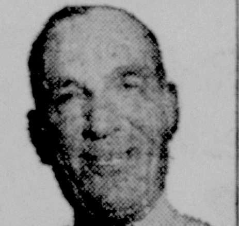
Folks Must Feel Good To Do Job

To do a good day's work you must feel your best. James Keelan, Jr., 5565 Labadie Ave., St. Louis, Mo., is a machine operator. This is hard and exacting work and a man has to be on his toes to get the job done. There was a time when Mr. Keelan did not feel up to his work — was troubled with digestive disturbances. But Mr. Keelan heard about how HADACOL was helping folks suffering from deficiencies of Vitamins B1, B2, Niacin and Iron.



James Keelan, Jr.

Mr. Keelan says:

"In recent years, I had been troubled with heartburn and indigestion. But since taking HADACOL, I no longer suffer heartburn. Now, I can eat anything without ever suffering after-meal distress. I have recommended HADACOL to a number of my fellow workers."

HADACOL can help you if you suffer such deficiencies. Ask your druggist for HADACOL today. Advertisement

NEW YORK (INS)

FRANK COSTELLO became one of the first persons of the electronic age to turn down a television offer, when he took the stand the other day against the Senate Crime Investigation Committee.

This was no whim. We ran into him a few nights before that and his mind already was made up. "I'm not going to make a spectacle of myself in front of a couple million people I don't know," he said. "Why do those fellows want to make a show of things like this?" He had the tone and indignation of a man who had been asked to disrobe in Times Square.

His astute lawyer, George Wolf, who presented Costello's regrets to the committee, so far as television is concerned, had other reasons for not wanting the proceedings scanned by the beady red eye of the menacingly silent cameras.

He knew there would be a number of occasions during the questioning when he and his client would have to say, "Ooop, just a moment," and put their heads together in a huddle before Costello answered. Wolf felt, with justification, that this maneuver (though a standard practice in congressional hearings) might weigh heavily against his man in the TV viewers' minds.

Wolf wanted the radio end of the show cut off, too, but this apparently was too much to ask of the committee, so for the rest of Costello's time on the stand Wolf had to hold his hand over a table mike whenever he wanted to confer privately with Costello.

The committee reached a spooky compromise so far as televising its hearings were concerned when Costello was on the stand. It ruled that the cameras could scan each tense face in the court room except the rugged face of the star witness.

Rudolph Halley, the committee counsel, would ask a most pertinent question, made strangely more compelling because of his lisp. The eager eye of TV would then rush past the flinty yet irresistibly jovial face of New Hampshire's Sen. Tobey, the essentially kind and concerned face of Maryland's Sen. O'Conor, and the fresh professorial countenance of Tennessee's Sen. Kefauver, and come to rest on Wolf—not Costello, to whom the question was directed.

But the answering voice, heavily laced with laryngitis and either shrewdly wary or completely bewildered, would be the voice of Costello. Occasionally the men who manipulated the cameras would break the rule to the extent of showing Costello's neatly manicured hands—kneading each other.

In the press rows of the cramped and uncomfortable room there was the traditional sympathy for the witness. Don't ask me why but this is almost always true, and it does not really matter much who is the witness. Maybe the answer is that newspaper blokes are essentially guided by their hearts, or betrayed by same, and can manage to hate the accused only if he or she is some violently ostentatious monster, which Costello is not.

At one point during his first day on the stand Costello was asked a question by Halley which he either did not understand or chose not to understand. It was a polysyllabic one at that, and he told his prober, Halley, that he could not fathom it. Halley, he said, must have had the benefit of a college education—to which Halley promptly agreed. Costello then said ruefully that he had no such advantage, and a murmur of sympathy and approval swept the press bench.

The witness said he was helpless to explain why Roosevelt Raceway would pay him $60,000 to delouse it of bookies. The senators, who do not make that kind of money, expressed skepticism that it was an honest return for the services rendered, and the man tried to explain that most people would take the $60,000—if the person giving the money forced it on them and lauded them for doing a good job.

"You would too," he suggested to Halley. But the young prosecutor arched his back and cried, "I would not!" And not during his entire stay on the stand was Costello more genuinely thunderstruck.

Polka Dots Decorate Two Tone Pie

The smart polka dot trimming for the Chocolate Polka Dot Pie, illustrated, is achieved easily by using morsels of semi-sweet chocolate. Just invert the little peaked morsels and you have polka dots. Semi-sweet chocolate is sold in morsels, all ready for intriguing effects like polka dot trimmings.

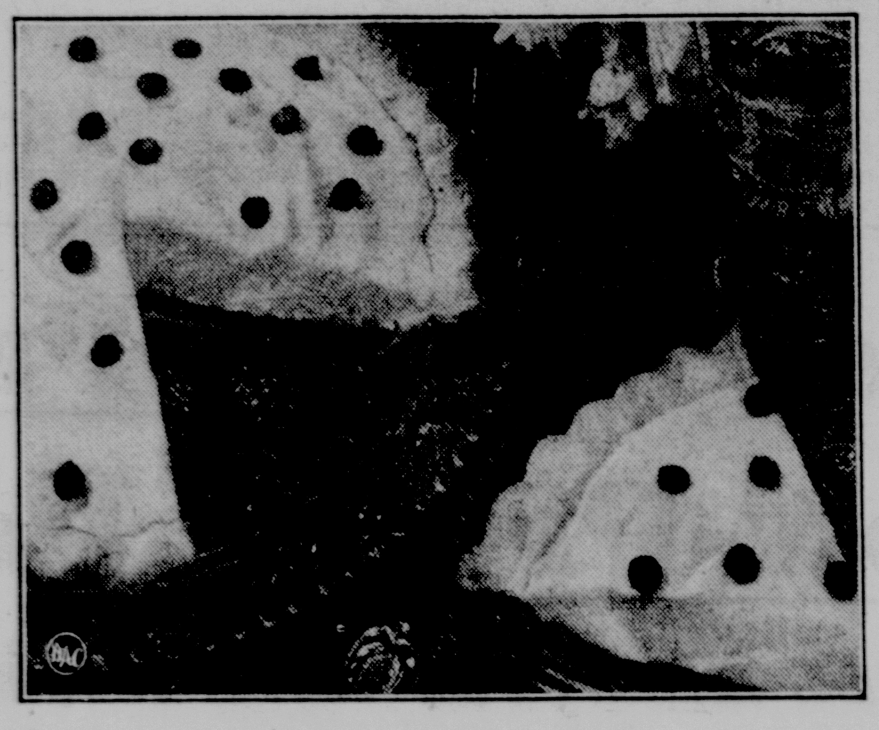
The chocolate portion of the two filling is also made witth semi-sweet chocolate, and one package of morsels takes care of both the chocolate layer and the polka dots. The lighter layer of the pie is delicious custard gelatine whipped fulffy. A beautiful pie for parties and for family treats, you will treasure this tested recipe.

Chocolate Polka Dot Pie

1 envelope unflavored gelatine
¼ cup cold water
⅔ cup sugar
1 tablespoon cornstarch
4 eggs, separated
2 cugs milk, scalded
1 package semi-sweet chocolate
1 teaspoon vanilla flavoring
¼ teaspoon salt
1 10-inch pastry crust

Soften gelatine in cold water. Combine ⅓ cup of the sugar and cornstarch. Beat egg yolks slightly; slowly add scalded milk. Stir in sugar mixture. Cook in double boiler, stirring constanly, until mixture coats spoon. To 1 cup custard, add ¾ package semi-sweet chocolate morsels. Stir until chocolate is melted; set aside. To remaining custard add softened gelatine. Stir until gelatine is dissolved; add vanilla. Chill until the consistency of unbeaten egg white. Beat egg whites until stiff; gradually beat in salt and remaining ⅓ cup sugar. Fold into custard-gelatine mixture. Stir shell. Turn gelatine mixture over cholocate mixture; turn into pie chocolate layer and chill until firm. Scatter remaining morsels of chocolate upside down over pie to resemble polka dots. YIELD: 1 10-inch pie.

Pies Are Wearing Polka Dots Of Semi-Sweet Chocolate



POLKA DOTS are perennial favorites in the fashion field, but they are something new in pie circles. What the well dressed pie will wear to parties is illustrated. The delicious flavor and texture of the two tone chocolate and custard gelatine filling is something you will want to enjoy at your own table. The recipe will be found elsewhere on this page.

Some lotus seeds have developed after being buried in bogs away from oxygen for 100 years.

Baked Pear

Three large or 6 small pears; juice of ½ lemon. Cut the pears in halves, removing the cores. Ina baking dish, place the lemon juice and enough water to cover the bottom of the dish. Place the pear halves cut side down in the dish and bake covered at 375 degrees F. for 20 to 25 minutes, depending on the ripeness of the fruit. At the end of the baking time remove the cover, turn the pears and sprinkle each half with ground cloves and from 1 to 2 teaspoons of sugar. Return to the oven to glaze and complete baking 10 to 15 minutes. Serve hot or chilled, depending on their use. May be used as a breakfast fruit chilled, as a dessert chilled, or heated in the oven or broiled as a meat accompaniment. Allow 1 large half for 2 small halves per serving.

Blackstrap Fad Discredited On Flavor, Quality Merits

Molasses is currently in the food spotlight because of great interest in its iron content. Unfortunately, this interest has been aroused via blackstrap molasses, the lowest grade, which is generally sold for industrial uses. For those who know high quality molasses with its sweet, delicate aromatic flavor . . . and for those who are being introduced to molasses as a bitter medicine . . . an explanation of the blackstrap fad is timely.

Blackstrap Is Waste Product

Blackstrap molasses is the waste product of sugar making. Sugar cane juice has been boiled at least three times, each time to crystallize out more sugar. The residual molasses from which it is no longer profitable to remove more sugar is blackstrap. It is bitter because so much of the true sugars have been extracted. It is black in color and acrid in flavor because of the numerous boilings. Most of the blackstrap produced in this country is sold to manufacturers of industrial alcohol and livestock feeds.

It is true that blackstrap contains more iron than high quality unsulphured molasses per unit of weight, but it also contains gum, other impurities and indigestible matter remaining after the sugar crystals have been removed. It is not considered suitable for baking which leaves it perhaps for use on cereal or in milk, or for eating as is. But because of its objectionable flavor, it is unpalatable and makes other foods unpalatable.

Many people who are eating blackstrap today do not enjoy its taste but think the iron content worth the displeasure. Actually, they could get daily requirements of iron in a flavorful, enjoyable form by the use of unsulphured, sweet molasses known since colonial days.

Unsulphured Molasses Is Primary Food

Unsulphured molasses is a primary food product, not a waste product of sugar making. The first reason for its quality is that it comes from the juice of sun-ripened, fully matured sugar cane which has grown from 12 to 15 months in the hot sun of the southlands. The juice is clarified and concentrated. Then it is aged, blended and packaged. As the label on the jar indicates, this molasses contains no sulphur or other preservatives.

Unsulphured molasses is also an energy food. It contains about 73 percent natural sugars which the body needs for energy and heat producing elements. This molasses is a convenient and rich source of nature's iron. Only liver compares favorably with molasses as a source of iron, and unsulphured molasses is a less expensive source. It contributes valuable calcium and some of the B1 vitamin essential to good appetite and steady nerves. The minerals are in a form readily assimilated by the body.

The flavor and quality of unsulphured molasses have been known since earliest colonial days when sailing vessels brought it from the West Indies. Its processing has remained unchanged for over 200 years except that now more modern machinery insures uniformity and absolute cleanliness. By using this high quality molasses in such pleasant ways as in gingerbread, puddings, cookies, with vegetables, in milk shakes and as a table syrup, the nutrients of molasses are enjoyed in delectable form.

Save With Breakfast

Breakfast is a better buy than ever before. Typical lunches and dinners jumped 11 cents each, according to Chicago retail prices, January, 1951, as compared with 1950. The cost of a basic cereal breakfast increased only a penny. Today, a good cereal breakfast takes only 1/7 of your daily food budget while supplying ¼ to ⅓ of your day's food needs.

Cereal Sandwich

Spoon half your oatmeat into your cereal bowl, add a tablespoon of blackberry jam, top with another layer of cereal, then milk. Same thing is fine with farina.

Breakfast Prescribed

After a doctor had told a writer he was suffering from hidden hunger, the doctor prescribed a good breakfast. The writer noted in an article recently, that after following this advice, "a relaxed and cheerful mood set in, and my morning's work went along with no sign of the old weariness, no more barking at people. Breakfast has remained my most important meal."

Next time you have left over pastry cream together a quarter cup of brown sugar with a tablespoon of butter or margarine and spread on the pastry squares, then sprinkle with nuts, and bake in a hot oven.

Ginger Bread Harvey Joins Easter Parade

For an enchanting Easter party we suggest our demure Ginger Bread Bunny. We've christened him Harvey after our favorite rabbit, and you can serve him complete with coconut grass and marzipan carrots.

Even though we can't pin any roses on for artistic ability, we found it easy to serve this masterpiece. Just use a couple of packages of ginger bread mix and pour into one of the attractive bunny molds that are still available. Give Harvey some whiskers and paws with pink sugar frosting. Surround him with crepe paper Easter eggs, and you'll have a table centerpiece to bring ohs and ahs from children and grown-ups too!

Did You Know

It's easy to decorate cakes if you practice with one of those handy little decorating tubes. If you're an expert, a cornucopia made of waxed paper will work just as well.

Easter Bunny Cake

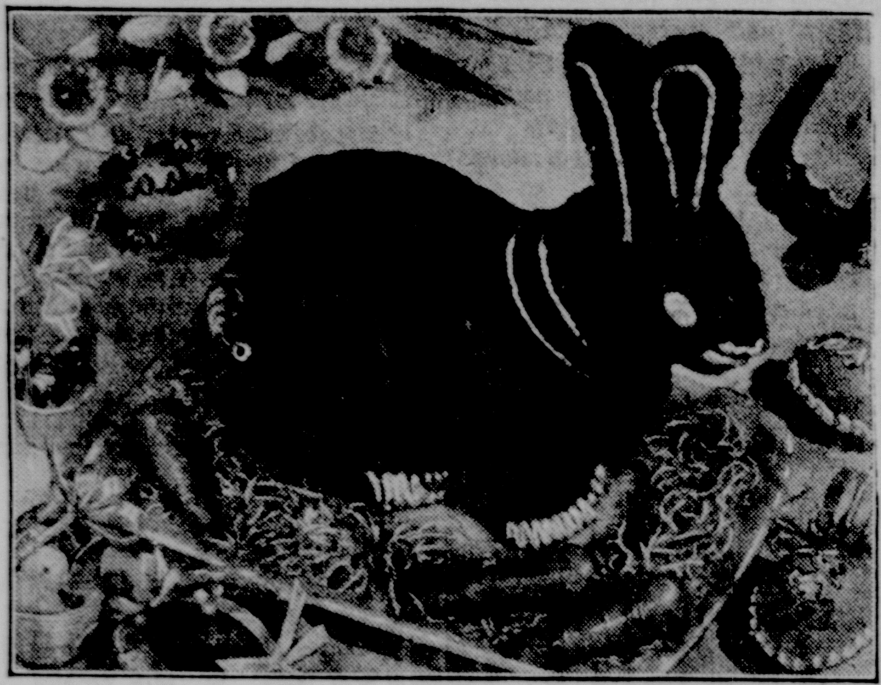
- 2 pkgs. ginger bread mix
- 1⅓ cups water
- 1 can (4 oz.) moist coconut
- 3 drops green vegetable coloring
- 3 marzipan carrots

Blend ginger bread mix with water until batter is smooth. Pour into mold which has been greased with unsalted shortening. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F) 50 minutes. Remove and cool slightly before removing from mold. When cake is cold, use pink frosting to decorate mouth, whiskers and paws. Blend coconut with green coloring and place on serving plate. Set bunny on top and arrange candy carrots around.

Pink Frosting

- ½ cup sifted confectioners' sugar
- 2 teaspoons milk (about)
- 3-4 drops pink vegetable coloring

Blend all ingredients and mix well.



WE CALL HIM HARVEY! This is our Easter Bunny, enchanting in his "garden" of green tinted coconut and marzipan carrots. Even a brand new bride can make him with Ginger Bread Mix and a bunny mold. Gay little crepe paper Easter eggs complete your table decorations.

Doughnuts Ring Bell

Time for Homemade Doughnuts.

Fresh, homemade doughnuts are welcome any time of the day. Serve them when a friend drops in for a visit, for party refreshments, between meals or as a special breakfast treat.

A good doughnut has a crisp, well-browned crust. It is tender and rich, but never greasy. Careful mixing of ingredients is essential to success. But even more important, doughnuts must be fried at the correct temperature. The best way to eliminate guesswork entirely is to use a deep fat frying thermometer. When it registers the temperature called for in the recipe, it's time to fry the doughnuts.

For doughnuts that are featherlight and fragrant, try this easy-to-make recipe.

Doughnuts

- 3 tablespoons shortening
- ¾ cup sugar
- 2 eggs, well beaten
- ¾ cup milk
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 3½ cups sifted all-purpose flour
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 4 teaspoons baking powder
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon

Cream shortening and sugar. Add eggs and beat until fluffy. Add milk and vanilla. Mix until smooth. Stir in flour, sifted with salt, baking powder and cinnamon. Chill dough to make it easier to handle. Place part of dough on lightly floured surface and roll out about ⅓ inch thick, handling as little as possible. Cut with floured doughnut cutter. Fry in deep fat heated to 365° F. Drop doughnuts into fat a few at a time. Fry until golden brown, turning once. Lift from fat with long, two-tined fork. Drain on absorbent paper. Just before serving, coat with granulated or confectioners' sugar, if desired. Makes about 2½ dozen doughnuts.

Connecticut derived its name from the Indian word, "Quonectecut," meaning long river.

Tea Time Can Be Anytime

Tea time is any time—morning, noon or night—it's whenever you crave a moment of relaxation, alone or with friends. A cup of brisk tea gets to be a pleasant looked-forward-to habit in the daily routine that gives a quick pickup with never a letdown feeling afterwards.

Whether you drink tea at the kitchen table, in mid-morning, or in your living room at four in the afternoon with your next-door neighbor, or at nine at night while watching television, tea seems to give you at satisfying feeling of well being.

When tea is made properly, it tastes good no matter where you serve it or what sort of dishes you use; but sometimes it's fun to use pretty, as well as practical, tea accessories.

Brew your tea properly, for even the prettiest dishes cannot make a cup of tea taste good, if it is not made correctly. Here are simple directions given out by tea experts:

Use an earthenware, or china teapot. Pour boiling hot water into the pot and let it stand until pot is heated. Scalding or heating the pot this way is desirable to prevent the tea from getting cold while it is steeping.

Measure tea leaves into the hot empty pot, allowing 1 teaspoon of tea or 1 tea bag for each cup of water.

Pour the bubbling hot water over tea and allow to stand for 3 to 5 minutes.

Strain tea.

If a milder tea is desired, do not steep for a shorter time, but add a small quantity of hot water to the full-flavored cup of tea.

For a tasty bite to go along with a cup of piping hot tea, try these homemade English muffins.

Homemade Toasted English Muffins

- ½ cup milk
- 1 cup water
- 1 tablespoon salt
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- 1 pkg. dehydrated yeast
- 1 tablespoon water
- 3 tablespoons shortening
- 4 cups bread flour

Combine milk, water, salt and sugar in top of double boiler. Heat to lukewarm. Add yeast which has been dissolved in warm (not hot) water. Add 2 cups of flour and blend well until smooth. Return to top part of double boiler and let rise until double in bulk over warm (not hot) water. Add shortening (slightly softened) and remaining flour. Beat and knead thoroughly for fine texture. Let rise until double in bulk. Place dough on lightly floured board. Flatten with rolling pin to about ¾" thickness. Let stand until light. Cut with cutter 3½" in diameter. Bake 15 minutes on hot buttered griddle, turning several times during cooking. When cool, muffins should be split and toasted. Makes 12 muffins.

HE'S A HONEY OF A BUNNY—Our Mr. Harvey. Mrs. Harvey and all the little Harveys are right there ready to decorate your Easter table. You can make them quick like a bunny too, with a package of Ginger Bread Mix and a Easter cooky cut-out.

Mr. And Mrs. Harvey Come To Town

It's a honey of a bunny, our Easter cooky. This enchanting little family of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey and all the little Harveys come to town for a gay Easter party. You can make them up quickly like a bunny, too—with a handy package of ginger bread mix.

You don't even neede a special cooky cutter. All you do is tear off a cut-out sheet now available at your favorite grocer's. With full directions on the sheet, you paste the bunny cut-outs on cardboard, then place them on your cooky dough and cut around. You'll need a sharp knife, that's all. For outlining those fluffy tails and long ears, use a little frosting and a pastry tube or cornucopia made of waxed paper.

For a slightly different flavor in ginger bread, try a teaspoon or so of grated orange rind in the batter—it's really good!

Ginger Bread Bunnies

- 1 pkge. ginger bread mix
- ¼ cup water

Blend contents of package with water and mix to a smooth dough. Roll out ⅛ inch thick on lightly floured board. Place bunny cutouts on dough and cut along edge with sharp knife. Mark lines on bunnies with back of knife. Place on greased cooky sheets and bake in moderate over (350°F.) 10-12 minutes. Cool. Pipe over markings on bunnies with frosting through a waxed paper cornucopia or a fine pastry tube.

Frosting

- 1 small egg white
- ½ cup (about) sifted confectioners' sugar

Beat egg white until frothy. Gradually beat in sugar until mixture is right consistency to go through the tube easily.

When you expect guests with children, why not put breakables away. Then you won't embarrass everybody if the children should touch and drop.

Plentiful Foods Listed For March

Brisk demand for eggs is to be expected during March, what with Lenten meals to make and Easter to celebrate before the windy month is over. Fortunately for cook and consumer alike, eggs will probably move to March food markets at a great clip. Supply, as a matter of fact, is expected to be so liberal that eggs are one of the featured foods on the March list of plentifuls for the Northeastern region, issued by the United States Department of Agriculture.

Calling attention to this abundance at egg counters, the department also reminds shoppers that storage stocks of apples continue at a very high level. Generous quantities will be offered during the weeks ahead, and apples rank with eggs as a featured item on the March list of plentifuls.

Other protein-rich foods, many of them well suited to meatless meals, are prominent on the March list. Peanut butter and cottage cheese will be in excellent supply. Fine for use as spreads or in general cooking, both are recommended for sandwiches, salads, and baked foods.

Frozen fish fillets, abundant and often reasonable priced, deserve special consideration for late-winter and early spring meals. In particularly heavy supply are such varieties as haddock, cod, flounder, sole and rosefish (ocean perch). Supplementing the fillet offerings are ample offerings of frozen halibut steaks. In addition, canned tuna, canned sardines, and canned mackeral are more plentiful than usual.

Broilers, fryers, and turkeys will be poultry counter features during March. On the vegetable-protein side, market men anticipate particularly large supplies of dry beans, especially pea beans, Great Northerns, red kidneys, pintos, and baby limas. Canned dry beans of most types will probably be plentiful, too, including canned baked beans and canned beans with or without pork.

Vitamin C for late-winter and early spring diets will be available in an abundance of processed oranges and grapefruit. Canned and frozen juices and canned segments are included. Lettuce, that ever-useful green, is expected in large supply during the weeks ahead.

Since lettuce is a perishable item, supplies and prices will tend to vary in consuming markets. Stocks of Irish potatoes are particularly high; spuds thus will be available in quantity.

For Snacktime: Apple Nut Bread

This quick loaf bread, well flavored with apples, cheese and nuts, is as easy to make as it is to eat. Serve it with butter or margarine for snacks, as breakfast sweet bread, or with luncheon salads.

If you work outside your home, and still like to give your family special home baked treats, depend upon quick breads to make meals extra good.

Loaf breads take no longer than a cake to mix, and they can be served for many occasions. Finger sandwiches made with loaf breads perk up a salad assortment and may also serve as simple dessert. Loaf bread sandwiches are good travelers in lunchboxes, too.

One of the most delicious of the loaf bread family, Apple Nut Bread, combines the flavors of freshly chopped apple, grated American cheese and chopped nuts. These foods also add their food values to those of enriched flour to make an important contribution to family health. All enriched breads rank high in essential B-vitamins and food iron. Apple Nut Bread is a delightful way to get your vitamins!

This sandwich bread is good the day that it is baked, though it slices better the following day. Jellies and jams, peanut butter and cream cheese are other good spreads for slices of this sandwich loaf.

APPLE NUT BREAD

2½ cups sifted enriched flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon salt
½ cup shortening
¾ cup sugar
2 eggs
1¼ cups chopped unpeeled apples
½ cup grated cheese
¼ cup chopped nuts

Sift together flour, baking powder, soda and salt. Cream together shortening and sugar until light and fluffy. Add eggs and mix well. Add flour mixture to creamed mixture alternately with apples. Mix well. Add cheese and nuts. Blend well. Bake in greased loaf pan in moderate oven (350°F.) 70 minutes. Makes 1 loaf.

Sauerkraut Scores With Epicures

Here's a sauerkraut and frankfurter recipe that definitely is dressed in its best bib and tucker. It's an epicure's dish, delicately seasoned by a bouquet garni, wine and currants, but simple to make. The frankfurters are simmered in wine and then baked with the sauerkraut mixture.

Epicurean Sauerkraut

(Makes 4-6 servings)

6 frankfurters
½ cup Chablis table wine
2 tablespoons bacon fat
1 medium-sized onion, thinly sliced
1 No. 2 can sauerkraut
1 small raw potato, grated
4 freshly bruised peppercorns
⅓ cup currants
Bouquet garni*

Prick frankfurters with tines of a fork; place in a saucepan and pour wine over them. Cover and simmer 15 minutes. In a heavy skillet, melt bacon fat over low heat; add onions and saute until golden brown. Add sauerkraut; simmer 5 minutes, stirring frequently. Remove from heat; stir in potato, peppercorns and currants. In a 2-quart casserole, place half the sauerkraut mixture; lay frankfurters over this and pour in the wine. Place bouquet garni on frankfurters. Top with remainder of sauerkraut mixture. Cover and bake in moderate oven (350°) 30 minutes. Remove bouquet garni. Serve immediately.

*To make bouquet garni, tie together in cheesecloth ½ bay leaf, 6 sprigs parsley, 1 sprig thyme.

Breakfast Gives Pep

Scientific tests at a prominent university have proved that after eating a good breakfast, your work output goes up, you're quicker on the draw, and you don't tire as easily. Eat breakfast for spring house cleaning pep.

Coffee is the most widely-cultivated beverage plant.

Oyster culture was practiced before the time of Christ.

Economy Suggestions

Salmon Toastwiches For Lenten Lunches

When Lenten lunches tax the imagination, serve hearty, satisfying Salmon Toastwiches. To make drain a can of salmon and save the liquid. Bone and flake the salmon and combine with mayonnaise, chopped onion, piccalilli, lemon juice, salt and pepper. Spread between slices of buttered bread and coat both sides of the sandwich with a mixture of beaten eggs, milk and salmon liquid. Brown in hot shortening and serve immediately. Salmon Toastwiches are especially welcome these frostly Winter days.

Hot Shrimp Sandwich For Family Or Guests

As a hot snack when guests drop in, or as the center of a family luncheon menu, shrimp sandwiches are taste-tempters that continue to demonstrate their appeal throughout the Lenten season. Combine chopped shrimp, grated American cheese, beaten egg, salt, Worcestershire sauce, dry mustard, vinegar and pepper. Toast bread slices on both sides and spread with butter or margarine. Place shrimp mixture on toast, arrange on cookie sheet, and toast in a hot oven for five minutes. The shrimp mixture may be prepared a few hours ahead of time and kept in the refrigerator, ready to spread on the toast at the last minute.

Budget-Wise Bread Stuffings

A lemon, or other tart stuffing, brings out the full flavor of fish filets, and increase the servings per pound. During Lent, baked fish with bread stuffing will please the family and ease the budget.

Bread Croutons With Soup

Croutons provide an appetizing way to use leftover bread and they add extra flavor to soups. For example serve parsley strips with onion soup. To make the toasted strips, spread a mixture of creamed butter or margarine, grated American cheese, cream, prepared mustard, and minced parsley on strips of bread with crusts removed. Broil until delicately browned. Tomato soup is more appetizing served with croutons made by spreading horseradish flavored butter or margarine on toasted bread. Cut the toast into cubs and float them on the bowls of soup. Caraway seed strips are delicious with beeg bouillon and other clear soups. They are made by brushing bread strips with butter or margarine and sprinkling them with caraway seeds. Toast the strips in a modern oven until golden brown. These suggestions are for only a few of the many kinds of croutons and toast strips that may be served with soups.

Cake Crumb Dessert

A delicious refrigerator dessert may be made from leftover cake. Cut the cake into small pieces and combine with an equal quantity of diced marshmallows and half that amount of drained crushed pineapple. Bind together with whipped cream and chill in the refrigerator for three hours before serving. Eliminating waste by making use of leftovers cuts food costs.

Smorgasbord Suggestions

In Sweden they have a wonderful way with food that's known the world over. And their hospitality is something fabulous. Smorgasbord, the Swedish version of buffet service, is just the ticket for you if you'd like to serve a crowd a meal that's delicious, and informal, and inexpensive.

A table laden with good foods in the Swedish manner — an appetizer, a couple of hot dishes, fresh rolls, tossed salad, and coffee — will certainly fortify your reputation as a hostess.

Swedish meat balls — tiny well-seasoned balls made from chopped meat, crumbs, eggs, and a delectable assortment of seasonings — are always popular on any buffet table. Enterprising cooks have discovered that these meat balls have a fine flavor when corn flakes crumbs are included.

Swedish Meat Balls

1 pound finely ground beef
2 eggs, slightly beaten
2 tablespoons minced onions
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1¼ cups milk
4 cups corn flakes
2 tablespoons shortening
1 cup milk
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
½ teaspoon salt

Mix together meat, eggs, onions, seasonings, milk and finely crushed corn flakes. Divide into 24 small portions and form into balls. Brown in shortening about 30 minutes, turning only once. Life from pan. Stir milk into meat drippings; heat, add parsley and salt. Pour over meat balls.

Yield: 24 small meat balls.

Oysters and Noodles Casserole

1½ tablespoons salt
3 quarts boiling water
4 ounces (½ package) medium noodles
⅓ cup butter or margarine
⅓ cup flour
2 teaspoons salt
1 cup rice cereal, crushed
3 cups milk
2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
1½ cups oysters
¼ cup finely minced onions
¼ cup chopped green pepper
2 tablespoons melted butter

Add salt to rapidly boiling water. Gradually add noodles, boil until tender, drain and rinse in cold water.

Melt butter in top of double boiler. Add flour and salt, and stir until smooth. Pour in milk slowly, stirring until thickened. Fold in noodles, Worcestershire sauce, well-drained oysters, onions and green pepper. Pour into greased 1½ quart casserole. Combine melted butter with rice cereal crumbs and sprinkle over top of casserole. Bake in moderate oven (400° F.) 20-30 minutes. Yield: 6 servings.

Sausage-Tomato Scallop

Condensed tomato soup is sauce supreme for this baked rice dish with link sausage on top.

Sausage-Tomato Scallop

An oven-supper dish to fit nicely with your hurried winter schedule is this: Rice baked in condensed tomato soup and topped with well browned little sausages.

The soup gives a good moistness to the rice. And there's flavor a'plenty from the smooth tomato sauce, savory sausage, and onion. You'll dish it all up in no time, once the family gets a taste of this combination.

Sausage-Tomato Scallop

½ cup uncooked rice; 1 can (1¼ cups) condensed tomato soup; ¾ cup water; 2 tablespoons chopped green pepper; ¼ cup choped onion; 8 link sausages (about ½ lb).

Stir the rice into the soup and water which have been blended together in a casserole. Mix the chopped green pepper and onion through the soup-rice mixture. Bake 1¼ hours in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.). After the first half hour of baking, stir up the rice in the soup; then place the pre-browned sausage on top of the rice-soup mixture and bake for remaining time. Serves 4.

Sauerkraut And Cheese Frankfurters Will Rate High With Your Family

What better time could there be to try some new sauerkraut and frankfurter recipes.

A dish that's fit to set before a king or better still, an appreciative husband and youngsters, is this tasty sauerkraut topped with "partified" franks. The sauerkraut blends its hearty flavor with the horseradish and caraway seed to create a delightfully different main dish that you'll want to make again and again. Cheese-stuffed franks are just the right accompaniment.

Kuart with Cheese Frankfurters
(Makes 4-6 servings)

One No. 2½ can sauerkraut (or 3½ cups bulk kraut), 1 teaspoon caraway seed, 2 teaspoons horseradish, 8 frankfurters, 8 ¼-inch strips cheddar cheese, 8 slices bacon.

In a saucepan, combine sauerkraut, caraway seed and horseradish; mix well. Cover and simmer 20 minutes.

With a sharp knife, slit each frankfurter lengthwise without cutting all the way through. Fill slits with cheese strips and wrap each frankfurter with a bacon slice; secure with toothpicks. Place on broiler rack with the cheese side down. Broil until bacon is done; turn and broil other side. Allow approximately 3 minutes for each side. Serve with cooked sauerkraut.

Baked Beans Earns Awards

Baked beans steeped in fragrant molasses have been a standby of New England cookery for generations. This substantial vegetable dish is naturally associated with king-size appetites and cold weather, but it can be served with equal appreciation all year long at picnics or out-door buffets.

Uusulphured Molasses Tops In Delicate Flavor

The following recipe for baked beans call for the use of unsulphured molasses, the sweetener with distinctive flavor. Though the preparation timef or this baked dish takes a bit longer than for some casseroles, the method can be easily followed by the most inexperienced cook. The sense of satisfaction gained by preparing this old-fashioned classic is another culinary way of gaining self-sufficiency.

Molasses Baked Beans

4 cups (2 lbs.) dried beans; cold water; 1 large onion; 4 teaspoons salt; ⅜ cup unsulphured molasses; ½ teaspoon pepper; 2 teaspoons dry mustard; 2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce; ½ pound salt pork.

Wash beans. Cover generously with cold water; soak overnight. Add onion, salt, and if necessary, additional water to cover beans; bring to boiling point in covered saucepan. Remove onion; reserve. Simmer beans until tender. Drain; save 3 cups bean liquid (add additional water to make 3 cups, if necessary). Mix bean liquid with molasses, pepper, mustard, and Worcestershide sauce. Turn beans, onion and salt pork into large casserole or bean pot. Add liquid mixture. Cover. Bake in moderately slow oven (325 degrees F.) 1¾ hours. Uncover. Lift pork to top of beans; bake 20 to 25 minutes to brown pork. YIELD: 16 servings.

Baked Lima Beans

2 cups dried Lima beans; 6 cups cold water; 4 teaspoons salt; ¼ cup catsup; ¼ cup unsulphured molasses; 2 tablespoons chopped onion; 1 teaspoon dry mustard; ¼ teaspoon pepper; frankfurters or bacon strips.

Wash beans. Add cold water; soak overnight. Add salt. Cover saucepan. Cook in water in which beans were soaked until tender. Drain; save 2 cups bean liquid and mix with catsup, molasses, onion, mustard, and pepper. Pour beans into a 2-quart bean pot. Add liquid mixture. Arrange frankfurters or bacon stips over beans. Cover. Bake in moderately slow oven (325 degrees F.) 2 hours. Uncover. Bake 15 to 20 minutes to brown frankfurters or bacon. YIELD: 8 to 10 servings.

Bridge Construction Near Pinto Discussed At Meeting

The proposed relocation of a roadway and the erection of a bridge across the Potomac River near the Allegany Ballistics Laboratory in the Pinto section was one of the subjects discussed at a meeting yesterday in Baltimore between the State Roads Commission and members of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners.

Last fall the Bureau of Ordnance, Navy Department, contacted O. B. Case, manager of the laboratory, which is operated by the Hercules Powder Company for the Navy, relative to the project.

The possible expansion of the laboratory is restricted due to the present location of the road. The bridge across the Potomac is also reported hazardous to traffic. The structure was erected about 1876 and is only 15 feet wide and one-way traffic is required.

It is reported, according to the county commissioners, that one proposal for changing the route of the highway would provide an overhead bridge across the river and Western Maryland Railway tracks some distance upstream from the present structure.

The West Virginia State Roads Commission is reported as favoring the overhead bridge plan. It would remove the dangers inherent in a rail crossing and also would fit in with the proposed highway route.

On the Maryland side, the widening of the present underpass beneath the B. and O. Railroad's trackage will be necessary in any event.

The cost of the proposed work would probably be borne to a great extent by the Bureau of Public Roads of the federal government due to the nature of the project and its relation to the defense effort.

The Navy has requested cost estimates from the West Virginia and Maryland State Roads Commissions so that funds could be asked of the Bureau of Public Roads. The Allegany County Commissioners have asked that the bridge maintenance be taken over by the state as it is an interstate route and the cost of replacing the structure would be prohibitive as far as county finances are concerned.

Your Hollywood education isn't complete till you've flown to Palm Springs. . . In this winter resort of Hollywood, the high mountains completely cut off all weather. . . Fog, rain or snow near the coast —everything but sun. . . In Palm Springs your favorite movie, radio or TV star relaxes at ex-movie star Charlie Farrell's Racquet Club.

If only the glamorous gang of the '20's—Valentino, Swanson, Vilma Banky, Pola Negri, John Gilbert, and the others—could go back to the little spot they first discovered they'd rub their eyes in amazement!

For lo! Instead of one inn an Indian reservation, Palm Springs has grown into hundreds of hotels, swimming pools, ranches, trailer camps, private estates, restaurants, cocktail lounges, department stores, and "date" stands! These stands sell the palm fruit from the nearby "greatest date-growing center in the world."

In Palm Springs nowadays, movie stars on vacation are especially amused to read "The Desert Rat Scrapbook," sold on the newsstands and advertised as "Only pocket-sized newspaper in America that you can open in the wind—magic desert air folded into each packet" . . . Published by Harry Oliver, he announces that he is "publisher, distributor, editor, artist, gardener, janitor and owner."

The little sheet's full of sassy observations, such as:

"Worry is like a rocking chair because it gives you something to do when you ain't going anywhere."

Or "I look all around me, and then, I grin—to see all the trouble I ain't in."

In other words, one of the best things about travelling is getting home.

Hazelwood Submits Low Bid On Frostburg Science Hall

The Hazelwood Construction Company has submitted a low bid for the erection of a new science building at Frostburg State Teachers College, according to Miss Lillian C. Compton, president.

Miss Compton said she had received the information from Annapolis by telephone and that official awarding of the contract was expected within a few days. She added that she had also been informed that sufficient funds have been appropriated by the General Assembly.

Further details will be received from Dr. Thomas G. Pullen, state superintendent of schools.

The structure will be a two-story building and will contain four offices for faculty members, two classrooms, washrooms and individual laboratories for chemistry, biology, physics and microbiology classes.

The facilities will be used both by college students and nurses from the Cumberland hospitals who attend various classes at the school.

Construction is expected to start about two weeks after the formal awarding of the contract.

Puffenbarger Joins Annapolis Paper

Charles W. Puffenbarger, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Puffenbarger, 538 Greene Street, has joined the staff of the Southern Maryland Times at Annapolis.

A recent graduate of the University of Maryland School of Journalism, Puffenbarger replaces Dorothy Kroeger, who has accepted a reportorial position in Europe. Brazilian Doctor, Dying Of Cancer, To Realize Goal

RECIFE, Brazil—(AP)—A young Brazilian doctor who is dying of cancer smiled and said "I am happy."

Dr. Napoleao Laureano, whose friends sent him to Memorial Hospital in New York in an effort to find a cure, has been assured that his great ambition—to bring better cancer detection and treatment facilities to his home town—will be realized.

On a trip to his home town of Jaoa Pessoa he was assured by Dr. Pedro Gondim, secretary of finance for the state of Paraiba, that the hospital would be started at Jaoa Pessoa within a year, financed by contributions and state aid.

A year ago, before he knew he had the disease, he completed a special course in cancer in preparation for setting up a cancer hospital in his home town.

Before he could complete his dream, he was stricken. Now he has resolved to spend his last days by using himself as "live propaganda" for raising hospital funds.

When he took a hurried plane trip home to Jaoa Pessoa about 1,000 people met him at the airport. Most of them followed behind his car when he went to his home. The crowd grew to 1,500 and the reception overflowed the doctor's broad tree-studded yard.

The doctor and his pretty 25-year-old wife, Marcina, were overjoyed by the reception.

"I forgot I was sick," he said simply. "The response to my campaign is far beyond by expectations. Everybody seems to want to help."

After the visit, the doctor returned to his hospital bed here. He is trying to gain time for his campaign by building up his cancer stricken body.

How much time does he have left?

Eight days ago he predicted "only a month or so." That was in New York's Memorial Hospital. But today, the young doctor said he would rather not guess how long he can live.

In New York he had said " a man ought to die at home."

But he has had little time to think of death since his return.

His daily schedule is filled with talks to public officials and representatives of newspapers, magazines and radio stations. He plans to fly to Rio De Janeiro Thursday and hopes to see President Getulio Vargas.

Already special soccer games, movies and other events are being held in Jaoa Pessoa to finance the doctor's hospital. A similar campaign will start in Recife next week.

Eastern Nazarene Choir Sings Here Monday Night

The A Capella Choir of Eastern Nazarene College, Wollston, Mass., will present a sacred concert at the First Church of the Nazarene, Oldtown Road, Monday at 7:45 p. m.

The choir is making an extended two week tour presenting programs in seven different states and Canada. The choir, consisting of forty voices, is under the direction of Mrs. Esther D. Williamson, professor of voice. The college Trumpet Trio and the Heralder Male Quartet will also render selections during the program.

Rev. Kenneth Pearsall, executive field secretary of the college, will accompany the choir and will speak briefly during the intermission.

The program will include the "Alma Mater" with the congregation standing followed by invocation. The choir will then present "The Creation," "The Lord's Prayer," Advent Motet consisting of "Lord Hossana" and "Consolation" and "O Thou, In Whose Presence."

Selection by the male quartet will be "Joshua Fit The Battle of Jericho," "Blessed Be The Name of Jesus," "Great Is Thy Faithfulness," "He Hideth My Soul," and "A Mighty Fortress Is Our God."

The Trumpet Trio will give excerpts from Handel's "Messiah" including "Since By Man Came Death," "I Know That My Redeemer Liveth," "Worthy Is The Lamb," and "Hallelujah!"

The program will be closed with the benediction.

Program Tonight

In connection with the observance of Purim, Feast of Lots, a musical program, "Esther, Queen of Persia," will be presented at B'er Chayim Temple today at 8 p. m.

resolution, the State Planning Commission was directed to study development of access roads to state parks.

The sponsors, Delegates Robinson (D-Balto 4th) and Kelley (R-Allegany), also requested the commission to review the entire state's recreational facilities.

Both delegates mentioned particularly the recreational areas in Western Maryland which "do not have the highways necessary to make them accessible to the people."

Bond Plan Passes

A bill authorizing the University of Maryland to issue its own building bonds passed Wednesday in the House of Delegates with only 17 negative votes.

The opposition was led by Delegate Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., who contended in a bitter debate that the measure would place no limitation on the amount of bonds that the university could issue.

to be spent with approval of the racing commission on improvements.. The new bill would permit an increase to one per cent.

It also continues requirements that the money be spent three years after collected and if not to be kept by the state. Reckord's committee wanted to do away with them.

In another racing development, the General Assembly today enacted a bill giving money from unclaimed winning tickets to the state. The tracks now keep it.

Deaths

SCOTT S. BURGOON

Mr. and Mrs. F. Lee Fresh, The Dingle, have received word of the death of their brother-in-law, Scott S. Burgoon, in Presbyterian Hospital, Philadelphia, Pa., yesterday morning.

Mr. Burgoon, well known Boy Scout executive of Lebanon, Pa., underwent an operation Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fresh will attend the funeral.

MRS VIVIAN MEEKS

Mrs. Vivian Meeks, 49, former local resident, died March 9 enroute to a hospital in Wilmington, Del., where she lived.

Mrs. Meeks was the daughter of Grove T. Moomau, Keyser, W. Va., and the late Cecelia Dorsey Moomau. She lived in Wilmington, Del., 25 years.

Besides her father, she is survived by four children, Charles Meeks, John Meeks, Mrs. George Welsh, and Mrs. Elizabeth Gibbs, all of Wilmington, Del.; one brother, Dyce Moomau, Westernport; and one sister, Mrs. George Grove, Saudi, Arabia. Also surviving are 13 grandchildren.

A funeral service was conducted from the residence Tuesday afternoon. Interment was in a cemetery in Wilmington, Del.

Mr. and Mrs. Dyce Moomau, Westernport; George Moomau, Keyser, W. Va., and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Twigg, Elkins, W. Va., uncle and aunt of Mrs. Meeks, attended the service.

Methodist Holy Week Program Announced

Services at Emmanuel Methodist Church for Palm Sunday, Holy Week, and Easter Sunday have been announced by Rev. Kenneth W. Grove, pastor.

On Palm Sunday Baptism will be administered as well as reception of new members in addition to regular services. In the evening at 7:30 o'clock Rev. Mason Keesecker of Kingsley Methodist will preach. Youth Fellowship will meet at 7 o'clock.

Following is the schedule for Holy Week services beginning each evening at 7:30 o'clock: Monday, a chalk drawing "Christ in The Garden"; Tuesday, sermon "Why Did Jesus Die?" Wednesday, sermon "For Whom Did Jesus Die?" Thursday, candle light Communion service; Friday, chalk drawing "The Crucifixion."

On Easter morning the congregation is invited to attend the Sunrise Service at 6:45 o'clock in the Fort Hill, Auditorium. The regular worship service will begin at 11, a. m. with a sermon, "Good Morning." Special music by the adult and junior chorus will be presented.

Palm Sunday Service Planned

Grace Methodist Church will celebrate Palm Sunday with a special order of service according to Rev. Allen B. L. Fisher, minister.

The service will open with a prelude, "At Thy Feet" by Edvard Grieg. The congregation will join in the singing of the Doxology, after which the minister will give the call to worship. "Come Thou Almighty King" will be sung as the opening hymn.

The call to prayer will be given by Rev. Fisher. The choir will sing the prayer hymn, "Jesus, Stand Among Us." The Pastoral prayer will be followed by the choir response, "Hear Our Prayer, O Lord." Miss Ethel Everett will sing a solo, "In The Garden" by I. B. Wilson.

The congregation will unite with the minister in the Palm Sunday responsive reading, singing afterwards the Gloria Patri and followed by "The Apostoles' Creed." The Offertory will be "The Palms" by J. Faure.

The Sacrament of Baptism will be followed by the reception of members. The minister will speak on "A Unique Journey." The choir will close the service with the singing of "The Holy City" by Noble Cain.

Benediction will be followed by the Choral Amen. Mrs. W. Loren Ranck who is both choir director and organist will play "Open the Gates of the Temple" as the postlude.

White Convicted On Three Motor Vehicle Violations

A public school bus driver was found guilty yesterday in Trial Magistrates Court on three motor charges in connection with his operation of a vehicle last Thursday.

Lester W. White, of 3 Altamont Terrace, was fined a total of $152.90 — $101.45 for drunken driving, $50 for reckless driving, and $2.45 for permitting an unauthorized person to drive his car.

In the two-day hearing, when a number of school children, students at Allegany High School, testified as to White's action, testimony showed that White permitted a boy, Robert Athey, of Cresaptown, to drive the bus part way on the route.

Several of the teen-age girls testified that White was dozing at the driver's seat when they boarded the bus enroute to their homes in the Cresaptown area.

They said that White asked Athey to drive the bus after telling him "I am in no shape to drive."

Athey took over the wheel and drove the vehicle as far as Warner's Store in Cresaptown. Several stated that in their opinion White had been drinking.

Enroute to Cresaptown, they said he went back in the bus and sat down to talk to an 18-year-old girl, a senior.

One of the boys in the bus suggested jokingly that White pay Athey for driving. This he did, the students stated, and the 18-year-old girl stated, "if you're passing out money, how about lending me $5." She emphasized that she was kidding him and later returned the money to him.

At another time during the journey, White went back in the bus asking for tickets for the ride. It was pointed out that no charge is ever placed for the ride.

When the bus stopped above Warner's store, the students said the 18-year-old girl got off and White chased her for a short distance, saying as he ran: "Don't run, I'm just having a little fun, I won't hurt you."

The girl said she stopped and talked to him for a short time, and then the teen-ager continued on her way to her home, while White returned to the bus.

Here he took over the wheel, and testimony of other students earlier showed that he rounded several corners so recklessly they had to hold on to the seats to keep from falling in the aisle.

After he parked the bus at Cresaptown school at the end of his run, Miss Cornelia Collins one of the bus drivers following White's bus, took the keys from him.

Before starting out on the trip at Allegany, students said A. W. Heavener, 34 Marion Street, another of the bus drivers on the run, awoke White by shaking him and telling him "to get a hold of yourself."

White on the stand yesterday stated that he had two beers in the morning and said "I was as sober then as I am now."

When asked by Assistant State's Attorney William H. Geppert as to why he allowed the boy to drive the bus, White answered that he could not give a reason.

White, represented by Harold M. Naughton, pointed out that he always "kidded around with the kids" while driving the bus.

The buses are owned by a Rawlings man William V. Collins, and are under contract to the Board of Education.

White paid his fines yesterday morning. Others testifying included two companions of White before he went to school to board the bus and Cpl. Carl Conrad, who preferred the charges.

Safe Cracking Probe Continues

City Detective Thomas J. See said yesterday that an investigation continues into the robbery of the Southern States Cooperative, 300 South George Street on Wednesday night. This is another in the wave of breakings and enterings which have been going on in Cumberland for the past month or more.

The robbery was discovered at 4:15 a. m. by Officer Charles Cubbage, according to the report of Lt. James E. Van to the Chief of Police R. E. Flynn. Cubbage had previously checked the place at 1:30 a. m.

The intruders sawed off the dial of a safe in the main office and opened the lower half. Robert Heavener, manager, reported this section contained valuable papers, but so far as he could ascertain no money was taken.

The upper half of the safe could not be opened by the safecrackers, police reported. Other articles in the large warehouse such as flashlights and candy were stolen, but Heavener said he was of the opinion the thief was after money.

Lt. Van reported he found no fingerprints on the safe, as they had been dusted off. The "yegg" apparently used a pair of gloves he found in the warehouse.

A black hair was found on the glass of the front door which had been broken to gain entry, Lt. Van added.

The front and main office were thoroughly ransacked, police said The safe dial was sawed by a hack saw used in the cooperative.

The insistence that the world, in order to survive, must be converted to the political, social and economic practices of the western world is the analogue of Cain's demand that Abel give up his gardening and take up sheepherding.

School Bus Inspection Set

Another periodic inspection of school buses in Allegany County has been scheduled for March 20, 21 and 22, Arthur G. Ramey, director of transportation in the county school system, said yesterday.

Marion Abbott, an examiner from the Department of Motor Vehicles, will be here to assist a local mechanic in the examinations. The last inspection was in December.

The schedule:

March 20, morning, Flintstone and Piney Plains; afternoon, Oldtown; March 21, morning, Cumberland; afternoon, Westernport, Barton and Lonaconing; Thursday, morning, Frostburg.

Three of these examinations are held each school year.

The inspectors will check lettering, tires, lights, signals, paint, springs, exhaust system, bumpers, doors, mirrors, glasses, wipers, defroster, heater, horn, fire extinguisher, flares, first aid kit, hand axe, chains, upholstery, brakes, steering and cleanliness.

Modern baking powder first appeared in kitchens in 1859.

Mackey Is Awarded Underwriter Diploma

Henry A Mackey, local representative of the New England Mutual Life Insurance Company, has been awarded the Purdue University Life Insurance Marketing Institute Diploma. The announcement was made by Hal Nutt, Director of the Institute.

Frederick A. Savage Jr., general agent, made the formal presentation at an agency meeting with associates in Baltimore.

The LIMI diploma represents a full year of combined campus and field training in advanced underwriting under the supervision of the Institute at the University.

AAUW To Hear Mrs. Lucile Roeder

Commissioner of Streets Lucile W. Roeder will be guest speaker at the regular monthly meeting of the Cumberland branch AAUW Wednesday, March 21 at 8 p. m. at the Board of Education building, Washington Street. Her subject will be "Behind the Scenes at City Hall".

This meeting will be under the direction of the Status of Women committee. Mrs. Joseph H. Kruson, president, will preside.

Group To Plan Armed Forces Day Program

Members of local business, professional and fraternal organizations have been asked to send two representatives to a meeting April 11 at 8 p. m., in the postmaster's office here to organize a citizens committee for observance of the second annual Armed Forces Day, May 19.

The letter, sent by civilian chairman, Thomas F. Conlon, asks that all groups participate in order to make this city's observance one of which to be proud. Conlon points out that Cumberland has been selected by military officials as one of the towns in which a special effort is being made and requests their cooperation in the project.

Response has been gratifying so far, Conlon said yesterday.

Members of the civilian and military groups sponsoring the local observance wish to emphasize that any organization may participate by contacting Conlon at the local post office and sending representatives to the April meeting.

Kingwood Man Held In Jail

KINGWOOD, W. Va.—A resident of Irish Ridge Road in Kingwood, W. Va., is in Preston county jail awaiting a hearing on charges of destruction of property, intoxication and carrying a concealed weapon.

The man, W. E. Walker, Wednesday night was ejected from the Eagles Home in Kingwood for creating a disturbance. He later returned and forced his way into the club and proceeded to "shoot up the bar," officers said. Patrons of the home took refuge behind tables and doors to escape the bullets. No one was reported injured.

After emptying the .38 calibre pistol he was carrying, Walker left the club and drove away in a pick-up truck. He was apprehended in the center of Kingwood by Cpl. F. D. Roberts and Trooper W. S. Fike of the West Virginia State Police.

The pistol was found on Walker's person and an examination of his truck revealed he was carrying a cargo of blasting powder and dynamite.

Preston County Mines Again In Operation

MASONTOWN, W. Va. — Officials of the Bretz Coal Company, near Masontown, W. Va., yesterday morning said that all six union mines in Preston county had resumed operations following a dispute involving a discharged weighman.

The truce was reached following a conference of company officials with Cecil J. Urbaniak, president of UMW District 31, and other union officials.

The six mines in the Valley District of Preston county employ about 700 men. Pickets earlier this week appeared at a tipple which served the mines and had caused it to close.

A company official said the pickets had let the air from the tires of trucks at the tipple and dumped two loads of coal.

John L. Clise Elected Head Of Frostburg Elks

Plans Made For Dance, Banquet On March 17

FROSTBURG — John L. Clise, 95 Mt. Pleasant Street, was elected exalted ruler of Frostburg Lodge, No. 470, B. P. O. Elks Tuesday evening.

Other officers are William D. Davis, esteemed leading knight; Fred Stoudt, of Lonaconing, esteemed lecturing knight; Joseph H. Spates, secretary; George Grahame, treasurer; J. William Shea, tiler; Carmel Pinto, trustee for three years; John L. Clise, representative to the Grand Lodge convention to be held this summer in Chicago; and John L. Durst, alternate delegate. The hold-over trustees are Rudolph Nickel and Robert Lemmert.

Plans have been completed for the annual St. Patrick's banquet and dance Saturday in the American Legion Home, commencing at 6:30 p. m., and will be followed by a dance from 9 to 12 p. m.

A. Charles Stewart, past grand trustee, will be the toastmaster at the banquet and the principal address will be delivered by Harry I. Stegmaier, Cumberland, past president of the Maryland Delaware and District of Columbia Elks Association.

Music will be furnished by Art Shaffer and his orchestra.

During the business meeting DeWayne McAtee, exalted ruler, appointed a committee consisting of John L. Clise and Francis Richardson to seek information as to what co-operation the Elks might give Beall High School in any plans for promoting the interests of the institution.

The lodge also voted a donation to the American Red Cross and the Elks minstrel to be staged by the Cumberland Elks for the Allegany County Crippled Children League.

Installation of the newly elected officers will be held the first meeting in April.

Others officers are Baxter Willey, first vice president, Mrs. James B. Wills, second vice president and Okey Michael, secretary. George Boyd was re-elected treasurer.

Staggers reviewed the activities for the past five years and pointed out its steady growth.

He renumerated the various playgrounds as follows, Piedmont High School, Water Street, Piedmont; Erin Street, Piedmont, and Oakview, Westernport.

A Maryland Avenue playground and two on Westernport Hill are to be developed. He said there was need for another one on Piedmont Hill but a lot has not yet been secured.

Luke has several playgrounds and Franklin, Md., near Westernport, put one in operation last year. Beryl, W. Va., is laying plans for one this summer.

Budget Set

The budget has been placed at $1,500 for running the summer program and already $700 has been subscribed including $100 from the city of Piedmont.

Mayor George Kight and Okey Michael, chairmen of the constitution and by-laws committee submitted a draft of its work which was agreeable to the meeting and stated he would have it more fully prepared for the next meeting.

Charles L. Kopp, Cumberland, superintendent of schools, has given permission to use the playground of Hammond Street School in Westernport during the summer.

Organizations Present

The following organizations were represented by Lester Arnold and Ira Cheshire, Piedmont Lodge No. 1120, Loyal Order of the Moose; Howard Blackburn, Victory Post No. 155, American Legion of Westernport; Mayor George Kight, Town of Westernport; Mrs. Doris Bantz, Social Welfare Club.

John E. Grindle, Bruce High, and Trinity Methodist Church, Piedmont; Joseph Maybury, City of Piedmont; Mr. Sanders, Mr. Taylor and Mrs. William Russell, Howard High School Parent-Teacher Association of Piedmont; Rodney Baker, Westernport and Luke Lions Club and John F. Rose, Tri-Towns Rotary Club.

Rodney Baker, a member of the Piedmont High School faculty and Harold Marsh, who served as co-directors of the supervision of the playgrounds have been reappointed for next year at a salary of $40 a week each.

The next meeting will be held April 10.

Special Service Set At Mill Run Church

WESTERNPORT — Special services will be conducted at the Mill Run Methodist Church Sunday at 10 a. m. Rev. Charles L. Davis, pastor, announces.

BILL WALTERS AND HIS CORONETS

Lillian Hellman Takes Characters To "Dream's End" In New Play

NEW YORK — In her earlier dramas, all of which won well-deserved fame, Lillian Hellman made Cupidity the god of love for groups of characters and avarice a ruling passion. In "The Little Foxes" and again in "Another Part of the Forest" the playwright created brothers, sisters, uncles, fathers and mothers who were engaged in most uncivil war with each other over possessions.

Now she has bobbed up with a surprise package which, upon its opening, has caused New York critics to look twice to make sure that the Hellman brand was or it. For this is the most interesting character study of a group of people who have reached dream's end and it is titled "The Autum Garden." In a season where fine acting has been more frequent than good writing, it becomes almost monotonous to repeat that the players more often or not rise well above the importance of the play itself, since a better job of casting would be hard to imagine.

And yet Miss Hellman, who has allowed futility to dog almost every life she traces in her drama, has created most interesting characters who requires expert explanation by the actors.

They are, for the most part, middle aged people in a most genteel Southern boarding house and they have only their own pasts to blame for their various defeats. Since the lives of several of the unusual guests at Constance Tuckerman's establishment on the Gulf Coast have crossed before, their renewed acquaintance picks up threads of plot, but generally speaking they are ideally idle people who are bored with themselves and practically everything else. This self-imposed torpor is disturbed by the arrival of an egotistical artist who is a meddler and fixer-upper in the fashion of Aubrey Piper of "The Show Off". His purpose to the plot is to behave in such a fashion that all others in the cast become ashamed and self-analytical.

As almost anyone can see, this adds up to a series of caricatures involving the dozen members of the cast, and there are no villains, nor are there vital points to be made as in the preceding Hellman dramas. Yet, such are the portraits and those players who sit for them that it is to be highly recommended—but, perhaps, not to everybody. I have a feeling that there is a considerable audience for so-called "different" plays, although one does grow pessimistic at times.

For instance: "Darkness At Noon" is certain to be selected the play of the year by the Critics Circle and by the Pulitzer Prize boys, yet it is not among the "big five" on the best seller lists.

But to playgoers who wish to see acting as it should be—and is—the list of tops in "The Autumn Garden" include Frederic March as the artist meddler, his wife, Florence Eldridge as the gabby Southern gal who talks herself out of a husband and almost everything else; Ken Smith as a lonely banker who finds his bottle of bourbon a handy friend in need; Ethel Griffies, as a tart-tongued matriach; Colin Keith-Johnson as an embittered general of a recent war and Miss Joan Lorring, whose portrayal of an emancipated, sexygal was a top item in "Come Home, Little Sheba."

The Old Second Guesser

By JOHN N. WHEELER

Glamor A La Carte

AFTER staying here for three days, I feel the glamor of Hollywood, and this town is right on the fringe, is begining to tarnish a little. Maybe it's my age that causes the tinsel to seem a little drab, although I did meet a starlet from Twentieth Century-Fox who would make your eyes pop out so far a nine-months-old baby could knock them off with his rattle. And to show I am a bad reporter, I don't know her name.

After several visits to the film capital, I feel if they think you are doing good they feed you caviar and cake, and maybe champagne. But, if you were down on your luck and found yourself drowning and hollering for help, most of the characters who live here would look the other way and turn a deaf ear, or, if they heard you, throw you both ends of the rope. Some of the actors are so phony that, when they wear a toupee, they sprinkle a little salt on their shoulders to make it look like dandruff.

Riding on the United Lines airplane from San Francisco, luckily I met Mr. and Mrs. Gardner Cowles—he publishes Look magazine and several newspapers. Incidentally, I had the best lunch I ever ate off the ground, and, of course, it went with the fare. We started with a cracked-crab cocktail, then spring lamb, vegetables, salad and dessert with a printed menu on a postal card to go with it.

My friends invited me to ride with them from the airport to the Beverly Hills Hotel, a popular joint, filled with the rich, mostly, for I fell over the heads of two big New York banks before I got to the registration desk. On the way, we talked about various matters—the Duke and Duchess of Windsor, the marital status of a well-known magazine publisher, and finally Mrs. C. showed me a copy of a letter she had written to Senora Evita Peron protesting the treatment of the great Buenos Aires daily, La Prensa. We had traveled to South America together on a Pan American first flight last June. Up to date, she has had no reply. Before he parted, they invited me to a cocktail party they were giving to announce the annual Look awards, a very nice gesture.

I found I rated a room, so I settled down to do some business until Tuesday afternoon when I put on a newly pressed suit and showed up at the clambake which turned out to be all caviar and cake and champagne with a la carte service free of other drinks and food from the sumptuous buffet. Celebrities were thicker than freckles on a red-headed girl who has been exposed to the summer sun—Bob Hope, Jimmy Stewart, Walt Disney, Edgar Bergen, etc., etc. No one asked anybody for an autograph, and it was a very pleasant party, altogether. A charming lady, named Mrs. Edgar Bergen, spent quite a little time talking to me which was flattering, since she is beautiful as well. However, her husband and his accomplishments were the headlines of our conversation.

She told me he had bought the rights to a French play years ago, the idea being to make it with Charlie McCarthy, but he has put it off for the plot calls for the death of the dummy, and sentiment restrains him.

"Do you think he ever will?" I asked.

"I doubt it," she answered.

"You know," I suggested, "Arthur Conan Doyle once killed off Sherlock Holmes and later revived him and brought him back to life by popular demand." I also found out both she and her husband can and do fly a Navion plane.

I ate so much and stayed so late, I skipped dinner entirely. Any more victuals would have been coals to Newcastle. Among those present was Prince Mike Romanoff, who is top society out here now. He did not invite me to his restaurant for dinner which perhaps is just as well, since a rich friend of mine reported he had been there recently and the Prince put the bee on him for $1,000 to help finance a new building for his garish joint.

"Well, anyway," he remarked as he pulled out his fountain pen, "I ought always to be able to get a table."

Teacher, Made Drug Addict By Hiccups, Enters Hospital

COLUMBUS, Ohio—(AP)—A little gray-haired school teacher—who has hiccuped every 30 seconds for 18 years—began the biggest trip of her life Wednesday.

Miss Virgil Vale, 54, marched stoutly off to the U. S. Public Health Hospital at Lexington, Ky., under sentence from U. S. District Court.

You see, the little old woman has hiccuped 2,880 times a day—or 18,921,000 times — since 1933. These nerve convulsions have made life a sea of pain and turned a small-town teacher into a narcotic addict.

They drove her to forge prescriptions for drugs to ease the burning pain that like clock-work struck the diaphragm twice a minute, day and night.

"I'd wake up in the middle of the night," said Miss Vale, "and the hiccups would nearly drive me crazy."

All this began one day back in 1933. Miss Vale was standing at the head of her class in Cambridge, Ohio. A light fixture fell. It struck her head. Soon thereafter the hiccups began.

By Christmas time, Miss Vale couldn't teach anymore. In 1936, physicians ordered her to take drugs to ease the pain. In 1944, she began forging prescriptions to get drugs.

Finally, U. S. Narcotics Agent Al Cook caught up with Miss Vale. "I'm glad you did," she said. "I just couldn't face it by myself."

Then she told Cook how she had visited Cleveland Clinic, Johns Hopkins and many specialists, underwent two operatins—and still the hiccups went on.

She was living a hermit existence in a small apartment on an industrial commission income of $18 a week. Drugs were costing her $50 a month.

She stood before U. S. District Judge Mell G. Underwood, a little retired school teacher. She still looked like the woman who taught you to spell. She heard Judge Underwood sentence her to Lexington. He told her the hospital could help her drug addiction.

"Maybe these hiccups will go away, too," the little woman said hopefully.

In early European universities, the professors were hired by the students.

Local Quint Opens Series At Wheeling

Pence, Hall Ejected For Fighting; Blues Are Hosts Tonight

The New York Rens, nationally famous negro professional road quint, proved too good for Cumberland's Spas last night and defeated the local All-American Pro League entry by the score of 70-57 on SS. Peter and Paul court.

The game was enlivened by a scrap between Bob Hall, Rens' guard, and Bob Pence, of the Spas, and resulted in both players being banished in the third period. Pence accused Hall of elbowing and shoving him throughout the game.

Cumberland took a 2-0 lead at the start on foul goals by Jack Murphy and George Geatz. Fred Pearson's basket knotted the count at 2-2. A fielder by Carl Helem sent the Rens to the fore at 4-2 and the visitors were never headed thereafter. Murphy's basket tied the count at 19-19 in the second heat but Smith's goal sent the Rens out in front and they stayed there. The quarter scores were 15-12, 38-28 and 56-46.

Jack Murphy led the Spas on scoring with 20 points. Helem and Singleton topped the winners with 19 and 17 tallies.

Only 333 paying patrons witnessed the contest.

Tonight the Spas and Wheeling open their best-of-three-games A-A League playoff series in Wheeling. Lineups:

Morgantown Hi Wins In Tourney

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., March 15 (AP)—Morgantown nipped Mullens 58-51 tonight to join Beckley, Clarksburg Victory, and Charleston as West Virginia state class A basketball meet semi-finalists.

Beckley and Clarksburg Victory clash in the upper-bracket contest tomorrow at 7 p. m., with Morgantown and Charleston taking the court immediately thereafter. Greenbank (27-0) and Fairview (23-3) meet for the state Class B title here tomorrow at 2 p. m.

Beckley eliminated Grafton 63-53 today with a 19-point fourth period; Victory outscrambled Warwood 60-52, and Charleston fought off Huntington Central 72-62 after almost losing a big lead.

Huntington, behind 19-9 at the end of the first period, as much as 17 back once in the second period, and up to 16 points off the pace in the third frame, twice surged within four points of Charleston in the final two and one-half minutes of play.

Victory, which had led from midway in the first period, rolled in eight straight points in the final two and one-half minutes to gain its victory. Warwood had fought back from an 11-point deficit in the third period to a 52-52 deadlock.

Beckley made its big height advantage spell the difference in the final 10 minutes against Grafton. Bob Davis and Willie Bergines, finishing with 26 and 24 points, respectively, finally beat down the sparkling, 27-point play of the losers' Don Willis.

Boxers Get $20,094

CHICAGO, March 15 (AP)—Johnny Bratton, Chicago's newly crowned welterweight champion, recognized approvingly by the National Boxing Association, today spent leisure hours so soothing to a boxer after a tough battle.

Also, Bratton had $10,047.18 salted in his jeans. It was the financial award for winning the NBA title over gamecock Charley Fusari in their blistering 15-round bout in the Chicago Stadium last night. Fusari, game, aggressive Italian from Irvington, N. J., pocketed the same amount.

DODGERS COP 4TH

MIAMI, March 15 (AP) — Brooklyn ran its winning streak to four games tonight by overwhelming Cincinnati, 10-3, before a crowd of 1,977.

Clarence Podbielan, youthful righthander, held the Reds without a hit for four innings but Clyde King game up five after two out in the seventh. Ed Euratt, Harry Perkowski and Rudy Minarcin were bounded for a 16 with rookie Rocky Bridges leading the Dodger attack with four.

Manager Charlie Dressen was greatly improved at Jackson Memorial Hospital but Dan Bankhead was still bedded with a heavy cold. Jackie Robinson complained of a sore side. Score:

Arthur G. Ramey informs us that Thomas C. Ferguson, supervisor of physical education and recreation for the Maryland Department of Education, has been laid up at his home in Baltimore for several weeks, following a heart attack.

Ferguson is well known throughout the state by principals and coaches of the various high schools and has played an important part in outlining the athletic program of the schools for many years.

There's a feud going on in West Virginia between sports writers of the Fairmont and Parkersburg papers.

It all started when Bill Johnson of the Parkersburg News lambasted Coach Robert "Red" Brown and the West Virginia University varsity basketball team.

Bill Evans, of the Fairmont Times, whom we've known since the days of the Middle Atlantic League, wrote that Johnson "had a hole in his head for saying uncomplimentary things about his Mountaineers."

Johnson retaliated by referring to Evans as "The Grand Duke of Verbosity," which means Mr. Evans employs an unnecessary number of words when he writes.

Clem Hamilton, another Fairmont writer, entered the feud by belting out a column in defense of Sir William Evans, "Red" Brown and his boys.

It does seem strange that Allegany county will not be represented by a Class "A" basketball team in the state championship game this year—the second time in 18 years.

Only once in the past 17 years has a local team failed to win Class "A" honors — that being in 1928 when Hagerstown eliminated Allegany High and Catonsville High was the champ.

Here are the "A" winners since the tournaments were started:

1927—Allegany. 1928—Catonsville. 1929—Penn Avenue. 1930—Allegany. 1931—Allegany. 1932—Allegany. 1933—Allegany. 1934—Allegany. 1935—Penn Avenue. 1936—Allegany. 1937—Allegany. 1938—Fort Hill. 1939—Fort Hill. 1947—Allegany. 1948—Fort Hill. 1949—Fort Hill. 1950—Allegany.

In 1940 and 1941, Allegany defeated Cambridge, 68-48 and 52-24 in games billed for the title but there was no statewide tourney in those years.

The March 9 issue of The Torch, LaSalle High School publication, carries results of the Student Popularity Poll.

Jim Moran was voted the most popular boy in the school. The Explorers' basketball and football star also was named the best athlete. Doug Connolly and Tom Keech were voted the "friendliest" students.

LaSalle Seniors also selected their favorites. The Cumberland Spas is their favorite basketball team while they rate Willie Hoppe as the best pool player with Jack McMullen, as runner-up, which is quite an honor for Jack.

CHISOX BEAT TRIBE

PASADENA, Calif., March 15 (AP) — The Chicago White Sox squeezed out a 10-9 exhibition victory over the Cleveland Indians today in a slugfest which produced 38 hits, six of them home runs.

Bob Feller was touched for nine runs and all three of the White Sox homers, two by Eddie Robinson and the other by Ed Stewart. Harry Simpson smacked two homers for the Indians and Larry Doby accounted for the other Cleveland round-tripper. Score:

Harry Heilmann, 61, Has Heart Ailment, Condition Critical

LAKELAND, Fla., March 15 (AP) — Harry Heilmann, former star with the Detroit Tigers and now a baseball announcer, was taken to Morrell Hospital today in critical condition with a heart ailment.

Heilmann, 61, was placed in an oxygen tent. Dr. W. J. Annis said the former Detroit outfielder's heart condition was aggravated by a cold.

Heilmann, one of the five greatest right-handed hitters in baseball history, won the American League batting championship four times, in 1921, 1923, 1925 and 1927.

Laurel Will Go Hollywood For Racing

Bands, Pretty Girls, Corsages On Program

LAUREL, Md., March 15 (AP)—Laurel Race Track plans to put on the dog at its meeting which opens a week from Friday. Bands, pretty girls, orchid corsages. Some $2 bettor is even going to win a horse.

"We thought we had Margaret Truman lined up to sing the Star Spangled Banner on opening day," laments Milt Crandall.

Crandall is a Hollywood public relations man, hired as "director of special events" to pep up proceedings at the sedate racing plant midway between Washington and Baltimore on U. S. 1.

Although Crandall still is angling for a name singer to intone the National Anthem on the curtain raiser program March 23, he has a pageant and the Greater Kensington String Band of Philadelphia on tap.

The pageant will recreate early day race-going in Maryland, with a George and Martha Washington and an Andy Jackson.

The winner of the horse will be the bettor who shows the highest percentage return on his investments at the track on April 7. It will be a saddle horse.

"We don't want anybody to get hurt, just show them a good time," Crandall explains.

"The typical racing fan" also will be feted April 7. Some Joe (he must still have his shirt) will be shuttled to the track in a limousine, fed, and given a form sheet, a program, binoculars and $50 to bet.

All the ladies will get in free April 4 and the first thousand will get a three-orchid corsage.

There also will be eight horse races every day.

Giving Laurel a lilt is the handiwork of John D. Schapiro. Schapiro became head of the track when his father, millionaire Baltimore junk man, bought it last year from the very proper Maryland Jockey Club. The Jockey Club still owns Pimlico and The Preakness.

Justice Department Moves To Deport Alleged Games Fixer

WASHINGTON, March 15 (AP) —The Justice Department today moved to deport Salvatore Sollazzo, alleged fixer of college basketball games in the New York City area.

The department announced that a warrant of arrest, calling for Sollazzo's deportation to his native Italy, was served on him late this afternoon in the New York City jail.

He is behind bars there on a state indictment charging him with the bribery of 11 prominent cage players.

Stadium Inn Ties K-C For Shuffle Lead

Frostburg Cops Three, Knights Lose Pair

Stadium Inn, of Frostburg, first half champions, tied the Cumberland Knights of Columbus for first place in the Men's National Shuffleboard League of Allegany County, by sweeping three games from the Mt. Savage V. F. W. while the Knights were dropped two out of three here to the Alhambra Club.

The tied pace-setters now have 19-5 records.

Minnick led Stadium's Inn scorers with 27 points while Pollock topped Mt. Savage with 16.

McDade was high man for the Alhambra Club with 18 tallies to his credit. Love posted 27 for the local K. of C. team.

In other matches the Frostburg K. of C. topped Viaduct Inn, 2-1; Frostburg Moose took three from Clingerman's Restaurant, Cumberland V. F. W. downed the Century A. C., Frostburg, 2-1, and the Goodfellowship Club gained a 2-1 nod over the Frostburg American Legion.

Other high scorers were: Riggleman, Frostburg Moose, 29; Warren, Clingerman's, 13.

The Amvets visit the Woodmen of the World for a match tonight.

Announcement was made that the postponed Mt. Savage VFW-Goodfellowship match of last week will be played on March 20.

Illinois Pointer Wins U. S. Title

HERNANDO, Miss., March 15 (AP) —An Illinois pointer that overrode an early handicap came back today to win the United States field trial club's derby championship.

Mirror, owned by Dr. R. A. Scott of Carbondale, Ill., hit the muddy sedge fields in search of quail and snagged the title with his first spectacularly handled bevy.

Pineland Tom, owned by Pineland Kennels, Newton, Ga., placed second in the derby, which is limited to two-year-old bird dogs.

Handler Ray Smith of Somerville, Tenn., rode on top of Mirror's fast-wide-ranging hunt today.

Two Game Officials Hurt In Plane Crash

ELKTON, Md., March 15 (AP) — Two Game and Inland Fish Commission officials were injured today when the light plane they were using to make a wildlife survey struck a wire and was forced down.

George D. P. Patterson, 26, Baltimore, suffered head injuries, and David Smith, about 30, deputy game warden for Harford County, suffered a dislocated shoulder.

Tommies Top Erie, 65-55, Tie Series

ERIE, Pa., March 15 — Beaver Falls squared its All-American Professional Basketball League playoff series with the Erie Admirals by winning tonight's game at Beaver Falls by the score of 65-55. Each team has won one game.

The "rubber" game is set here Sunday at 3 p.m.

Erie led at the halfway mark, 27-26, but the Tommies forged ahead in the third quarter when Stan Navage connected for six field goals in eight tries.

Al Vlasic and Navage led the winners with 22 and 18 points. Fred Schwab paced Erie with 16 markers.

Tigers Advance To State Final, Face Aberdeen

Losers Held To Nine Goals; Burt, McKenzie Get 28 Of 39 Points

FROSTBURG, March 15 — Central High School of Lonaconing bottled up Gaithersburg High with a zone defense tonight and romped to victory over the Montgomery countains to reach the finals in Maryland's Class "B" schlastic basketball tournament. The score was 39-25.

Playing on the Beall High floor, Coach John Meyers' Tigers limited the visitors to nine field goals—two in the first half and seven in the second and held the upper hand throughout the contest.

Central jumped off to a 10-3 lead at the quarter and held the long end of an 18-7 count at the halfway mark. Gaithersburg registered two field goals and three foul goals in the first two periods. The third quarter score was 28-11.

Curtis Johnson played an outstanding floor game for the Orange and Black while Kenneth Burt, center, and Don McKenzie, forward, accounted for 28 of the 39 tallies. Burt racked up six field goals and 3-4 fouls while McKenzie garnered four double-deckers and 5-7 fouls. White, guard, marked up ten of Gaithersburg's 25 points.

Thirty-one personal fouls were called on the teams—17 on Central and 14 Gaithersburg. Jackson, Gaithersburg forward, made his exit on personals in the final period.

Gaithersburg is coached by Fred Sacco, former Beall High School athlete.

Central's opponent Saturday night at 7 p. m., at College Park will be Aberdeen High School of Harford county which eliminated Cambridge of the Eastern Shore in a 51-50 thriller on Wednesday night.

On the other state finals, Barton plays Ocean City in the "C" contest at 3:30 and Hagerstown opposes Wicomico High of Salisbury in the "A" finale at 8 o'clock. The lineups:

Summers Quits As VMI Director Of Athletics

LEXINGTON, Va., March 15—(AP) —Frank L. Summers resigned today as athletic director at Virginia Military Institute to enter the insurance business.

The resignation will be effective June 1.

Summers, who became athletic director at V. M. I., in 1947, said he had been considering entering the insurance field "for more than two years." He said the move "probably should have been made 20 years ago."

Ferrier Favored In $10,000 Open At Jacksonville

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 15 (AP)—Jim Ferrier, the hottest man in golf for the past month, is the inevitable favorite for the $10,000 Jacksonville Open Tournament starting tomorrow.

The huge Australian, winner of more cash in tournament golf last year than anyone else except Sam Snead, pocketed $2,000 as winner of the Miami Beach Open last Sunday and $2,000 as winner of the St. Petersburg Open a week earlier.

One more bite like that and Ferrier, who calls San Francisco his home town, will overtake Lloyd Mangrum of Chicago as top man on the 1951 money list. That is, provided Mangrum finishes worse than second place in the Jacksonville Tournament.

Mangrum has won $7,126 this year. Ferrier has collected $6,262. Mangrum won an additional $2,500 in the Seminole Tournament ending yesterday but it doesn't count in official PGA money winnings.

The four-day tournament will be played over the 6,508 yard par 36-36—72 Hyde Park course. The half-flat, half-rolling course has narrow, tree-lined fairways that call for a lot of accuracy.

Brigham Young And Dayton Battle Way To NIT Finals

Seton Hall, St. John's Lose Before 16,815

NEW YORK, March 15 (INS)—Brigham Young and Dayton battled their way to the National Invitation finals with impressive victories tonight over Seton Hall and St. John's.

Brigham Young's classy third-seeded outfit trounced Seton Hall, 69 to 59 while Dayton downed top-seeded St. John's in an overtime 69-62.

The two winners meet for the championship Saturday night, while the losers play for third place in the tourney.

A Madison Square Garden crowd of 16,815—largest of the tournament—saw tonight's games and came away equally impressed by the Flyers and the Cougers.

Dayton came back to rip favored St. John's apart with two key men, Don Meineke and Leland Norris, out on fouls and after wasting a ten point lead.

Flashy Roland Minson led the Cougars with 26 points, giving him a two-game total of 54 points. Teammates Jerry Romney and Joe Richie had 16 and 14 points respectively.

The Flyers, without two kingpins Don Meineke and Leland Norris for much of the second half, saw the top-seeded Redmen tie the score at 58-all on Bob Zawoluk's layup with 35 seconds to play.

Then trailing in the overtime 62-to-59, they exploded a fantastic ten points through the hoop in two minutes time.

Vaughn Taylor, stand-in for Meineke, made a one-hander to put the Flyers within one point and Chuch Grigsby's beautiful pivot shot sent the unheralded Ohioans ahead 63-62 at 3:40 of the period.

Meineke, who scored 67 points in two previous Dayton victories, was of comparatively little help tonight. He managed to hit for 11 points against St. John's towering Zawoluk but he incurred his fourth foul with only five-and-a-half minutes gone in the second half. Returning briefly six minutes later, he committed his fifth offense and was followed to the bench by Norris with almost eight minutes left.

HITTING AND PITCHING PLUS O'NEILL, BOUDREAU SPELL SOXCESS FOR BOSTON

Editor's Note: This is the fourth of a series of articles on the 1951 prospects of the major league baseball teams.

By WALTER L. JOHNS
Central Press Sports Editor

SARASOTA, Fla — Not only the sock in the Boston Red Sox but good pitching, a new spirit and two fugitives from Cleveland, Steve O'Neill and Lou Boudreau, should win the pennant for the Beantowners this year.

Potentially, the Red Sox have the best team in baseball. Period.

In stout Stephen Francis O'Neill, the pug-faced Irishman, they have a good manager, a welcome change from the sour, rough and gruff Joe McCarthy, who gave up the ghost last June 23 when Steve took over.

The most dominating force in this potent Red Sox team, however, is Lou Boudreau, the magnificent shortstop who was given the gate by the Cleveland management in a deal that still stinks to high heaven.

Lou is the talk of the camp.

Always a terrific personality and certainly one of the outstanding ball players of this era, Boudreau has played his cards well. He is working hard, is streamlined down to 183 pounds and his play at any position he has tried in the infield has been sensational.

Lou feels great, likes his association with the Bosox and his only desire is to go out and win for Steve.

His pressure is enough to make the other infielders stand up and work their heads off—for Lou, who gives the club an all-around infielder and a fine right-handed pinch-hitter even if he sits on the bench, still is rated as good a chance as any of the others to win a regular job from outstanding regulars like Johnny Pesky at third, Vern Stephens at short and even Bobby Doerr at second.

In a pinch, too, Lou can play first and even catch!

With such additions as O'Neill, always a winning manager at Detroit, and Boudreau, slap-happy Beantowners present a fierce front, one which should carry them to the pennant this year.

Pitching always has been given as the reason why the Red Sox failed to come through. That, plus inability to win on the road and win the big games.

Stout Steve, still one of the most genial guys in baseball, says he has no pitching worries. "We've got a great staff," he says with all sincerity. I think we've helped ourselves a lot with those trades." And "those trades" are what have added to the pennant fever in this camp.

In picking up Ray Scarborough and Lefty Bill Wight from Chicago the Red Sox grabbed off two stars and two guys already being considered for starting roles by Manager Steve.

The others Steve plans for starters are the ace lefty, Mel Parnell; the big righthander, Willard Nixon, who came up to the Sox last year after starting with Louisville, and Harry Taylor, former Dodger flinger who won 13 games for St. Paul and then beat both the A's and Yanks in his only American league starts late last year.

Adding to the pitching cup of joy was the return of two other possible starters, Lefty McDermott and Chuck Stobbs. Both were 1-A in service call but Stobbs was given a medical reprieve because of an asthmatic conditions and McDermott has a bad ear which is expected to keep him out of service. Stobbs won 12 for Boston last year and McDermott won seven and lost three.

O'Neill plans to carry 10 pitchers and the personnel of the rest of the staff is good, too. There's Ellis Kinder, who won 14 for the Bosox. There's young Paul Hinrichs, the minister-to-be who was signed by the Yanks for a fancy sum and then dropped because they thought he had a bad arm. O'Neill says the boy's trouble was his groin but he looks good in camp.

Of the rookies, O'Neill likes Jimmie McDonald, who won 11 for Louisville; Bill Evans, a right hander who won 15 for Sacramento; Bennett Flowers, a right-hander from Louisville and Jim Suchecki, also from Louisville.

The Red Sox have pitchers; don't worry about that!

The powerhouse that murdered American league pitching the last few years is still here.

In the outfield the Sox present a fearsome trio of Ted Williams, Dom DiMaggio and Billy Goodman.

Williams, who is hitting well in camp, has complained some about his bad elbow, hurt in the All-game, but O'Neill reports that Ted's arm is okay. Goodman, who led all Boston batters and the league with a 354 mark last year, will play right, according to O'Neill, but Billy can fill in most anywhere.

The infield has its murderers' row, too. Walt Dropo, the rookie star of 1950, has added a little weight and is rarin' to go again. Doerr is at second, Stephens at short and Pesky at third!

BOSTON RED SOX
Finish in '50: Third
Last pennant: 1946
Leading pitcher:
Mel Parnell (18-10)
Leading hitter:
Billy Goodman (.354)
(Averages are for 1950)

Just in case you've forgotten, Doerr hit 27 homers, Dropo 34, Stephens 30 and Williams (only 89 games) smashed 28.

O'Neill's only wide open spot is behind the plate. There are four receivers competing for the job. They are Matt Batts, Buddy Rosar Al Evans and Mike Guerra.

Evans came from Washington and Guerra from the A's.

"Right now," says Steve, "this group is all even. We'll have to see who gets the starting job."

For outfield help and pinch-hitting roles Steve has two clouters in Clyde Vollner and Tom Wright.

You don't talk much about rookies on this club for the varsity is so solid that it would take an amazing reversal of form to unseat them.

But there is one rookie and he's been classed as sensational and will be carried by O'Neill as a spare infielder.

He is Fred Hatfield, who plays third base "like nobody has seen before," to repeat what one observer said here. Hatfield, who spent the last two years with Birmingham, also can hit, having belted 27 homers last year.

Despite the array of talent, good pitching and the presence of Boudreau, Manager Steve doesn't go off the deep end and predict a pennant.

"We've got the best possibilities," he says, "but I look for a battle among the same top four—Boston, New York, Cleveland and Detroit."

There you have the Red Sox of 1951. Will they fold like they did the last two years?

This observer doesn't think so. Not with the new spirit on the club. And O'Neill and Boudreau.

CARDS EDGE BRAVES

BRANDENTON, Fla., March 15 (AP) — A leaping, one-handed catch of Bob Addis' whistling line drive by third baseman Don Richmond abruptly ended a Boston Braves' threat today and preserved a 3-2 exhibition victory for the St. Louis Cardinals.

The Cards had a 3-1 lead going into the last of the ninth. Sid Gordon doubled off Tom Keatin after one was out. With two out Willard Marshall poled a 300 foot triple to riht scorin Gordon. Addis then whacked a 2-2 pitch toward left which Richmond leaped and cauht. Score:

ST. LOUIS (N)	010	000	100—3	11	0
BOSTON (N)	000	000	101—2	4	2

Winner—Staley; Loser—Gorin.

BUCCANEERS WIN, 2-1

SACRAMENTO, Calif., March 15 (AP) — Pinch-hitter Pete Castiglione rapped out a two-run ninth inning single today to give the Pittsburgh Pirates a 2-1 exhibition baseball win over the Chicago Cubs.

Home run king Ralph Kiner played his second day at first base for Pittsburgh and handled eight more chances without an error. A total of 17 flawless plays at the initial sack in two days. Manager Billy Meyer hopes to use Ralph at first and put another slugger in the outfield. Score:

PITTSBURGH (N)	000	000	002—2	7	0
CHICAGO (N)	000	100	000—1	9	0

HOMER WINS FOR NATS

ORLANDA, Fla., March 15 (AP) — Irv Noren's seventh inning homer lifted Washington to a 5-4 victory over Detroit today as Bob Kuzava, Sid Hudson and Gene Bearden collaborated in restricting the Tigers to four hits.

Noren smashed his game-winning blast over the rightfield fence off rookie Wayne McLeland.

Sherry Robertson led Washington's 12-hit attack with a double and two singles. Score:

DETROIT	040	000	000—4	4	1
WASHINGTON	001	300	10x—5	12	0

Trout, McLand (6) and House; Kuzava, Hudson (4), Bearden (7) and Keller, Okrie (7).

GIANTS EDGE PHILS

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 15 (AP) — Rookie Artie Wilson drove in two runs with a two out pinch hit double in the ninth inning today to give the New York Giants a 6-5 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies.

Wes Westrum and Whitey Lockman accounted for the other Giant runs with two-run homers. The Phils scored all of their runs in the third inning at the expense of Sal Maglie. Willie Jones climaxed the uprising with a home run over the left field wall with one on.

The nostrils of the giraffe are heavily lined with stiff hairs as a protection against the great number of insects the animal disturbs when it browses in the branches of trees.

The bearded vulture, or Lammergeyer, which is more like an eagle than vulture, is not classed as a bird of chase, but it does secure its food by knocking chamois, goats and other animals off the ledges of precipices on which they are standing.

Chandler Wanted To Fire Mulbry, Executive Council Blocked Move

Secretary-Treasurer Offered To Resign But It Was Not Accepted

BY JOE REICHLER

SARASOTA, Fla., March 15 (AP)—An attempt by lame duck commissioner Happy Chandler to oust his old sidekick, Walter Mulbry, the secretary-treasurer of baseball, has been blocked by the executive council.

Mulbry tendered his immediate resignation when informed that Chandler had accused him of "disloyalty," but the four-man executive council refused to accept it.

Will Harridge, president of the American League, and a member of the council, released the following statement today:

"On the night of March 12, at Miami Beach, Fla., following the major league joint meeting, the executive council met with Walter Mulbry and discussed the present situation with him. Mr. Mulbry tendered his immediate resignation which the executive council refused to accept, the council deciding to continue Mr. Mulbry in office as secretary treasurer until such time as the council determined."

The meeting, held approximately four hours after Chandler's final repudiation Monday, was kept secret in order "not to irritate the commissioner any further."

Resignation Not Accepted

It was the third time in three months that Mulbry, a Chandler appointee, offered to resign. Mulbry, a lifelong friend of Chandler, broke with his superior some time before the first Chandler setback last December. The reason for the break was never made public.

Mulbry first offered to resign at the St. Petersburg convention prior to the vote which resulted in the failure to re-elect Chandler. It was refused. He attempted to resign again after the vote. Again it was not accepted.

Under the major league agreement, the commissioner appoints the $30,000-a-year secretary, who continues in office at the pleasure of the executive council. This means that Chandler could not fire Mulbry.

At the joint meeting in Miami Beach Monday, Warren Giles of Cincinnati cited a bill of particulars against Mulbry, at the behest of Chandler. There was a split over the resolution to dismiss Mulbry and the owners unanimously agreed to leave the matter in the hands of the executive council.

"The executive council decided to retain Mulbry to protect the interests and welfare of the commissioners office," said Harridge. "We are backing Mulbry to the limit. We have asked him to carry one until the commissioner resigns, at the pleasure of the council. Then we set up machinery for him to act in the commissioner's capacity until a new man is elected.

"It would be a terrible situation if Mulbry resigned, and we had nobody with experience and a knowledge of the duties to run the commissioner's office. We have to have the attention of an experienced man to take care of the players' pension fund, the funds in the commissioner's office and to protect and take care of player disputes."

"We believe Mulbry has done a good job as far as baseball is concerned."

The executive council is made up of Harridge, President Ford Frick of the National League, Tom Yawkey, president of the Boston Red Sox and Giles.

Chandler believed Mulbry was an important factor in his defeat. Had Chandler been re-elected, his first move would have been to force out Mulbry, and replace him with Roger Doulens, an airways publicity representative.

When Chandler was advised of his defeat, he made one request.

"Give me the satisfaction of firing Mulbry before I leave office."

The attendance record for a minor league baseball game was set October 9, 1944, in Baltimore's Municipal Stadium. For the Little World Series game between the Orioles and Louisville, 52,833 paid their way into the park.

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, March 15—(INS)—From the movie arms of Ezio Pinza into the movie arms of Paul Douglas is the next thing in the movie life of Janet Leigh.

As soon as Janet finishes the very last scenes in "Strictly Dishonorable" with Ezio, she dons makeup for "Angels In The Outfield," the baseball saga for which Paul Douglas was borrowed from 20th. This is the Clarence Brown production and is based on the story by Father R. S. Grady.

Janet plays a newspaper woman, and now it looks as if she'll stay on the MGM lot after roaming about a spell at RKO. Tony Curtis is still No. 1 in her life.

• — • — •

Looks as if Actor Robert Newton and the four-months-old baby he brought to this country amid so much excitement and threats of lawsuit from his wife, will be here for a spell.

"Adrocles And The Lion" won't be made for at least ten weeks, so Jerry Wald and Norman Krasna have grabbed Newton to play one of the top roles in "The Blue Veil," Jane Wyman's picture.

Newton is happy about it because he feels he might as well be working while waiting around for the Shaw picture to start.

As doting as though there were no divorce pending, Judy Garland and Vincente Minnelli co-hosted a party for 56 youngsters celebrating little Liza's birthday at the home of the Ira Gershwins on Tuesday.

Judy and Vinc posed separately and together with their little girl cutting her cake and while she opened her gifts. Vinc gave Liza a majorette uniform, copied after one she had admired on a TV show. Judy gave her an evening gown copied after one of Mary Martin's.

Minnelli says his parting from Judy is entirely amicable and that he believes it is the right thing for Judy to have custody of the child. However, Liza will remain here with him for four weeks before leaving with her nurse to join Judy in London. I'm glad for everyone's sake that there will be no battle.

It's very possible John Farrow may make "The Life Of Christ," on which he has been working for three years, in Italy. Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., has been discussing that possibility with him.

Paramount is interested, and I can understand why, because the sketches which Johnny brought for me to see are really beautiful.

This idea of a picture based on the beautiful story of our Savior has been uppermost in John's mind for years, and I do hope he'll be able to make the picture.

Snapshots of Hollywod collected at random:

Paul Marsh, popular publicist, has been buying cigars. Reason—a new baby daughter, his first.

Jules Stein has gone to New York to personally handle the picture deal of Russell Nype who is going to make a picture this summer. Nype has 12 weeks leave of absence from "Call Me Madam." He's the boy the Duchess of Windsor finds so attractive.

Gordon MacRae comes through with this for Doris Day when she marries Marty Melcher next month. Says Gordon, "Doris should wear a new tune, an old tune, a borrowed tune and a blue tune."

The blues singers from Honolulu, Charles Durand and Guy Brion, brought out a goodly number of the film crowd. Gloria DeHaven was there with Nicky Hilton and they were photographed again and again, this time without trouble.

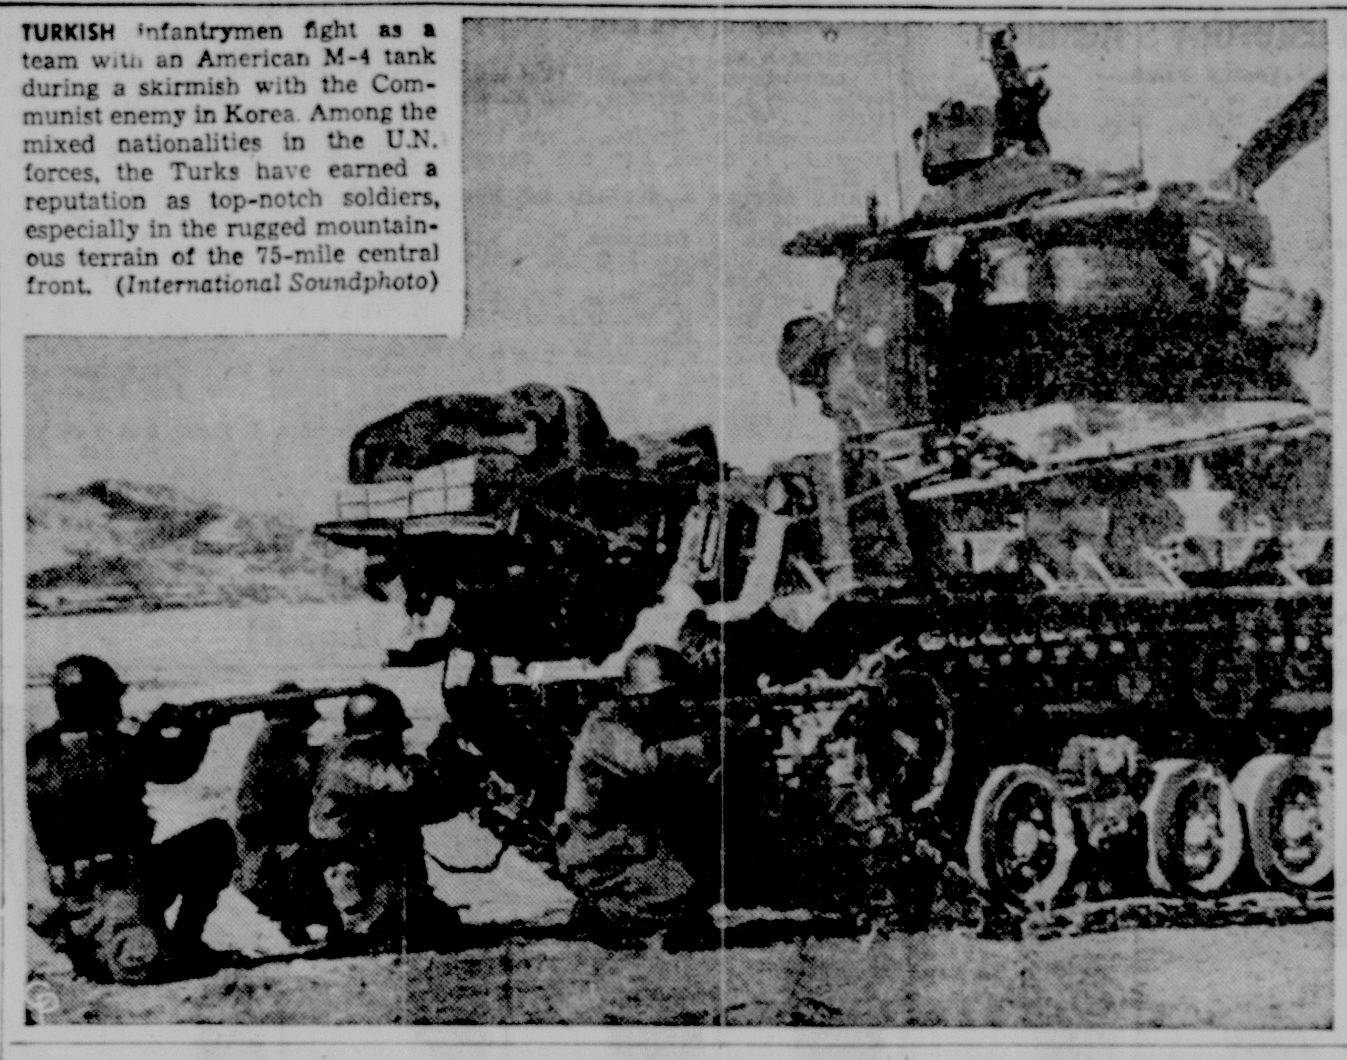
The Princess Fathia, sister of King Farouk, and her husband Riad Rhali, were in ringside seats. She's the sister who was disowned at the time of her marriage by her king brother.

Everything must be okey-dokey with Joan Davis and Danny Elman. They were Mocamboing together and apparently very happy.

Nancy Guild's two-year-old daughter, Elizabeth, has been very sick with tonsilitis and bronchitis, so Nancy tells me she's taking the baby to Palm Springs for some sun. I met her at our mutual dentist, Dr. Lumsden.

Linda Darnell and Greg Tallas are still an item. They were glimpsed at the Har-Omar at a table for two.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!



TURKISH infantrymen fight as a team with an American M-4 tank during a skirmish with the Communist enemy in Korea. Among the mixed nationalities in the U.N. forces, the Turks have earned a reputation as top-notch soldiers, especially in the rugged mountainous terrain of the 75-mile central front. Try And Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

Garson Kanin, famed director and author of Born Yesterday, confesses that one of his earliest theatrical chores was a primitive radio commercial in which he essayed the role of a dish-washing machine. Rita Johnson, also involved in the epic, played the part of a fish platter. "I am a simple dish," she was paid the minimum Equity wage to declare. "I love liquid soap, and never chip in the smoothing, rotary motion of the Blank Economy Washer."

Then Kanin replied in equally poetic terms. Exactly what he said, however, he swears will remain a secret known only to fellow dish-washing machines.

A worried girl came down from the mountains to tell her doctor, "We gotta do somthin' 'bout grandmaw's smokin'. She inhales." "Nothing so terrible about that, Elviry," soothed the doctor. "Plenty of women inhale nowadays." "You don't understan'," persisted Elviry. "Grandmaw don't exhale!"

The Flea Position

THE MAIL PACKET is in with intelligence from overseas. I like to keep abreast of the more important news from Britain and I'm sure you do too. You want to know what's happening in England? I'll tell you what's happening in England. There's a shortage of fleas.

So severe a shortage—let's not mince words—that there probably won't be a flea circus at the Festival of Britain this year. Billy Rayner who was to have staged the flea circus reviewed the flea situation to "The Daily Telegraph" and, believe me, it's grim. Trained fleas, as any fool knows, have to come from human beings. Fleas from animals die when they are parted from the animal. Well, sir, no one seems to have fleas any more. Mr. Raynor has advertised for them without success. (He wants 12).

• — • — •

"Since the war, the flea position has been getting steadily worse," explained Mr. Raynor. "I blame the vacuum cleaners and the newfangled disinfectants. The average flea lives only for about three months and they do not breed in captivity. Toward the end of the three months they become stiff-jointed, just like humans in their old age. And then they cannot ride the cycles, pull chariots or do sword-fighting. All the old fleas can manage is an occasional dance. The public won't pay to see that. It is just what they expect from fleas anyway.

"We usually find that the more educated people are, the more interest they take in our fleas. At Oxford we bring the house down."

Horrifying situation, no doubt about it. Flea circuses are a much older and, in many ways, more respected form of show business than radio or television. We can let it fall victim to vacuum cleaners and newfangled disinfectants. Seems to me, if we can ship a load of coal to Yorkshire, one of the leading coal-producing areas in the world, (as we recently did) we ought to be able to rustle up 12 fleas for the British.

I've been looking around on my own. Inspected my four-year-old son from head to toe to see if he was harboring any talent. His fleas used to be able to do sword-fighting with the authority of Errol Flynn. But not any more. Not any more. I blame it on the progressive school my son is attending. Nowadays, my son's fleas just lie around reading books. And the public won't pay to see that. It's just what they expect from fleas anyway. They can't even muster up an occasional dance, these fleas.

• — • — •

It's all very well for Mr. Rayner to say that the more educated the people are, the greater their interest in fleas. But the more educated the fleas get, the more trouble they are. Our fleas are still young enough to ride the cycles, pull chariots or do sword-fighting. They just won't. They've been educated to the point where they consider it beneath their dignity. And they don't think the money is right. These young American fleas all want to be Ed Sullivan; their aim is to introduce people and let them ride the cycles. The great ambition of one of our fleas is to introduce Ed Sullivan and make him pull the chariot for a change.

• — • — •

You can hardly blame them, the way the talent situation is these days. A girl can rehearse for three weeks, memorize 60 pages of dialogue and give a whale of a performance on, say "Studio One." She'll make maybe $200, if she's lucky. It's much more rewarding to be Eva Gabor, tell the guests where to sit down and say "What's new?"—an easy line. If you ask me, these fleas just wised up a little quicker than the humans. There'll come a time—you mark my words—when the actors, the singers, the dancers are going to get darned tired of doing even an occasional dance for Mr. Sullivan. Let him do his own occasional dance.

"The Authority on Authorities"

CAN'T KEEP THEM BOTH

ONE OF the first laws of science is the principle in physics that two bodies can not occupy the same space at the same time. That is the factor which makes a squeeze play work. Suppose you are the victimized defender and you get down to the stage where you have to make a discard which would leave only three cards in your hand. If you have only spaces for that many, obviously you can't retain four. Suppose, however, you would require two cards in each of two suits to guard them. Obviously you can't guard them both, but must release your protection in one or the other.

Instead of using the Blackwood 4-No Trumps after hearing South's strong 3-No Trumps, North decided that inviting slam naturally while showing his five-card spade length was better. South accepted by cue-bidding his club A, which of course might have been a mere suit rebid, whereupon North soundly put the slam into No Trumps.

Upon seeing the dummy after the club Q lead, South counted ten tricks in top cards and chances for developing others. The club K won the first trick, then the spade K and Q showed that this suit wouldn't break, as West shed a diamond. The diamond 5 to the J finesse worked to make the eleventh trick available. To develop a squeeze, South scored the diamond A and gave up the spade 6 to East's 8, discarding the club 4. East, refusing to lead into the spade tenace, returned the diamond 7 to the K. Now the heart K and A were scored and the spade A laid down for discard of the club 7.

Dummy still retained the heart Q-7 and club 6, and South the heart 6 and club A-9. West had to keep the heart J-10 to guard against the 7 in dummy, so was obliged to discard from his club J-10. The declarer then scored the heart Q, club A to drop the J and finally the club 9 to complete the squeeze and make his contract.

What standard methods should South apply to reduce his losers in 4-Hearts after West leads the heart 7 to East's 9?

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

May a "rejection complex" lead to murder?

Answer: Yes. It ranks near or at the top of the list of unconscious motivations for violent killing. Because of the panic terror it is based on, there is no rage more intense or blind than that of a child who feels rejected by his mother. And when this rage, which the child was helpless to express, is revived through a man's being rejected by the wife or sweetheart he has made the "mother substitute," he is likely to attack her without mercy or regard for consequences, even to himself. You will seldom open a newspaper without reading of such a murder.

Has multiple sclerosis an emotional factor?

Answer: It seems possible, at any rate. The cause of this crippling illness (formerly called "creeping paralysis") is still unknown, but in many cases, it is said to follow "emotional upheavals" such as a man's being deserted by his wife. However, such a shock may merely lower the victim's resistance to whatever weakness or infection he is currently exposed to rather than directly causing a specific disease. Remarkable progress in arresting, if not curing multiple sclerosis has been recently reported from the Special Clinic of St. Joseph's Hospital, Tacoma, Washington.

May small children suffer from migraine?

Answer: Apparently. Two Swedish physicians, Drs. Bo Vahlquist and Gunnar Hackzell, report studying 31 cases in children from one to four years old. Babies under two do not usually tell you that their heads hurt but the typical paleness of migraine accompanied by intense vomiting may occur from the age of one year. Migraine in small children usually does not last as long or show as many warning symptoms as in adults, but the nausea is even more severe. There is said to be a fair chance of the child's "outgrowing" the condition.

A Wheeling writer suggests that the best way for Mike Valan to recoup some of his losses which amount to thousands of dollars, is to take steps to organize a league composed of basketball teams in the Ohio valley.

He believes a loop with Charleston, Fairmont, Huntington, Clarksburg, Wheeling, Bellaire, Martins Ferry, Weirton and Steubenville in it would be a walloping success at the box office because they're all natural rivals.

Wheelingites, he says, have no interest in the A-A League's three Pennsylvania clubs—Altoona, Beaver Falls and Erie—or Cumberland, and they stay away from Madison gym for the pro settos.

Leo Clark of Meyersdale, Pa., is a patient in the U. S. Veterans Hospital, Aspinwall, Pa., where he may have to undergo another operation on his leg which was amputated during World War I by the Germans who performed a crude operation after he was wounded by shrapnel and fell into their hands. Gangrene set in and many operations have been performed in recent years.

Leo is a brother of Francis "Irish" Clark, well known Meyersdale and Cumberland basketball star, and was a basketeer himself back in the days when Lonaconing had topnotch independent teams. Leo also was an outstanding baseball umpire prior to the First World War.

Stock Prices Make Modest Advance In Stormy Session

NEW YORK, March 15 (AP)—There was stormy weather in the stock market today, but the session ended with a rainbow around its shoulders.

The sweeps up and down covered considerable territory during the day. The average gain at the close was modest, but some of the individual issues raced up to nearly $4 a share.

By far the best gains were shown in the radio-television group and the rails, steels, motors, chemicals, air lines, and utilities had their share of plus signs.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks added 20 cents at $92.10. The industrial component was up 50 cents, rails 20 cents, and utilities 10 cents. The upturn came after four straight days of losses.

The volume of trading came to 2,070,000 shares as against 2,110,000 shares yesterday. This is the third straight day that the two million mark has been passed.

Radio Corp. was the most active issued up 1⅜ at 20⅜. It was followed by International Telephone up ½ at 17, General Motors up⅛ at 51¼, Socony Vacuum off ¼ at 25⅝, and U. S. Steel up ¼ at 42.

Most of the oils were lower.

Zenith Radio declared a quarterly dividend of 50 cents and a 50-cent extra. The previous extra was last October, the first in many years. It closed up 3¾ at 68½.

Texas & Pacific Railway declared a quarterly dividend of $1.25 to put the common on a $5 annual basis as against the previous $4 basis. A $1 extra was paid last December. The stock closed up 2 at $95.

City's Special Taxing Plan Is Rejected By Delegation

Police, Fire Pay Raise Requests Are Also Denied

The Allegany County Delegation yesterday agreed to sponsor an enabling act to increase Cumberland's taxing power for operating expenses by five cents but turned down bids for special taxing powers.

Charles M. See, chairman of the Delegation, said the action was by a majority of the Delegation, which at the same time turned down all requests for salary increases by city employes, including the police and fire departments.

He said the bill will be placed in the hopper today.

Athur M. Gibson, city auditor, said the five cents additional taxing power, raising the operating levy to 95 cents, will give the city about $32,150 additional revenue, just about enough to pay for the $13 a month cost of living increase granted to all city employes last December, and estimated to cost about $30,000.

Deny Wage Boosts

See said the Delegation felt that if it granted increases to the police and firemen it should grant boosts to all city employes and that such action would make the city tax burden prohibitive.

He said the Delegation felt that due to the unemployment in Allegany County that this is not the opportune time to increase the tax rates.

The city had asked that the tax rate be increased from 90 to $1.10 per $100 of assessable property.

Delegates said they had given the wage increase requests a great deal of consideration but came to the conclusion they could not be granted since only more taxes would have made the grant possible.

Decision Is Slated

See said a decision is slated today on the Bowling Green special taxing area bill.

He added that Delegate Whitworth's bill to call for a county wide vote on Daylight Savings Time is in the hands of the printer and that the Cumberland sewage bond bill is being held up by the Delegation pending a definite decision.

He said a bill to revise the Cumberland Civil Service and Merit Systems has not yet been received by the Delegation.

The authority to raise the tax rate five cents will enable the city to raise about $610,850, based on a valuation of $64,300,000.

The chief trouble is that this year's budget includes $150,000 surplus remaining from state shared income.

Must Curtail Services

It will mean that the city must curtail some services in order to remain within its budget.

One of the problems, according to Gibson, is that most of the state shared income, especially from gasoline taxes and racing, must be matched by city funds. Gasoline tax income, for instance, must be used for street maintenance and construction and racing income for the sanitation system and street cleaning.

In order to keep the state income, the city must raise money from taxes to match the grants, and the needs of the city for street and sanitation is so great that it cannot afford to turn down the state grants.

Officer Served Warrant On Assault Charge

A warrant has been served on Officer George Pfeiffer of the city police force charging him with assault following a scuffle while placing a Ridgeley, W. Va., man under arrest January 30 in a bus on Virginia Avenue.

According to the state's attorney's office it was issued by Trial Magistrate Frank A. Perdew. No date has as yet been set for the hearing.

He is charged with hitting Herman Brant, 43. Brant was a patient in Memorial Hospital three weeks following the scuffle.

Officer Pfeiffer, in an earlier statement to the press, declared he noticed Brant standing on the corner of Virginia and Laing Avenues the night of January 30.

He asked him to straighten his disarrayed clothing and after Brant boarded the bus Officer Pfeiffer said the Ridgeley man directed an obscene remark to him.

The officer then said he boarded the bus and in a scuffle that ensued, he admitted that it was necessary to hit Brant with his mace.

He was later taken to the hospital, discharged and taken into custody.

Brant remained in the city jail overnight and was taken to the hospital the following morning when he was found in a dazed condition in his cell.

He was treated during the three weeks for an injury over his right eye. He was semi-conscious for fairly long periods, doctors reported.

Brant was booked at police headquarters for being drunk and disorderly, and for resisting arrest.

The family claims that Brant has not regained the sight of his right eye since being released from the hospital.

The state's attorney's office has conducted an investigation into the case. Several witnesses to the altercation between the Ridgeley man and the officer have made official statements.

WEATHER

Local residents were missed again by the snow and sleet that has hit this district for the second time in three days. There was no precipitation here. Highest temperature recorded at Constitution Park weather station was 43. Low was 31. It was 36 about 10 o'clock last night. Today's forecast calls for fair and mild.

Mountain Areas Of District Are Hit By Storm

Roads Slippery West Of Cumberland

For the second time in three days the Tri-State area has been struck by an unseasonable snow storm. The mountains near Frostburg and Grantsville caught the brunt of the storm.

Snow was falling last night in the mountain city and westward, making roads hazardous and visibility poor. State Police warned motorists that most of the hills west of here were slippery and that some cars were unable to negotiate the hills without chains.

Roads east of Cumberland were reported clear.

Points along the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad main line were generally above freezing with a uniform blanket of two to three inches of new snow. It was still snowing at Altamont, Terra Alta, Blazer, and Hardman, W. Va.

At Deal, Pa., the six inch blanket of old snow was still there with the weather cloudy. It was snowing lightly at Thomas, W. Va., while Rockwood, Pa., reported a 28 degree temperature and cloudy, with about three inches of old snow remaining.

There was no new snow in the district around Romney, W. Va., although there was some wind blowing. Roads were clear.

Forecasts for today call for fair and milder this afternoon.

Textile Workers Ask Wage Boost

Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America (CIO), yesterday opened negotiations with the Celanese Corporation of America for a wage increase at the Amcelle plant.

Herbert W. Payne, rayon director for the TWUA, who headed the union delegation at the hour and one-half conference at the plant yesterday afternoon, declined to comment on the meeting.

The union early this year requested a voluntary reopening of the contract at the Amcelle plant to provide cost of living wage adjustments.

It was understood, prior to the meeting, that the union would ask that wages be brought up to the 10 per cent general advance since January, 1950, permitted by the Wage Stabilization Board.

Preston Pickets Stand Mute In County Court

March 28 Date Set For First Pleadings

KINGWOOD, W. Va., March 15 (AP)—On the advice of their attorney, 58 pickets accused of violence in Preston County's non-union coal fields stood mute when invited to plead to indictments today.

Instead, Thomas W. Lewis of Kingwood, attorney for the United Mine Workers, indicated he would challenge each of the indictments, and Circuit Judge C. P. Wilhelm set March 28 to hear the first of these pleadings.

Lewis is appearing in the case as assistant to Louis Meisel, counsel for UMW District 31 at Fairmont.

All but two of the accused men were named in true bills returned by a special grand jury impaneled last week to look into the two-months-old strike that has been continuing in the non-union mining fields of Preston County.

Two other indictements were returned this week by the regular grand jury.

Felonies and misdemeanors were included among the counts. Most of the felony charges involved the stoning of buses and passenger automobiles carrying non-union miners to their jobs.

Among the defendants in court were two UMW field organizers, Harry Myers of Morgantown and Joe Serdich of Grant Town.

Probe Ends In Fatal Accident

The investigation into the fatal injury of Miss Helen G. Farnham, 78, Chicago, has been completed according to the state's attorney's office. It was found that no criminal negligence was involved and no charges preferred against the driver Ervin R. Emerick, 25, Corriganville.

The elderly woman died two hours after being admitted to Memorial Hospital last Friday afternoon after she had walked into the right rear end of a lumber truck going north on Route 35 towards the Pennsylvania State line. The driver swerved to the left across the highway into a hedge in an attempt to avoid striking the woman.

Miss Farnham had been visiting her niece, Mrs. Graeme W. Stewart, Ellerslie, and had been in DeVore's grocery store prior to the mishap. She died of a fractured skull.

Property Is Sold

A deed filed in Allegany County Circuit Court yesterday revealed the sale of property on Bedford Street extended from H. Frank Hinze to Arthur Franklin Friendland and Bernice A. Friendland. Tax stamps indicated the sale price was approximately $15,000.

Bowling Green Tax Area Hearing Held In Annapolis

A hearing was held in Annapolis Tuesday in connection with the creation of the Bowling Green Special Tax Area in Allegany County. It concerns installation of fire hydrants and street lights in the community.

Fifteen residents of Bowling Green were present at the Tuesday hearing. Representing those for the new legislation were Mr. and Mrs. Ralph G. Cover, Mrs. Paul Umberger, Samuel S. Smith, Arthur C. Page and George Harman.

The proponents said that since assessment value of the community is rapidly approaching the $1,000,000 mark, that based on the figure, light service and water rental service on hydrants would not exceed the 30 cent figure per $100 as set forth in the proposed bill.

Also it was made known that when the hydrants were in operation and approved by the Maryland Fire Underwriters Rating Bureau that a substantial savings in insurance rates would result. Public safety was stressed in the installation of necessary pipe and water hydrants which required a mimimum of 25 cents on $100. A referendum is included in the bill so that residents can vote pro or con by secret ballot after its passage by the Maryland Assembly.

The opposition including Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Glenn Curry, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Painter, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Painter, Mrs. Charles Hughes, V. L. Shepherd and Oliver Winebrenner said that they had moved out of Cumberland to escape city tax rates and objected to the imposition of additional taxation despite the insurance rate decrease. One opponent cited inflation and proposed national taxes saying that the majority of the residents of the community would be unable to carry the added burden.

War Is Not Inevitable, Van Kirk Says

Addresses Civic Club's Annual Men's Dinner

Classing war as certainly not inevitable, Rev. Dr. Walter Van Kirk, secretary of the Department of International Justice and Goodwill of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, said here last night and that he believes the world is in need of moral and spiritual regeneration.

Speaking on the theme, "Peace and War," at the fifth annual Men's Dinner Meeting of the Woman's Civic Club, held at the Cumberland Country Club, Dr. Van Kirk, international known lecturer, author and radio commentator, recalled that he attended the opening of the United Nations in San Francisco. He called upon his listeners to keep their faith in the UN.

Continue To Negotiate

He said America should never get to the point of no longer negotiating with Russia or with any nation, and added that only a strong nation is in a position to negotiate.

Avoid impatience and continue to negotiate in order to gain world peace, he advised his listeners.

Terming another world charter unnecessary, he said the need is for spiritual rebuilding regardless of belief, which would bring about the ability to stand against secularism.

The club choral group, directed by Mrs. William B. Ludman, presented thre selections, "The Love Nest," "Rosemarie" and "It's An Irish Lullaby." Miss Joyce Bestwick led group singing, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. R. C. Lord. The Colomy Trio furnished dinner music.

Mrs. A. W. Keight, president, presided. Dr. Van Kirk was introduced by Rev. Dr. Hixon T. Bowersox, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church. The invocation was asked by Mrs. R. W. Young.

District President Attends

Special guests were Mrs. Ray W. Brown, president of the First District of the Maryland Federation of Women's Clubs, and Mr. Brown.

Mrs. Earl F. Gower, Jr., hospitality chairman, was in charge of arrangements, assisted by Mrs. Paul M. Fletcher, Mrs. Walter L. Pierce, Mrs. S. Hodges Smith and Mrs. Albert S. Paye. Mrs. J. M. Pitkethly was program chairman.

The large dinner table was decorated with tall silver candelabra with yellow candles and large bouquets of spring flowers. The smaller table was decorated with silver and crystal candelabra with yellow candles, surrounded by fern. To each yellow candle a purple iris was attached.

Rev. Linger To Head District Revivals

Baptist churches of the Western District, composed of Allegany and Garret Counties, will join all other Baptist districts east of the Mississippi River in an evangelistic and revival campaign beginnng March 26 and continuing through April 8.

The campaign is a voluntary one, but most Baptist Churches in this district will cooperate. Rev. O. Afton Linger, pastor of First Baptist Church here will be general chairman for the district and Rev. Kenneth M. Hayes, pastor of Second Baptist, will be organizational chairman.

There will be visiting evangelists assisting most of the ministers.

An advertising campaign will be launched this week with large billboard posters donated by local advertisers free of charge for this purpose.

Baptist leaders throughout the southland have initiated this evangelistic series as a forward step in the solution of national and world problems.

Bill Of Complaint

A bill of complaint, Elmer Clarence Furlow, Jr., vs. Mildred Lucille Furlow was filed yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Opportunities In Turkey Raising In County Are Stressed By Agent

Poultry Producers Plan Large Program To Increase Interest In Creating Farms

More extensive raising of turkeys and hatchery eggs was advocated yesterday at a meeting in city hall of poultry producers from Allegany County and nearby Bedford County, Pennsylvania.

Ralph F. McHenry, county farm agent, said approximately 70 poultrymen from this area attended the morning and afternoon sessions held in the city hall auditorium.

Turkey raising for beginners was the topic of a discussion by Russell Hinds, University of Maryland extension service, at the morning program.

Turkey Production Low

Hinds revealed that statistics show the average person consumes about five pounds of turkey during the year yet only 178 turkeys were raised in Allegany County last season.

An increasing amount of interest has been shown in turkey raising in the county in the past year, McHenry stated, and the farm agent and members of the university extension service advocate greater efforts toward turkey raising as a profitable poultry business in the county.

An extensive discussion on hatchery eggs was part of the day's program, also.

W. H. Rice, poultry specialist of the university extension service spoke on the devolpment of a program for producing eggs in Allegany County for use in hatcheries. He highlighted his talk with a film "Today's Chick."

Receive 20 Cents More

Producers of eggs for hatcheries get about 20 cents more per dozen, McHenry revealed, as the eggs are a special kind.

The producer raises the kind of chickens desired by the hatcheries, has them blood tested and free from disease.

Eggs then produced by these chickens are tested and sold to the hatcheries. The blood tests are primarily used to combat "Pollorum," a disease transmitted from the blood stream of the chicken to the egg and attacks and kills baby chicks, McHenry said.

A great amount of interest is shown in this field, also, McHenry noted, with four area producers now engaged in the production of hatchery eggs. They are Richard Stegmaier, near Cumberland, William Engle, Eckhart, R. W. Ferguson, Union Grove and Paul Sanders, near Cumberland.

Rice also gave a talk on brooding baby chicks, how to regulate the brooders and the care and handling of the chicks.

Door Prizes Awarded

Special door prizes, donated by Cumberland feed stores, were won by Mrs. J. C. Smith, Piney Grove, Mrs. J. W. Silver, Valley Road, William M. Taylor, Keyser, W. Va., and Earl Kitzmiller, Cresaptown.

Richard Stegmaier presided at the meeting and a poultry policy committee, consisting of Stegmaier, chairman, Mrs. Wilma Stearns, North Branch, William Engle, Eckhart, Paul Robinette, Flintstone, and James C. Twigg, Spring Gap, was named to arrange additional poultry meetings and to plan an auto tour of local area turkey farms and hatcheries.

The county farm agent is working in conjunction with the poultry producers on the extensive program, McHenry said.

Easter Cantata Set For Local Church

Palm Sunday evening, at 7:30 o'clock, the Sanctuary Choir of St. John's Lutheran Church, Rev. Donald F. Brake pastor, will present the Easter Cantata "Sunrise Over Calvary" by Noel Benson. Soloists will be Mrs. Eugene Bittner, Mrs. John Weber and Miss Pearl Beeche.

The choir will be under the direction of Miss Roslyn McCollum with Mrs. Allan R. Trevaskis at the organ.

At the morning service members of the Confirmation Class will be received into Church Membership; and the pastor will speak on the theme, "My King."

House Group Approves Hike In Betting Tax

Improvements Funds Divorced From Bill

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 15 (AP)—A two per cent hike in the take on bets at harness horse and half-mile thoroughbred race tracks won House committee approval today.

At the same time, the ways and Means Committee divorced handling of the improvement funds of the mile tracks. Changes designed to protect the funds from federal income taxes were incorporated in a new bill.

Opposition loomed to the bill raising the total tax from 10 to 12 per cent at the harness and half-mile tracks. It was set for decision Monday night.

Small Tracks Get Break

The revised formulas would give the small tracks a break. The half-milers would be allowed to keep 11 per cent of the first $1,500,000 bet. They'd split evenly with the state the 12 per cent on all above.

The harness tracks would get 11 per cent of the first $2,000,000 and 7½ per cent on any more.

All race tracks now get six per cent and the state four on all wagers.

Milton A. Reckord, president of Havre de Grace and Pimlico who headed a committee recommending the changes, said the new formulas would mean about $30,000 more to the five half-mile tracks and around $60,000 for each of the four harness tracks.

In addition, he said they would assure the Maryland Fair Board of $250,000 annually from the racing revenues and increase state general funds by $60,000.

New Improvement Bill

The new bill on improvement funds would designate them as taxes to be appropriated back to the tracks by the state.

Attorney General Hall Hammond said in this way they would not be subject to federal income taxes. Reckord's original bill would have permitted the tracks to pay such taxes from the funds themselves.

The tracks now set aside one-half per cent of their six per cent take

Traffic Hazard At Barrelville To Be Eliminated

Delegate Lester B. Reed reported last night that the State Roads Commission has promised to eliminate the rock in Barrelville which has resulted in a number of fatal accidents in recent years.

The rock is located in Barrelville where Route 47, out of Wellersburg, Pa., and Maryland Route 36 meet.

Delegate Reed said Joseph D Buscher, special assistant attorney general for the SRC, said the relocation of 3.2 miles of road from the rock to Corriganville, slated in the SRC's 1951 program, would eliminate the traffic hazard.

He added that if the work could not be completed this year, the specific hazard will be eliminated.

Local Delegates To Attend Youth Government

Boy Governor To Be Selected Saturday

A group of 20 boys from Allegany County Hi-Y clubs will go to College Park Saturday for a Pre-Legislative Conference at the University of Maryland in connection with the YMCA Youth and Government program.

These boys, selected as senators and delegates, will join some 175 other youths from YMCA's in Maryland for an all-day session devoted to raining in Legislative processes and study of the operation of state government.

The Saturday session is preparatory to the Model Legislature to be held at Annapolis April 26, 27 and 28 where the boy legislators will present and discuss bills designed to aid some of the state's problems.

The local delegation will leave Central YMCA at 4:30 a. m. Saturday in a chartered bus with Winfield H. Adam, general secretary of the "Y" in charge of the group. The Hagerstown delegation will be picked up on the way to College Park.

Features of the College Park meeting will include a discussion by President H. C. Byrd on "Citizenship for These Times," and a talk on "How a Bill Becomes Law in General Assembly," by Dr. Elwyn A. Mauch, director of the State Fiscal Research Bureau.

Leaders Counsel Boys

Resource leaders will counsel the boys on issues facing the state in aviation and transportation, education, finances, judiciary, motor vehicles, public welfare, conservation of soil and game and wild life.

The highlight of the day will be the election of state officers who will be in charge of the Model Legislature. R. Noel Spence, Hagerstown, and Tom Wilson, Baltimore, are running for office of Governor.

Also to be selected are presiding officers of the Senate and House of Delegates. The candidates for Boy-Governor will speak at the Governor's Forum prior to election, and the candidates for President of the Senate and Speaker of the House will present their platform at the Legislator's Panel.

Dr. Robert G. Dixon of the University of Maryland and Chairman of the Committee on Elections will supervise the balloting in which the local delegation will participate.

The Youth and Government Program is planned and directed by a statewide committee of state citizens headed by Dr. Earle T. Hawkins, president of State Teachers College at Towson. Harry Bard, curriculum specialist of Secondary Schools in Baltimore will head the Model Legislature Program in Annapolis.

The Central YMCA delegation is composed of Senators Ronald Decker, 514 Cumberland Street, and Charles O'Neal, 1205 Bedford Street from Allegany High School, Holbert Fazenbaker, Luke from Bruce High of Westernport, and Schley Lyons, 113 West Second Street, from Fort Hill.

Hearing Opens On $125,000 Appeal Case

Adjustment Sought On Flood Job Award

Testimony opened here yesterday on the request of the Union Foundation Corporation for a $125,000 adjustment in its pay for the first phase of the Cumberland Flood Control project.

The case involves an appeal of the United Foundation Corporation, Union, N. J., to the Chief Engineer, United States Army Engineers, from a decision of the Contracting Officer of the Corps of Engineers.

In effect, the firm has asked a review of the finding of fact on the first phase of the local work.

H. H. Rice, Washington, D. C., a member of the Corps of Appeals Board appointed by the Chief Engineer to hear the appeal, said the firm has filed a claim of about $125,000, including an appeal to be excused from the payment of from 80 to 85 days of liquidating damage at $200 a day due to delay in completing the job.

The three-man board yesterday heard testimony in the Post Office building on about a third of the items listed by the contractor in his appeal.

Officials explained that a contractor may, after the completion of work with the Army Engineers, apply for a decision from the corps if he believes circumstances entitles him to special consideration.

In dispute on the first phase, which brought a decision of $304,000, are such items as:

Types of sheeting and shoring needed to complete the work.

Type of excavation needed due to the character of the soil.

Appeal from the liquidating damage.

Charges of delay due to slowness of approving material used in the work.

That Corps of Engineers officials were too strict.

After the District Engineer handed down a decision on the job in May, 1949, ruling against the contractor, the decision was appealed to the board.

George Company Awarded $3,305 In Court Opinion

Judge Harris Rules On Mechanic's Lien

Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris handed down an opinion in favor of the George Construction Company for $3,305.49 in a mechanic's lien suit filed in Allegany County Circuit Court.

The suit was filed July 13, 1950 by Charles E. George and William N. George, trading as the George Construction Company against the building of Albert W. Klavuhn and Ruth E. Klavuhn, his wife, in the amount of $3,963.20 for non-payment of contract by the defendants.

Entered Verbal Contract

The owners of the construction company, first cousins of Albert Klavuhn, had in July or August of 1949 verbally entered into an agreement to construct a building housing a service station, garage, restaurant and apartment, east of Clarysville, on U. S. Route No. 40, at a place known as "Lion's Spring," for the defendants at a cost of $21,969.66, according to testimony presented in the case.

A written contract was singned by the parties in December 1949 after the defendants attempted to negotiate a loan at a Cumberland bank on the property. The contract was ante-dated September 8, 1949, testimony revealed, and specifications, which were termed brief, incomplete and vague by Judge Harris, were attached. The written contract called for payment of $19,082 by Albert and Ruth Klavuhn, the opinion stated.

The defendants claimed extras of $691.20 were added, that the contract was not performed in workmanlike manner, construction deviated from plans, and materials were of inferior quality. Also the defendants claimed credit was not given to them for work done and materials furnished for the construction work.

No Proof Of Damage

Judge Harris, in his opinion, said no proof was given that defendants suffered damage as result of delay in construction and that nothing in testimony revealed the construction company was seeking profit in addition to costs of work, probably due to the friendly and confiding relationship of the parties.

He further stated the contractors were obligated to contract and that the difference between the original contract price and the written agreement was attributed to changes in the plans.

The opinion further allowed subject to exceptions the extras were permissable. The Klavuhns then were allowed additional credit of $656.71 besides $15,811 already paid to plaintiffs. The court then stated that work was done by sub-contract to credit concerns in Cumberland and an inspection of the premises revealed nothing amiss.

The credits and payments were to be subtracted from contracted amount and a lien of $3,305.49 was to be allowed the construction company with power to decree that property be sold for claim unless the defendants pay the amount plus court costs on or before May 1, 1951.

Baptist Youth Will Hold District Meeting Here

A youth rally and mass meeting sponsored by the Western District Baptist Training Union will be held tomorrow at 7:30 p. m. in First Baptist Church, here.

This meeting is a combined affair including Youth Rally for the Simultaneous Evangelistic Crusade and the regular quarterly mass meeting of the Associated Training Union.

Miss Violet Popp, director of the Brotherhood Training Union will preside. The devotional will be led by Jesse Judy of First Baptist Church.

The theme of the rally "My Testimony" will be discussed by four young people of the district.

"The Power of Christian Influence" will be discussed by William Miller, of the First Baptist Church.
